SHANGHAI NEAR CAPTURE; FOE 8 MILES AWAY

Defending Armies Pressed Back.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Sunday—(By the United Press.)—Five hundred soldiers of the defeated army of Lu Yung Hsiang, refusing to surrender to Chi Hsieh Yuan's forces near Linho in the battle for Shanghai, were practically annihilated late Saturday, according to the Sunday Express' correspondent.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 21.—[1:30 A. M.]—[By the Associated Press.]—Preparations were being made this morning by the Chekiang army defending Shanghai to resist an expected heavy attack by the Kiangsu force fighting for possession of the city. The hours of darkness were busy ones behind the lines.

Rainfall late yesterday afternoon checked the intensity of the gunfire for a few hours, but it reopened modestely along the entire front; from the Yangtze coast to the railway, early today.

8 Miles From Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 20, 7 p. m.—[By United Press.]—Victorious Kiangsu troops, continuing the drive on Shanghai, were within eight miles of the city this evening.

Forces of Gen. Sa Tsung Hsiang, attempting to hold Shanghai against the Kiangsu armies, [illegible] were driven back [illegible] Kiangsu troops [illegible] Shanghai. There was a continuous roar of artillery fire throughout the afternoon, as the Kiangsu troops advanced under cover of a barrage.

The Kiangsu troops were on the outskirts of the suburb of Nanziang when the bombardment ceased in the night. Kiangsu airplanes flew over Shanghai and capture of the city was expected by the attacking armies when the battle is resumed tomorrow.

Refugees Pour Into City.

Hordes of refugees, including many deserting Chekiang soldiers, poured into the city and there was indication of a dangerous panic as nightfall came on.

The guard around the international zone and the French concession was reinforced again by additional Russian ex-soldiers, who were armed from stores of the Shanghai volunteers. Barbed wire entanglements which were thrown up about the refugees of the foreign colony during the afternoon were electrified and searchlights kept playing on strategic points.

Foreign warships in the harbor had steam up and were stripped for action. There are twenty-five foreign war vessels in the port, including a number of American ships.

PEKING, Sept. 20.—Gunfire from the Peking army today brought down one of Chang Tso-Lin's airplanes which was flying over Chao-Yang preparatory to dropping bombs on that troop concentration center. The men who barged the plane have been rewarded.

Heavy skirmishes are reported from the Chaoyang region as the result of advances of Peking troops and the destruction of Gen. Chang Tso-Lin's pontoon bridge giving access to a strong position near Chaoyang. Official reports state there are 30,000 Mukden troops in this region. The Peking forces now number about 30,000.

Gen. Wu Pei-Fu, commander in chief of the Peking forces, in an interview this morning declared unequivocally that the central government would push the campaign until Chang Tso-Lin was driven from Manchuria and the way cleared for the appointment of officials there who would obey Peking.

Asked if he could be quoted to this effect, he replied emphatically "Yes."

Quarrel Only With Chang.

He said the Peking government would not interfere with foreign rights or property in Manchuria; that he intended simply to bring Manchuria once more where it belonged, under the control of the Peking government. He said he had no quarrel with any one except Chang Tso-Lin and that all interests, except Chang's, would be left in a status quo.

Government circles are highly gratified at reports of the collapse of the Mukden province army. Gen. Wu was extremely cheerful over the situation this morning and was full of jokes.

He asserted he has 200,000 men available for the campaign against Chang. This figure evidently includes a large proportion of the men hitherto en-

RIOT IN DANCE HALL WHEN COP BEGINS SHOOTING

Policemen Andrew Klassen and Charles Schultz were rescued late last night from a crowd of dancers who objected to their curiosity to find out if any liquor was being sold. They drew their guns and backed warily away until reserves, hurrying in response to a riot call, came to their aid.

The dance was being staged at the Polish Catholic Union hall, Milwaukee avenue and Augusta street, by the Adelaide Athletic club. Klassen and Schultz showed their stars and informed the men and girls that they were there "just to look around." There was an ominous murmur.

"Mob them!" shouted a man, and a score of dancers rushed towards the policemen. Klassen and Schultz drew their guns and Schultz fired a shot into the air. Meanwhile the disturbance prompted pedestrians outside to turn in a riot call. Several wagon loads of prisoners were taken to West North avenue and West Chicago avenue stations.

CHILD'S HONESTY SPOILS MOTHER'S DIVORCE SUIT

A child's truthfulness frustrated her mother's suit for divorce before Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday, and placed the mother and two women friends in the shadow of jail for perjury.

Mrs. Edith Victoria Randall, an actress, and the mother, told Judge Sabath, in asking a divorce from Fred Randall, that she had lived more than two years, the law's requirement, at 2431 North Kedzie avenue. Her two friends bore her out.

Mrs. Randall's laughing, careless demeanor, may have prompted the judge to call Doreen May Randall, 10, to the stand.

"How long has your mother been in Chicago?" he asked.

"O, we just came here three days ago," the child replied. Judge Sabath, after denying the divorce, declared the three women should be sent to jail.

'FENCE' VICTIM OF 'CURSED JEWELS'

Death Ends Return of Schoelkopf Gems.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 20.—[United Press.]—From the lips of a dying paralytic fell the words:

"It's the curse of the jewels—Hirsch killed himself—the others in jail——"

And John W. Mahan, his losing race with death at an end, sank back dead.

When Mahan, who once was a reputable citizen of Trenton and moved to Manhattan to become a most disreputable one, died at his home here today, finis was written to a weird, dramatic story of a man's fight to make restitution and save himself from a "curse."

Schoelkopf Gem "Fence."

This grizzled cripple, an old man at 56, was the "fence" who disposed of the $285,000 worth of jewels stolen from Mrs. Hugo Schoelkopf following a party on New Year's eve, 1922-1923.

The last eight months of his life he spent wandering about the country, shuffling into squalid, poorly lit sections of San Francisco or Denver, or Atlanta, searching everywhere for the diamonds which a band of thieves stripped from the bosom and arms of the wealthy Buffalo woman and disposed of through him.

The "fence" in his east side jewelry shop, had purchased the diamond sunbursts and emerald rings and wristlets for a fraction of their value. A devout Catholic, he confessed to a priest, and was advised to assist the police.

Lays Paralysis to Jewels.

Mahan was arrested in Miami, Fla., last January by New York detectives, following confession by two of the thieves. He surrendered willingly, for he had suffered a paralytic stroke, and believed that the jewels had put a curse on all who had touched them.

Henry Hirsch, a partner of Mahan in the illicit traffic in stolen goods, had committed suicide on Nov. 3, the day the band's confession was published.

Brought to New York, Mahan made a deal with the police. If they would set him free, and agree not to shadow him, he would return the jewels. Ill with heart disease, in addition to the paralysis, he felt his days were numbered.

Begins Race with Death.

Then began a strange race with death. Sometimes days, sometimes weeks elapsed before the cripple would drag himself into police headquarters and dump the contents of an old cap upon the inspector's desk. Blazing gems, torn from their settings, would tumble out in glittering array, to be identified by Mrs. Schoelkopf.

Steadily the total value of the recovered loot mounted—$100,000, $125,000, $150,000. Mahan's wanderings along underworld paths took him from coast to coast. By what threats and persuasions he obtained the jewels he alone knew. Some of the gems, however, were gone beyond his reach.

This summer he became so ill that he could not continue the search. He returned to his home here, and died today, heartbroken, convinced that the curse of the jewels had remained upon him to the end.

HUNT EX-FELON AS SLAYER OF CHICAGO WOMAN

Mrs. C. R. Hunn Is Killed in West.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Police, private detectives and deputy sheriffs tonight are combing the underworld haunts of a dozen coast cities in their hunt for Harry Garbutt, wearer of numerous aliases and former Joliet felon who, according to the authorities, rewarded the kindness of Mrs. Clifton R. Hunn of Chicago, by beating her skull in with a hammer and then firing a bullet into her brain.

Mrs. Hunn was the 58 year old wife of Clifton R. Hunn, wealthy Chicago ink manufacturer. To her efforts is attributed the parole—and subsequent pardon—of Garbutt, or Harry Conner, as he also was known, from the Illinois penitentiary, where he had been sent in 1919 to serve a one to twenty year sentence for burglary.

Slain at Dinner Table.

Mrs. Hunn was murdered in her Pasadena bungalow about 8 o'clock last night, after she had been dinner hostess to Garbutt, to Virginia, her 8 year old adopted daughter, and to Fred R. Gibson, a neighbor.

Two stories sent the authorities on a widespread pursuit of Garbutt. One was told by the little girl, and the other by Gibson. In spite of reports that Garbutt is not in this vicinity, but in Chicago, the police are confident, they say, that the ex-convict slew his benefactress.

It was Virginia's simple narrative of the tragedy that convinced the officers. Dazed and sobbing, she told her story.

Little Girl Implicates Garbutt.

"We all had supper in the kitchen," she said. "After it was over I went to my bedroom. I heard a quarrel and a scuffle in the kitchen, and I went back there. When I opened the door I saw Harry Garbutt snatch his cap and run outdoors. Mother was lying on the floor all bloody and still."

Gibson's story followed the same path that led the police to throw out the dragnet for the former convict.

"Several days ago," he narrated, "Mrs. Hunn and I saw Garbutt on a Los Angeles street. We talked a while. A few days later Garbutt showed up at the bungalow with a woman's fur coat; he said a friend of his had forgotten it and he had gone for it.

Hears Sounds of Quarrel.

"Last night he came to supper at Mrs. Hunn's invitation. We ate in the kitchen and had a pleasant conversation. When we had finished I went into the bathroom. Virginia went to bed. While I was in the bathroom I heard unusual noises in the kitchen. I wondered what could be going on, as there had been no trouble between our hostess and Garbutt.

"I ran back to the kitchen and pushed on the door, but it was held against me from beyond. Then I ran out the front and around the house. I opened the kitchen door and found Mrs. Hunn's body on the floor. I have no idea what became of Garbutt, or how he got out of the house. I am too dazed to remember exactly all that happened."

Question Garbutt's Aunt.

Among the first places visited by the police was the home of Mrs. Frances Morehouse, Garbutt's aunt. She said that her nephew had left her home four weeks ago. She also said that Garbutt had told her "he was through with crime because it didn't pay."

Mrs. Morehouse confirmed the reports that Mrs. Hunn, in her efforts to redeem the burglar, had helped him with food, meals, clothing, and money. She added that her nephew had told her that if "Mrs. Hunn doesn't quit flashing those diamonds around some crook is going to nail her."

The authorities at first thought that robbery was the motive for the killing and that the assassin had escaped with $20,000 in gems which the dead woman was known to have. Search of the bungalow, however, disclosed the jewels, which had been cached in a trunk.

Is Garbutt in Chicago?

The effort to establish what the police assert is an alibi for Garbutt was made known when Mrs. Morehouse declared that she had today received a telephone call from Ed Prouse and W. H. Fuast, damage suit claim adjusters, who told her they had received a letter from Garbutt in Chicago this morning.

The letter, Mrs. Morehouse says these two men told her, asked that the answer be sent in care of "Barth Henry, 2748 Greenwood avenue, Chicago." The message referred to a claim which Garbutt made against the Navy Surveys Plane Value Vs. Battleship

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Appointment of a special board of ranking naval officers to make an exhaustive study of the relative importance of the three arms of naval defense—submarine, surface, and air—with special attention to aviation, and submit recommendations on which supplementary estimates may be submitted to congress, will be made early next week, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced late today.

Suggestion has been made not only to Secretary Wilbur but also to President Coolidge that the investigation take on a wider scope and that a board representing the army and the army air service be named in order that a definitely policy toward aviation in the general plans for the national defense be formulated.

Confers with President.

This announcement by the secretary followed an hour's conference with President Coolidge, at which the secretary said no reference was made to his speeches during his west coast tour which was suddenly interrupted on receipt of a telegram from the White House recalling him to Washington.

At the conference the decision was reached to appoint a board to study the importance and needs of aviation. While the estimates have gone to the budget and probably will remain unchanged, the secretary said that if the investigation showed the necessity for increasing the approximate $16,000,000 appropriation for aviation in the budget, a supplementary estimate would be submitted to congress.

Anticipating the President's desire to discuss this matter with him, the secretary said he had Capt. Walter Gherardi, his aid and formerly in command of the naval air forces with the Atlantic fleet, give him a report on the condition and needs of the navy's air forces.

Shows Aircraft Values.

This report, which was left with the President for his consideration, deals with the value of aircraft to the fleet, the types and numbers necessary, and many technical phases of the question.

The recommendations of Capt. Gherardi follow:

"Aviation advance does not justify us in allowing any of our eighteen battleships to deteriorate, using money thus saved to build up aviation.

"Three types of aircraft should be developed: (A) Flying boats for long range scouting and bombing. (B) Amphibians and single pontoon planes for spotting and for close protection of the fleet against submarine or destroyer attacks. (C) Twin pontoon planes for torpedo planes, which should be considered as secondary to the first two."

Sees Naval Officers.

Following his conference at the White House the secretary held a series of conferences with Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, naval budget officer, and his assistant, Capt. W. R. Sexton, familiarizing himself with the aviation estimates in the budget; Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, and Admiral Eberle, chief of operations, winding up his strenuous day with a long conference with Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics.

Plans for the appointment of a strictly naval board to study the aviation problem is expected to draw fire from the more ardent advocates of this new branch of the national defense. It is pointed out that more than a year and a half ago, at the height of the controversy that raged following the bombing and sinking of the ex-German warships by airplanes off the Virginia capes, the general board made an "exhaustive investigation" of the relative merits of the airplane versus the battleship, and unanimously found the battleship was still the backbone of the fleet.

Blocked by "Old Guard."

Even in the naval air service, loyal navy men as they are, there is a feeling that aviation has not been given as much consideration as it deserves and that a small minority of high ranking officers have blocked its proper development. Slightly more than $30,000,000 was asked for by Admiral Moffett, but budget requirements cut that down to $16,000,000.

This situation has been laid before President Coolidge and, with his attention centered on aviation in general by the recent arrival in Washington of the army's successful round the world flyers, he has taken prompt steps to make sure that America does not lag in the development of its aerial defenses.

BRYAN MUST GO, IS KEYNOTE OF LATEST 'PLOT'

Talk Party Bargain as Only Way Out.

BY PARKE BROWN.

It may be "Davis and Dawes" if there is a deadlock in the electoral college.

In other words, John W. Davis, Democrat, may be the next President of the United States, and Charles G. Dawes, Republican, may be his Vice President.

A theory that this possibility is in the cards was brought to Chicago by the Davis party, now again en route eastward. Apparently it was guarded with the closest secrecy, but it offered such an interesting subject for gossip that it is known to several in touch with Democratic headquarters.

Whether Mr. Davis has talked it over with his advisers or has even considered what may happen if success meets the La Follette plan of tying up the election has not been learned. But it is known that big men close to him hold that the Davis-Dawes combination can be the only result of a deadlock.

Startling, but Reasonable.

Startling? Seemingly everybody who heard the talk refused at first to listen to it, but wound up by agreeing that the thing was not only a possible but a reasonable outcome of a lineup.

How much of this attitude was due to reports that the problem had been taken up by members of the Davis party with western leaders, particularly senators and members of congress, during the nominee's two weeks tour west of Chicago, is uncertain. Senator Key Pittman of Nevada was a member of the party and is said to have conferred with a number of his associates of both parties along the route.

One phase of the story now in circulation is that the Davis aids conducted what might almost be called a canvass of senators and representatives they encountered concerning their positions in the event the election is thrown into congress. It is doubted that the activity went that far, but the contingency may have been discussed among some of them with definite replies.

Based on Constitution.

The whole Davis-Dawes theory is founded on the method of election provided by the constitution when no presidential candidate has a majority of the votes in the electoral college. Much detail has been written about the machinery called into action under those conditions, and the language of the constitution on the subject is as follows:

"If no person has such majority [of the electoral votes], then, from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. . . . And if the house of representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.

"The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice President shall be the Vice President if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list the senate shall choose the Vice President."

La Follette Admits Ruse.

It is conceded, of course, that if there is a deadlock on the presidency there also will be a dead beat on the vice presidency. In other words, the house of representatives would proceed to elect a President and the senate to elect a Vice President.

Senator La Follette has admitted recently that his original purpose in becoming a candidate was to throw the contest into congress. His statement at the same time that he now is convinced that he can be elected and that the White House is his goal is considered nothing more than a political necessity to eliminate a bad weakness in his strategy.

But the widespread recognition of his original purpose and its chance of success led to immediate general conclusions that success for him involved a plan for an amalgamation of Democrats and La Follette followers in the senate and the election of Charles W. Bryan as Vice President, and, through a continued deadlock in the lower house, as President for four years.

According to the latest information there is one stumbling block in the way of this program which has been overlooked. It is said that there are enough Democratic senators uncompromisingly opposed to seeing Bryan as chief executive of the nation to prevent his election as Vice President in a deadlock.

The opposition to all Bryan presidential aspirations was unmistakable at the New York convention. Since that time the opposition of the big party leaders has not been lessened by persistent reports of the attitude of the vice presidential nominee in the campaign. From several sources have come reports that the Bryanites have shown signs of sitting back in the hope of a deadlock, with the resulting chance for Charles W. to gain possession of presidential authority.

And some of these reports have even included charges that Bryanites are working with the La Follettеites as a positive means toward a common end.

In this situation there has been developing steadily in the party a determination that, come what may, the Bryan ambition will not be realized through the channels now under discussion.

"Not Bryan at any cost," has developed into a sort of slogan.

Arriving at that point the theorists have considered what alternative is offered. They recognize the possibility that when the time comes a Republican proposal may be that Coolidge be elected President by the house and that Bryan be elected Vice President by the senate. Apparently they are ready to stand fast against such a suggestion.

G. O. P. Out to Beat Bob.

And, believing that the Republican leaders are determined to beat "the La Follette game," even at a high price, they believe that the G. O. P. will consent to accept Davis as far preferable to Bryan and will consider surrendering a slim chance for the Presidency in return for certainty upon the Vice Presidency—Davis and Dawes.

This naturally involves a coalition of the old parties in both houses. It has been suggested that such a proposal would call down upon the heads of those who advanced it all the invective of La Follette and his supporters. But the answer has been that such a coalition—joint action by the new third party with one of the old parties—is the exact means by which the Wisconsin senator and his friends have proposed to name the next President.

Pointing to the reports of inactivity by Nominee Bryan, the analysts contend that a La Follette deadlock can arise only through Bryanite defection, which they consider party treason and unforgivable.

"But Why Argue?"

It is upon this basis they make their argument that the party in congress will not support Bryan in a deadlock, and they further contend that the entire country would add its disapproval to such an extent that it would indorse a coalition.

So far as can be ascertained, Republican leaders are not interested in the latest theorizing. They hold firmly that the certainty of President Coolidge's reelection eliminates the necessity for answering any hypothetical questions founded on any other surmise.

But—privately and individually—they say they'd rather see Davis President than Bryan. If—with all available emphasis—if it isn't Coolidge or Dawes— But they won't talk about it.

Lorimer Bank Case Is Target of His Speech.

BY DONALD EWING.

Burton K. Wheeler, Montana senatorial running mate of La Follette, last night brought the "independent" presidential campaign into Illinois in a speech that plowed into Dawes and Coolidge, but ignored Davis as "one already dead."

The vice presidential candidate spoke to 4,000 persons and 500 vacant seats at Car Men's hall. Suffering from a bad cold, he had difficulty in getting his attacks on Dawes across, several times having to stop and refer to his manuscript.

Later, in extemporaneous work, he warmed up his hearers with an attack on corruption, but, just when he had them in his hand, he let loose by starting the speech all over again. He spoke for two and a half hours, finishing only when many in the back of the hall walked out.

During the warm period, however, the senator got tremendous applause. Earlier in the day he spoke at a luncheon and at a dinner. Tomorrow he resumes his tour in his private car.

The west side audience had trouble understanding his twang at first, for he spoke like a New Englander—"Montanner" and "lawr."

He Attacks Dawes.

Wheeler, who in his own state of Montana has had the backing of I. W. W.'s and the most extreme radicals—though elected on a Democratic ticket and still claiming to be a Democrat despite his deflection to La Follette, first reviewed Dawes' service as controller of the currency up to 1902.

The senator found nothing wrong there, but injected some satire to the effect that this service was "long enough to have impressed on his mind and conscience, if any, the obligation resting on bankers not to betray the confidence of the public." He told how Dawes founded the Central Trust company in 1902 and then continued:

"Some years later another bank was organized in Chicago, the La Salle Street National bank. At its head was one William Lorimer. Lorimer's bank business began in May, 1910. Bank examiners examined its affairs during that year and refused to grant it membership in the Chicago Clearing House association.

"After May, 1911, the bank even was denied the privilege of clearing through other Chicago banks. . . . By Oct. 12, 1912, the bank was in a bad way.

"Lorimer and his associates decided to change their national bank into a state bank, to be known as the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank. They proposed to turn over the assets of the old bank to the new one, along with its liabilities, of course, but they did not propose to put in any additional money. Much of the bank's money had been loaned to officers and directors and friends of Lorimer.

Look for $1,250,000.

"The new bank announced a capital and surplus of $1,250,000. Under the state banking laws of Illinois it thereupon became necessary to show the state auditor of public accounts that the new bank actually had $1,250,000 in cash.

"Lorimer's new bank did not have $1,250,000. Efforts to get it in New York and Chicago failed. Then Banker Lorimer appealed to Banker Dawes, head of the Central Trust company. He didn't actually get the money. Banker Dawes apparently did not have that much faith in Banker Lorimer. Here's what happened:

"On the afternoon of Oct. 21, 1912, Dawes turned over to Lorimer's new bank the required $1,250,000. The agent of the state auditor of public accounts counted the $1,250,000 and issued a certificate authorizing Lorimer's bank to do business. Then the $1,250,000 was handed back to Dawes' Central Trust company. All in one afternoon.

"The La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank thus began business with an advertised and certified capital and surplus of $1,250,000, when, as a matter of fact, there was nothing in the bank to represent this sum. The money still was the property of the Charles G. Dawes bank. Dawes never lost control of it for a minute, not even during the few minutes required by the state auditor's agents to count it. He was willing to gamble with the reputation of his own bank, to gamble with the earnings of the depositors of Lorimer's bank, but he took no chances with his own money. At any rate, he got the money back in a few minutes and Banker Lorimer was free to deceive depositors as to the condition of the bank, already having deceived the state banking official."

Says Poor Were Deceived.

Wheeler then gave the chronology of the Lorimer bank failure and the wiping out of numerous "small accounts," adding:

"Banker Lorimer, with Banker Dawes aiding, had not set out to rob the rich. They were out to deceive the poor. Of the 4,000 depositors, 3,000 were in the savings department."

Swinging into the aftermath of the failure, he told how suit was brought against Dawes' bank to recover the $1,250,000.

This case was appealed through the courts, Wheeler explained, and "on the day Dawes was nominated the Illinois Supreme court handed down a decree that Dawes' bank must pay $100,000" of the $1,250,000.

Wheeler then threw his insinuations against the master in chancery who estimated the Lorimer bank assets at more than $1,000,000 and offset this from the $1,250,000. A protest was made and Judge Jesse Holdom reviewed the case, upholding the master in chancery and Dawes.

Then to Minute Men.

Wheeler then turned to Dawes' Minute Men of the Constitution and their supposed efforts to reelect Holdom recently.

"Holdom saved Dawes a million dollars and Banker-Gen. Dawes orders out his minute men to save Holdom at the polls," he shouted.

"There is the record of the man who now is attempting to kidnap the United States constitution and convert it to his own private uses, the man who is raging up and down the land shrieking 'radical' and 'demagogue' at every citizen who is asking for constructive statesmanship in the government," he said. "There is the record of Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice president of the United States.

"Patriotism is the last refuge of the scoundrel. And the scoundrels who have corrupted American government, true to form, are now trying to hide behind the constitution of the United States."

Talks Up Political Record.

Turning to Dawes' political record, Wheeler said:

"In a speech before the Union League club of Chicago, Feb. 22, 1923, he said: 'Governments are framed among other things to protect peoples against mob movement and the results of mob psychology. That form of government which history has proved most futile and disastrous for the proper protection of a people from the mob is a free democracy. Such steps as have been taken in recent years, along the line of the initiative and referendum and the extension of the primary system, away from the principles of our great constitutional representative and free government and toward the principles of free democracy, are leading in the direction of mob rule under evil leaders.'

"Gen. Dawes fears a free democracy. So his mind it means mob rule. So much for that. In that same speech he said:

Sees New Era.

"'Is there any right minded man in this audience or in the country who fears this coming contest and who does not see in it the regeneration of constitutional American government? Does he not note already the progress which has been made by our great, strong, and determined President, Warren G. Harding, that progress from the Adamson law to the Daugherty injunction, which, in my judgment, future generations will regard as the beginning of a new era of law and order in this country?'

"I do not know whether the Union League club agreed with Mr. Dawes that the amazing Daugherty injunction was the 'beginning of a new era of law and order in this country.'

"I do not know what the people of the country think of that injunction, and I do know what such conservative constitutional lawyers as Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, a Republican, and Senator Walsh of Montana, a Democrat, think of it. Both of them have condemned it in unmistakable terms."

Prior to the meeting Wheeler had been guest at a luncheon and at a banquet at the Morrison hotel.

JEWS OBSERVE SELICHOTH AT MIDNIGHT RITES

Selichoth services were conducted at midnight last night in all Chicago synagogues and Jewish temples.

The Selichoth, in which the worshiper asks forgiveness, is the forerunner of the holy days, which will begin Monday, Sept. 29.

The noted European cantor, Schlomo Rothstein, and his chorus from the Chicago Civic opera interpreted the service at Brilliant hall, Madison and Hamlin avenue. Services at B'Nai Henzalel temple, 6128 Champlain avenue, were conducted by Cantor Z. Towbin and Rabbi A. E. Abrawowiski.

OIL BURNED LIKE GAS IN ANY STOVE, RANGE OR FURNACE.

New Way of Heating Makes Housework Easy; No More Dirty Coal.

A simple device that burns cheap kerosene (coal oil) or distillate like gas, in any coal or wood stove, range or furnace, has been perfected by the Standard Oil Burner Co., Dept. 33, 103 North Main Street, St. Louis, Mo., and is relieving thousands of housewives of hard, dirty work. The burner is inexpensive, easy to install, and perfectly safe and reliable. Homes are evenly heated, cooking and baking is perfect. The company will send a burner on thirty days' trial at a special low price to the first person from each town who writes for it. Many who take advantage of this offer can make good money introducing the burner to neighbors. Write today for particulars of trial offer. The company also wants dealers.—Adv.

GEN. DAWES FINDS HEART TO HEART TALKS ARE BEST

Will Keep Up Speeches on Constitution.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes returned from South Dakota and Iowa yesterday afternoon convinced that he has found the right method of meeting the La Follette sentiment in the rebel political belt and ready to do some more hard riding and rear platform talking upon the issue of saving the constitution and the present form of the American government.

In the future, aided by some of his "minute men," his warnings against the business and industrial chaos which he believes would follow a victory of the La Follette plan of congressional government are to be delivered chiefly as extemporaneous speeches from the end of his special car which is to be fitted up with amplifiers.

His experience on this western trip was that good sized crowds are ready to listen to him in the cities where stops can be arranged. In addition, he has found that he likes the work and the contact.

Would Avoid Set Speeches.

He will propose such a general plan to the Republican speakers' bureau for his long western swing which is scheduled to start Oct. 4. He would like to avoid making any more long academic speeches which require great preparation. He is filled now with his subject and ready to shoot at a moment's notice.

He spoke to many railroad men yesterday along the way. They clustered around his special Illinois Central train at Dubuque and Galena especially.

"We're with you because you've got guts," shouted a blue overalled worker at Freeport.

He Speaks at Dubuque.

His address at Dubuque is typical of his methods and is given in part:

"If I have got to make a speech, get up a little closer here, won't you?" he said as he came on the platform.

"We are with you," said a man in the crowd.

"These newspaper men here this morning will tell you that this is about the first time I have mentioned the budget in the whole campaign. Why? Because, like a thief in the night, a great issue has stolen upon the conscience and minds of the American people—an issue nobody expected—the issue of the constitution of the United States, which is being assailed by Robert M. La Follette, behind whom is massed a heterogeneous combination of the forces opposed to the existing order of things in this country, the largest portion of which are the Socialists, flying the red flag.

Balancing of Powers.

"It is fundamental. It is vital. The proposition is that we abandon our present form of government, with its balanced powers—the judicial, the executive, and the legislative—and make congress the final power in the government of the United States, and in one blow abolish that balancing of powers which protects you in your individual rights, your inalienable rights under the constitution of the United States.

"What kind of a government would this be if congress had the right to and giving it to somebody else? At pass a law telling you where to go to church, or taking your property away one blow it is proposed to alter this government.

"I will say this for the Socialists—whose leader, Eugene V. Debs, in his telegram to the committee that nominated La Follette, said, 'Now, we will make no nominations, but will adhere to Socialist principles and keep the red flag flying'—I admire their courage.

German Nationalists Will Uphold London Agreement

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—At a special session of the leaders of the Nationalist and People's parties tonight the Nationalists gave a solemn promise that they would not boycott or sabotage the London pact to carry out the Dawes plan, and expressed their willingness to participate in a new cabinet. Herr Hergt and Count Westarp spoke for the Nationalists. The meeting is regarded significant, marking officially the collapse of the Nationalist opposition to the Dawes plan.

WINS WHEATLAND PLOWING RACE BY A FURROW

Thomas Quantock of Wheatland won by a furrow yesterday in the horse drawn plowing event which has been a feature of the farmers' annual competition for forty-six years. Ten thousand persons gathered on the farm of A. D. Patterson and Joseph Elliot, a few miles from Plainfield, to witness the Wheatland plowing match.

A checkup of vehicles revealed that they came in 1,800 automobiles and three horse drawn buggies. The farmers shook their heads and allowed as how no records would be smashed with the earth so sticky from the recent rains. They were right. Quantock took the championship with a score of only 83½ points. Other winners were:

Men's riding class: Loran Steininger, Wheatland. Boys under 17 years: Carl Wosstoff, Wheatland. Tractors, manufacturers' class: New Moline Plow company, driven by A. W. Stark of Plainfield. Local tractor class: Earl Matter, Wheatland. Tractor class, boys under 20 years: George Susemiehl, Wheatland.

BUNDESEN WARNS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS PERIL

Parents were warned by Health Commissioner Bundesen yesterday to use all precautions to prevent the spreading of infantile paralysis. There is no great cause for alarm, Dr. Bundesen said, but other cities are experiencing mild epidemics, and Chicago must be on the watch.

In New York City last month there were 200 cases, and in Detroit sixty-five, Dr. Bundesen said. Chicago had only ten in August and forty-one for the entire year.

Parents are warned to call a physician at once if they note these symptoms in their ailing children:

"Cries when held or seems to have tenderness or pain in the neck and back. Has a fever and is drowsy or irritable. Has a second attack of light fever coming on in a few days without known cause. Shows sudden weakness in one or both legs or in arms. Has been near any person who has infantile paralysis and shortly after gets a slight fever. Has diarrhoea with a slight fever."

GIRL FREED IN MURDER CASE.

Virginia Davis, colored, held with Wm. Sam, also colored, as an accessory to the murder of Policeman Cornelius Enright, was discharged yesterday. Sam is held to the grand jury.

FEAR ELECTION MAY BE THROWN INTO CONGRESS

Old Parties Hope to Avoid Whims of Radicals.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The La Follette candidacy, if it accomplishes nothing more, will furnish this presidential election with about the most sensational and spectacular finish in the history of our national political contests.

While the election of the Wisconsin senator seems a remote contingency, both Republican and Democratic leaders regard it as possible that La Follette will receive enough electoral votes to prevent either President Coolidge or Mr. Davis from receiving a majority, thereby throwing the election into congress.

Historic Crisis May Reappear.

If that happens, the country will face a crisis rivaling, if not surpassing, in gravity the Tilden-Hayes electoral snarl of 1877. For if the choice of the president and vice president should devolve upon congress, it is possible that both houses would be deadlocked and unable to elect either official, and that the country would find itself without an executive on March 4 next.

It is fear of this danger which is expected to furnish a sensational climax to the campaign. Along about the latter part of next month Republicans and Democrats will be asking themselves and each other whether they should not join in putting over either Coolidge or Davis in order to avert the dangers of a congressional deadlock.

Business Is in Danger.

Even if nothing more serious should eventuate, the projection of the presidential election into congress would inspire apprehension throughout the country and put a damper on business activity that would prove extremely costly, if not disastrous, to employers and employed.

Indications are not wanting that business men and conservatives in both the old parties are beginning to ponder the alarming possibilities of the situation and to discuss the question of what to do about La Follette. The Republican and Democratic campaign managers are not averse to capitalizing the danger for the benefit of their respective candidates.

The Republican leaders say that the only sane and effective thing for Democrats to do about La Follette is to turn in and put Coolidge over at the polls with a whoop, thereby saving the country at one fell swoop from the danger of falling through any of the numerous trapdoors we now find that the revered fathers left in our constitution.

These States for Coolidge.

Coolidge, they say, has New York, Pennsylvania, New England, and all the rest of the north, east of the Mississippi, except Wisconsin, cinched. Davis cannot be elected without this territory, so it is up to the Democrats to come across with the border states for Coolidge if they want to keep the election out of congress.

In New England, the middle Atlantic states, and the middle west Coolidge would have 227 electoral votes, thirty-nine short of a majority, just the number of votes the Democrats could contribute from Maryland, Kentucky, and Missouri, not to mention Mr. Davis' own West Virginia. That would elect Coolidge even if he did not carry a single normally Republican state west of the Mississippi.

Democrats Can't See It.

Somehow, however, the Jeffersonians have not been able to see the point up to date. They can't understand why they should do the sacrificing to keep the election out of congress. The only way to figure out a majority for either Coolidge or Davis is to combine the east and the solid south. But the solid south will never vote for a Republican, so the only way out if the Republicans want to keep the election out of congress is to turn in and throw the east to Davis.

The country may expect to hear these diverse exhortations from the respective old party managers if the La Follette menace continues to prosper. The Republicans are confident that Coolidge will be the natural beneficiary of the alarm of the conservatives, inasmuch as he is a conservative, is in the office already and giving satisfaction to the conservatives, and is conceded by the Democrats to be the leading candidate in the three cornered contest.

This May Win for Cal.

Conservative Democrats, the Republican leaders believe, will decide that Coolidge stands the best chance of election and will vote for him in order to take no chances on a deadlock.

The Democratic managers are no less confident that conservative Republicans will see the point concerning the solid south and will decide it easier to put Davis over.

So there you are. It looks like a tug of war.

About the only real issue in this campaign has been conservatism versus radicalism, and the prospective finish of the contest bids fair to accentuate the lineup on that question. Even more pronounced will be the division if the election should go into congress.

When the choice of President devolves on the house the vote is taken by state delegations, each state having one vote and twenty-five being required to elect. There are twenty Democratic delegations in the present house, twenty-three nominally Republican, including Wisconsin, and five delegations are evenly divided and presumably would not vote.

This Means a Deadlock.

With Wisconsin, and perhaps one or two other nominally Republican states voting for La Follette, President Coolidge might not be able to command more than twenty votes. There would be a deadlock in any event unless all the five evenly divided delegations should go either Republican or Democratic.

Meantime, the senate would have elected or have been endeavoring to elect either Gen. Dawes or Gov. Bryan Vice President. There are fifty-one Republicans, including the La Follette bloc; forty-three Democrats and two farmer-laborites in the senate, and forty-nine votes are required to elect the Vice President.

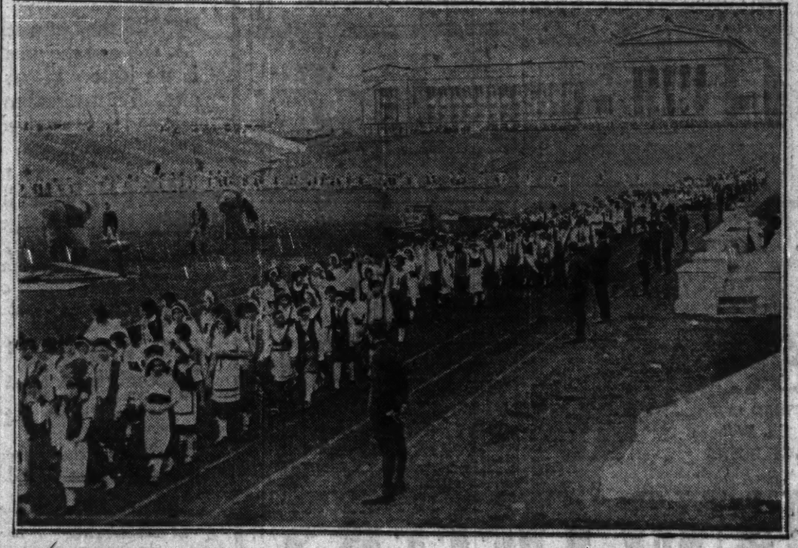
The La Follette bloc and the farmer-laborites could elect Bryan, or by refraining from voting they could prevent any election.

Reports have been current for some time that Bryan Democrats, perceiving the futility of trying to elect Davis, were going to support La Follette with the understanding that if the election goes to congress La Follette will employ his influence to effect the selection of Bryan for Vice President by the senate.

The Bryanites immediately denied the story and the La Follette camp recently inspired a newspaper article to the effect that the election of Bryan would perpetuate the Democratic party to the extinction of the third party. The La Follette leaders, it was stated, would prefer a Republican in the White House for the next four years, believing that the continuation of the conservative party in power would insure the perpetuation of the radical party to the extinction of the Democratic party.

ELEPHANTS IN PARADE OF GREATEST 13 RING CIRCUS

Here is the opening parade of the playgrounds circus at the Grant park stadium yesterday. The elephants were big ones, and, although made by the school children, they were really breathing elephants—with boys inside them. But there were other animals, too—280 of them—from the tall giraffes, shown behind the elephants, down to a mother hen and her baby chicks.



Three thousand Chicago youngsters took part in the parade and the countless acts in the thirteen rings that kept things busy for nearly three hours. In this section of the biggest circus parade in the world girls are shown in the costumes of the various nations.

CHANGED HER MIND 7 TIMES BUT FINALLY SAILS FOR EUROPE

New York, Sept. 20.—Homesickness today almost caused Mrs. Martha Bauer of Oregon City, Ore., to cancel for the eighth time her reservations on a trans-Atlantic steamer bound for Hamburg, Germany, where her mother lives. On seven different occasions she had come to New York from Oregon with the intention of sailing, and each time had returned to her husband in Oregon City. When she reached the pier today she again momentarily lost courage, but finally boarded the United American liner Cleveland, and the ship put to sea before she could change her mind.

SEPARATED FROM CHILD, MOTHER TRIES TO DIE

Heartsick because of enforced separation from her little 6 year old son, who since her second marriage has been in St. Joseph's orphanage at La Grange, Mrs. Mildred Orphant, wife of Angelo Orphant, proprietor of Tumble Inn, a Norton Grove roadhouse, swallowed poison near the Cort theater in Dearborn street yesterday.

Passersby noticed the young woman sway and fall, and sprang to her assistance. When she recovered consciousness at Iroquois hospital, Mrs. Orphant wept as she told attendants of her loneliness since her first husband had refused to let the little fellow, a child of her first marriage, live in her present home.

"I finally decided to end it all," Mrs. Orphant moaned.

Physicians said Mrs. Orphant will recover.

Boy Strikes Witness, Gets 60 Days in Jail

Fred H. Glass, 365 East 88th place, president of the Glass Sheet Metal company, 4806 Cottage Grove avenue, was testifying against Mrs. Samuel De Roberts, 373 East 88th place, in Judge Francis B. Allegretti's court Friday, when her son John, 19 years old, struck Glass on the jaw. Yesterday the boy was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail for contempt of court. Mrs. De Roberts alleged that Glass had struck her following an argument over the action of one of her nine children.

BANKER DEAF FOR YEARS NOW HEARS PERFECTLY.

Mr. John L. Ellerman, president of the Farmers National Bank, Fairfax, South Dakota, says that after suffering from deafness for many years he can now hear the slightest whisper and is so proud and happy of his own good fortune that he wants every one who is deaf or hard of hearing to know about it. After trying everything he could hear of without success, Mr. Ellerman finally saw the announcement of a New York firm stating that they had perfected a new hearing device called the Acousticon, which would enable any one whose auditory nerve was not entirely destroyed to hear as perfectly as those with normal hearing. As this firm offered to send their product on Ten Days' Free Trial—no deposit, no C. O. D.—he decided to try it. To his utter amazement and delight, he found that this remarkable invention enabled him to hear all sounds as clearly as when a boy. He has since recommended it to a number of his friends and they also report most satisfactory results. If you want to hear again as well as when a child, write the Dictograph Products Corporation, 1231-M Lytton Building, State and Jackson Streets, Chicago, Illinois, and ask them to send you an Acousticon on Ten Days' Free Trial. There are no strings attached to their offer. The trial is absolutely free. Just send them your name and address.—Adv.

PRINCIPALS GIVE PLATOON SYSTEM RESTRICTED O. K.

Reduction of class membership in the lower grades of the elementary schools and emphasis on all types of handwork that are basic in life are recommended in a report on the platoon or work-study-play plan issued yesterday by the Chicago Principals' club.

The club which comprises nearly every elementary principal in the public school system urges that particular attention be given to the first six grades.

Summed up, the report is a restricted indorsement of the platoon school. The principals' views are contrary to those held by the teachers.

Under the platoon plan whereby pupils move from room to room for instruction by various teachers, the common subjects, reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic, cannot be properly handled, the principals believe.

LEGION SEEKS JOHN AHLFELDT.

Girl Leaves for School; Police Now Seek Her

The police were asked yesterday to search for pretty Margaret Jorend, 15 years old, 6231 Foster avenue, a pupil of the Hibbard High school, who disappeared from her home last Tuesday. She started for school and has not been seen since. Her parents told the police that she had no reason to run away and that she appeared to be happy. She wore a plaid coat, black shoes, silk stockings, silk dress. She did not wear a hat. She is five feet tall and weighs about ninety-five pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes.

MARGARET JOREND.

CHICAGO TEMPLE TO BE DEDICATED ON NEXT SUNDAY

Dedication of the Chicago temple, the new home of the First Methodist church, will be held a week from today.

Bishop Thomas Nicholson, formerly of Chicago but now of Detroit, will preach at the morning service, at which the pastor, Dr. John Thompson, will preside.

At 3 in the afternoon the building will be dedicated according to the ritual. Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes will deliver the address. Mayor Dever, the Rev. John Timothy Stone of the Fourth Presbyterian church, and Rabbi Stolz of Isaiah temple will speak.

The Rev. William R. Wedderspoon of St. James' M. E. church will deliver the opening prayer.

BERNARD GRANT WINS REPRIEVE OF THREE MONTHS

Youth Delighted; Was to Be Hanged Oct. 17.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—[By United Press.]—Gov. Len Small today granted a ninety day reprieve to Bernard Grant, penniless "back o' the yards" Chicago boy, who was sentenced to hang on Oct. 17 for the murder of Policeman Souder in Chicago.

Gov. Small had received thousands of letters urging a lighter sentence for young Grant, in view of the sentences of life imprisonment imposed upon Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, millionaire youths, who murdered Bobby Franks.

Doesn't Mention Franks Case.

The governor, in granting the reprieve, made no mention of the Leopold-Loeb case or of "equal justice for poor as well as rich," but declared that the case of Walter Krauser, Grant's alleged accomplice in the murder, is on the advisement docket of the Supreme court at its October term.

This statement draws the inference that the court's decision will affect the petition of Grant, filed today, for a full pardon or commutation of sentence.

The reprieve stays the hanging of Grant until Jan. 17, 1925.

George Sutton, secretary to the governor, announced the reprieve after a long distance telephone conversation with Small, who is at his home in Kankakee, Ill.

Statement by Small.

The governor's office issued the following formal statement on the reprieve:

"Gov. Small this morning received the petition of Bernard Grant for pardon, or commutation of sentence of hanging, pronounced against him in the Criminal court of Cook county. The case of Walter Krauser, an associate of Bernard Grant, is in the Supreme court upon the October advisement docket.

"It seemed to the governor that the wisest course at the present time is to postpone the consideration of Grant's petition until the case of Krauser has been finally acted upon by the Supreme court; therefore he has this day granted to Bernard Grant a reprieve for ninety days, or until Friday, Jan. 16, 1925."

ACTION DELIGHTS GRANT

Bernard Grant was cheerful when told by newspaper reporters that he had been granted a ninety day respite by Gov. Small.

He wished for a commutation of his sentence.

"If the governor would only do that, I'd be ever so thankful," he declared. "Already this reprieve, which is the seventh since I have been sentenced, seems to have taken ninety pounds off my chest. My only hope is that Gov. Small will have mercy and save me from the gallows."

Bartley Grant, the boy's crippled father, appeared at the jail as the reporters were interviewing his son. He, too, rejoiced when told the news.

His Lawyer Encouraged.

"I feel that the governor's action is a mighty good start on the road to a pardon for Grant," Attorney Thomas Swanson, who is fighting for Grant's life, declared.

"I petitioned the governor to call an early session of the board of pardons, because the regular meeting is not scheduled until only a few days before the date of execution, Oct. 17."

Mrs. Mary Grant, the prisoner's mother, was in tears as she heard of the governor's action.

"I know my boy is not guilty and I know he won't be hanged," she said.

HAYNES MISSING GUEST AT SOLON'S HARD CIDER FETE

So Hill Will Hold 2.75 "Kick" O. K.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Congressman John Philip Hill of Maryland tonight served 2.75 per cent cider to all of the guests at his house party who cared to partake of it.

JOHN PHILIP HILL. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Among those who were invited but did not attend was Roy A. Haynes of Washington, D. C. Mr. Haynes was, in fact, to be the guest of honor. Mr. Hill wants the United States prohibition chief to decide if he, Mr. Hill, should be arrested for permitting cider to become 2.75 per cent hard and then serving it to his friends.

Issues Defy to Haynes.

Mr. Hill says if Mr. Haynes does not cause his arrest, he will call on the dry chief to testify in hearings in Washington that 2.75 per cent cider is not intoxicating. If cider of that alcoholic content is not intoxicating, the congressman's theory is, beer of that "kick" also is not intoxicating.

But Mr. Hill's theory goes further. He says if he can be arrested, so can every farmer who makes cider and permits it to develop more than ½ of 1 per cent alcohol.

Dry Boss Among Missing.

Mr. Haynes did not appear, however, nor did he cause his agents in Baltimore to take the same course they did last year when Mr. Hill made wine and invited guests. At that time, a court injunction forbade Mr. Hill's distribution of high power wine to his guests.

The congressman from Maryland was an accommodating host. Fearing the dry chief might not appear at his party, he sent samples of his cider to Washington. A chemical analysis of this cider by the prohibition bureau chemist showed more alcohol than the law allows.

District Attorney Woodcock today said he would not decide what action to take against Mr. Hill until next Wednesday.

CALLS DRY ACT UNFAIR

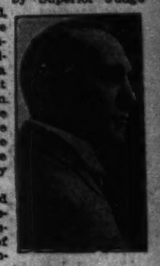
Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Denouncing the Volstead law as "dishonest and unfair" interpretation of the eighteenth amendment and as having contributed to the general disregard of all law, Charles L. Durham, professor of Latin in Cornell university, nomination by the Democrats as candidate for congress, issued a sharp defiance in a speech before the Tompkinds county W. C. T. U. jubilee convention today.

"I am in favor of a modification of the Volstead enforcement act, and if elected to congress I pledge myself to exert my efforts to secure a modification thereof," he said. "In defining 'intoxicant' and in fixing the maximum alcoholic content which may be present in beverages, the Volstead act does not represent an honest, or fair, or reasonable interpretation of the constitutional amendment."

DRY LAW AND AGENTS RAKED BY JUDGE DAVID

Vote Would Show U. S. Wet, Jurist Asserts.

Prohibition was denounced from the bench yesterday by Superior Judge Joseph B. David, who declared the evils of the eighteenth amendment made it a menace, and that if a referendum vote on it were taken in the United States the dry law would be overwhelmingly defeated.



JUDGE J. B. DAVID.

He concluded his judicial denunciation by issuing two writs of mandamus, compelling Mayor Dever to issue licenses to two soft drink parlors which had been closed on recommendation of the police.

"Hard Guy Hangout."

One place, that of Julius Benvenuti, 2900 South La Salle street, was closed by the police, according to testimony introduced by Attorney Victor Frohlich, because they thought too many "hard guys" congregated there. The license of Anton Sperisk, 4721 South Justine street, was revoked when policemen found five men playing cards in a living room back of Sperisk's soft drink parlor.

"What an astounding state of affairs," Judge David exclaimed. "Just because congress saw fit to pass the eighteenth amendment, does that rob men of all their sacred constitutional rights? The police seem not to know they are trespassers when they invade a man's home without any process whatever."

Evils of Dry Law.

His ire aroused, Judge David launched into a discussion of the evils now besetting the nation as a result of the prohibition act.

"Most of the men supposed to enforce the prohibition law are crooks and bootleggers," the judge declared. "Prohibition agents are bribed. High public officials, sworn not only to respect the law, but to enforce it, drink and invite others to drink their whisky.

"Never has there been such disrespect for law and for law enforcing bodies since the citizens were told they must not drink intoxicating liquors. They have never stopped, indeed, young people, boys and girls, now are heavy drinkers—they find delight in mocking their elders and the law.

Death Rate Increased.

"Prohibition has not lowered the death rate from alcoholism—it has boosted it skyward with the advent of poisonous moonshine. Men and women drink now who never drank before."

The sale of whisky by physician's prescription, as now practiced, is a "disgrace to the medical profession," Judge David said.

VAMPIRE AUTO KILLS AS FIGHT ON SPEED GROWS

Heavy Fines Promised for Violators.

Otto Rieker, 1915 Dayton street, was struck and killed late last night by an automobile which sped away and left him lying on the pavement at State and 22d streets. His death, with that of a child earlier in the day, brought the motor toll for the year up to 476.

Soon after Rieker was killed police began searching for David Peddington of 11 West 21st street. Witnesses of the accident said they recognized him as the driver of the car, which was traveling well over the speed limit. The machine later was found parked in front of Peddington's home, but he had disappeared.

The other death was that of 4 year old George Shapeck, 3134 Bloomingdale road, who was struck down at Moffat street and Kedzie avenue Wednesday by a car driven by Eric Norlander, 3002 North Hamlin avenue. He died in Lutheran Memorial hospital.

Seek Help of County Officials.

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court promised Chief Collins that heavy penalties would be imposed in the traffic courts, and attention was called yesterday to a need for safety measures in the country towns outside of Chicago.

Figures made public by the mayor's safety commission indicate that motor deaths in Chicago are on the wane, but that a decided increase has occurred in the county districts outside the city.

In the period between Jan. 1 and Sept. 16, according to the statistics, there were 383 motor fatalities in Chicago, as compared to 413 in the same period of 1923, a decrease of 30.

Increase Outside City.

The figures for the county districts in the same period this year are 82, and in 1923, 67, an increase of 15.

In the same connection, it was pointed out that motor deaths in the park districts, which are not under the jurisdiction of Chief of Police Collins, have not been curbed, indicating that the speed drive of the city police has met with considerable success.

Judge Olson's announcement that Speeders' court judges would begin a program of harsh penalties to speeders and reckless drivers came after a conference with Chief Collins. A report from one of his captains was cited by Chief Collins to the effect that in the court of Judge George A. Curran 90 per cent of the traffic violators were discharged and others fined lightly.

Fines Depend on Offense.

Under the law, Judge Olson declared, heavy fines may be imposed, considering the gravity of the situation, hundreds having been killed by automobiles in several months.

Though there has been insufficient time in which to effect an efficient program of making arrests for speeding, many motorists were arrested yesterday and hauled to police stations to furnish bonds.

Among those arrested as speeders was Walter Pasch, 1230 West 73d place, who was driving at forty miles an hour in South Chicago, according to the police. In the car with him was Miss Margaret Leigh, recently chosen as "Miss Chicago" in a beauty contest. They were taken to the South Chicago police station, where Pasch gave bond.

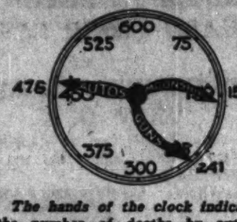
Two alleged booze parties ended disastrously yesterday in automobile crashes. One car, driven by Harry Edwards, 29, 8032 Luella avenue, and containing also a young woman and a man, crashed into a beam at the State street bridge. Police arrested the occupants, after they were given medical treatment for their injuries.

The other accident, at Fullerton avenue and Robey street, resulted when A. C. Born, 45, 3543 Fulton street, drove into a lamp post, hurling him and his companion, Miss Myrtle E. Johnson, 28, 2705 West Washington boulevard, through the windshield. Miss Johnson was taken to the Norwegian American hospital. She may not live. Born was placed in a cell.

Mrs. David Wheeler Kimball of Evanston, daughter-in-law of Curtis N. Kimball, head of the W. W. Kimball Piano company, yesterday was fined $25 and costs by Police Magistrate Max Witkower, after a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was changed to one of crossing a boulevard without stopping.

On July 24 the automobile which Mrs. Kimball was driving crashed into a small sedan, severely injuring two of its occupants, Otto Peterson, 63, 4340 North Troy street, for some time was near death, but finally recovered.

HANDS OF DEATH



The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by autos, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

Girl, 8, Shot by Boy, 7, When Playing on Visit

Eight year old Mary Batt, 4656 North Albany avenue, was rushed to the Englewood hospital last night after 7 year old John Barnhart, 925 Wellington avenue, had shot her in the breast. The gun was owned by Joseph Gardner, in whose home at Morgan and 78th streets the two children were visiting. "Mary, look what I found!" called John, and the next instant he pulled the trigger as the little girl was running to see the revolver.

PRINCE WINDS UP U. S. VISIT TODAY; TREKS FOR RANCH

Calls on T. R.'s Widow; Watches Polo Game.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The visit of the prince of Wales to the United States ends tomorrow. He will leave Syosset at about 10 o'clock Sunday night on his journey to his ranch in Alberta.

It was said today that his plan to cross the sound by motor boat and take his train at New London had been canceled and that he would leave Syosset in the private car of Sir Henry Thornton, formerly general manager of the Long Island railroad and now president of the Canadian National. He will cross Hell Gate bridge on a special train connecting with the New York, New Haven and Hartford and will reach his ranch Thursday night.

Today the prince played squash at the Tennis and Racquet club in this city, called on Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Sr., at Sagamore Hill, and then saw the Californians, led by Eric Pedley, defeat the Hurricanes, led by Luis Lacey, in a polo game at the International field at Westbury.

After going to bed at 3 o'clock this morning, the prince was roughly awakened at 8, as a stream of furnace coal shot from a ten-ton truck into the cellar of the Burden residence.

Although state troopers and other guards have been keeping all visitors away, the prestige of a coal man at this time of the year is such that he had an unquestioned entrée when he chose the hour of 8 a. m., waking H. R. H. when he dumped the coal into the basement.

AGED MAN HURT IN FALL.

Robert Conent, 74, of 716 North Wells street, was seriously injured yesterday when he fell down the stairs of his home.

MAYOR'S DISPUTE WITH DIRECTOR GROWS WARMER

Philadelphia Chief of Police Won't Quit.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The Philadelphia police are to be kept out of politics by Public Safety Director Smedley D. Butler "and his successor," Mayor Kendrick declared today in his first public utterances in a reported "shakeup" in the department.

SMEDLEY D. BUTLER.

Declining to enter into a "public debate" with his director, who was formerly brigadier general of marines, Mayor Kendrick said the situation rapidly was "becoming intolerable." At the same time he declared that Director Butler "without warning" had ceased to consult the mayor on his policies.

The director's leave of absence from the marine corps, which he obtained in order to take over the job of "cleaning up" Philadelphia, expires on Jan. 5. The mayor's statement apparently makes it clear that Director Butler will not be retained in the city's service after Jan. 1, at the latest.

"I am not going to quit," Butler said today. "They can fire me if they want to get rid of me."

It is reported that the director will be given a three months' leave of absence, beginning Oct. 1, thus technically carrying him in office until Jan. 1.

"I don't intend to resign," the director said, "and I don't want any leave with pay. I won't take the taxpayers' money unless I give them some return for it."

DEAD, STABBED SIX TIMES.

John W. Smith, 46, 113 South Wood street, was found dead yesterday, stabbed six times in the abdomen. Police think he killed himself.

REVEAL MODEST DONOR OF U. OF M. FINEST BUILDING

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 20.—The donor of the law school and law club building at the University of Michigan, one of the finest buildings of its kind on any campus in the world, is William W. Cook, Michigan alumnus and a New York City lawyer, it was learned today.

The cost of the club, when finished, remains in doubt. It has been estimated that it will cost no less than $3,000,000. It is being built around a quadrangle and the whole occupies two blocks adjoining the university campus on the south.

The identity of the donor has been a mystery for two years and has been revealed only through discovery of an inscription bearing Mr. Cook's name, found on a small stone panel over a door leading to the lounge.

DRAW NET OF POISONS ABOUT JOCKEY PASTOR

He Finally Admits Nearby Purchase of Arsenic.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, county fair race horse owner and jockey, turned Methodist "circuit rider," tonight is slowly being enmeshed in an almost unbreakable net of circumstantial evidence that he is a murderer.

The minister is in a jail here accused of killing his wife last week with a dose of arsenic. He also stands suspected of doing away in the same manner with Wilford Sweetin, husband of the woman he is alleged to have become infatuated over.

And tonight the Ina, Ill., minister was identified as having purchased arsenic on July 23, six days before Sweetin died under mysterious circumstances. Dr. Hight admitted the identification freely. Yes, he said, he did buy the poison from J. E. Webster, a druggist of Benton, Ill. He had denied purchasing poison during the past twelve months. Today he said he bought it for rats.

He Insisted on Arsenic.

"But I offered you some regular rat poison that day," W. C. Messner, clerk for Webster, reecalled. "Rough on rats, I believe it was. You insisted on arsenic."

The preacher admitted this, too. Immediately after the identification, Dr. Hight was told by State's Attorney Frank G. Thompson that the identity of the murderer of Mrs. Hight had by the process of elimination, narrowed down to three persons.

"Either you killed your wife, or your daughter, 14, or your son, 12, killed her," the prosecutor said. "And I don't think your children did it."

It was the first time Mr. Thompson had told the minister directly that he believed him guilty. The latter replied: "I can't help what you think. But I didn't do it."

The state's attorney believes the man will break down soon and confess all. The prosecutor is convinced, he said, that the preacher killed both his wife and the husband of "the other woman."

The Rev. Mr. Hight, in the grilling that followed his identification by the druggist, made a number of admissions which the prosecution said were damaging. In one breath, he denied ever having admired Mrs. Sweetin, a comely woman of 31. In the next, he said he had told Mrs. Hight that Mrs. Sweetin had "pretty white hands" and that she was the best looking woman in town.

Faith in God Unshaken.

The preacher, 50 years old, mild mannered, mild eyes of blue, and possessing a perfect faith in God, admitted that he is and always has been an "admirer of good looking women."

Was Mrs. Sweetin always attempting to be friendly with him, he was asked. He was silent for a moment before making this cryptic reply: "Well, you can't keep birds from flying over your head, but you can keep them from building nests in your hair."

As to his relations with Mrs. Sweetin. He was only twice in the Sweetin home, he said, before Sweetin was in his last illness. Of course, he had attended Sweetin. Had he given Sweetin medicine, or something? Yes, as he said before—a glass of ice water.

Mrs. Hight's vital organs, according to Dr. William D. McNally, former coroner's chemist of Chicago, contained enough arsenic to kill several persons. Now Mr. Thompson is convinced Sweetin's organs will be found to contain arsenic also.

The bodies of Mrs. Hight and Sweetin were exhumed yesterday under the direction of Coroner Reece. Additional parts of the woman's organs and the viscera of the man's are now on their way to Dr. McNally's laboratory.

Tragedy Follows Eternal Triangle

Dr. Lawrence M. Hight and his wife of 28 years, who died suddenly last Sunday. Gossip caused the authorities of Mount Vernon, Ill., to send the dead woman's stomach to Dr. William D. McNally of Chicago, who says he found enough arsenic to kill a person. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

IRENE CASTLE CAUSES ARREST OF 2D HUSBAND

Says Treman Held Out $40,000 Securities.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Robert E. Treman, who was the second husband of Irene Castle McLaughlin, the dancer, now the wife of Frederick McLaughlin of Chicago, was arrested last night in Ithaca, N. Y., on a civil order secured by Miss Castle from Supreme court Justice Aaron J. Levy, it became known today.

ROBERT E. TREMAN.

The order was applied for on the ground that Treman had refused to return to her some $40,000 worth of securities, of which she had given him custody.

Arrested at His Home.

Treman was arrested at his home in Ithaca by Sheriff Charles Green of Tompkins county. Tremans' bonds was fixed at $40,000, which was furnished.

Recently Treman's former wife brought a suit in Ithaca against her divorced husband and his father, charging there had been collusion between them in the transfer of certain property between father and son.

Following this suit, the dancer filed another in Supreme court here against her former husband, charging conversion of property which she claims rightfully belongs to her.

When a photostatic copy of this receipt was shown Justice Levy he signed the civil order directing Treman's arrest.

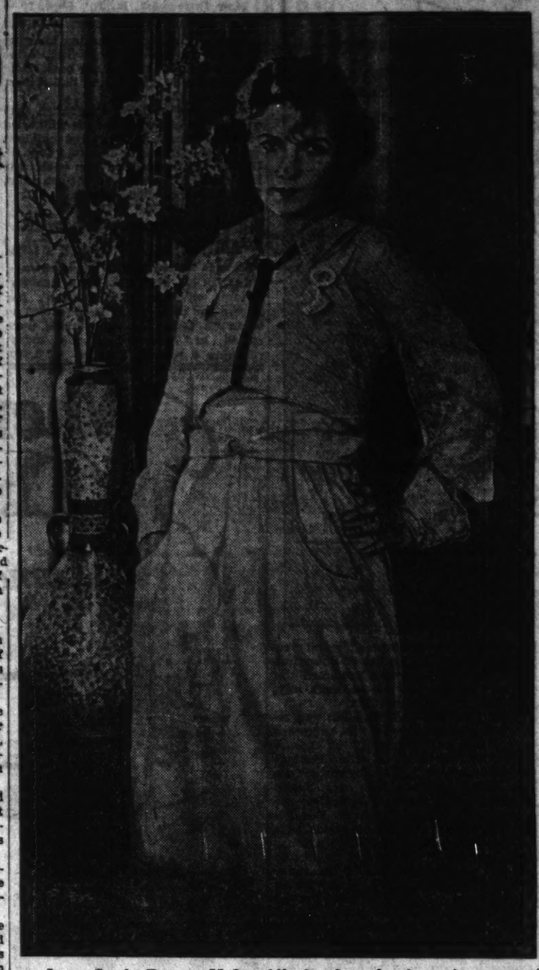
In Ithaca announcement was made by the Tremans that the suit would be contested, and the explanation was given that the money obtained from the sale of the securities had been invested in the Cayuga Pictures corporation, which exploited the dancer in a series of screen productions when she was Mrs. Treman.

Treman Invested $70,000.

The alleged conversion of the securities occurred about the time the Cayuga Pictures corporation was being organized. The papers in the action indicate that Mr. Treman admitted selling securities to the value of $35,000. This money is said to have been invested in the picture enterprise together with $70,000 of Treman's money.

When the corporation was launched the then Mrs. Treman is said to have been placed on a salary larger than the amount for which she is now suing. Several features were made starring the dancer, but the enterprise was a failure and finally went out of existence.

HAS FORMER MATE ARRESTED



Irene Castle Treman McLaughlin has brought about the arrest of her second husband, Robert Treman, charging that he has withheld $40,000 in securities she intrusted to him.

Robbers Take $370 from Funds for Deaf and Dumb

Claude Russell, 804 Cass street, deaf and dumb and former president of the Chicago chapter of the Illinois Association for the deaf, was held up and robbed early yesterday. The robbers pulled him into an alley and took $370 belonging to the Home of Aged and Infirm Deaf, 4539 Grand boulevard. The money was the proceeds of a picnic held last week.

CLERK ROBBED BY BANDITS.

J. Lunny, manager of a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 554 North Parkside avenue, reported that two men entered the store last evening and robbed him of $25.

Spanish Win Important Position in Moroccan War

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MADRID, Sept. 20.—The capture of Gorgues, the key position to Tetuan, the most important Moroccan point, by Spanish troops was announced tonight in a special dispatch from Gen. Primo de Rivera. The offensive was started Thursday and the capture was accomplished in a brilliant attack against the dominating heights by five Spanish columns commanded by Gen. Castro. This capture removes one of the weakest spots of the Spanish position in Morocco.

FLYERS LAND IN EL PASO AFTER LONG TEXAS JUMP

May Hop Today to Tucson, Ariz.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 20.—America's world flyers landed here at 7:40 central standard time. A crowd of 10,000 persons awaited the birdmen at the end of their 625 mile jump from Dallas.

The 625 mile hop from Dallas took up ten hours and two minutes. However, an hour and ten minutes was lost at Sweetwater, where the flyers were held up while the machines were refueled and oil changed in the engine of Lieut. Wade's plane.

Here the flyers were entertained at a picnic dinner prepared by Sweetwater residents. Near Picos a plane accompanying the flyers and carrying two army photographers made a forced landing. Neither of the men were injured.

The world airmen were met by six escort planes from Fort Bliss at Sierra Blanca, ninety miles east of here, and conducted to the landing field.

Mayor R. M. Dudley presented each of the aviators with a Mexican serape and official welcome to the city before hustling them off to a banquet at the Hotel Paso Del Norte.

The visiting airmen were to be taken on a tour of the grounds of the southwestern international exposition now under way later in the evening.

Tentative plans call for the departure of the flyers for Tucson, Ariz., about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Find Pistol Made of Soap and Tinfoil in Jail Yard

A "revolver," made of soap and covered with tinfoil, was found in a rubbish pile by two trusties in the county jail yesterday. It was turned over to Warden Wesley Westbrook, who will seek its manufacturer.

ARMY PLANES TO PERFORM TODAY AT RANTOUL, ILL.

Flyers to Give Benefit for Army Relief Society.

Every phase of army aeronautics will be demonstrated at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., when the entire equipment and personnel of the big military school will be put into play. All proceeds of the circus will be donated to the Army Relief society, organized to benefit widows and orphans of service men.

All types of airplanes, from Sperry Messengers, small enough to go in a garage, to mighty Martin bombers with two 400 horse power motors, will be seen in action. Smoke screen displays, sky writing, and parachute jumping will be some of the individual stunts.

Group displays will include pursuit formation and manouvers, flying by three planes tied together, and destruction by bombs of a miniature fort. The program of fourteen events will last two and one-half hours.

A feature of the show will be a race of eight machines for the W. H. Wheat trophy.

Chanute field can be reached by the Illinois Central railroad or by auto on route No. 25. It is sixteen miles north of Champaign.

ESCAPE FINES BY UNION DUES.

The fact that they paid dues into the Janitors' union, 1219 Oregon street, saved eight men arrested for gambling there from paying fines yesterday in court. All were discharged.

SHANGHAI NEAR CAPTURE; ENEMY WITHIN 8 MILES

Kiangsu Troops Advance Under Barrage.

gaged in the Chekiang campaign because only approximately 100,000 men are actually available north of the Yellow river now. Wu has four squadrons of airplanes ready for use and they already have been sent northward. The entire Chinese navy is now preparing to move to northern waters.

Chang Claims Victory.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—An engagement between the second army of Chang Tso-Lin, war lord of Manchuria, and the enemy forces of the Peking government took place today near Jehol, northeast of Peking. An entire mixed brigade of the Chihli forces was declared to have been put to flight by the Manchurian troops. The victorious forces of Gen. Chang occupied the entire line from Chinchow to Chaoyang, according to information given out here.

A WILY TUCHUN

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 20.—Gen. Lu Yung Hsiang, former tuchun of Chekiang province, but now in Shanghai, encircled by enemy armies, cited THE TRIBUNE correspondent this afternoon the old Chinese proverb, "If you catch a rat in a china closet be careful about throwing things at him, because you might break a valuable piece of porcelain."

Obviously, the venerable old general, who for several years has been a rebel against the Peking government, meant by this that he was the rat, the valuable porcelain was the great metropolis of Shanghai, and hence, Kiangsu and Peking had better be careful and not shoot at him, otherwise Shanghai might be damaged.

Gen. Lu now has a well armed and equipped force of 35,000 men, with 14,000 more arriving in the next day or so from the Ishing front, in the western part of the province, which he is evacuating. The area he controls about Shanghai forms a triangle, with corners at Kashing, on the Hangchow railway to the south, and Huangtu on the Nanking railway to the north, and at Liuho on the east. The triangle is about thirty miles on each side and inside of this area is the great city of Shanghai, with possibly 3,000,000 people, and for communications the former Chekiang general has two good railways running south and north, and in addition a network of canals and rivers, all navigable.

20,000 Foreigners in City.

Also within this triangle he has the second largest arsenal and powder plant in China, now working twenty-four hour shifts, and for food and supplies for his army he has the great city of Shanghai to draw upon.

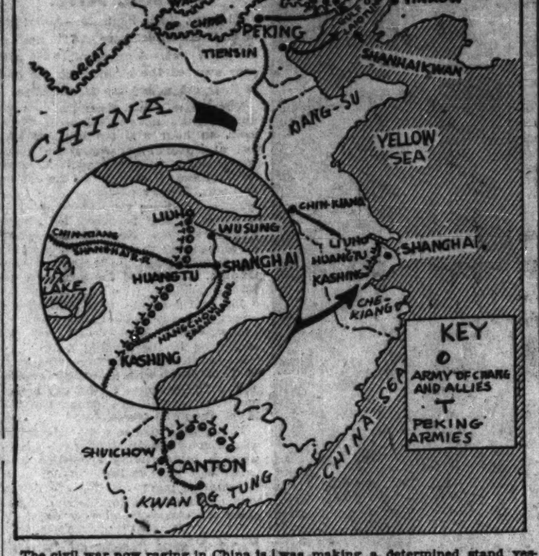
As an offset to this advantageous position he has in the city of Shanghai about 20,000 foreigners of every nationality on the globe, represented by about a dozen foreign consuls, and still further inside this area are about two dozen foreign war craft and possibly 2,000 sailors and marines, with more than 1,000 ashore.

Gen. Lu, however, does not seem worried about the foreign complications, for to revert to his proverb, "Don't try to hit the rat or you might break the porcelain." Apparently Gen. Lu thinks his danger of foreign complications is considerably overbalanced by the advantage which the foreigners give him, for undoubtedly the Kiangsu and Peking leaders do fear complications which might be charged to them on the score of being the attacking party.

Gen. Lu in the interview admitted that he had been a rebel, but he said the only way China can be governed at the present stage is through giving the provinces a large measure of autonomy.

He said President Tsao-Kun was elected illegally by bribery.

THE WAR IN CHINA AND WHO'S WHO



The civil war now raging in China is due to the machinations of three outstanding leaders to control the nation. They are:

GEN. WU PEI FU, Chihli war lord and backer of the present Peking government, headed by President Tsao Kun. Gen. Wu is striving to bring all of China under control of Peking.

GEN. CHANG TSO LIN, Manchurian war lord, who controls Manchuria and has been called the tool of Japan, which has large interests in Manchuria. His headquarters are at Mukden.

DR. SUN YAT SEN, president of the South China republic, with his capital at Canton.

Chang and Sun have formed an alliance and are backing the Chekiang rebel army, which is now fighting to hold Shanghai, a city of nearly 3,000,000, with a foreign population of 20,000 and vast foreign owned interests. The war against Shanghai is being carried on by the tuchun of Kiangsu. Peking's support of the Kiangsu armies caused Chang to declare war on Peking. Dr. Sun was already fighting Peking forces near Canton.

The Chekiang army (Chang's ally) was making a determined stand yesterday within eight miles of Shanghai. Some foreign observers predicted the capture of the city by Peking's ally, the Kiangsu tuchun, today.

In the north Chang Tso Lin was reported to have gained initial successes along the Manchurian-Chihli border between Chinchow, on the Peking-Mukden railway, and Chaoyang, across the Chihli frontier and near Jehol, northeast of Peking. According to news from Peking, however, Wu Pei Fu has not yet reached his stride. He is sending an army of 200,000 against the Manchurian leader and intends to use the fleet in the Gulf of Laiotung, where it can menace the railway which Chang must use on his advance toward Shanhaikwan and the latter's chief port, Yinkow. Wu declares it to be the intention of the Peking government to regain control of Manchuria, which Chang has governed since his defeat by Wu two years ago.

Peking also reports that the transfer by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the southern leader, of troops to Shiuchow, in northern Kwangtung, is really a flight from his enemies, who have been waiting long for a chance to take over Canton.

DRAGGED ABOUT FARM BY MULE, WIFE COMPLAINS

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 20.—Peter Hebion, 36, a farmer, is in jail today charged with assaulting his wife, Lillian. She complained that, after tying her hands behind her back, Hebion tied her to a mule and had it drag her about their farm.

When the husband was taken into custody, he charged that his wife tried to shoot him and their five children with a shotgun. He admitted that he tied her hands behind her back, but said that he himself, and not the mule, dragged her about the farm.

Flapper of 12 Is a Lady, Berlin Car Company Rules

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Twelve year old flappers are to be treated as "ladies," according to regulations issued by the Berlin street car company to its employés. Generally children are to give up their seats in favor of persons of age and are to be asked to do so by the conductors if their parents do not. "Girls of more than 12 years, however, are ladies and need not give up their seats," say the regulations.

Wife and Babies Sick, Husband Deserts Family

William F. Serviss, 30 years old, stepped into his Durant car, Tuesday, Sept. 16, and disappeared, deserting his wife and family. His home is at 4150 North Leavitt street. The couple have three children, Leroy, 9 years old, and twins, Vernon and Laverne, 7 months old. Mrs. Serviss is in poor health and the twins also are ill. Mrs. Serviss wants news of her husband. His car license number is 361,403.

DAVIS WINDS UP STUMP OF WEST AT FORT WAYNE

Four Indiana Towns Hear G. O. P. Flayed.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 20.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, wound up a three weeks' drive through the west tonight with an address here after a swing across northern Indiana.

During the day Mr. Davis faced four audiences and before them he renewed his assaults on the Republican administration on charges of corruption and privilege and pledged himself and his party, if succesful in November, to give the country a goverament of honesty, justice and courage, and one that would grant equal rights to all men.

Hears Klan Denounced.

Before Mr. Davis began his last adres before a large crowd in the public square here, he heard Dr. Carlton E. McCulloch, the Democratic nominee for governor, denounce the Ku Klux Klan by name as he had done in his Seagirt speech last month.

While Mr. Davis did not himself mention the klan, he told his audience that there could be no abridgment on these great principles upon which the American government is founded—freedom of religious worship, freedom of speech, freedom of press and freedom of assembly.

Calls G. O. P. Too "Cool."

Addressing a crowd of several thousand at an open air meeting at South Bend in the afternoon, John W. Davis, the Democratic standard bearer, asserted that the country had been traveling on the road of privilege for the last three and a half years, a road leading to a high tariff behind which the favored few might prosper at the expense of the many.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 20.—Addressing a crowd of several thousand at an open air meeting here this afternoon, John W. Davis, the Democratic standard bearer, asserted that the country had been traveling on the road of privilege for the last three and a half years, a road leading to a high tariff behind which the favored few might prosper at the expense of the many.

Declaring that the Democratic party had traveled the other road of equal rights for 130 years, Mr. Davis said it would continue to travel that road, a road where all men, high or low, will be treated alike.

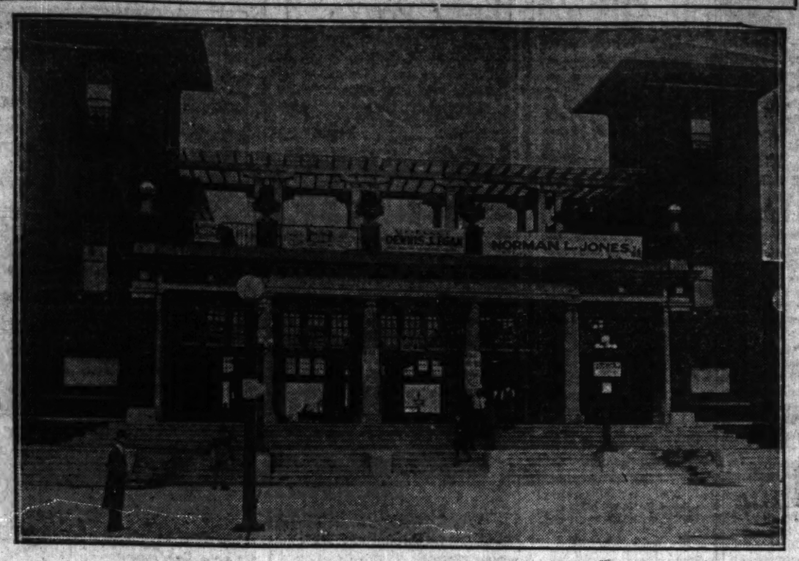
Rape "Keep Cool" Slogan.

"There are those in this country," he said, "who believe that the greatest public service is to keep cool. They would keep cool even in the face of such scandals as those of the squandering of the naval reserves and the corruption in the veterans' bureu.

"When faithful public servants uncovered these affairs there was no burning resentment among those who are forever keeping cool."

Referring to the sugar tariff, Mr. Davis declared there was an effort to "keep cool" on the recommendation of the tariff commission for a revision which would save the American people $145,000 a day.

WAVES SILENT WHILE SIGNS TALK



The "wild waves" aren't saying much off Clarendon beach, whose pavilion was built with public funds, but signs on the front of the building are almost vocal with Democratic appeal. The top tier of signs contains two for Michael Igoe for state's attorney, one for Dennis J. Egan for re-election as bailiff of the Municipal court, and one for Norman L. Jones for governor of Illinois. On the next tier appear three Igoe signs, one announcing a Forty-eighth ward meeting, and a fourth Igoe sign. On the lowest tier there are two signs booming A. A. Sprague for United States senator and one urging the election of Roeder as county recorder. The pavilion is on Clarendon avenue near Wilson.

HIS HOME STATE G. O. P. TAKES CAL FOR A PLATFORM

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 20. — The Massachusettes state Republican convention today took Calvin Coolidge, "his principles, his policies, and his conduct in office" for their platform, adding among a few brief planks one that touched the klan issue, but did not mention it by name.

The platform contained 499 words. The brief plank touching on the klan said:

"We deplore any organized effort to create racial or religious prejudice."

A plank saying "there should be no distinction of racial connections or religious convictions in the selections of persons for public office" prefaced this.

A request that State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook and his brother, Washington Cook, Republican nominee in the Second district, to be read out of the party on charges of unfitness was voted down by the resolutions committee.

82 Year Old Actor Acts as Shylock 2,000 Times

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 20.—To celebrate his eighty-second birthday, Louis Bouwmeister, dean of the Dutch stage, played the role of "Shylock" in the "Merchant of Venice" for the 2,000th time this week. He is well known, both in London and Paris.

GERMAN SOCIETY SPLITS OVER BOB; BACKING DENIED

New York, Sept. 20.—A split in the Steuben (German-American) society over that organization's indorsement of the candidacy of Senator La Follette came today, on the eve of its mass-meeting tomorrow in Yankee stadium, which will be addressed by the Wisconsin senator.

Jules Nehring, a member of the society and a prominent Washington Heights business man, charged that the indorsement of the third party ticket was not by a vote of the organization's membership, but was the unauthorized decision of a handful of officers.

Mr. Nehring appealed to Americans of German birth to think twice before they voted a "strike" against present business conditions.

George Sylvester Viereck of the society's constitutional council denied any split. He said the La Follette-Wheeler ticket was first indorsed in a resolution adopted by the society's political committee. That resolution, he added, was later indorsed at a convention in Cleveland Aug. 6, 1924.

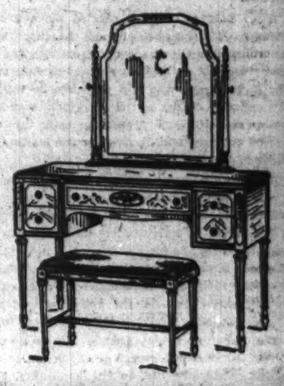
WHEN you buy furniture, you don't really buy furniture at all. What you really do buy is what the furniture does for your home; what you get from it in good looks, artistic satisfaction and physical comfort.



For example, you might want a davenport, a couple of easy chairs, a table and some other pieces for your living room. If mere furniture were all you bought, anything would do. But you know that anything will not do. You want things that are good looking, comfortable; things that make your room a real "living" room; and because these things are desirable, you want quality that lasts.

A good way to be sure that you get what you want is to let us lay out the rooms that you want to furnish, here in our store; select the things that please your eye and place them where they will be in your rooms; actually visualize the rooms with the furniture in place.

We guarantee "Scholle-quality" and your satisfaction with what you buy here. We'd rather give the money back than keep it if you're not satisfied.

Our prices are always low for real quality, but right now during our sale they're lower than usual.

Look over the list below. It shows some of our attractive bargains

THE FAILURE OF PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT AND THE REASONS.

When the federal prohibition amendment had been adopted and the Volstead act passed people generally expected that enforcement would follow. It had been axiomatic that federal laws were to be treated with respect and the person who might break a state or municipal law counted the cost seriously before he took a chance with federal justice.

That habit of respect existed when prohibition came in. There had been some cheating under war prohibition, but it was not impressive. The government was not specially organized to enforce it and the liquor trade was still in existence waiting for the expected lifting of that expedient war measure before constitutional prohibition came into effect a period contemplated by law for the legitimate handling of the liquor stocks.

We believe that nearly all the people of the United States thought the country would be dry, whether they liked it or not, and the people who had money and wanted alcoholic beverages bought and stored for the future. They had not anticipated the rum smuggler, the bootlegger, the making of beer, the raiding of warehouses, the corruption of government agents or the activities of the home brewer and wine maker and of the illicit distillers.

We know now that federal law is in collapse wherever there is a desire to drink alcoholic beverages. That was not, in the beginning, thought possible. It is here as a fact. The reasons are worth consideration.

We had forgotten that smuggling can be organized and then is easy. The colonials knew it was and the best families got their stuff without a stamp on it. John Hancock was a smuggler. The English of the Georges knew that neither embargo nor excise taxes could keep the squire from his freely imported wines and brandies, and the best description a host could give his wine was that it had not paid the king a penny. Even the south, blockaded by a close cordon of federal ships, found that many of its needed goods came in with the blockade runner. Create the demand and incentives and smuggling highly organized and effective will follow.

That has been the case in prohibition in the United States with great cities and great states resentful of the sumptuary law which has changed their habits and with great fortunes awaiting the bands which can supply the liquor. Wines, whisky, ales, and nearly every product of the European trade has come in through Canada, the French islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon, from Cuba, Mexico, and the British West Indies.

The American government has not been able to stop this, although it has negotiated treaties and employed a fleet of rum catchers to do so. That is the lesson we have learned.

We also have learned that what was possible in the southern mountains when the corn raisers did not want to pay a tax on a whisky product is possible in the crowded districts of almost any city or in the isolation of the countryside. The moonshiner and his still can work on the farm or in a shack off a city alley.

We discovered that violations would not be on the conscience of citizens, law abiding otherwise but not having the enthusiasm of the real prohibitionist. Possibly W. J. Bryan would walk out of a house if his hostess served cocktails he knew had their material from the bootleggers, but he wouldn't be in the house in the first place. It wasn't offended U. S. judges, the highest officials of government, or members of congress which passed the Volstead act.

A person would not go twice to the house of another person whose conduct had offended his code. He would not be twice a guest of people whose guests included a notorious swindler, a jailbird or a burglar. Nobody asks a host to swear on his honor that the liquor is pre-Volstead. No one cares. The bootlegger may just have delivered a case at the door or the host may have just brought it home from the office.

People who never touched alcoholic beverages before prohibition and who had active convictions that the whole use of such beverages must be done away with might be offended by this law violation, but no person who takes a drink cares in the least. It is difficult to see how a law could be enforced when the violators haven't a twinge of conscience in the matter.

In our former belief that prohibition would be enforced we also overlooked the fact that fermentation is the law of nature. Even the prohibition enforcement unit at Washington recognizes that fact now and the farmer's cider is officially exempt from the law. Whatever alcoholic content it gets it is a legal beverage on the farm so far as enforcement is concerned. The farmer's fruit juices are undisturbed.

Domestic wine making has produced a market and a price for California grapes they never had before and the growers of that state are entirely satisfied with prohibition, which they thought would ruin them.

Former Judge Landis said he never had sent a home brewer to jail, and he said that to prove that although he had given illicit dealers heavy sentences he had been reasonable when the individual in his home was concerned.

There probably never was such a cause of corruption in government service. The money involved in purveying illicit liquor to people who want it is enormous and the organized traffic can afford to buy immunity and even cooperation at prices which require an almost perfect character to resist.

These are some of the reasons for the failure of prohibition enforcement and they are fundamental. They are inherent in the character of the legislation and in the nature of the people who are supposed to be controlled by law.

Alcoholic beverages are available to almost any one who wants them either through the channels of organized trade or in home fermentation. There is no sense of responsibility or of conscience. Very fine citizens are entirely indifferent and enforcement has been generally futile in spite of sporadic seizures and punishments. These citizens are not moved by the excited exhortations of professional drys for the enforcement of the prohibition law, the less so as the same drys are persistent violators of many laws and various articles of the constitution.

The demoralization involved in such a situation is like fever in the veins of the body politic, a fever which, if it continues, will be deadly. It poisons the public processes of government, corrupts officials, corrupts citizenship.

ANGLO-AMERICAN RELATIONS.

The prince of Wales' grandfather was perhaps the greatest diplomat of his time. The world did not realize this or its significance until his achievement had become history, stupendous, earth-shaking history. Indeed it is hard now for us to realize that the monarch who seemed so naturally to inherit the title first gentleman of Europe, who passed in the casual view of mankind as not much more than a polished worldling, arbiter of fashion, lawgiver to the hatter and the tailor, was a skillful and potent agent of state policy. We read of his love of Paris and the French. No doubt it was real. We read of his pleasures and preferences and noted his taste in wear. But who suspected, outside of the inner councils of British affairs, that so amiable and debonair an appearance should be the pleasant masque of a purpose of world-wide moment.

But we know now that Edward VII. was working on the Anglo-French alliance when he seemed to be merely indulging propensities not unknown to other men and princes. To flatter French pride, to please what is deepest in the Parisian soul by an open and undoubtedly sincere appreciation of the most sophisticated of capitals, was good and not too obvious politics and did much to ameliorate the distrust and the irritation seemingly inherent in French relations with perfide Albion.

We may never know the whole contribution of the king to the development of the entente. Unquestionably it was greater than was suspected. Certainly his public visits to France and his well advertised liking for things French created an atmosphere in which it was easier to evolve an understanding than seemed compatible with the ancient if not inveterate rivalry and hostilities of the two peoples.

Well, there is now another prince of Wales, and the state of thrills into which his visit has put our proud metropolis and its social hinterland is rather suggestive. No community in the days when kings were kings could show a more worshipful emotion than has palpitated in the theoretically democratic bosom of Manhattan since the arrival of the engaging young heir of the imperial and royal house of Windsor. The windows are full of his pictures with a British flag on the one side and an American on the other. At the polo game, though formally he is only Baron Renfrew and barons are not accorded the honor, an enraptured reverence suggests the rising and uncovering of the audience upon his appearance. That any of our social leaders fainted under stress of high emotion, we have not heard, but the multimillionaire head of a great corporation met his royal highness at the gate of his estate on foot—which it has been reported is the proper way to signify one's fealty to a royal prince; while the wife of the Democratic candidate for the presidency makes pilgrimage from her political residence in West Virginia to pay homage. And for the commonalty who do not go to polo games and can only hope by dint of weary waiting and rare luck to catch a glimpse of celebrity in passing, there was the press, the Times, the World, the Tribune, and Mr. Hearst's impassioned champions of the people, all heralding the exalted visitation on the first page day after day, in column after column.

No wonder the nobility of England is now coming to us in battalions. Their reception in New York and Long Island must seem to them like a restoration. Where else will they find a feudal deference?

Far be it from us to hint that the polo match, so-called, and the coming of the prince, is more than a neighborly incident, quite innocent of political intent or official management. Yet the course of world events, there is no denying, suggests that a new orientation of British policy is occurring. Desirable as a good understanding with France was and still is, one with the United States is still more desirable. That has been more than hinted, but if the approach is to be made by way of the social subserviency of a class of our fellow citizens, though we must pay tribute to the cynical perception of British diplomacy, at the same time, as a sincere advocate of Anglo-American accord, we would whisper in Downing street that it can be overdone. Not in New York, Philadelphia, or Boston, but certainly in that region, dim in British consciousness, which since the days of Andrew Jackson has largely controlled the great movements of American policy and determined the great issues of American politics. There is sound reason in the conception of our Anglo-American accord, an understanding among the English speaking peoples. But we doubt it can be advanced by playing upon the flunkeyism of a class conspicuous but not really representative of the American nature; in fact, emphatically misrepresentative of it. Victories in that field are pyrrhic or worse. They are defeats.

The English speaking peoples have in common certain large interests and purposes, a certain broad community in modes of thought and feeling, in political ideas and institutions. Upon these an understanding can be and must be built and on these only.

GET OUT OF THE PHILIPPINES.

The Manila correspondent of THE TRIBUNE reports that another rumpus between the Philippine senate and Governor General Wood is impending. It seems Gen. Wood appointed Maj. Livingstone governor of Moro province at the request of the Moro chiefs and to avert an impending outbreak. Senators did not like the appointment. Probably Livingstone was both disinterested and efficient. The senate has notified the governor general they will confirm only appointments of Filipinos. Other points of friction exist. The old story.

What is the use of trying to impose good government on the Philippines, a thankless task which keeps an exposed flank thrust temptingly at our most probable enemy? The most articulate of the Filipinos do not want our good government. They want to misgovern themselves. For us the islands are a hostage to fortune, a promise of future trouble, a perpetual annoyance, a challenge to our doctrine that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

Perhaps the Filipinos are misrepresented by their representatives. That has happened elsewhere, but it is an affair between the Filipinos and their representatives. We have set up the representative system and are bound to respect it.

We ought to get out of the Philippines, since we are not willing to govern them nor to defend them, freely and fully. As we stand now, they are a nuisance and a danger.

LIBERALS AND NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Some persons oppose national defense on principle. Some oppose it because they desire to divert the nation's money, energy, or influence into new channels. Some oppose it by empty indifference.

To those who oppose it on principle it has two dangers: It gives strength to pick a quarrel with foreign countries and arouses competitive fears and armaments. It engenders, they think, a hard, illiberal mind in domestic politics and destroys democratic society. Behind these dangers is the pacifists' fear of force as an instrument of government.

Others oppose national defense because it is conservative. It will be used at home and abroad, they think, to defend what is rather than what should be. It ossifies a nation. It makes progress difficult. Others in this group have less generous motives. There are those who desire a weak defense in order to facilitate the enemies, foreign and domestic, of the American people.

Some persons and they are many and the most dangerous, oppose national defense by bland indifference to the entire problem. These are the mob when war comes that disgraces America with its ferocity and intolerance. These in peace give no help to defensive measures, not because they oppose, but because they do not care. In war they are unstable and dangerous.

The last group need not be mentioned further. It is subject to stimulation, not to argument. It will go the way the wind blows anyhow.

The second group is opposed to national defense in policy, not in principle. It is not a pacifist group in type. It is a group that wants something other than what is defended by our military forces. It includes a diverse membership, from aliens plotting for a foreign power, or revolutionary communists, to klansmen undermining the American Legion or the National Guard. It includes earnest men who fear that our defensive instruments will be seized by forces dangerous to American principles, and it includes traitors to this country in spirit and in deed. Members of this group, too, are subject to argument only on the special issue that determines their opposition to defense. Defense as a general principle need not be urged upon them. They probably are in favor of it.

The first group, the pacifists, has long been a peculiarly American phenomenon, rather dangerous in peace and usually harmless in war. They are persuaded that the use of force is the essence of illiberalism and evil. They believe that instruments of force, if present, lead to their use.

This force phobia in modern liberals is irrelevant. For force, though dangerous, to be sure, in the handling, has no real bearing on liberal principles.

If liberalism means anything, it means an order in which all men's lives have a maximum of free expression, and if force is necessary to create or to maintain that order against its enemies, force obviously must be used. On this principle of force allied to liberalism revolutionary America was created. And only on this principle can America be maintained.

The pacifist would destroy the bulwark of liberalism by which he is defended. He would break down his own strength to be liberal. Liberalism that looks beyond its immediate impulses cannot deny that force in the form of moderate military defense is its necessary concomitant.

The Other Side

BEING HAPPY IN KANSAS.

[Illinois State Register.]

After issuing an invitation to the population of Kansas to stand in the road and look up at the tall corn, the like of which it assures them they will not see again in a generation, the Emporia Gazette has something to say on the real inwardness of the problem of how to be happy in Kansas.

With the biggest crops and the biggest prices in years the Kansas farmer is yet far from the goal because:

The chickens can't afford to eat dollar corn. It takes a 10 cent hog to eat dollar corn and there are no 10 cent hogs. The 8 cent steer doesn't dare touch dollar corn, or his owner will go into bankruptcy. It would be better for the Kansas farmer to bring his steer and hog to the best hotel in the state and keep them there rather than to feed dollar corn at the present price of live stock. The horse can't eat dollar corn and compete with 15 cent gasoline. And if the folks in the house try to eat dollar corn they might better eat turkey and tropical fruit.

And yet the beneficent Fordney-McCumber tariff is working in Kansas just as it is all over this broad land, showering its blessings on the farmer.

The Republican spellbinders are going about over the land assuring the Kansas farmer that "God reigns and the administration at Washington still lives."

This thing of being happy in Kansas isn't such a simple proposition after all.

NOT RESPONSIBLE.

Bill looked so happy that Jack asked him what had happened.

"O," said Bill, "my wife's gone to the West Indies."

"Jamaica?"

"No, my boy, that's the best of it—it was quite her own idea."—London Tit-Bits.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY.

"You're the sheriff, ain't you?"

"I am," answered Cactus Joe.

"Then why don't you arrest that bootlegger?"

"He's no friend o' mine and I ain't goin' to advertise his business."—Washington Star.

AIN'T IT SO?

"Hit may be hard fo' a rich man to enter de Kingdom of Heaven," said Rastus to the preacher, "but it's just as hard fo' a po' man to stay on de earth."—New York American.

FIGHTING MOSQUITOES.

MRS. F. E. writes: Will you tell me how to get rid of the mosquito pest? They are so bad in our section that I have to swat them for hours each night before retiring, and then they bite me and two little girl babies all night long. They are so numerous that my husband, who is ill, cannot live at home. My house is screened well, but they manage to get in somehow.

REPLY.

We are getting many letters similar to yours. In several sections of the country there was an excessive rainfall at times during the summer. These rains were so spaced that small pools of water which ordinarily dry up in hot weather remained as mosquito breeding places. Fortunately the repeated summer rains prevailed in no malarial regions. In most of the malarial sections the summer was a relatively dry one and mosquitoes are not especially bad. Therefore there should not be a heavy malaria rate this year.

Your problem is one of comfort. Look for mosquito breeding places inside your house. Mosquitoes breed in cups of water, water pitchers in the company room, ant cans on the legs of tables and cupboards, and sometimes in toilet tanks. Look for mosquito breeding places in the yard near the house. Mosquitoes breed in chicken yards, water troughs, fountains, and many similar places. Mosquitoes generally breed near where they bite. Mosquito pastures and mosquito breeding grounds are generally within 100 feet of each other. If you find wiggletails or any other evidence of mosquito breeding in cans or other containers, pour out the water or treat it with kerosene or with an arsenic larvicide.

Go over your screens. Stop up the mosquito holes. Keep the screens down and the doors closed. Sleep under mosquito bar.

Use the following repellents frequently and freely:

Oil of citronella, 1 ounce.
Spirits of camphor, 1 ounce.
Oil of cedar, ½ ounce.

Before the children go to sleep tie some gum camphor around their wrists and foreheads. Make wristbands and forehead bands with pockets for camphor in them.

Catch the mosquitoes under the bar and on the ceilings and screens each morning. Fasten a can to a stick; fill the can with kerosene. If this is held just below a mosquito as it clings to the ceiling the kerosene fumes will overcome the mosquito and the insect will drop into the oil. Get rid of mosquitoes in a house by burning pyrethrum powder. Use the genuine article. The insects that have inhaled this smoke fall to the floor benumbed. Sweep them up and burn them. Go over the screens daily with kerosene.

BACILLUS BOTULINUS.

J. A. R. writes:

1. What is bacillus botulinus?
2. Where found and what produces them?
3. What treatment is given for their poisonous effects?

REPLY:

1. Bacillus botulinus is a bacillus which causes spoiling of canned and bottled goods. The toxin secreted by this bacillus is a slow but very powerful poison. One can eat the bacillus itself with impunity, but where one eats the toxin he may pay the penalty with his life.

In food poisoning due to the ordinary bacteria of food poisoning symptoms come on rather quickly. They are: nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, fever and pain. In botulinus poisoning symptoms do not come on until 12 to 48 hours after the meal. They are: weakness, prostration, paralysis, rapid pulse, fast breathing.

Food containing the toxin in fatal doses may not be altered in taste, odor or appearance. However, the appearance of the can, or of the food, or its taste or odor usually gives warning.

2. This bacillus is found in the soil. It gets into food from that source. Great cleanliness and the rejection of all spoiled or uncleaned food before canning will protect against much of the danger.

3. An antitoxin is sometimes available. As a rule, the treatment is symptomatic.

PAVING ASSESSMENT REFUND.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Friend of the People.]—Why has no rebate been paid on the paving of the alley and street of the 4400 block of North Racine avenue? G. T.

Rebates are being paid on Warrant No. 40821, for paving Racine avenue between Montrose avenue and Broadway.

On Warrant No. 40548 there is still some of the assessment uncollected, the tax buyers refusing to buy at the tax sales.

If the writer will bring in the special assessment receipts on the other improvements mentioned, we will be pleased to give all the information possible.

F. D. GLESSON,
Chief Accountant, Board of Local Improvements.

PAVING PROJECT ABANDONED.

Chicago, Sept. 13. — [To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Are any plans afoot to pave the alley between Newport and Roscoe, Racine and Herndon streets? The alley is bad, and the property owners can well afford to stand for the paving. E. G. M.

We held a public hearing April 25, 1924, on the proposed paving of the alley in the block between Newport avenue, Roscoe street, Racine, and Herndon avenues. At that time the improvement was abandoned, but we have ordered another public hearing, and the property owners will be notified of the date set for the hearing. We hope to pave the alley next year. It would be impossible to confirm the assessment in time to make the improvement this year.

EDWARD J. GLACKIN,
Secretary Board of Local Improvements.

OLD ENOUGH TO VOTE.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a young man reaches the age of 21 on Nov. 1, will he be allowed to register for the November election? W. G. M.

Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 21, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of War Stanton announced that on the 19th Gen. Sheridan attacked the rebel forces under Gens. Breckinridge and Early at Bunker Hill, in the Shenandoah valley, fought a hard battle lasting all day and won a brilliant victory. The enemy were driven twelve miles and 2,500 prisoners were taken. Gens. Rhodes and Gordon of the rebel forces were killed. Nine stands of colors and five pieces of artillery were captured. All the rebel killed and wounded were left in Union hands. The Union loss is about 2,000, including Gen. D. A. Russell, commanding a division of the Fifth corps, who was killed by a cannon ball. Gens. Upton, McIntosh, and Chapman of the Union command were wounded. In a dispatch Gen. Sheridan says: "I desire to mention the gallant conduct of Gens. Wright, Crook, Emery, and Torbett and the officers and men under their command. To them the country is indebted for this handsome victory."

WASHINGTON.—The President has appointed Gen. Sheridan a brigadier in the regular army and assigned him to the prominent command of the middle military division. Gen. Grant has ordered the army under his command to fire a salute of 100 guns at 7 o'clock in the morning in honor of Sheridan's great victory.

MACON [from a Richmond paper].—A train loaded with federal prisoners ran off the track at Camp creek on the Southern railroad. A large number of the Yankees were killed and wounded.

BUFFALO.—A band of rebels from Canada captured the steamers Parsons and Island Queen at Bass island, Lake Erie. The Island Queen was sunk and the Parsons abandoned at Sandwich, C. W. At Sandusky a Mr. Cole, an officer in the rebel army, was arrested as leader of a plot to capture the steamer Michigan and release rebel prisoners on Johnson's island. Cole confessed and implicated six prominent citizens of Sandusky who were also arrested and taken to the island.

CHICAGO.—John Cragie and Miss Amelia Karse were married by the Rev. W. C. Jackson.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 21, 1899.

LONDON.—President Kruger of the South African Republic is reported to have cabled a long message to Queen Victoria, urging her to intervene to prevent bloodshed. In the meantime preparations for war continue at high pressure. The Boers, while awaiting the British reply, are arming diligently.

NEW YORK.—The G. A. R. announced a refusal to march in the Dewey day parade. This is final unless plans are changed. The veterans object to occupying a position at the rear of the line.

CHICAGO.—Police and the Volunteers of America clashed and Capt. Hattie Hopkins, who was conducting a meeting at State and Adams street, was arrested. Complaints had been made of the noise created by the Volunteers in their religious meetings.

CHICAGO.—Frederick J. Filbert, cashier of the C. H. Patten bank of Palatine, was attacked with a hammer and probably fatally injured by William Lawton, who labored under the hallucination that Filbert stole his wife. Lawton, who was captured after a desperate struggle in the bank, was shot through the abdomen and is not expected to live. He admitted he may have assaulted the wrong man.

PARIS.—For the first time in four years France is at peace over the Dreyfus case. The signing of Dreyfus' pardon by President Loubet brought relief to the conscience of the country as well as that of the whole world. In a signed statement Dreyfus said: "Liberty is nothing to me without honor. From today I shall continue to seek reparation for the frightful judicial error of which I remain the victim."

WASHINGTON.—Details of President McKinley's western trip were given out. He will reach Peoria on Oct. 5 and spend one day there. From there he will go to Quincy, and thence to Galesburg, reaching Chicago on Oct. 7, where he will participate in the Fall Festival program, if the labor trouble is settled and the exercises are carried out.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 21, 1914.

LONDON—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily News wires that reports have reached Stockholm that the Baltic sea battle expected some days ago has occurred. It is reported that a number of Russian warships in damaged condition have arrived at Helsingfors. "A great number of wounded were landed and taken to a hospital," the dispatch says.

LONDON.—The seventh day of the great battle of the Aisne has ended with the Germans and allies entrenched in practically the same positions they have held for the last two days. The Paris report says: "On our left wing below Soissons our troops were furiously counter-attacked by superior forces and yielded some ground, which, however, they regained almost immediately."

BERLIN.—An official statement says: "Reims was in the battle line of the French and the Germans were obliged to bombard it. We regret the necessity but the fire of the French came from that direction. Orders have been issued to save the cathedral."

LONDON.—Ward Price, the Daily Mail's correspondent writes concerning the destruction of the Reims cathedral: "A German battery four miles to the eastward made the cathedral a mark. Shell after shell smashed into the old masonry and avalanche after avalanche of stonework that had survived the storms of centuries and was good to stand as many more thundered down into the deserted streets." He then described how the cathedral caught fire and "soon the roof, nave, and transepts were a roaring furnace."

ABOLISH THE HORSE.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Now that we have rerouted the cars and it is to be hoped eliminated some of the congestion of the downtown streets, and while we are still making every effort to provide further streets and boulevards, would it not be well to turn our attention to one of the most annoying means of obstructing the traffic that exists?

I refer now to the horse drawn vehicles that still frequent our downtown streets during all hours of the day in nearly all of the streets, and, in every case, retard, obstruct, and interfere with the traffic.

Why do we continue to permit the teaming owners who carry merchandise in large trucks with heavy teams to frequent our streets and interfere with the traffic, destroy the streets with their heavy tires and otherwise make themselves objectionable?

1. The horse drawn vehicle occupies from 30 per cent to 50 per cent more space on the streets, whether standing still or moving, as against the motor vehicles.

2. It moves only one-fourth as fast as the motor vehicle and inasmuch as most of our traffic runs in lines, a horse drawn vehicle will hold up lines that are blocks in length, and inasmuch as this line can go no faster than its slowest vehicle, the whole line must suffer.

3. The horse drawn vehicle furnishes 50 per cent of the filth and sweepings of our streets.

4. The horse drawn vehicle with its iron tires cut up the pavement more than five times as much as the rubber tired vehicles.

These reasons should be sufficient to warrant the city government in taking steps to compel all of these large teaming contractors who are using our streets for their profit to carry on their business with modern implements.

C. E. KREMER.

WELL, HERE'S OLD HEREDITY ENVIRONMENT AGAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Your editorial, "Explanations That Don't Explain," is a model of perspicacity and penetration. It is an apt illustration of the fallacy of the assumption that environment plays the major part in human conduct. No! Heredity has asserted itself more potent by far in countless cases! Through the aeons of time, while the Labyrinthodon, Tyrannosaur, Dog-Toothed Cynodont, and Diplodocus were preparing the way for the advent of the Mammalia (of which man is the apex) qualities were developed which are today a part of human nature. The callous, insensate acts of low brow criminals are a "throwback" to the stupid Triceratops. The crimes of intellectual "supermen" are suggestive of the more agile and brainy Pterodactyl or "dying dragon"—a winged reptile of the Mesozoic age. It matters little that several generations of well behaved, honest people may have preceded an individual guilty of heinous crimes. Somewhere adown the invisible trail leading to similar forebears, back through the mammals and into the reptiles, an ataviastic tendency has leaped the gap of the ages, and the result is the world famous murder case of 1924! JACK MELONE.

LEAVE IT SOUTH WATER STREET.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—It is with great pleasure I read your editorials of Aug. 9 and Sept. 4, on reconsidering the order of the city council in changing the name, South Water street to Wacker drive.

Old historic names of our streets should not be changed and above all South Water street, as without a doubt it was our first street as the pictures of early Chicago show houses along what is now South Water street.

The name itself fits into the plan of the original town of Chicago. When you take away South Water, you destroy the rest of the scheme.

I hope you will keep up the good work of saving Chicago's historic names. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE did valiant work for me in 1913 when duplicate names of our streets were changed. At that time plans were suggested to change many of Chicago's old historic street names, and mainly then with the splendid help of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE the old names were left undisturbed.

I have three volumes of scrapbooks on Chicago street nomenclature and would gladly lend any of them if they would be of help in your efforts to retain South Water street's old name.

E. P. BRENNAN.

THE SUPREME COURT VS. THE CONSTITUTION.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Kindly permit me to answer your editorial charges against Senator La Follette with reference to the latter's stand on the constitution. The editor of THE TRIBUNE has at various times made the statement that Senator La Follette is in favor of destruction of the constitution by eliminating the authority of the Supreme court and allowing congress to make a law constitutional by giving it sufficient majority. (In editorial of Aug. 15.)

I will challenge the editor to specifically point out to me just where in the constitution of the United States the Supreme court is empowered to declare acts of congress unconstitutional. As a matter of fact, the Supreme court has violated the constitution by a usurpation of power which was never given to it by the fathers of the constitution.

Abraham Lincoln, in his first inaugural address, said: "The candid citizen must confess that if the policy of the government, upon vital questions affecting the whole people, is to be irrevocably fixed by decisions of the Supreme court, the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal."

Chief Justice Clark of the North Carolina Supreme court in an address before the University of Pennsylvania said: "The action of the Supreme court in assuming the power to declare acts of congress unconstitutional was without a line in the constitution to authorize it, either expressly or by implication." Congressional record June 15, 1908, page 8,065.

Other eminent legal authorities are in abundance to sustain this position, paradoxical as it may seem to the editor of THE TRIBUNE. L. M. MOSS.

A WET SPEAKS UP.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—3 years ago the people of the state of Illinois was called to the polls to express his opinion if the Prohibition law must stay or to be revised and the people of the State of Illinois had declared 4-1 for the revision of the volstead law and the manufacture of light wines and beer but unportunately since that time it seems the competents they turn deaf ear to the expressions and voice of the people is the people of the united states ruling by a group of a men rule all the rest those lives have been. Writed by a world war veteran who fought for the individual rights and liberty. A WORLD WAR VETERAN.

GRAPEFRUIT EDITORIALS.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—I thank you for your editorial this morning on the hyphenated newspaper, mentioning the New York Times. I appreciated also very much your editorial recently dealing with the degeneration of the New York World. Such articles are very good to an American at breakfast when grapefruit is out of season. T. J. NORTON.

Press Agent: "What's the use of my telling these people you're willing to recommend their face cream? You've recommended every face cream on the market!"

BUTLER ACCUSES LA FOLLETTE JR. OF MISSTATING

Without actually charging misrepresentation, William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, accused Robert La Follette Jr. yesterday of making "many misleading statements."

"Seldom," read his statement, "have so many misleading statements been put before the American people in so few words as in the statement of Robert La Follette Jr. on the subject of railway rates.

Quotes His Statement.

"He says: 'Canada has found a cure. Between 1921 and 1924 she reduced agricultural freight rates to prewar levels. And yet, paying substantially the same wage scales to the members of the same railway unions, the Canadian national railways, owned by the Canadian government, has changed a deficit of $37,000,000 in 1921, when the system was taken over under Sir Henry Thornton's management, to a surplus of more than $20,000,000 in 1923."

"There are half a dozen misstatements in this single paragraph. In 1921 the deficit of the Canadian National railways, including interest, taxes, and maintenance, was $56,989,000, instead of $37,000,000. Sir Henry Thornton did not assume management until October, 1922. In 1923 the total deficit, as shown by Sir Henry's annual report to the Canadian government, was $51,697,000, including interest, taxes, and maintenance, instead of a surplus of $20,000,000, as purported by Mr. La Follette.

Earned No Surplus.

"In no year since the Canadian government commenced operation of the railroads have they had a surplus. The deficit has been carried by taxes upon the people. The Canadian railways have not reduced the average of their freight rates to a prewar basis. The average of all rates per ton mile war 7.58 mills in 1913. Their average rates on the Canadian National in 1923 were 9.8, or 30 per cent above prewar.

"It is true they did reduce rates further on agricultural products, but if the deficits of the Canadian National system were spread over their traffic their rates would be higher than the American rates today. In other words, the taxpayers of Canada are paying for the reduction of Canadian rates. If American railways were nationalized and the same reductions were imposed on them as on the Canadian railways we should, in the same ratio, call for about $600,000,000 from the taxpayers."

Hylan "Sulks in Tent" as Al Agrees to Run

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—With the nomination of Gov. Smith by the Democratic state convention in Syracuse this week assured, Mayor Hylan, who has denounced the governor and threatened to fight him for the nomination said today that he was not a candidate for governor and would not even go to the convention.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE VERDICT.

Justifiable homicide was the verdict of the coroner's jury which yesterday investigated the death of Sam Dallock, colored, 3515 Indiana avenue, who was killed Thursday by Milton La Croix, 4402 Vincennes avenue. Testimony showed he killed Dallock in self-defense.

NATURE BOOSTS PRICE OF WHEAT; IGNORES POLITICS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There seldom has been a presidential election year when there has been so much wild talk about the action of the grain markets being influenced to affect the interest of one or other of the major political parties.

Not only have the grain trade and the United States department of agriculture, through its grain futures administration, been unable to find the slightest trace of political market rigging, but the actual prices for the various delivery months show such charges to be false.

At the close on Saturday, wheat for delivery at Chicago in the month of July, 1925, eight months after the presidential election, was quoted at $1.28 a bushel, or ½c a bushel better than was paid for wheat for delivery during the month of September, which represents the 1924 crop.

Refutes Political Plot Charges.

The fact that wheat for delivery eight to nine months after the presidential election is selling for more money than was obtained for the present crop reflects the anxiety of the speculative grain trade of the entire world over the present world's supply and demand situation.

Speculators foresaw the possibility of a close adjustment of world's supplies to requirements some months ago and started to buy freely. Latest estimates on the probable surplus of world's exporting countries showed a total of 792,000,000 bushels available, or only 8,000,000 bushels in excess of the quantities estimated to be needed by importing countries. That the speculator was right and the politicians wrong would seem to be confirmed by the estimates that importing countries of the world in the last two months have bought about 100,000,000 bushels of wheat from the United States for shipment forthwith or for deferred delivery, or nearly 50 per cent of the quantity that this country has to spare.

Farmers are thankful for natural conditions giving them higher prices for wheat and all grains than were obtained last year. At present they are getting about 25 cents a bushel more for their wheat, 25 to 30 cents more for corn, and about 8 to 10 cents a bushel advance for their oats over last year. As a majority of farmers have needed money, they have sold grains more freely than usual, and are responsible for reactions of 5 to 10 cents from the highest prices of the season.

Reopening of Divorce Case Sought by Evelyn Nesbit

New York, Sept. 20.—Evelyn Nesbit today obtained an order signed by Justice Aaron J. Levy, in the Supreme court, which may lead to the reopening of her case against "Jack" Clifford. In her application for a rehearing Miss Nesbit says that on account of the proceedings in Pennsylvania which resulted in the freeing of Thaw from an insane asylum, she was unable to appear in New York to defend Clifford's action. As a result her counter claim was dismissed and Clifford was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce last June.

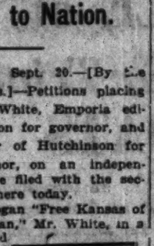
WHITE NAMED TO HEAD ANTI-KLAN TICKET IN KANSAS

Editor Brands Kluxers Menace to Nation.

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Petitions placing William Allen White, Emporia editor, in nomination for governor, and Carr W. Taylor of Hutchinson for lieutenant-governor, on an independent ticket, were filed with the secretary of state here today.

Making his slogan "Free Kansas of the Ku Klux Klan," Mr. White, in a statement issued in connection with the filing, declared: "I am in the race to stay and to win."



WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE.

"The issue in Kansas this year is the klan above everything," he asserted.

He attacked then S. Paulen and Jonathan M. Davis, the Republican and Democratic gubernatorial nominees, charging that the two major parties in the state are "led in the race for governor by men who had klan support in the primary and who will not disavow that support today."

"The Ku Klux Klan is found in nearly every county," the statement said. "It represents a small minority of the citizens up and it is organized for purpose of terror. The terror is directed at honest, law-abiding citizens, negroes, Jews and Catholics.

All Good Citizens.

"These groups in Kansas compose more than one-fourth of our population. They are entitled to their constitutional rights; their rights to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. They menace no one. They are good citizens, law-abiding, God-fearing, prosperous, patriotic. Yet the Ku Klux Klan is subjecting them to economic boycott, to social ostracism, to every form of harassment, annoyance, and every terror that a bigoted minority can use.

Calls Paulen Klan Defender.

"And the leaders of two major parties in this state lift no hand to defend these people. Ben Paulen, the Republican candidate for governor, accepted the Ku Klux Klan indorsement in the primary and owes his small plurality to Ku Klux voters.

"The Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Jonathan M. Davis, never before the primary or since, has uttered one syllable which would offend the most ardent Klansman. He had the Klan indorsement in the primary. His party threw it over, but Davis has not disclaimed it.

Would Rid Kansas of Hood.

"I want to be governor to free Kansas from the disgrace of the Ku Klux Klan. And I want to offer Kansans afraid of the klan and ashamed of that disgrace a candidate who shares their fear and shame. So I am in the race to stay and to win.

"Kansas should be free of this taint of bigotry and terror. It is a nation-wide menace, this klan. It knows no party. It knows no country. It knows only bigotry, malice and terror."

RED CROSS DELEGATES AT NATIONAL MEET TO HEAR COOLIDGE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—President Coolidge will be the principal speaker at the opening of the four day national convention of the American Red Cross here Monday, Oct. 6. From 800 to 1,000 delegates will attend.

Speakers at the general sessions include Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the national Red Cross; Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States veterans' bureau; Col. D. H. Pond of Cleveland, O.; Miss Alice Fitzgerald, former director of nursing service of the League of Red Cross Societies; Señor Dr. Don Rafael H Elizade, minister from Ecuador; Mrs. August Belmont, Albert L. Murray of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Dr. Charles P. Emerson, dean of the school of medicine of Indiana university.

A feature of the convention will be a pageant epitomizing the contribution of the Red Cross to public education, in which 100 or more children will take part.

JUDGE TELLS OF BIG BROTHERS' HELP TO BOYS

Judge Timothy D. Hurley, chairman of the Big Brotherhood committee in the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society of Chicago, gives the following facts in connection with the work of the society committee.

Up to Dec. 31, 1923, the society has cared for 27,699 boys who have appeared in the Boys' court. The laymen assigned to each case have investigated the boy's environment and home life previous to his appearance in court. In many cases, poverty, sickness and distress in the home were found to be responsible for his presence in court. Many boys were out of work, and during the year 1923, 589 positions were found for these boys.

Winning back the boy to self-respect, independence and manhood is regarded in the work, as far more valuable than supplying his temporal and physical needs.

TEACHER NABS PLUNGER AFTER HE JUMPS BOND

A week ago tonight Miss Mary Handley, a school teacher living at 2145 Sedgwick street, planked down $1,000 as bond for James F. Wynne, a neighbor who had just been arrested on a confidence game charge. He failed to appear in court next day and his bond was forfeited.

A fresh warrant was issued, and Sergts. Cassin and Melican set out to find Wynne. But Miss Handley found him first.

JAMES F. WYNNE.

Spying him at Lincoln avenue and Center street yesterday, she followed him until he entered a store. Then she rushed to a telephone and called the police.

"Yes, I played the stock market and lost," Wynne admitted in his cell last night. He claims to be president of the Century Electric Appliance company. One of the complainants against him is Miss Lillian Krunharr, who is taking care of his 5 year old daughter. She charges Wynne with swindling her out of $5,000 and taking $1,500 from her brother. It was Miss Krunharr that, posing as his wife, induced Miss Handley to go on his bond.

EDWARD INSLEY, NEWSPAPER MAN, DIES OUT WEST

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Edward Insley, 53, assistant managing editor of the Los Angeles Examiner and former night editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, died early this morning at the Covina, Cal., hospital, following some months of illness.

Mr. Insley was born in Terre Haute, Ind., and joined THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE when 19. Later he went to the New York Herald and rose to the front ranks of foreign correspondents of that day. His description of the coronation of King Edward VII. was considered a newspaper classic.

After coming to Los Angeles twenty years ago, he became identified with the Examiner and later became part owner and news editor of the Sacramento Union. The widow and three children, as well as a brother, Harry Insley of Indianapolis, survive.

Why "Hursen" Funerals Lead

Hursen's 3 "funeral-homes" in Chicago make up the largest and most remarkable institution of its kind in America.

Hursen has built up this business giant on truth in advertising. Often, stabbing with his trenchant pen, he let daylight through the ribs of the old "combine."

He firmly established his independence. He did it alone. He won, because he told the truth. There was no shadow-boxing. He did not fight an imaginary foe, nor imaginary evils, and set himself up as a crusader. He did not imitate. He originated. He engaged in no libel. He mentioned no names. His advertising was clean.

Clean, true advertising reflects the man behind. Wherever Hursen attacked and criticized he was ready with the remedy.

His remedy was lower prices than ever before, higher quality, no graft, an unheard-of personal service brought to unexcelled perfection, elegant and peaceful surroundings, big space, quietness, no gloominess, employes of worth and refinement, and automobile equipment that has no equal in America.

The most elegant funerals in Chicago are "by Hursen," Chicago's independent funeral director.

Call Hursen, of course!

PRUSSIANS MAY SEIZE LANDS OF FORMER KAISER

Action to Answer Demand for $1,250,000 Yearly

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The confiscation of the estates of former Kaiser William, former Crown Prince Frederick William, and thirty-eight other Hohenzollern princes is planned by the Prussian diet as its answer to the former kaiser's demand for a $1,250,000 annual payment as his share of the receipts from the Hohenzollern properties throughout Germany.

A resolution has been prepared by the coalition middle parties for the purpose of rectifying the error of omission during the days of the revolution, when an agreement favorable to William was made because Herren Ebert and Scheidemann declared the Socialists must show the world that they held private property rights sacred.

Communists Aid Kaiserists.

The Prussian diet's confiscation of the Hohenzollern estates, however, will be followed by a new deal with the kaiser group whereby the government will be in the position of doing them a kindness instead of being in its present position where it is in danger of losing a lawsuit whereby the kaiserists hope to regain $50,000,000 worth of property—namely: 500,000 acres of land, palaces, estates, porcelain works, and real estate.

The Nationalist members of the diet are protesting against the resolution and are fighting to help the former kaiser get everything. The German communists, despite their being only the catspaws and mouthpieces of Moscow, in this case are supporting the kaiserists and oppose the confiscation of the property. The Catholic party is divided, many members favoring giving the former kaiser considerable property because he was friendly to the church despite being the head of the state church, which was Protestant.

Since Germany went on a gold basis the Hohenzollern possessions rank among the first five in value in Germany, being estimated as worth $50,000,000. In addition, the Hohenzollerns hold land worth $50,000,000. The government does not regard any of this as private property.

Claims Many Paintings.

Among other disputed questions is the ownership of the Friederich museum, containing many Rubens, Hals, four of Raphael's Madonnas, Botticellis, and Van Dykes, and twelve Rembrants, altogether some $10,000,000 worth. The Hohenzollerns claim the best part of the museum contents were purchased with funds which the Hohenzollerns control.

As a result of the dispute the government has produced the will of Frederick the Great, giving everything to the state. Despite this the Hohenzollerns claim everything.

OPERA COUPONS ON SALE TODAY; SAVE 5 PER CENT

Coupon books for the forthcoming grand opera season will be on sale at the Auditorium theater today. Purchasers of these books, which sell for $36.35 and $63, save 5 per cent over the box office patron and have first chance to get seats.

The coupons, it was explained, are exchangeable for tickets at any time. Holders will be given advance information about future performances.

The coupon books are distinct from the season tickets, which secure the same seat for a certain night each week during the opera season. These tickets sell at prices ranging from $10 to $60 for eleven performances. They save the purchaser 10 per cent.

FIRE IN BEAUTY BUILDING.

A small blaze in a chute in the Beaute building across Thursday caused alarm, but was extinguished by the fire department with small loss.

Bolsheviks Raid Roumania; Report 300 Casualties

BUCHAREST, Sept. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Recent bolshevik raids across the Dniester frontier resulted in 300 casualties, according to unofficial reports which indicate today that the raids were of more serious proportions than previously reported by the Roumanian government. It is stated that the government is strengthening its military forces in Bessarabia in anticipation of further attacks.

Gasoline of Better Grade than Year Ago, U. S. Says

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The tenth semi-annual motor gasoline survey, just completed by the department of the interior in Chicago and other cities, indicates that a better grade of gasoline is now being marketed than was offered for sale during the same season a year ago.

Radium Is Restoring Health to Thousands

The wonderful curative power of Radium has been known for years. However, the benefits of this precious healthgiving substance have in the past been only within the means of persons of wealth.

Since the invention of Dergen's Radio-Active Solar Pad, any man or woman, poor or rich, can afford this treatment which offers so much relief from sufferings and disease.

Dergen's Radio-Active Solar Pad is worn next to the body day and night. It pours a constant stream of radio-active energy into the system while you work, play or sleep, helping to build up wasted nerves and tissues to a strong, healthy condition. It creates a vigorous circulation of blood, thus removing congestion, which is the real cause of most diseases.

To prove just what this remarkable treatment can do for you, we will send our appliance on trial with the understanding that we will not charge you a cent if it fails to give satisfactory results. This offer is open to any person who has pain of any kind, nerve weakness, high blood pressure, stomach, kidney or liver complaints, bladder trouble, or disease of the lungs or heart.

No matter what your ailment or how long you have had it, we will gladly let you try the appliance at our risk. Write today for free literature giving complete information. Radium Appliance Co., 1490 Brodbury Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

OIL BURNER PROBLEM

How the discovery of the four laws of oil burning upset old theories and brought about an oil burner that five years' experience proves to be the final solution

THERE can be only one right way to use oil as fuel. All other ways must be partly wrong. One fact explains why we are the largest producers of automatic oil burners in the world:

We began with oil—not a machine

We did not start building an oil burner and then hope that it would work.

We began with oil—not with a machine. Anyone can pump oil through a pipe. Few seem to be able to make it burn without difficulty.

Strange to say, no one had ever formulated the laws of oil burning in the home. That was our first job.

Exclusive Safety Thermal Control
This simple device stops the whole plant unless everything is working 100%.

Nearly six years ago we discovered four new things about oil. Simple facts but simply unknown.

Oil-O-Matic never was an experiment

Fuel oil, we found, must be changed into a sort of mist to burn without waste. Vaporizing was entirely wrong. This meant a simpler burner. We needed no plates, pots or chamber inside the firebox.

Then it was proved that this oil mist must be completely burned before it strikes any surface. In suspension, in other words. So of course, no part of the burner should be inside the firebox.

Using firebrick to reflect back heat, made combustion more complete than had ever before been accomplished. This fact is still being strangely overlooked by many.

We proved that for best results, the amount of air drawn in must be measured. It could not be left to chance and dampers.

With these facts before us, we designed our burner. It cost us $250,000.

Oil-O-Matic never was an experiment. It was only experimental before it was built.

From the first day five years ago, it has worked perfectly. The only changes possible are in appearance. Its principles can never change. They are based on natural laws.

It is clear that Oil-O-Matic cannot be classed with any other device that burns oil. You may ask any one of 10,000 owners. The answer will be the same. Oil-O-Matic is the final solution. So it will interest you to see it working.

Everything works 100% or nothing can work!

There's no pilot light. That's a big advantage. Both in economy and in safety. There's no part inside the firebox. There's nothing to burn out. Nothing to replace.

Expensive, volatile kerosene and distillates are no longer necessary. Cheaper fuel oil gives more heat. With Oil-O-Matic it burns without carbon or soot.

But most interesting of all, it has the original Williams Safety Thermal Control. It watches over the entire plant. If you run out of oil, this wonderfully simple device warns you by shutting off the Oil-O-Matic. In fact, it lets nothing work unless everything is working perfectly. Not a drop of oil can flow. Ignition is shut off. The motor stops. Naturally it does away with the open pan that catches liquid oil to shut off the flow of oil.

Burns Cheap Fuel Oil
Williams Automatic Metering Pump makes it possible to change from one grade of fuel oil to another without making any adjustment.

Listed as standard by Underwriters' Laboratories

Many users will tell you that Oil-O-Matic saves them from 10 to 30% over hard coal. Others wouldn't give theirs up if it cost twice as much as coal. You too, will find this to be true.

Home of W. O. Urban, Peoria, Ill. Oil-O-Matic Heated

"I have kept my house warm, a more even temperature, have had no odor or fumes from the furnace, no smoke from the chimney. There is not one particle of soot in my furnace. I wouldn't give up my Oil-O-Matic for any amount of money if I could not buy another one."

Before You Build Get These Facts

Your new home may require a smaller and more economical heating plant with Oil-O-Matic. Our Service Department will advise you without charge.

Your heating plant may be placed in a more advantageous location.

You can save money by having a smaller basement excavation.

By eliminating the coal bin and larger furnace room you can plan better use of your basement. Many now have bright, airy playrooms, gymnasiums, stag rooms, billiard rooms, maids' rooms, better laundries, etc., in place of the old-fashioned dark basement.

Our new illustrated book on modern heating covers the subject of new homes and has valuable architectural plans for ideal, practical basements. This book may save you hundreds of dollars. Tear out coupon at top of page.

For Buildings of Any Size

No house is too large for Oil-O-Matic. Few are too small. The same burner is used in all installations. Homes take a slow motor. Large buildings use a slightly faster motor and more burners.

Oil-O-Matics have been serving perfectly for five years in Homes, Apartment Buildings, Churches, Bank and Office Buildings, Hotels, Y. M. C. A.s, Schools, Theatres, Hospitals, Stores, Factories, Newspaper Plants, Greenhouses, Garages, etc. Whatever your heating requirements, Oil-O-Matic will meet them.

This modern oil burner is entirely automatic. It requires no attention. The thermostat relieves you of everything but keeping the tank full. Your oil dealer will take care of that for you. Oil-O-Matic is clean, quiet, odorless and safe beyond question.

Sold on easy terms

If your present heating plant is in good order, you may have an Oil-O-Matic installed—provided you do not wait too long. There is plenty of time for investigation. But no time for delay in getting all the facts. Production this year is practically sold up now.

The largest group of oil burner men in the country have the Oil-O-Matic on display in attractive showrooms. These dealers are all trained men, most of them graduates of the Williams Institute of Heat Research. They have the experience, organization, facilities and financial responsibility to assure perfect installations and service.

The one in your community (see list) will demonstrate it and give you an estimate of the cost of installation in your heating plant. Of course he guarantees it.

You can pay for it while you use it if you wish, under our new payment plan that carries the notes without interest.

THE TIVOLI THEATRE
MICHIGAN CITY, IND.

Nov. 16, 1923.

Gentlemen:

It is nearly a year since Oil-O-Matics were installed in our theatre. We have used them continuously with 100% satisfaction.

Oil-O-Matic does not require the service of a fireman to look after it, which means one less man on our payroll. It is very clean, as we have no soot or dirt of any kind. We find that your burners heat our building much quicker and more efficiently than coal. Your automatic control system works like a clock.

You are at liberty at any time to bring down prospective customers and show them our heating plant, as we are very proud of it.

ABE WALLERSTEIN, Mgr.

VIENNA FORMS CLINIC TO HELP "SICK RELIGION"

Experts Seek "Cures" to Put Churches on Feet.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 20.—This famous home of medical and psychological clinics has added another to its long list of unusual but very earnestly undertaken organizations for the study of bodily, mental, and social ills. The town which produced Freud, master healer of sex eccentricities; Steinach, who restores youth, and countless healers now is attempting to heal sick churches. The organization, which might well be called a clinic for religion, has been founded by leading thinkers here.

The International Society for the Study of Religious Psychology is the name of the organization. At its head is Dr. Karl Beth, who lectured a year ago at the University of Chicago. Its board of directors includes Prof. Dr. Erwin Stansky, famous psychiatrist; Prosecuting Attorney Dr. Otto Nahrhaft as vice president; Dr. Paul Schilder, leading disciple of Freud; Dr. Pieta, head of Vienna's highest court of justice; Heinrich York Steiner, a writer; Dr. Mona Adolf, famous woman chemist of Vienna university, and others as eminent.

Probe Ills of Religion.

The purpose of this organization is to probe the ills of modern religion throughout the world. It has already made an appeal to the American Federation of Churches. It wants to put itself in the same relation with churches as a physician stands with a patient.

"We are not founding a new religious organization," Dr. Beth said. "But we are studying the existing ones. Religion throughout the world is ill. It needs a doctor, but no doctor exists skilled in the diagnosis of such troubles.

Hope to Aid U. S. Churches.

"We hope through our organization to place ourselves in a position to diagnose afflictions and prescribe remedies. Our appeal is international; our studies will embrace every line of religious thought."

1,000 Klansmen Hold Ceremonial Sans Headdress

Nearly 1,000 klansmen left their masks at home last night when they drove out to the prairie near Deerfield to hold a meeting. All were clad in the rest of their white regalia, however. Motorists encountered several hundred automobiles parked about the field where the gathering was held.

RICH HARVARD GRADUATE WEDS A FACTORY GIRL

Bride's Polish Father Frowns on Choice.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Xosia Szczechowicz, beautiful Polish factory worker, today became the bride of William Sydney Felton, wealthy lawyer and Harvard graduate. The wedding was performed at the Felton residence in Essex street, Salem.

Today the grizzled father of the bride-to-be was interviewed in the mill where he has worked all his life.

"I go to see XOSIA SZCZECHOWICZ such a wedding?" he said. "I, of princely blood in Poland, turn up there to be patronized by the newly rich? Never!"

See Wedding? Not Papa.

Papa Szczechowicz disapproves of the match because he does not care for young Felton. The Felton family would say nothing about the wedding.

The bride and her husband have lived in Essex street, Salem, for years, she at one end among the dwellings of shoe factory workers, he at the other and fashionable end of the street.

Thrill for Society.

Announcement recently that the wedding was to take place gave Salem society its thrill of the season. Felton, who comes from one of Salem's first families, was graduated from Harvard in 1915, from Harvard law school three years later, and served in the world war as an ensign in the naval aviation forces.

Miss Szczechowicz worked in a Salem shoe factory, where for nearly a year her fiancé called for her in his car each evening at the end of the day's work. She is one of the six children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Szczechowicz, both of whom are employed as spinners in the Naumkeag mill.

Curious crowds thronged Essex street outside the church at the wedding today.

Girl, 19, Disappointed in Love, Ends Life by Poison

Miss Mabel Carlson, 19 years old, 1051 North Mansfield avenue, died in the county hospital early this morning from the effects of poison she swallowed yesterday. Physicians declared she had been in a delicate condition, and Mabel's sister, Lillian Carlson, told the police that the despondent girl had been disappointed in love. She named James Imenga, 1055 North Mansfield avenue, as the one responsible for Mabel's condition.

N. Y. BROKERS AID DAY & HEATON, BANKRUPT FIRM

New York, Sept. 20.—Several Wall street brokers' houses were reported today to have come to the aid of the long established firm of Day and Heaton, which is bankrupt through the alleged defalcations of George R. Christian, missing treasurer of the firm.

According to investigators of the bankrupt business, creditor firms through which Christian is understood to have speculated with the securities of Day and Heaton clients have signed waivers relieving the remaining five members of the bankrupt house from responsibility for claims aggregating several hundred thousand dollars.

Blame It All on Missing Man.

The attitude of Wall street generally was that the bankruptcy was brought about solely by the peculations of a trusted official and that members of Day and Heaton should not be held responsible for the alleged untrustworthiness of their fellow member, the missing treasurer.

What was described as a "baffling mess" confronted seven accountants when they burrowed into the Day and Heaton books to ferret out the exact amount of Christian's defalcation.

Liabilities Still Unknown.

Their first estimate was that the firm's liabilities would exceed the assets by $500,000 to $1,000,000. But the accounts were so jumbled, said the accountants, that it would be several weeks before exact figures could be compiled.

Police, continuing today to broadcast additional identifying information concerning Christian as fast as it came into their hands, concentrated on facts that hitherto had not been stressed.

One was that he weighed 250 pounds, and therefore should be a conspicuous mark for detectives of other cities. Another was that Christian was fond of mineral water, and drank it copiously at intervals of an hour every day.

MacMillan Ship Casts Anchor in Home Port

Wiscasset, Me., Sept. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Scarred by the ice fields of the far north, the little auxiliary schooner Bowdoin, bearing Capt. Donald B. MacMillan and his six companions, slipped into her home port today after a fifteen months' voyage which carried her far beyond the arctic circle. Escorted by small craft up the Sheepscott river, the party was greeted by sirens, whistles, bells and cannon as the townfolk turned out to welcome the returned explorers.

$5,000 Lost When Same Gang Cracks Two Safes

Two safeblowings, believed to have been made by the same gang, early yesterday morning resulted in a loss of $3,000 for the Prudential Life Insurance company, 4750 West Washington boulevard, and $2,000 for a Royal Blue store, 1220 North Peoria street.

First Division Society to Meet Tomorrow

The Chicago branch of the Society of the First division will meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Belden hotel to perfect its organization. It will also make plans to attend President Coolidge's unveiling of the First division monument, Oct. 4, in Washington.

MANY NEW FACES WILL BE SEEN NEXT CONGRESS

Fourth of House Roll May Be Lost in Shakeup.

BY ARTHUR W. CRAWFORD.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Primary defeats and voluntary retirements have already eliminated about forty of the 435 members of the house from the possibility of participating in the affairs of the next congress. Heavy casualties are expected in the election, and it would not be surprising if the final returns will show that one-fourth of the total membership has fallen by the wayside at one stage or another.

Out of the forty representatives thus far removed from the running, about twenty-five were not candidates for renomination, although several sought senate nominations. About a dozen house members have been defeated in primaries thus far. One member has died since congress adjourned in June. The only stae primary yet to be held is that in New Jersey, which takes place next Tuesday. Rhode Island has yet to hold its nominating conventions.

Two Win for Senate.

Six house members aspired to seats in the senate, but four met defeat in the primaries. Those who won senate nominations were Speaker Gillett [Rep., Mass.], who will contest with Senator Walsh [Dem., Mass.] for the senatorship in President Coolidge's home state, and Representative Schall [Rep., Minn.], who is attempting to bring about the retirement of Senator Magnus Johnson [Farmer-Labor, Minn.].

Those who failed to win senate nominations were Representative Dallinger [Rep., Mass.], who was defeated by Speaker Gillett; Representative Rosenbloom [Rep., W. Va.], Representative Howard [Dem., Okla.], and Representative Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], who ran second to former Governor Cole Blease in the double primaries in South Carolina.

Speaker Gillett will leave the house next March, at the age of 73, after a record of thirty-two years' continuous service. He is the veteran of the house. If elected to the senate it is hardly expected that he will serve more than one term. His retirement from the house will bring on a contest for the speakership, and already there is a strong movement on foot for the election of Representative Madden [Rep., Ill.], now chairman of the appropriations committee, in case the Republicans retain control.

Seniority Leaders Retire.

Two chairmen of important house committees and others who ranked high in order of seniority are among those who will retire from the house.

Representative Winslow [Rep., Mass.], chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, which handles railroad legislation, was not a candidate for renomination. He has been in the house for twelve years.

The other chairman of an important committee who will not be back is Representative Reed [Rep., W. Va.], chairman of the District of Columbia committee, who retires voluntarily after eight years' service.

Two other Republicans who rank next to the chairmen of important committees and who would have been in line to succeed them are Representative McKenzie [Rep., Ill.] and Representative Edmonds [Rep., Pa.]. Mr. McKenzie is the ranking member of the committee on military affairs and was acting chairman during the illness of Representative Kahn [Rep., Cal.]. He retired voluntarily after fourteen years in congress, which followed many years of service in the Illinois legislature. Mr. Edmonds met defeat in the primaries after twelve years of service.

Graham Out Since June.

Besides Representative Winslow, the committee on interstate and foreign commerce will lose two Republicans who are not candidates for reelection. They are Representative Graham [Rep., Ill.], who resigned from the house in June to accept an appointment by President Coolidge as presiding justice of the United States Court of Customs Appeals, and Representative Sanders [Rep., Ind.], who is going back to private life.

Mrs. Mae E. Nolan [Rep., Cal.], the only woman member of the house, did not seek renomination. She was elected first to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband, who was one of the leading labor union spokesmen in the house. There may be no woman in the next house for the first time in several sessions, although there are women candidates in various states.

Representative Little [Rep., Kas.] has died since the adjournment of congress.

PROTECT DRAINAGE CANAL, DOYLE'S PLEA IN CONGRESS RACE

CONGRESSMAN THOMAS R. DOYLE.

Declaring that the continued flow of 10,000 cubic feet of water through the drainage canal is a matter "of life and death for the people of Illinois," Congressman Thomas A. Doyle, Democrat, has opened his campaign for reelection.

When an alderman, Doyle introduced the project of filling up Bubbly creek, and he always has been actively interested in sanitary district work.

He maintains that health conditions in Chicago necessitate free sewage flow.

Calls British Parliament to Pass Irish Border Law

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The speaker of the house of commons today issued a call for a special meeting of parliament on Sept. 30 to pass the Irish boundary bill.

PASTOR, BROKEN BY WRANGLING FLOCK, RESIGNS

Can't Stand It Longer, St. Joseph Minister Says.

Broken in body and spirit, the Rev. L. R. Anderson, runaway pastor of the St. Joseph, Mich., Evangelical church, yesterday offered his resignation to the Rev. C. H. Stroh, Detroit, presiding elder of the St. Joseph district of Evangelical churches.

The minister, tired of internal disputes in his flock, as he said, came to Chicago to seek death and almost met it when he stepped in front of an auto Wednesday night at Canal and Washington streets. His wife hurried to his hospital cot and persuaded him that he wanted to live.

Pastor's Wife Ill Too.

Now he lies on a sick bed in his little Evangelical parsonage. Beside him lies his wife, also broken down. Both are physically ill with strains of last week's allegations and revelations.

The pastor repudiated previous statements to reporters as he talked to the presiding elder. "Did I say God nor this church cared nothing for me?" he asked, and wept.

"If I made that statement I repudiate it to you. The Evangelical church of St. Joseph has a heart of gold. Its people have stood by me. The rank and file was for me. I did not know I said that. I take it all back and I want you to tell the public."

To Be Settled in Secret.

Elder Stroh declared: "There will be no clearing house meeting on this matter. If it is talked over it will be in secret session, and no one will know when or where it is held. The Andersons will have the parsonage until October, but I think they will go next week to Goshen where Mrs. Anderson has relatives.

"The resignation will be automatically accepted by the board of trustees," said the elder. "I shall have a new pastor here by October."

Today the pulpit will be filled by the Rev. A. L. Bimgerman of Berrien Springs.

Knox College Honors Bancroft, Envoy to Japan

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 20.—Edgar Bancroft, recently appointed ambassador to Japan, today paid a farewell visit to Knox college, of which he is a graduate and trustee. Mr. Bancroft indicated that he expected to leave in about a month for Tokio. He spoke at a luncheon this noon, at which he was the guest of honor.

"THE PERFECT DRY CLEANER"

To only 16 families

—this message is addressed

Somewhere among the 900,000 readers of the Chicago Tribune there are sixteen families who will take advantage of this opportunity to live at Windermere-East.

These sixteen have not merely money, but a keen appreciation of the enjoyment that money can buy.

They have the good taste, the discrimination, the meticulous ideals of service with which to appreciate the refinements of service in Hotels Windermere.

They have the love of a home, which will find keen delight in the privacy, the beauty of appointments and the myriad small evidences of thoughtfulness manifest throughout a Windermere apartment.

They know, or can instantly realize, the unusual convenience to recreation and transportation afforded by the location of Hotels Windermere.

They have the insight to understand the significance of the fact that Hotels Windermere are the only hotels which have successfully offered kitchenette apartments on a yearly lease basis—for this fact bespeaks both the excellence of the accommodations and the stability of the guests.

For each of these sixteen families, Windermere-East has a maisonette available. In a maisonette, the family of two may live as completely and privately as in a bungalow, with all the service and splendor at your command which you would find in a mansion.

If you believe that you are one of these sixteen fortunate families, it is well to communicate with us at once regarding reservations—for there are undoubtedly many times sixteen who will read this advertisement and miss the opportunity which it offers.

"Why My House Is Now MUELLER Heated!"

Being the true story of Mr. Sam H. Bradbury, of Waukegan, Ill.

"ABOUT a year ago I read one of your Mueller Furnace advertisements in the Chicago Tribune and decided that this was just the furnace I had been looking for. Your double radiator principle of heating looked mighty good to me and I figured would take care of my heating problem. I could see where your furnace would develop more heat than any ordinary furnace of the 'return flue' type.

"I have a big house and I had just built an addition to it, with the result that my old furnace wasn't efficient enough to handle the job satisfactorily—so I bought one of your Double Radiator Furnaces and, believe me, it sure does the business.

"I have no reason to regret my selection of this furnace to replace the old one. My house is kept nice and comfortable in the coldest weather, so I haven't any kick coming. I wanted 'dependable heat', which is what you advertised, and that's what I get. I get better heat with less fuel than ever before. And a nice thing about this furnace is that I never have to clean it."

Why the Mueller Furnace is Preferred

No other warm air furnace is like the Mueller Double Radiator Furnace. No other furnace has so great an area of direct heating surface—and it is heating surface that extracts the heat from the fuel burned, transmitting it to rooms where needed through properly placed and proportioned warm air pipes.

Because the Mueller Double Radiator Furnace has practically twice as many square feet of direct heating surface as any other warm air pipe furnace of equal size fire pot, it can be depended upon to give "dependable heat" on low fuel consumption. And because these are the two essentials demanded, more than 236,000 discriminating home owners have selected the self-cleaning Mueller Double Radiator Furnace for new home installations as well as to replace less satisfactory furnaces of other makes.

The Mueller Furnace has all the worth-while features of other good furnaces, plus exclusive features developed through 67 years of furnace manufacturing experience and knowledge.

"Engineered In" to Fit Your Needs

Whether your home is large or small, there is a Mueller Furnace of the right size to meet your particular requirements. It will be "engineered in" to fit your home in every detail, from the proper placing of warm air and return air registers, to the correct size fire-pot to supply the most dependable, economical heat. Mueller dealers are qualified heating experts and are backed by one of the foremost heating engineering organizations in the country.

Easy Monthly Payments

You can now buy a Mueller Furnace on easy monthly payments—just a small deposit and twelve monthly installments. And while you enjoy the comfort and good health provided by your Mueller, it will help pay for itself through fuel saving. Fill out and mail the coupon for full particulars. No obligation.

MUELLER FURNACES
Tons of Coal Cheaper

The MUELLER Zone of EXTRA Heating Capacity

A warm air furnace with direct pipe connections to registers in every room. Burns any kind of fuel. Especially suited to oil burner installations.

Water placed in a wide, shallow pan will heat much quicker than if placed in a narrow tin cup, because the pan has more square inches of heating surface. And for the same reason the pan will heat with a more moderate fire—saves fuel!

The Mueller Double Radiator Furnace is like the wide, shallow pan in that it has more square feet of direct heating surface than any other type of moist air furnace of equal size fire pot. That is why it gives the greatest amount of heat for fuel burned.

Hot gases from firebed, passing from combustion chamber dome through twenty radiating pipes and two big, circular radiators, give up every ounce of heat value before escaping to the chimney. This means utmost fuel economy—more heat from a smaller fire.

There are more than 1500 Mueller dealers in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan, including the Mueller Franchise Dealers listed below. See the one nearest you.

MAYOR FINISHES DETAILS OF NEW TRACTION PLAN

Says They Need Only Assembling for Council.

Mayor Dever and his advisers have worked out the major details of his traction scheme, and there remains but the assembling of the plan, and the arranging of countless small details, he declared yesterday.

The mode of operation, the method of financing, the rough cost, have practically been agreed upon. The mayor has a route for the proposed subway and elevated system in mind, but he will submit alternative routes also.

What are these plans? Mayor Dever constantly keeps raised the shroud of secrecy about them and refuses to make them public.

All Up to Council.

"After all," he said, "the whole question is up to the city council. I will have the traction message ready to present to the aldermen on Oct. 22, and as to what the routes are, what the system will comprise, and how it will be paid for, that is up to the aldermen."

Figures received yesterday by Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch indicate that the purchase of the surface lines by the city, a plan now practically dead, would have been a poor business venture.

Net receipts, according to the figures submitted in a report of the surface lines, dropped from $121,144 in July, to last month's total of $67,573. The city's share of 55 per cent dropped from $66,629 in July to $37,165 in August.

In years past the city received $2,000,000 annually from the surface lines. At the August rate, the sum would fall below $500,000.

Cause of the Slump.

The slump is caused, according to Corporation Counsel Busch, by the increase in trainmen's wages from 72 to 75 cents an hour, by competition from the bus lines, and by a natural summer falling off.

Mr. Busch, who returned yesterday from New York, conferred at length with Mayor Dever and informed him that that committee of aldermen studying terminals in the east and in Canada has made wonderful progress. The trip has been most helpful, Mr. Busch said, and the plan for the new south side terminal has never been more promising of accomplishment.

DOCTOR FREED IN WOMAN'S DEATH.

Dr. Amandus Horn, head of a private hospital at 2423 North Clark street, was released from police custody yesterday upon recommendation of a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Agnes Detrick, 29, of 4232 Crystal street. Mrs. Detrick died at Dr. Horn's hospital after performing an operation upon herself.

WOMAN, 80, WAS BORN ON SITE OF WRIGLEY TOWER

Mrs. Emma J. McConnell, born 80 years ago where the Wrigley building now stands, will celebrate her birthday anniversary tomorrow.

Mrs. McConnell was a sister of the late John D. Wiggins, prominent engraver, and is active and in good health. During the summer she took a motor trip through Michigan. Her memory is excellent. "Talk about 'earlier Chicago'," she says, "I can remember when we used to take the ferry from our home across the river."

Mrs. McConnell has two children, two grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. She lives with a grandson, Richard L. Walsh, 6137 Indiana avenue.

HERRIOT TO TOUR ALSACE TO CALM CATHOLIC ANGER

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 20.—Premier Herriot told a group of Socialist deputies this morning that he intended to make a short speeking tour in Alsace and Lorraine shortly to calm the religious agitation there aroused by the government's announced intention of introducing the French public school system into the provinces recovered from Germany.

"Such a tour would be dangerous in the present state of public opinion of Alsace," one of the deputies suggested.

"Je m'en fiche," M. Herriot answered, which, roughly translated, means "I should worry."

The premier's intention is to explain to the Alsatians and Lorraine Catholics exactly what he means by the abolition of religious schools and the introduction of the regular public school system. He believes the inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine have been deceived into believing that the present government of France is anti-clerical. M. Herriot himself and many members of his government are Catholic, and none of them intends to make any attack whatever on religious education in Sunday schools and churches, but their intention is to give the recovered provinces a straight public school system on exactly the same basis as the other parts of France.

DRUGGIST'S ERROR KILLS WOMAN.

A druggist's error killed Clara Burgess, 3 East Garfield boulevard, according to a coroner's jury verdict. The jury exonerated John H. Ale, pharmacist of a Walgreen drug store, Michigan and Garfield boulevards, of criminal responsibility.

LABOR FACTIONS IN BOB'S CAMP TORN BY STRIFE

Forget Cash Box, but Each Would Control.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Young as a political organization, but already old in faction, the directors of the La Follette party in Illinois are finding it a difficult task to agree on a definite plan of action.

Internal strife in the third party movement has developed between the two groups of labor officials, both of whom want to be the generalissimos of labor politics in the state. The battle alignment finds one labor faction led by Charles McGowan of the railway employés confronted with the forces generaled by William Quesse, head of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union. In this particular "battle" the janitors' chief has the backing of John H. Walker and Victor Olander, the president and secretary of the state federation of labor.

While it is conceded that Quesse will outgeneral the various railway employés' groups and their Socialist attachments, the forces of the latter are entrenched sufficiently to make matters exceedingly unpleasant for all hands. And with each faction striving for power that goes with leadership, the spirit of trade union brotherly love fades away. It becomes a case where the fittest survive.

Shy on Campaign Funds.

With both factions grabbing for leadership a number of important angles have developed in the La Follette camp. The first deals with the financial backing expected from labor unions. To date the American Federation of Labor is making good its refusal not to go "whole hog" into the organization of a new political party. The parent labor body has failed to deliver any great sums of money to La Follette's campaign cash box. While great ado has been made by labor officials over "Battling Bob's" program, the raising of union funds for the third party is noticeably lacking.

Funds are being raised by labor, but they are insufficient to defray the expenses of a national campaign. But even these funds are being diverted from the efforts to organize a third party. Labor is using the funds in its own plan of campaign. The tightness of the strings on labor's money bags was revealed a short time ago, when it was almost found necessary to move La Follette campaign headquarters from the Morrison hotel.

Senatorship in Dispute.

With the leadership matter immersed in a controversial state one of the main subjects now in dispute centers on a third party candidate for United States senator. Newton Jenkins, who was defeated at the last primaries, has aspirations to voice his sentiments and opinions in the senate.

Several weeks ago the State Federation of Labor blasted Jenkins' ambitions. But after lying dormant for some time his hopes have been resurrected, through the action of Judge Prentiss, who is claiming La Follette's support as a senatorial candidate. Leaders of the La Follette camp took advantage of both aspirants' ambitions to make organized labor toss its contributions into "Battling Bob's" cash box. "Big Bill" Thompson's name was mentioned as a senatorial possibility to satisfy the German elements and stir up the Small group of labor leaders.

Funds Used for Small.

Under Quesse's direction the funds collected by the labor unions in the state are being used in Small's behalf. This has irritated the La Follette camp followers. It was a case of using twenty for the governor and one for "Bob."

W. R. Snow, secretary of the Socialist party in Cook county, has replaced Sylvester Konenkamp as head of the speakers' bureau. One labor faction believed that Konenkamp was under the influence of Walker, Quesse and Olander. The former head of the speakers' bureau once held the position as leader of the telegraphers' union. A slight tinge of religious feeling also entered into the switch.

Foster adherents in "Bob's" camp now look upon their leader as a good old cog that is ready for displacement in a new third party machine. This is expressed by William E. Zeuch, a former lieutenant in Foster's outfit.

Klan Dominates in South.

In the southern part of the state labor is largely under the domination of the Ku Klux Klan. This is especially true in the counties of Saline, Williamson, Perry, Jackson and Franklin. La Follette's program has registered very heavily downstate.

Downstate the klan movement is more concerned with the "moonshine" problem that with religion or race. The labor klansmen want to know how "Battling Bob" stands on the liquor question. But while the votes of all organised workers are being "delivered" by certain leaders the bricklayers lay their daily allotment of bricks, the teamsters continue to rattle the reins over the backs of their horses and on election day they mark their ballots according to their own judgments like millions of other citizens.

Watchman Slugged in Rum Raid on Mansion Dies

August Ahlers, 70, a watchman in the home of Harry Benedict, 5040 Greenwood avenue, a wealthy cattle dealer, who was slugged by burglars when they invaded the Benedict home, Sept. 9, and stole several thousand dollars' worth of liquor from the basement, died in Mercy hospital yesterday.

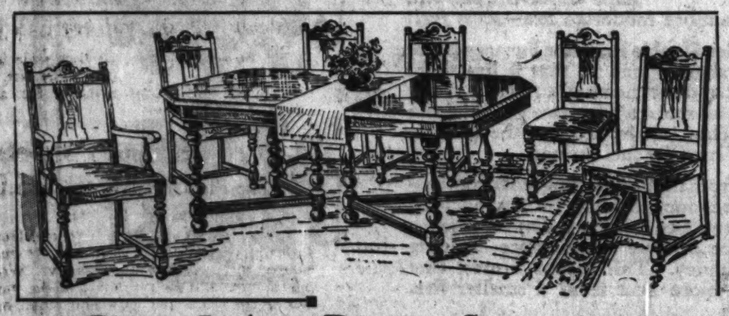
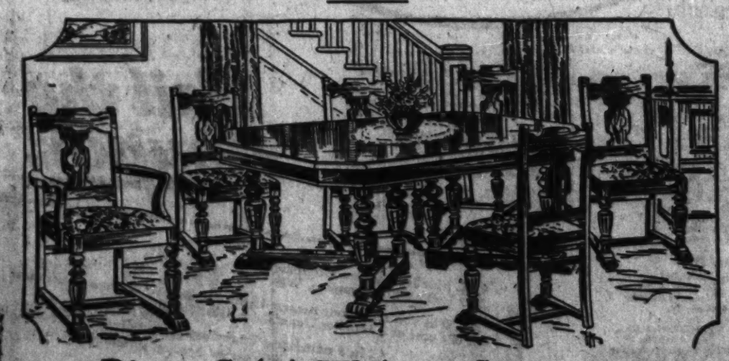
Two Remarkable Values

HERE are two Dining Room Suites—from our many remarkable values—which will challenge the admiration of all who see them. They are typical Petersen values, which means that they are positively unexcelled.



7-Piece Italian Dining Suite $69.50

VERY sturdily made, and a fine Italian design. In spite of the low price, this is a really serviceable suite, desirable in every way. Attractive Walnut finish. Chairs have genuine blue leather seats.



7-Piece Solid Walnut Suite $153

ITALIAN design, with massive understructure, artistically carved. We call your attention to the fact that the table and six chairs are Solid Walnut throughout. This is one of the most remarkable offers of recent years.

POETRY UNDER FOOT.

As his deft fingers work, the weaver of an oriental rug remembers many things—the splendor of the starlit night, the beauty of the rose garden, the play of sunlight on the water. He blends his interpretation of them into a harmony of color which no other art can equal.

Carefully he ties the beautifully dyed wools or silk—a hundred or five hundred knots to the square inch. Time is no object. A year or five years may pass before the rug is finished. Illiterate though he may be, he is moved by the spirit which filled the primitive painters of the early Italian period. His soul is that of an artist.

From the far east, he gives to the western world a creation as fine as any other artistic treasure—a poem in weaving which the thoughtless grind under foot, and the connoisseur longs to hang beside a Rubens or a Van Dyke.

JACK JOHNSON IN MOB WHEN U. S. PADLOCKS CAFE

Threatens Deputies and Photographers.

Jack Johnson, former world's champion pugilist, for months a fugitive from United States marshals, yesterday "got tough" with two federal officers when they went to the Dreamland cafe, 3520 South State street, to padlock it for a year for repeated dry law violations.

Deputy Marshals Morris Krakow and Richard Lee, who went to the former notorious black and tan resort to execute closing orders issued Friday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, were met by Johnson and several hundred of his colored followers, according to the report of Deputy Krakow. The deputies were accompanied by two photographers.

Threat to Crack Skull.

Johnson is said to have met the federal squad with the following:

"Look here, Mr. Uncle Sam, there won't be any fireworks around here, even if we decide to let you put on the locks. They didn't take any pictures of the joint when she was hot and they're not goin' to start now that she's cold.

"The first boy that tries to take a picture down here is going to have his skull and his camera broken at the same time."

Deputy Marshal Lee, who is colored, told Johnson and his mob that any violence on the part of any one would cause arrests for obstructing justice and interfering with federal officers.

His Rôle a Mystery.

It was said that the big ex-champ apparently stopped to turn over in his mind his former clash with federal law, which caused him to remain in exile in Mexico and Europe until he decided to give up and serve his time in Leavenworth.

He then muttered a few threats and advised his cohorts to allow the marshals to proceed so long as no pictures were taken.

Persons familiar with Johnson's affairs were at a loss to understand his reported activities in front of Dreamland. In sporting circles it has been common knowledge that Johnson has loaned Bill Bottoms, owner of the cafe, $8,000 for many months and that Bottoms has been ready to attach the receipts at any public appearance the pugilist may attempt.

VETERAN, 55, TAKES POISON.

Charles Russell, 55, of 3977 Drexel avenue, ex-service man, swallowed carbolic acid in his home yesterday in a supposed attempt to kill himself.

HUNT EX-FELON AS SLAYER OF CHICAGO WOMAN

Mrs. C. R. Hunn Killed Out West.

Los Angeles street car company following an injury he received last May.

Mrs. Morehouse added that just before her nephew left her house four weeks ago he settled with the trolley company for $750.

Asked where she thought Garbutt had fled, Mrs. Morehouse replied that he may be heading for Chicago, if he is not already there, because his former wife, Anna Westra, is living in Chicago.

Bitter Against Her Nephew.

Mrs. Morehouse was bitter in her comments on her nephew's possible connection with the murder.

"Poor Mrs. Hunn," she said. "Maybe it is I, not she, who ought to be lying there dead. I feel I got her into it all. I interested her in Harry, who was my sister's only son, and I tried so hard to protect him and make a man of him. That's why I brought him out here from Chicago. But the ingrate has blackened my character and has done me nothing but wrong in return."

MR. HUNN DISAPPEARS.

Clifton R. Hunn disappeared yesterday immediately following receipt in Chicago of news of the murder of his wife in Pasadena. He called his secretary at the Charles Eneu Johnson company, 215 West Superior street, ink manufacturers, where he is manager, and announced he would not be down today.

Inquiry at the Illinois Athletic club, where Mr. Hunn usually lodges during the frequent sojourns of his wife in Pasadena, elicited the information that Mr. Hunn had checked out on Sept. 1.

Later A. J. Hartley, one of the Johnson company salesmen, appeared before Chief Hughes at the detective bureau to give what information he could about Harry Garbutt.

Garbutt's Police Record Here.

Garbutt's name first appeared on Chicago police blotters in 1912, when he served thirty days in the Bridewell for the theft of an automobile. In December, 1919, the Figler Fur company's store at 451 East 63d street was burglarized of $8,000 worth of furs and Garbutt and two companions were arrested.

Garbutt was indicted, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to from one to twenty years at Joliet. Prison records reveal he was a "model prisoner," and no black marks being chalked against him by January, 1922, he was paroled to Chicago relatives and received permission to join his aunt, Mrs. Morehouse, in California.

COLORED MAN KILLED.

James Page, colored, was shot and killed last night in his home at 721 East 40th street. Police took his wife into custody for questioning.

HOWARD CAPPER IS DIVORCED BY HIS THIRD WIFE

Howard S. Capper, son of the president of Capper & Capper, haberdashers, was divorced yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Louise Capper, after she testified concerning charges of habitual drunkenness before Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis.

Thus ended the romance of Capper's third marriage. Twice after the third Mrs. Capper had applied for divorce she forgave her husband and returned to live with him. Friends hoped for a third reconciliation, but in vain.

Capper agreed through his attorney, Harry A. Newby, to pay his wife $3,500 cash alimony. Mr. Newby declared Capper possessed only $8,000 worth of stock in his father's business.

WOMAN, ILL, TAKES POISON.

Mrs. May Hambel, 3407 5th avenue, died in the county hospital from the effects of poison she swallowed Sept. 15. She had been brooding over illness.

8 MORE ARRESTED FOR TARRING OF GIRL, 18 INVOLVED

Frederick, Md., Sept. 20.—Eight men were arrested today charged with being implicated in the tarring and feathering of Dorothy Grandon last July. Nine others are at liberty on $2,000 bail each. Miss Grandon was accused of receiving attentions of married men.

Tarring and feathering, aiding and abetting in tarring and feathering, assault and battery, and violations of the state riot laws are charged in the indictments. Those arrested today are John Langdon, released in $2,000 bail on a charge of tarring and feathering the woman and violating the riot law; William Houpt, indicted for riot, jailed in default of bail Walter Shank, Fred Shepley, Vernon Summers, John Shepley, Claude Toms and Howard Toms, charged with riot and released on $1,000 bond each.

PITTSBURGH PLUS BAN OPENS BOOM IN SOUTH CHICAGO

New Steel Plant and Railroad Planned.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Now that "Pittsburgh Plus" has been knocked out for keeps, the South Chicago-Gary mill region is getting set for a great industrial expansion.

Interest was aroused yesterday by indications that the Jones & Laughlin Steel company of Pittsburgh is making ready to build on the 1,200 acres it bought in Hammond a few years back as a site for a plant that was to cost $50,000,000 and to employ 12,000 men.

Tidings yesterday were that the Pennsylvania railroad has bought a right of way from its main line at Indiana Harbor and East Chicago, Ind., to the new site.

The Jones & Laughlin company has purchased a right of way for the construction of a large underground outlet sewer and drain, running from its Hammond property to the Grand Calumet river, a mile away. Recently it bought twenty acres more to round out a corner.

Early Construction Forecast.

While "Pittsburgh Plus" has been on the fire, the company has been disclaiming any intention of building in the Calumet sector. Now that the freight charging system has been obliterated, insiders look for activities.

The Iron Trade Review, an authority in the steel and iron industry, carries an item in yesterday's issue saying the acquiring of rights of way for sewers and railway trackage indicates that the Jones & Laughlin company "contemplates early construction of a plant on its 1,200 acre site at Hammond, Ind."

The announcement from the United States Steel corporation four days ago that it would comply with the order of the federal trade commission to abolish the "Pittsburgh Plus" practice, is expected to start things moving.

When business gets into high speed again, forty or fifty fabricating plants in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown regions are expected to come surging to Chicago. In the last eighteen months at least twenty-five fabricators have either built in the Calumet district or have bought sites.

Boosts Whole Midwest.

During the last year or two, some of the big steel mills have been building plant extensions when mills were running far below capacity, all an indication that they are looking for a great development. South Chicago, Gary, Hammond, Indiana Harbor and other cities are expectant of a tremendous growth in the next five or six years. Smaller cities in Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and other states are expected to find their industries stimulated.

Now the water way projects come farther to the front. Pittsburgh is back of a movement to develop the Ohio river, a route to the gulf on which enormous sums have already been expended by the government. With big fleets of barges the Pittsburgh mills are developing a cheap route to the southwest. Barges are run down the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Cairo, thence up the Mississippi to St. Louis and down the Mississippi to New Orleans.

Barrier in Illinois.

The same Mississippi is also a natural outlet for the Great Lakes region and the middle west—only there is a barrier some sixty miles long between Joliet and La Salle, where Illinois for many years has been projecting a waterway route. In 1908 the voters approved a $20,000,000 bond issue for it, but it is still uncompleted although under construction. His lakes-to-gulf waterway and likewise the St. Lawrence seaway, are two great projects vital to the midcontinent regions that now should get the full urge that wiped out Pittsburgh plus.

The trade is now following quotations with interest. The federal trade commission did not apply its "cease and desist" order to pipe. But the steel corporation seems to have included pipe in abolishing "plus."

Since the batle started, it has built at Gary one of the largest tube mills in the country. A mill base price means money saved on pipes put into buildings.

On sheets and wire, a price statement is expected daily. It was said yesterday that mills have begun quoting sheets at a Chicago base $2 a ton above Pittsburgh, which means a saving of $4.80 a ton in this market, as the freight from Pittsburgh is $6.80. One authority figures the new policy will mean a saving of 25 cents on every keg of nails and every bundle of wire produced in the Illinois-Indiana-Wisconsin region, which has a producing capacity of more than 5,000,000 kegs of nails annually.

HONORS FOR DEAD SOLDIER

Military honors were given the body of Maj. Kenneth Kern at Fort Sheridan yesterday. The photograph shows officers placing the coffin on a caisson to be taken to the railroad station at the post. Burial will be at the Presidio, San Francisco, the major's home city. Maj. Kern was 37 and left a widow and two children, the eldest 6 years old.

15,000 CHEER 'THE KID' ON HIS ARRIVAL IN PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—A reception of the magnificent sort which Paris customarily reserves for kings, princes of the blood, and conquering heroes greeted Jackie Coogan, American boy movie actor, today on his arrival in Paris.

More than 15,000 persons stormed the Gare du Nord to catch a glimpse of the diminutive American film star, known almost universally in France as "Le Gosse," for his performance in "The Kid." It was with the utmost difficulty that Jackie's escorts were able to get him from the station into a nearby street, where a motor car awaited him.

Borne on the shoulders of a smiling 6 foot tall station attendant, Jackie passed through the crowd while scores of photographers kept shooting his picture and while the "Gosse" waved his hand at the cheering crowds. He appeared nonplussed by the warmth of his welcome and gazed about him in a dazed fashion.

WOMEN BUSY HELPING UPTOWN CHICAGO SHOW

ALLIES UNABLE TO FIND TRACE OF GERMAN ARMS

Scandal Looms as Stores Vanish at Spandau.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—THE TRIBUNE learns today that a big sensation is imminent as the result of the latest inspection by the interallied military control mission of German fortresses, army, and war materials. The allied mission today inspected Spandau fortress, the biggest fort outside of Berlin, and one of the biggest munition plants in Germany. Huge stores of ammunition, equipment, and cannon which the allies ordered destroyed a year and a half ago had disappeared and the commanding officers were unable to give satisfactory explanations.

THE TRIBUNE also learns from an entente source that the allies have backed down from their stand taken six months ago when Gen. Walch, a French officer, informed Marshal Foch of the German generals' demand for forty-eight hours' notice before inspections, as well as a formal notice that this was absolutely the last inspection the allies would make. Despite the international sensation this note to the allies created, the allies are now giving forty-eight hours' notice.

No Record Kept.

According to the allies, the supplies which were ordered destroyed at Spandau are now probably hidden among the seventy-three secret and semi-secret military and semi-military organizations which are flourishing, many under Gen. von Ludendorff's auspices, despite the allied attempt to disarm Germany.

Until today the mission inspected only factories producing war materials, where it was found the provisions of the Versailles treaty were being carried out. Today, on arriving at Spandau in civilian dress, the mission was shown the greatest courtesy by the officers and soldiers. An inquiry as to what had become of the military stores seen a year and a half ago brought the reply that no record was kept of anything except what actually was in stock.

Millions of Members.

The officers likewise are of the opinion that forty-eight hours' notice of their coming destroys the value of their work. It was originally planned to work secretly and take the forts and war factories by surprise, but the allies were forced to abandon this plan.

Concerning the members of the secret and semi-secret organizations, THE TRIBUNE is informed that these total between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 members. The leading organizations are the Stalhelm, Werwolf, Oberland, and Frontbund. Gen. von Ludendorff is the spiritual head of all and the actual head of several of these organizations.

Quake Levels 300 Villages in Armenia; 60 Killed

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—[United Press.]—More than sixty persons have been killed in a series of earthquakes in the Erzerum district of Armenia, according to dispatches here. The population is panic stricken, as the quakes have destroyed 300 villages in the district. It is also reported that forty persons have been killed in the Passinlar district.

PLAN $6,000,000 MARKET FOR ALL S. WATER FIRMS

Join Hands to Build at Ashland and 27th.

BY AL CHASE.

South Water street's removal problem, which has been repeatedly "solved," at last seems to have been definitely worked out as a result of the South Water Street Removal corporation announcing that it would join hands with the twenty or more firms who have secured a site at Ashland and 27th for a model $6,000,000 market.

This means that instead of two or more new produce exchanges being started in various parts of the south side, all of the firms now on South Water street will unite in making the proposed establishment on the south branch of the river, between Ashland and Western, the finest of its kind in the world.

An official of the South Water Street Removal corporation stated that his group had abandoned the plan to build a market on the east side of Ashland, between 22d and the river, and undoubtedly would join hands with Garibaldi & Cuneo, F. E. Nellis & Co., Fox & Godding, American Fruit Growers, and the other sixteen firms comprising the Chicago Fruit Terminal exchange.

He said formal action would be taken this week.

On the other hand, one of the leaders of the group which are to build the $6,000,000 market at Ashland and 27th said that although he hoped the rival crowd would join with them he had heard no definite statement that they would do so.

Chicago Singer Makes Her Debut in Denmark; Praised

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 20. — Gerda Henius, young Chicago singer, made her debut at a concert here last night. Miss Henius was trained in a Milan school. The Danish press this morning is enthusiastic about Miss Henius' songs, which were heard by the American minister, Dr. Prince, and leading citizens of Copenhagen. The press says Chicago has given birth to a singer who promises to be famous over the world. Miss Henius is accompanied by her husband, Carlo Edwards, stage director of the Metropolitan Opera of New York.

FINDS PRESTIGE OF U. S. LOW IN LATIN AMERICA

Yanks Forced to Ask Aid of British Consuls.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 20.—An American engineer who has lived twenty years in Honduras said that in the recent revolution there numerous Americans were thrown indiscriminately in jail. The revolutionists and federalists poohpoohed them when they demanded their freedom as American citizens. They threw a British subject in jail by mistake. As soon as it was realized what they had done they became panicky, released him forthwith, and apologized profusely. In fact, he had sufficient prestige to force the release of two American subjects.

In Cuba, Americans have had their property confiscated and have been defeated in court in attempting to get it back. American property taken or destroyed in the revolution in 1917, when America intervened, has not been paid for. That of other nationals has been compensated for.

In Haiti, where we have control of the government, the newspapers recommend the assassination of the president because he is friendly to Americans. They call the wives of our marines names that would start a real war in Texas. Nothing is done about it.

Killer a Hero.

In Santo Domingo the man who shot Capt. Fulton, who debarked the first marines at St. Macorois on orders of Josephus Daniels, then secretary of war, is free and is lionized by church and society as a national hero, although he was captured immediately afterward and sentenced to death. He was saved by orders of the secretary of the navy.

Mexico today is more perturbed and apologetic over the shooting of one British subject, Mrs. Rosalie Evans, than of the hundreds of Americans who have lost their lives there the last few years.

In Porto Rico the Americans do not even dare to play their national airs for fear of an unpleasant scene.

In fact, so low is our prestige in Latin America that I have heard of several Americans who have gone to British consuls for protection. Several of them have even gone so far as to represent themselves Canadian citizens to get a British passport.

Understand Us Well.

On asks why. Some will reply that it is because the Latin American temperament does not understand the sincerity of our purpose.

Latin American experts reply to that, "bunk. No one understands us better than the Latin American. He knows just how far he can go."

I have talked to British diplomats, Americans who have lived their entire life in Latin America, and the natives themselves, and their reply is unanimous.

"America is not respected because she does not stand up for her own rights."

It is the consensus even among the native Porto Ricans as well as the American born residents that all agitation against the United States would stop if, primarily, we adopted a consistent American policy, would reward the pro-Americans by office and systematically educate the people on the value and ideals of American form of government and the economic dependence of the island on the United States.

Pride of Citizenship.

While the anti-Americans are the most vociferous, there is no reason to believe they comprise the majority. Indeed, most of the leading business men and educators of Porto Rico whom THE TRIBUNE representative met shared with the American born Americans the pride in the full title and prerogatives of American citizenship.

In a Spanish theater between acts one night a Porto Rican, obviously a man of position and wealth, had the seat next to mine. He was escorting his two daughters. I gave him my program. He inquired how long I had been on the island and we began to converse. He said he had just returned from a visit to Cuba and commented upon the backwardness of that country owing to graft and corruption.

"That is what we will have here," he said, "unless some one has sense enough to stop these wild men we have here who are crying for independence."

The Good Maxwell—
The Good Friend of Its Owners

Tens of thousands of American families look upon their good Maxwell cars with a feeling akin to positive gratitude.

For the good Maxwell has enabled them to regard the motor car as something more than merely a means of transportation.

If you examine into the basic reasons for such performance, and for Maxwell's economical, care-free service, you discover that both the new transmission and new rear axle are strong and rugged enough for a truck; that the simple device of a platform spring under the front end of the motor, combined with the balancing of reciprocating parts to the fraction of an ounce, practically eliminates any sense of vibration; that in proportion to weight, it is actually stronger than cars costing two, three or even four times as much.

The good Maxwell is thus fulfilling, with almost startling success, the mission its makers proclaimed four years ago, when they announced that—"The new and powerful organization now manufacturing the good Maxwell is able to give and proposes to give, motor car values so unmistakable that they cannot remain for a moment in question."

HOLY NAME MEN HONOR MEMORY OF WASHINGTON

100,000 Members Will Hear Coolidge Today.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—A second message from the pope was received today by the Holy Name society in convention here with three lusty cheers for the pontiff's health, led by Cardinal O'Connell, papal legate to the sessions.

Another high pontifical mass, celebrated in the stadium of the Catholic university by Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, in the presence of Cardinal O'Connell and of the greatest crowd yet gathered for the convention, opened the day's proceedings, which ended with a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon.

Speaks on Patriotism.

Archbishop Curley of Baltimore, who, as official host to the convention, delivered a short speech of welcome, in which he stressed the spiritual and patriotic benefits accruing to the nation through the Holy Name activities.

"You are giving," he said, "the greatest proof of patriotism possible to citizens of this great land. It flows from our religion to love our country as we love our God. Give to Cæsar what is Cæsar's, without forgetting to give to God what is God's."

Tribute to Washington.

The business session was cut short to permit the delegates to start for Mount Vernon to pay tribute to the memory of Washington. A patriotic speech was delivered by the Rev. Peter L. Guilday, and the Holy Name pledge was uttered aloud by all present, led by Cardinal O'Connell and Father Ripple, after which the cardinal placed a great wreath upon Washington's tomb on behalf of the convention fraternity. "The Star Spangled Banner" then was sung by all to the accompaniment of a band.

Advantage of Cardinal O'Connell's visit to Washington was taken today to have him unveil a public monument to nuns who volunteered for nursing work in the war. The monument was raised through the efforts of the women of the Order of Hibernia, and was publicly received by the District of Columbia authorities.

Coolidge to Address Society.

Elaborate preparations have been made for tomorrow's parade through Washington, after which President Coolidge is to address 100,000 Holy Name men and visitors in the grounds south of the White House. Father Ripple predicted today that tomorrow's will be the greatest religious demonstration in the history of the country.

PYTHIANS TO BEGIN STATE CONVENTION AT PEORIA TUESDAY

PENCE B. ORR.

The fifty-fifth annual convention of the Knights of Pythias of Illinois will begin Tuesday at Peoria and continue four days. The Chicago lodges plan to have a large representation at the meeting. Judge William H. Moore, grand chancellor will preside until the last day when he will be succeeded in office by Pence B. Orr of Joliet. All other grand officers will move up, leaving the office of outer guard vacant. There is a contest of this office between Arthur James and T. Fred Laramie of Chicago and Harry Beckman of Petersburg.

Sol Scheffer, chairamn of the committee on publicity, announces that the present state membership is 70,000 with 20,000 knights in Chicago. During the year the order constructed a state building at Springfield on Fraternal Row.

The Pythian Sisters, an auxiliary body, will also meet at Peoria on the same days. The Dokeya, known as the "Sunshine Boys," will have a special day for their stunts. Other concurrent meetings will be those of the uniformed rank, the Veterans' association, the members of which have been Pythians for twenty-five years and the insurance department.

$8,000 PAY ROLL IS STOLEN FROM BOULEVARD FIRM

Cash Taken in Building Near Link Bridge.

Three bandits, ignoring crowds and cars streaming over the link bridge near by, entered an office building at 308 North Michigan boulevard at noon yesterday and escaped with a pay roll amounting to $8,000 from employes of the Piamondon - Gabriel company, interior decorations. The man fled in a large touring car parked on East South Water street.

GEORGE PLAMONDON.

George Plamondon, purchasing agent for the company and son of A. D. Plamondon, head of the Association Opposed to Prohibition, and part owner of the concern, and Charles H. Anderson were the victims of the robbers. They were on their way to the basement to pay the employes. They descended to the first floor in an elevator and then walked down the stairs to the basement.

Robbed on Stairway.

At the foot of the landing Plamondon noticed a man standing at the bottom of the stairway. He was reading a newspaper. He appeared interested in it and Plamondon paid no attention to him. When Plamondon had passed him the stranger whipped out a revolver and commanded Anderson to drop a basket he was carrying. The basket contained pay envelopes.

When Plamondon turned around to see where the command had come from he, too, was looking into the muzzle of a revolver. Plamondon and Anderson were told to line up against the wall. By this time three men were engaged in the holdup. One of the men started to dump the pay envelopes into a small box. In doing so he dropped several. While he and one of his companions were gathering them, a colored porter, on his way to the basement, descended. He was covered with a revolver and told to get against the wall with Anderson and Plamondon.

Then Detectives Arrive.

The bandits forced the men into a small room and darted out a side entrance into East South Water street. Plamondon and Anderson hurried out into the street a moment after the robbers fled. They had disappeared. Two squads of detectives from the detective bureau hurried to the scene of the robbery. They made a hurried search of the loop, but were unable to find any trace of the thieves.

BRITISH PLAN TO LINK EMPIRE BY AIRSHIP LINES

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 20.—A wonderful picture of the British empire's air communications in a few years' time was drawn today by Sir William Sefton Branicker, vice marshal of the air service, at a conference of the Institute of Transport at Wembley.

Sir William said after five years' inaction the government had decided to develop the airship as a commercial vehicle. Two ships have been ordered and while their construction is proceeding the government is preparing air ports in India and some halfway point, probably in the Suez canal zone. It is hoped to establish regular bi-weekly service with India.

Sir William also pointed out other routes ripe for exploitation, including Singapore to Australia via the Dutch Indies, British East Africa to the Mediterranean, British West Indies to Guiana, and Calcutta to Rangoon.

He declared airships would be crossing the Atlantic regularly in a few years, and said he hoped to have at least one British liner with a service of two days and a half between England and Canada.

Sir William Clark, controller of the department of overseas trade, drew a humorous picture of the British prime minister of the future compelled to spend week-ends making speeches in Canada, Australia, and South Africa.

TWO NEW FRAT HOUSES TO RISE ON N. W. CAMPUS

Two $75,000 fraternity houses are to be erected soon on Northwestern university campus, it was announced yesterday by President Walter Dill Scott. They will be built by Phi Kappa Sigma and Phi Delta Theta with the aid of the university.

Their erection will be in line with the plan outlined in 1912, by which the school was to have seventeen fraternity dormitories and seven open dormitories, built in conformity. The two new dormitories will bring the total to fifteen. Each houses thirty men.

Negroes Plan Celebration at Lincoln Statue

Tribute to Abraham Lincoln and to the progress of the Negro race since he proclaimed its emancipation will feature Chicago's program when preliminary emancipation day is celebrated at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Lincoln park. The fête will take place at the foot of St. Gauden's statue of Lincoln.

SUICIDE VERDICT FOR LAKE VICTIM.

A verdict that he had committed suicide by drowning was returned yesterday afternoon at an inquest into the death of an unidentified man whose body was found in the lake near Ohio street several days ago. The man's clothes had contained paper weights and other articles with which to sink the body.

Then, if not satisfied return the empty cartons; your money will be refunded. No longer need you mar your beauty or be burdened by embarrassing over-weight.

You Can Order by Mail
Special "2 Weeks Trial Offer"

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back. If you live within 300 miles of Chicago, send $2.00 for special 6 loaves "2 Weeks Trial Offer." A fresh loaf of Jack Sprat Bread, tasty and delicious, sent postage prepaid every other day for 2 weeks. Hundreds now buy Jack Sprat this way. Send $2.00, your name and address.

A Flour Costing 900% More

Jack Sprat is baked under a secret formula known to no other baker, and made from a costly, special, anti-starch flour. One flour ingredient costs 9 times more than high-grade white flour. Only one mill of the 21,000 in America makes it. The process is slow and expensive, but practically all starch is removed. No other bread is like Jack Sprat.

Time-Proved Jack Sprat

For a year now thousands of ladies and gentlemen have proved Jack Sprat. They have discovered it is the sure, easy way to lose weight. No strenuous exercising, no troublesome dieting necessary—just eat Jack Sprat Bread regularly—3 loaves a week. Then watch your weight come down.

Starch Makes Fat

White bread, while wholesome, is overloaded with starch. So are crackers, rolls, pastry and potatoes—and starch makes fat—so say health authorities. Jack Sprat is low in starch content. Rich though in nourishment—proteins, vitamines and mineral salts as nature provides them. Jack Sprat combats fat, tones the system and builds the body. It aids digestion and elimination, too. It contains double the amount of healthful yeast as found in ordinary breads.

So, try Jack Sprat on my guarantee. Enjoy the benefits. Watch the slender beauty of form and feature return.

It's here for you to drive today!

AUBURN IN LINE

Be sure you drive this car —Come Early

4 Wheel Brakes - Balloon Tires

You Will Not Be Asked To Buy!

Whether you are a buyer today or next year we want you to know what the Auburn 8-In-Line will do.

It's a Sensation— Latest, Greatest Eight See For Yourself Today Only $1895

Here is the most unusual and extraordinary new car announcement ever made.

It is not about a car that is going to be built—it is here, now!

It does not carry a "come-on" price, to be raised when we get into production. Neither does it carry a fictitious price concealing a trading allowance. It is priced for the man who wants one hundred cents in value for every dollar he spends and who is smart enough to know when he is being kidded about the value of his used automobile.

Notwithstanding this startling list price the new Auburn 8-In-Line comes from the factory fully equipt with bumper, automatic windshield wiper, rear vision mirror, motometer and bar cap, nickel plated radiator, cowl lights, cowl ventilator, gasoline gauge on the dash, clock on closed models, approved transmission lock, kick plates, 4 snubbers, disc wheels, balloon tires, 4-wheel brakes, spare tire with drum type cover and stop light. All on the car when you get it—Only freight and tax to be added.

We are in production now—the car is here—ready to be seen, ready to be driven, ready for deliveries.

If this car doesn't sell itself—we won't try to.

That's how good this new Auburn 8-In-Line is.

That's how much confidence we have in it.

This offer to drive it is open to everybody—without the slightest obligation to anyone. No matter what car you now drive—no matter if you bought a new car yesterday—you owe it to yourself to take the wheel of this new Auburn 8-In-Line. Competitors—distributors, dealers and salesmen are especially invited to drive this car.

We are not going to tell you in a loud bass voice that this new Auburn 8-In-Line will do 75 miles an hour—

Or tell you it takes the steepest hills in high with magic smoothness—

Or tell you it will crawl along at less than a mile an hour in traffic.

What this car is and can do we will leave to the car itself to tell you—and show you. It can well speak for itself—to anybody, any day and on any road,—in competition with any car at any price.

We are going to tell you—that it has 4-wheel brakes;

That it has genuine full size balloon tires.

Also to continue part of the things we want to tell you—that the springs have 12 leaves—you can count them—And in addition 4 snubbers are standard equipment.

That the frame underneath the Auburn 8-In-Line is the strongest ever built and has a safety factor of five; (ask any engineer how much greater this is than ordinary cars).

That, as a car to drive you never drove its equal. You can steer it safely through sand at high speed with only your thumb and forefinger of one hand on the wheel;

That, in the balance of its remarkable motor and in the road balance of the car itself, there is nothing to compare. Again let us invite you to drive it as that is the only way you can appreciate the performance of this new Auburn.

That the 8-In-Line sedan has an aluminum body, cork-padded next to the frame and between the fenders—absolutely without rumble, 124" wheelbase.

That, on open models a permanent top lined with whip-cord is standard and a hidden metal backing keeps it forever in shape. Side curtains of double texture material are hand-made and tailored to the job, carried in a compartment back of the front seat. An economical installation of glass sides gives California top appearance and the comfort of a closed car.

We simply poured quality into the new Auburn 8-In-Line because we believe the public is exasperated, fed up, with cheaply built cars that are slopped out in a hurry by big-production methods.

You never have heard an Auburn owner complain about his car and you can bet your bottom dollar you will never hear a kick about this new Auburn 8-In-Line.

The men who own the Auburn factory have all the money they need and their families will ever need —so they get a real pleasure out of producing exceptionally fine automobiles.

The result is—the latest, greatest, eight—the latest Auburn.

See it—that's all we ask—come today and drive it.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Forced into extra rounds because of an error by the luckless George Grantham in the ninth, Killefer's Cubs broke out with a vengeance in the twelfth today, pounded four runs over the plate, made a farce of what until then had been a sterling struggle, and temporarily halted the pennantward march of the Giants by 7 to 3.

Whatever glory wasn't cornered by the Cubs, who pounded the ball when runs were at stake, must be accorded old Grover Alexander. That grizzled veteran started and was still there at the finish, going as strong as ever. He was nicked by fourteen hits, but he kept them scattered and would have attained his twelfth victory in regulation time if Grantham hadn't wabbled on what should have been the final play. The young second sacker let Young's easy hopper roll through his paws with two dead and a runner on second in the ninth, and that's what tied it at 3 apiece.

Nineteen Giants in Game.

McGraw, the master strategist, never went to greater extremes to win a single game. Injuries, the necessity of pinch hitters, and the still greater necessity of one pitcher after another brought nineteen Giants into the combat. Five of the nineteen were pitchers who actually went to the slab, one other pitcher played in the outfield, and still another acted as pinch batter. And as that wasn't bad enough, McGraw had to move two of his outfielders into the inner defense.

One of McGraw's changes was forced by an injury to the sensational Frankie Frisch, who attempted to win the decision by a sensational offensive play in the eleventh. With two dead in that round Frisch survived on a fumble by Adams. He started to steal immediately and Hartnett threw the ball into center field. Frisch leaped up and went to third. With the ball still in the outfield he charged on toward the plate. He dove into the counter head first, but Hartnett met him with the ball. In the jam, Frisch's right hand was wrenched and he had to quit. If it proves a serious injury the Giants are gone.

Hartnett Gets Four Hits.

Despite his bad throw that Frisch tried to convert into victory, Hartnett played a hero rôle because of his hitting. Up six times, he dazzled the champions with four hits. In the second he tripled far to right center and drove in a run. In the fifth he wasted a single, but in the seventh cut loose another that helped a run home. Then in the twelfth, when the going was good and the fickle Giant rooters were giving their favorites the razz, Hartnett uncorked another single.

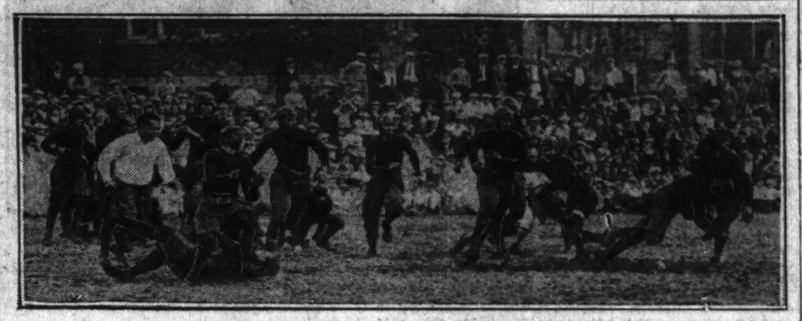
When the winning twelfth started, Heathcote stepped up and banged a single to right. Maun had just gone to the slab for the champions. Grantham sacrificed and Howard Fitzgerald, playing his first game, drove a single into right and Heathcote went home on it. Then Friberg hit safely and O'Connell fumbled the ball, putting runners on third and second. Grigsby grounded to Terry and Fitzgerald beat the throw to the plate. Then came Hartnett with his fourth hit that scored Friberg and banished Maun. Baldwin took up the thankless task and Cotter singled Grigsby home. The next two batters died easily.

Paddon Retains World's Sculling Championship

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Sept. 20.—James Paddon of Australia retained the world's sculling championship today by defeating Mal. Goodsell. Paddon came in twelve lengths ahead.

RIVAL NORTH SIDE PREPS BATTLE ON EVEN TERMS

Jim Edwards, Senn left half back, who bore the brunt of his school's attack in the 0 to 0 game with Loyola yesterday, reeled off a number of long runs around the ends. The Green half back is shown above scooting around Loyola's right wing in a twenty yard sprint in the midst of the first quarter.



J. Ladner, without the head guard, being stopped in his tracks by a Senn lineman. Ladner played brilliantly, and while he seldom succeeded in breaking through the bulky Senn forwards, the small Loyola back was one of the reasons why brawn did not triumph over speed. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

WASHINGTON is leading the race, one game ahead of New York and six games ahead of Detroit. If Detroit should win all of its remaining six games, Washington would have to win only two of its remaining eight to beat out the Tigers, while the Yankees would have to win three out of eight. The final standing in that case would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Washington	88	66	.571
New York	88	66	.571
Detroit	87	67	.565

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

NEW YORK is leading today, one and one-half games ahead of Pittsburgh and one and one-half ahead of Brooklyn, though the latter is in third place because of having played more games than Pittsburgh. If Brooklyn should win all of its remaining six games, then New York would have to win six of its remaining seven to beat out the Dodgers or Pittsburgh would have to win eight of its remaining nine games. As New York and Pittsburgh meet in a three game series this week, it is impossible for both of them to win all except one of the remaining games, but if either one wins all except one game while Brooklyn loses none, the final standing of either relative to the Brooklyn club would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	95	59	.617
Pittsburgh	94	60	.614

CHASE LAWYER GRANTED DELAY IN FIRPO CASE

New York, Sept. 20.—At the request of Bernard N. Sandler, attorney for Canon William Sheafe Chase, Commissioner Samuel M. Hitchcock today adjourned the hearing in the perjury proceedings against Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight fighter until Monday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Sandler told the commissioner that he was not ready to proceed with his case, as he had still to examine the steward on the steamship American Legion, the vessel on which Firpo came to New York. Hyman Bushel, attorney for Firpo, announced that he was ready for the hearing at once, but made no protest at the adjournment.

Firpo was present and as usual taciturn and sullen looking. He refused to make any comment whatever on the deportation and perjury proceedings which were made at the instigation of Canon Chase.

AURORA JOCKEY IS HELD UP BY AUTO BANDITS

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Albert Gantner, a jockey riding for the M. Shapoff stable at the running races now being conducted at Exposition Park here, was held up by auto bandits early this morning and robbed of $1,000.

He was riding to Aurora in a taxicab from the Oak Dell hotel near the race track when a Hudson car crowded the taxi to the side of the road. One of the men in the Hudson jumped out, covered Gantner with a gun and ordered him to get out of the cab. He then relieved him of two $500 bills. Gantner notified the police, but no arrests have been made.

LOYOLA BATTLES SENN PREPS TO SCORELESS TIE

Loyola academy eleven, small, fast, and aggressive, held Senn high school's squad of huskies to a scoreless tie yesterday in the opening game of the season for both schools on the Loyola campus. A throng of more than 5,000 prep rooters saw the battle.

There was practically nothing to choose between the two elevens, for neither was able to make much headway or had the punch to bring a score when opportunity was knocking. Fumbles on the part of Coach Crooks' greencoat warriors cost them chances to penetrate deep into the Loyola territory, while Coach Leonard Sachs' boys could do little offensively when near Senn's goal line.

Try for Goal Fails.

In the fourth quarter, when Loyola made its most sustained effort to bring about a score, Senn rooters almost lost hope, remembering the 3 to 0 defeat their team suffered last year when a place kick decided the issue.

With the ball on Senn's 12 yard mark and fourth down, the home team elected to try for victory by means of a place kick. Phil Mooney, brilliant little Loyola quarter back, sent the oval goalward, but his aim was poor, the ball going wide of the posts.

Before this Loyola never seriously menaced the Senn goal, the green jerseyed forward wall withstanding every line assault and every dash around the ends. Forward passes mixed with an occasional end run made it possible for Loyola to carry the ball from midfield to within the shadows of its opponents' goal line.

During this rush toward the visitors' ground, Loyola made its first downs twice, never being able to accomplish this in the three previous sessions.

Senn Nears Goal.

At the outset it appeared as though Coach Crooks' boys would march down the field to a touchdown. Smash after smash through the Loyola forwards brought the pigskin into Loyola territory, where it was lost on downs.

After Loyola's failure to count its three points in the try for a field goal, Senn, receiving the ball on its 20 yard mark, opened up for the first time and hurled passes and sent its fleet backs around end for goodly gains. Senn managed to put the ball on the 30 yard mark, but Phil Mooney's intercepted pass ended all hopes of a Senn victory, and likewise a hope of a Loyola triumph faded shortly after, with the ball in the possession of the home team when the final whistle was blown. Fathers' Day to Feature Gopher-Badger Grid Game

Madison, Wis., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Fathers of University of Wisconsin students will be here in hundreds Oct. 18 when the Badger eleven opens its conference season against the University of Minnesota on the Camp Randall stadium field.

The occasion of the Gopher-Badger clash has been officially set as Wisconsin Fathers' day, a new event in modern traditions. A large committee, selected from students returning early from their vacation, already is at work upon entertainment plans for the fathers who will be guests of the university that week-end.

TENNIS RANKINGS.

WILL Vincent Richards, regarded by many as sometime successor to Bill Tilden as national tennis champion, supplant "Little Bill" Johnston as No. 2 in the American tennis ranking for 1924?

This question arose when Richards carried Tilden to five sets in the latter's defense of his title—before the Yankee Davis cup team made a clean sweep of five matches against the challenging Australians, in which Richards won his two singles tests.

Probability of such ranking was indicated by choice of Richards instead of Johnston to supplement Tilden in Davis cup singles. Johnston was national champion in 1915 and 1919. Since the latter date he has been placed second to Tilden each year.

Richards first flashed among the "First Ten" as a "youthful phenomenon" in 1921. He was third to Tilden and Johnston that year, and in 1922. Last year he dropped back to fourth to make room for R. N. Williams Jr.

This year, however, Richards has played his greatest tennis, both abroad and at home. His early brilliance was strengthened by greater steadiness, a needed quality for a future champion, without loss of dazing. Richards is a logical selection for the No. 2 notch.

Richards, by the way, is scheduled to appear against Tilden in an exhibition match at Skokie Country club this afternoon.

Suggested Baseball Rule.

Johnny Evers suggests that all base runners be advanced one base on every base on balls to do away with the evils of the intentional pass. The objection is that it places too great a penalty on the pitcher who gives a walk without so intending. Permit me to add this suggestion:

No base on balls shall be interpreted as intentional when two strikes have been called on the batter. Any base on balls issued without obtaining two strikes on the batter shall be interpreted as intentional, and all base runners shall advance one base. On passes not herein defined as intentional present rule on base runners shall remain in force.

Break Away, Break Away!

A wood sprite sat at my desk today,
And whispered:
"Break away, break away!"

Under some age-old evergreen trees
I've built a modest shack;
Where wierdly the fragrant evening breeze
Croons in the tamarack;
Where the stars shine out so bright at night,
And the silver lake below
Reflects in its depths the soft twilight
When the winds have ceased to blow.

When night's dark blanket dims the sight
And wood elfs dance about,
We hover close near the cabin's light,
Which gleams so blithe without;
The forest noises moan and thrill,
And wild folk hum and cry,
From the far off piping whippoorwill
To the croaking frog hard by.

A wood sprite sat at my desk today,
And whispered:
"Break away, break away!"

So I'm going to pack my fishing smack
And let the trouble pile;
I'm going back to my timber shack
To fish and loaf a while. WESANDER.

LADKIN BEATS A FAST FIELD IN AQUEDUCT RACE

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—All doubts as to the champion 3 year old of this section were dispelled today when August Belmont's Ladkin stood a crackerjack field of handicap horses on their heads at Aqueduct in the $7,200 Edgemere at a mile and an eighth, in 1:49 2-5.

Clarence Kummer had the mount and got his horse off well in front. At the end he was just galloping to beat Spot Cash, five length in his wake, while King Solomon's Seal was two lengths further back. Eight lengths astern of Seal was Catalan, Snapper Garrison's entry, which recently had other 3 year olds winging in Canada.

RECEIVER ASKED TO RUN CUBAN RACING PLANT

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 20.—Petition for appointment of a receiver for the Cuban-American Jockey and Automobile club has been filed in federal court here, alleging mismanagement on the part of Charles S. Stoneham, owner of the New York Giants, and others of the Jockey club's board of directors, by counsel for Harry D. Brown Sr., well known race track man and one of the stockholders of the company. Brown resides in Los Angeles.

Brown, the petition alleges, asks the appointment of a receiver for the club because, he claims, if the management of the club continues under Stoneham he will lose $115,000 he has invested. Stoneham obtained controlling stock in 1921, the petition states, and at that time 10 per cent dividends were being paid, and now, it is set forth, the club pays no dividends, and is on the verge of bankruptcy.

The club is organized as a Florida corporation, with Jacksonville named as the annual meeting place.

Molla Mallory Wins Ardsley Club Tourney

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Molla Mallory won the women's invitation tennis tournament at the Ardsley club today when she defeated Mrs. H. Stuart Green in the final round by the scors of 6—0, 6—1. Before she met Mrs. Green, the former champion beat Mrs. Betty Corbiere of Boston, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3. Mrs. Green reached the finals through the default of Mrs. Edward Raymond of Hartsdale.

MIDWICKS BEAT HURRICANES IN OPEN POLO MEET

Meadowbrook, Westbury, L. I., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—California's gallant horsemen fought their way into the semi-finals of the American open championship on International field at Meadowbrook today, conquering the Hurricanes, led by Louis Lacey, and including two other British internationalists, by the score of 14-11, before 25,000 spectators and the prince of Wales, who saw three chukkers of the game.

Wanderers Win.

The Wanderers also advanced into the second round of the tournament by beating Devereux Milburn's Freebooters in another close struggle on Cochrane field. The Freebooters went out in front during the early periods, but the brilliant young internationalist, Tommy Hitchcock, playing No. 2 for the Wanderers, carried his team through to victory in the final periods, tying the score in the sixth with a brilliant dash down the field, putting his team in the lead with a goal in the seventh chukker and clinching the victory at 5 to 3 with another tally in the eighth.

The California-Hurricane game took the place of the third international match, which was called off when America's big four triumphed over the English representatives in two successive games, and a brilliant throng came to witness the struggle. The prince occupied the official box of the United States Polo association.

Full of Thrills.

The game itself was replete with thrills and the sensational battle of the Californians brought the crowd to its feet time and again. Eric Pedley, the spectacular western horseman who has won a place in the hearts of every polo enthusiast who has seen him in action this year, was the main factor in the victory. He rode with all the dashing courage that won him a substitute's place on the American international squad, and accounted for nine of the Californians' fourteen goals. Lineup:

HENRY WINNER IN SHOOT AT LINCOLN PARK

A. B. Henry was the winner in the Elliot sliding handicap 75 target event at the Lincoln park traps yesterday. He shattered sixty-nine of the clay birds. Charles Burmeister captured second honors after a shoot-off with W. M. Johnson and Dr. L. Schulte. Each of them had turned in scores of 67. Other high scores were: Dan Zer, 62; E. Smith, 61; Dr. Cooke, 61, and J. A. Grove [professional], 64.

In the 100 target doubles W. M. Johnson was the winner with 84, and Dan Zer was second with 78.

The Question.

Do you think the Notre Dame-Army football game Oct. 18 should be played in the Grant Park stadium here?

Where Asked.

Monroe street at Grant park.

The Answers.

Edwin Boehmer, 29 South La Salle street, bonds.—The game between the Army and Notre Dame should be played in Grant Park stadium to give the people of the middle west a chance to see the Army players and the cadets and to familiarize themselves with the part it plays in our national military system. It will carry on the stimulation of patriotism, for which National Defense day was set aside.

A. M. Jacobson, 1706 East 72d street salesman.—I think it should be played here to give the general public of the middle west a chance to see the Army and Notre Dame teams in action. I would like to see it, as Rockne is always there with a real collegiate team.

William D. Works, 140 South Dearborn street, architect.—I am in favor of having the Notre Dame and Army football game played in Grant park stadium Oct. 18, as no Army or Navy football team has played here before. It would interest the general public in the middle west to see our Army cadets in action.

* * *

C. J. Kjellstrand, 3142 Osgood street, electrical supply agent.—This game should be played in Grant park stadium. It would give the people in the middle west a chance to see Notre Dame and the Army in action. The stadium would be filled to capacity for such an attraction.

* * *

Joseph Chebonis, 4140 Archer avenue, stationary engineer.—If the Notre Dame-Army game could be played here in the Grant park stadium, it would give people throughout the middle west an opportunity to see two real teams in action. I would like to see them myself.

THREE ENTRIES IN BALLOON RACE FOR NEW RECORD

Washington Courthouse, O., Sept. 20.—Twenty-four airplanes from McCook field, Dayton, will be sent here Sept. 30 as a feature of the start of a balloon race to set a new world's record for duration and distance, local committees arranging for the race were advised today.

So far, three entries have been made for the event, all balloons owned by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company of Akron, and all of which were flown in the Gordon Bennett cup race in Belgium. Another entry or two is expected.

It was announced today that the race will be open to any class of gas bags. It was first proposed to limit entries to "baby balloons."

BY JOE DAVIS.

French Lick, Ind., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Once more Walter Hagen of New York gave convincing proof that he is the premier golfer of the country and the equal of any golfer in the world. Today he supplemented his win of this year's British open championship by defeating Jim Barnes of New York, in the deciding contest for the championship of the Professional Golfers' association.

His margin of 2 up over the thirty-six hole route at the French Lick Golf club was the outcome of a morning round in which his superb play appeared to have his lengthy opponent on the toboggan to a heavy defeat. The lengthy Englishman faced a deficit of four holes when they started the afternoon round, but, as on many previous occasions, he showed his fighting spirit and carried the battle to the thirty-sixth hole.

Misses Easy Putt.

There a badly played second shot for the green wrecked his chances of the win he needed to carry the struggle to extra holes.

Through the first nine in the afternoon he reduced Hagen's lead to 2 up and then at the eleventh cut it to 1 by shooting a birdie 3. He never should have lost the twelfth hole, but he dogged an eighteen inch putt for a half, not giving the ball a chance. This was a crucial putt for him, as had he made it he would have squared the match at the next green, where he won with a 3. Instead, he was 1 down, and he never had a chance to square. Hagen took the fifteenth hole, and by halving the sixteenth practically clinched the match, being dormie 3.

New Lease on Life.

Walter took three putts on the seventeenth green and gave Jim another lease of life, but Jim's wide shot for the last hole extinguished his hope and Hagen with a 4 rivveted down the championship crown. It was a tough defeat for Barnes, as a win would have given him permanent possession of the big cup.

Hagen came through to victory by defeating T. Harmon, 4 and 3; Al Watrous, 4 and 3; John Farrell, 3 and 2, and Ray Derr, 5 and 7; Barnes won from Brady in thirty-nine holes, Eddie Towns, 10 and 9; Emmet French, 6 and 4, and Larry Nabholtz, 1 up.

1,200 Follow Players.

Even though the final today was between two of the big players it did not give the gallery as much zest as that between Barnes and Nabholtz, as the young Lima player was a prime favorite. However, today's match drew the biggest gallery of the week, approximately 1,200 climbing the hills in the wake of the New York stars. And they walked over a course which another heavy night rain had turned from hay color to green. Fortunately the rain stopped early in the morning and the players had another fine day which, after being alternating cloudy and sunshine, broke into a great afternoon and so topped off a great week of wonderful golf and the best weather any of the big tournaments of the year have been blessed with.

There was water in some of the traps when the finalists got away and one or two of the greens were soggy, so that the players were allowed to detach mud from their balls. Also they were allowed to treat a soggy part of the green as casual water and to lift their balls if buried in the fairway, but this latter never happened.

Hole by Hole Detail.

Score by holes:

MORNING ROUND.

HOLE 1, 418 YARDS. PAR 4—Drives and pitches were equal and they put 25 feet approach putts dead and halved in 4.

HOLE 2, 385 YARDS. PAR 4—This was a repetition of the first hole, the approach putts being 10 feet longer; they halved in 4.

HOLE 3, 390 YARDS. PAR 4—Driving into the breeze, their shots were fifty yards shorter than the boys had been making earlier in the week over the hard course. They sent long irons to the green, run their approach putts dead and halved in 4.

HOLE 4, 164 YARDS. PAR 3—This green is pitched high on the hill and both got home, Hagen being 15 feet away and Barnes a foot nearer. Hagen laid Barnes a long stymie and they halved in 3.

HOLE 5, 453 YARDS. PAR 5—Both sliced to the rough, Hagen's long second went 30 feet by the pin and Barnes to the left corner. Barnes was 10 feet short on his third and Hagen ran his approach dead. Barnes saving his 4. Hagen 1 up.

HOLE 6, 186 YARDS. PAR 3—Hagen drove to the left corner of the green, Barnes running over. Jim made a fine chip shot two feet from the cup and halved in 3.

HOLE 7, 400 YARDS. PAR 5—They got good drives and then Barnes half topped a spoon shot. Hagen made a worse mistake, his ball hitting a trap and bounding clear. It made little difference to Walter who sliced an iron shot 170 yards 6 feet by the pin. Jim on the line, from 50 yards, went 30 feet by. His putt went six feet by the hole and, Hagen missing his downhill putt, went in and stymied Jim. He had a fair chance to get in, but his putt went one inch wide and Hagen won, 5 to 6, and was 3 up.

HOLE 8, 370 YARDS. PAR 4—This was halved in normal fours.

HOLE 9, 344 YARDS. PAR 4—Playing into the strong wind, both had long iron seconds and their balls rested eight inches apart. They missed 15 foot putts and halved the hole in 4, leaving Hagen 2 up at the turn.

HOLE 10, 339 YARDS, PAR 4—Both were about 45 feet from the green on their second shots. Jim ran his approach putt up with a mighty heave and went over six feet. Hagen rested 18 inches from the pin. Barnes' putt just dropped in and then Hagen blew the putt, giving Barnes his first win, 4 to 5. Hagen 1 up.

HOLE 11, 330 YARDS. PAR 4—Barnes outdrove Hagen 40 yards, but both were on in two and ran long approach putts close for fours.

HOLE 12, 220 YARDS. PAR 4—With the wind behind them, they spanked out drives of 290 yards. Hagen pitched 3 feet from the pin but Barnes was 15 feet short. He missed and Hagen sank a nifty downhill putt for a birdie 3 and was 2 up.

HOLE 13, 363 YARDS. PAR 5—Hagen was just on the green and Barnes just short. Barnes chipped to 18 inches, but Hagen's second left him a yard putt, which he nearly missed, the ball curling in. Halved in 3.

HOLE 14, 508 YARDS. PAR 5—They got good drives. Hagen pulled a low brassie shot and jumped a trap. Then Barnes, from a hanging lie, topped his brassie shot 120 yards. Jim recovered with a full iron to the left of the pin, but Hagen went off the green a few feet to the right and was hole high. Hagen had to approach over sogey ground and asked to have his ball moved out of the line. There was some objection by Barnes as to where it could be placed and Walter said he would play it where it was. He ran the ball four inches from the cup, giving Barnes a stymie on a straight shot. It is a terraced green and Jim played up a slope and curled in so as to miss Hagen's ball. It was a fine try and they halved in fives.

HOLE 15, 452 YARDS. PAR 5—Hagen's iron second was short of the green, Barnes' getting hole high with a spoon. Hagen's run up was 6 feet by the pin and he missed the return putt. Jim getting down in two putts from 30 feet.

HOLE 16, 130 YARDS. PAR 3—Barnes' tee shot was sliced and landed in the face of a trap. Hagen was 14 feet from the pin. Jim made a fine recovery, 3 feet from the cup, but missed the putt and lost, 4 to 5, putting Hagen 3 up.

HOLE 17, 370 YARDS. PAR 4—Barnes shanked his mashie pitch badly, topping the ball, which ran up the hill and left him 40 yards from the green. Hagen was on in two but Jim made a good pitch to 6 feet and missed his putt, which would have given him a half in four. Hagen winning, 4—5.

HOLE 18, 394 YARDS. PAR 4—They got fine drives, but were stymied by a big oak tree. Jim pulled around it and went to the far edge of the green. Hagen tried the same shot but got no hook and was trapped at the right corner of the green. Then he sliced his shot chipped by the pin 15 feet and it lacked as if Barnes might win. Jim's approach putt downhill was 5 feet short and when Hagen sank his putt, which was the longest of the round, Jim missed and lost, 5 to 4, leaving him four down.

AFTERNOON ROUND.

HOLE 1, 416 YARDS. PAR 4—This was halved in normal fours.

HOLE 2, 385 YARDS. PAR 4—Both were home in two and down in two more.

HOLE 3, 200 YARDS. PAR 4—Their long iron seconds went 15 feet past the pin, and again they halved in 4.

HOLE 4, 164 YARDS. PAR 3—Barnes' pitch was 6 feet from the pin, Hagen being off the green to the right. He was five feet short on his second and missed the putt, losing, 4 to 5. Hagen 1 up.

HOLE 5, 453 YARDS. PAR 5—Barnes' second was just on the green, but he chipped dead and Hagen from thirty feet putted to eight inches and they halved in 5.

HOLE 6, 166 YARDS. PAR 3—Barnes overplayed the green thirty feet and Hagen was trapped on the left. Barnes chipped over the bank and was six feet short. Hagen chipping to eight feet. Hagen holed and Barnes jerked his putt and missed. Hagen 2 up.

HOLE 7, 400 YARDS—Hagen topped his second into a trap and his third stuck in the bank so he picked up. Barnes getting home in 3. Hagen 3 up.

HOLE 8, 370 YARDS. PAR 4—This is a dog leg hole and Barnes put his second down deep in the rough and down with a birdie 3 feet from the cup and down with a birdie 3. Hagen missing a ten foot putt. Hagen 2 up.

HOLE NINE, 394 YARDS. PAR 4. Hagen was 50 feet past the pin on his pitch. Barnes being 16 feet to the right. Hagen holed a 6 footer and halved in five. Hagen 3 up.

HOLE TEN, 388 YARDS. PAR 4. Hagen who was over the green chipped his second and ran down the slope to 4 feet and got a half. Barnes having a similar putt after approaching from 55 feet.

HOLE ELEVEN, 330 YARDS. PAR 4. Hagen's pitch was 45 feet short and Barnes 20 feet to the right. Jim holed for a birdie 3 leaving Hagen 3 up.

HOLE TWELVE, 405 YARDS. PAR 4. Both made fine drives, but Barnes put his pitch to the far edge of the green. Hagen on the line was 6 feet away. Barnes' third was 10 feet to the left and when Hagen missed Jim followed suit with a terrible putt which did not reach the hole. Hagen won 4 to 5 and was 2 up.

HOLE THIRTEEN, 290 YARDS. PAR 3. Into the wind Hagen used a spoon and Barnes an iron, both putting off the green. They chipped back and when Barnes holed a 7 foot putt Hagen missed from 6 feet. Hagen 1 up.

HOLE FOURTEEN, 395 YARDS. PAR 5. This was a long hole into the wind, but both got the far edge of the green in 3 and halved in 5.

HOLE 15, 422 YARDS. PAR 4—Hagen used a spoon for his second and was short of the green. Barnes' iron second was 35 yards short and his iron up was 12 feet wide of the pin, a poor shot. Hagen ran his third 6 inches and won, 4 and 5. Barnes just missing. Hagen 2 up.

HOLE 16, 130 YARDS. PAR 3—Halved in 3, each missing 16 foot putt. Hagen dormie 2.

HOLE 17, 370 YARDS. PAR 4—Both got home in 2, but Hagen took 3 putts, missing a 4 footer. Barnes won, 4 and 3, and was 1 down.

HOLE 18, 394 YARDS. PAR 4—Hagen's drive left him a clear shot for the green, but Barnes was stymied by the lone oak on the course. Jim tried to hook, but went off the green to a trap and his shot out went to the far corner of the green. Hagen was on the near side of the green in 2 and, after Barnes had played 4 close to the pin, Hagen sent his third to 18 inches and Barnes conceded the match.

GLENNA RETAINS CANADIAN TITLE

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 20.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., successfully defended her Canadian woman's open golf championship title here today, defeating Miss Ada Mackenzie of Hamilton, former titleholder, 9 and 8. Miss Mackenzie conceded the 28th hole.

Miss Collett's game was superb throughout. Incidental to defending her laurels, she set a new championship course record for women in the morning squad, shooting the first 18 holes in 76.

Elgin College Doped to Win Grid Title Again

Elgin college, with practically the same line which won the northern Illinois conference title last year, is doped to repeat again this year. Crane college, which did not make much of a showing last year, is considerably improved. The Northern Illinois Junior College conference schedule follows:

Oct. 11—Crane at Medill. Lisle at Elgin. Elmhurst at Crane. Oct. 18—Elmhurst at Crane. Oct. 25—Lisle at Crane, Elmhurst at Medill. Nov. 1—Elmhurst at Lisle. Nov. 15—Medill at Lisle.

Iowa State Coach Calls Cross Country Runners

Ames, Ia., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—With two letter men back and two others who have had experience as a section, Coach W. E. Beanblossom has issued his first call for Iowa State cross-country men. Capt. McIntire, who won the Missouri Valley conference run last year, and Griffith are the letter men back, while Drew and Holcomb have had experience.

GAS NINE WINS.

The Peoples Gas Light & Coke company won the first game of the series for the championship of the Chicago Industrial Athletic league of the Chicago Association of Commerce, by defeating the La Salle Extension university at Washington park, 6 to 2. Score:

Peoples Gas	200	100	101—3
La Salle	000	010	010—2

Batteries—Wheeler and Christensen; Mahoney and Hilgard.

CORKRAN BREAKS LINKS MARK TO LEAD AMATEURS

Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—Brilliant golf, including a record breaking 67 by D. Clarke Corkran of Philadelphia, featured the first thirteen holes of play today in the qualifying round for the national amateur championship at the Merion Cricket club.

Out in 36, equal to par, and home in 31, three under par, Corkran led an international field in which most of the ten stars of Great Britain's Walker cup team fared poorly. He has an excellent chance to win the qualifying medal which will be decided when the field has played eighteen more holes Monday.

Bobby Jones of Atlanta, competing at the club where he made a sensational debut in national golf eight years ago, seemed to have the lead without dispute with a 72 until Corkran turned in his surprising card. Bobby dropped to second place.

Dexter Cummings Near Top.

Next came another prodigy, Roland R. McKenzie, 17 year old high school student of Washington, D. C., with a 73, which was equalled by T. A. Torrance of the British Walker cup team, the only visiting Briton to be in the low seventies; F. J. Wright, Jr., of Boston, formerly of Los Angeles, and Dexter Cummings of Chicago, intercollegiate champion.

If the excellent conditions of today continue on Monday competitors must get well under 80 in order to be certain of being among the thirty-two who will continue in the tournament, starting match play on Tuesday.

There were forty-nine scores of better than 80 after today's play, with fourteen at 79.

Out in the danger zone with 79 ordinarily enough to qualify if supplemented with another round equally as good are, among others, Jesse Sweetser of New York, former amateur champion, and Cyril Tolley, captain of the British Walker cup players seem to have slim chances to qualify.

Panama Champ Fails.

The champion of Panama, Edmund L. Koperski, took a 94 and is out of it. Three Canadians, including the dominion's champion, Frank Thompson, of Toronto, must have exceptional rounds on Monday in order to remain in the tournament.

Corkran, a semi-finalist at Merion in 1916 and a former resident of Baltimore, smashed the record for the new Merion course of 6,515 yards, which hitherto has been par 70. He made six birdies and was over perfect figures but three times. He took twenty-eight putts for the round and made six birdies. A bad lie caused him to go over par once, three putts were responsible at another hole and a hook to a trap was the cause on the third occasion.

At other times he was long and straight from the tee and accurate with irons and putts. Never has his 67 been equaled in national amateur golf.

Jones Best in Morning.

Bobby Jones was out in 35, one under par, but slipped a bit coming home. He scored three birdies. On the 523 yard second hole, his second, with a spoon, carried him to the edge of the green, and he was down in 4, missing an eagle by less than an inch. His worst hole was the eleventh, where he got a 6 after driving to rough of deep clover.

Dexter Cummings, out in 38, heard of the speed of the field, and managed to finish in 35, one over par.

An 8 by Chick Evans on the 378 yard eleventh hole, which has a narrow fairway and a plateau green guarded by water, cost him his chances of breaking 75, and he took 78. It was this same hole that prevented Bobby Jones from equalling par. Chick drove into a trap and put two shots into the water, suffering two penalty strokes. Scores:

M'ANDLESS AND HOREMANS WILL PLAY IN WEST

Dave McAndless, Chicago's champion professional billiardist at 18.2 balk line, is taking Edouard Horemans, the Belgian champion, and Jaumto Vargas, the South American, on a tour of the western states. Vargas is said to be a really great player, having runs to his credit of 300 and more. Horemans is one of the greatest billiard players, having made a fine showing against Champion Willie Hoppe and the other leaders. In 1923 Horemans finished fourth in the international tournament, but he carried off the high run average of the tournament with 241, and he had a better grand average than Cochran.

The billiard season at the Madison-Kedzie Arcade, 2127 West Madison street, will open tomorrow and continue Tuesday and Wednesday. Starting tomorrow at 8 o'clock, Richard L. Forrey, state amateur champion at three cushion billiards, meets Isadore Kiefus, the south side champion, in a 150 point match. 50 points being disposed of each night, with J. Herbert Levis as referee. This match will be for the state title and trophy offered by the Illinois Billiard association.

Forrey, the present champion, already has won two state tournaments, two diamond medals, and two of the state trophies, and has successfully defended his title in six challenge matches. Kiefus is rated as one of the best amateur players in Chicago.

H. W. Lockabaugh, former amateur three cushion billiard champion of the United States, has been signed to represent the State Theater club of Boston in the title campaign of the National Championship Three-Cushion Billiard league, it is announced by John E. Scanlan, secretary of the league.

Janesville Golfer Makes 605 Yard Hole in Three

Janesville, Wis., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—A double eagle, the first one in the history of the club, was scored by Arthur Granger on the 605 yard ninth hole at the Janesville Country club. Par is six, and he made it in three. A long drive, followed by a long iron shot and finished with a 150 yard approach into the hole, gave Granger the feat.

Hillside Golfer Sets 9 and 18 Hole Records

Edward Grunt, a member of the Hillside Golf club, succeeded in breaking two club records over the club course when he handed in a card of 36—37—73 yesterday. Thirty-eight was the best previous record for the nine holes and 76 for the eighteen.

FIVE CUE STARS SIGN UP.

Five players have now been signed up definitely for the coming campaign of the National Championship Pocket Billiard league. Affiliation of Pasquale Natalie with Klein's Modern Billiard academy, Baltimore, Md., is the latest to be made public.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE, Edmond S. Gillette was incorrectly credited with having made a hole in one on the Glen View club course. Mr. Gillette was playing with C. C. Bergmann, who scored the ace.

THEY CLAIM IT'S LEGAL

Husky guards and scrappy tackles are nothing in the football life of Charles R. Brookins, world champion low hurdler. He is out for a job in the Iowa back field and he does not propose to let anything like a lumbering linesman bother him. He learned how on the cinder path, and he is keeping in shape clearing the tallest man on the Hawk line, Krasuski. His stride is legal, authorities say.

Hole in One Club

J. E. NELSON, 1534 East 63th street, has joined the hole in one club. He received his membership on the Jackson Park course, shooting the 135 yard eighth hole in one.

Unable to make an ace over the home course, Bert Barrows, greenkeeper at the Kenosha Country club, visited Nippersink lodge during the week and registered a hole in one at the seventh, 96 yards. Barrow played with Ernest, Franklin, and Irwin Salyes.

G. Olson, playing with President James Gibson and J. Olson, made the twelfth hole in one on the Acacia course yesterday. The distance is 225 yards.

MARVIN RICK FIRST IN N.Y.A.C. STEEPLECHASE

New York, Sept. 20.—Marvin Rick of the New York Athletic club, member of this year's American Olympic team and former Princeton star, today captured the National A. A. P. steeplechase, feature event of a special track and field meet under the auspices of the New York A. C. at Travers island.

Rick won by a bare yard in a thrilling finish with Roland Payne of Ohio State university, also a member of the Olympic team. Fred Yater, New York A. C., was third and Frank Titterton, Glencoe A. C., New York, fourth.

Payne set the pace most of the way over the obstacles, but was caught by Rick going over the last hurdle and beaten in the final sprint. The winner's time for the two miles, 10:43 1-5, was 2 2-5 seconds faster than the performance of the 1922 winner, Willie Ritola, who starred for Finland in the Olympics.

Matt McGrath, Olympic veteran, won the 56 pound weight throw with a heave of 37 feet 8½ inches, but Dick Landon of the New York A. C., former Olympic champion, was beaten in the high jump by a clubmate, Tom Halloran. Halloran, with a handicap of one inch, won the event with a mark of 6 feet 3 inches, while the best Landon, at scratch, could do was 6 feet.

Ben Owens and Nelson Sherrill, former Pennsylvania stars, and Sylvan Schelpp, ex-Yale performer, all tied in the pole vault at 12 feet, but Owens won the toss for first place and Sherrill for second. All are members of the New York A. C.

CANOE EVENTS AT NORWEGIAN MEET SATURDAY

Canoe and motor boat races, together with double and four oared shell events, will feature the athletic events of the annual Leif-Ericksen Festival day of the Norwegian National league next Saturday.

The festival will be open with exercises at the Viking ship in Lincoln park, and then the entire assemblage will parade down Michigan avenue to Grand and then to the Municipal pier, where they will hold the balance of their festivities.

There will be five canoe events open to all canoeists in Cook county. The motor boat races will bring together the fastest boats of the Chicago Motor Boat club and the South Shore Power Boat club. In addition, the Chicago Yacht club will hold its annual race, and the course has been laid out so that all yachts will pass the north end of the pier.

Entries for the canoe events close with Capt. Vincent Smith of the Lincoln Park Boat club at 192 North Clark street on Wednesday. Henry Hayes will be referee of the boating events, and A. C. K. Johnson will be starter. The program will open at 2 o'clock.

"Y" COLLEGE "11" ROUNDING INTO SHAPE AT CAMP

"Y" college grid team, now in training at Lake Geneva, is rounding into shape after the first six days of its sojourn under the direction of Coaches Edgren and Deaver. Thirty athletes comprise the aggregation, of which there is considerable back field material. The problem at the present time for the coach is to find men capable to fill the line positions.

Capt. Meyers, Maddox, Shaviey, Simester, Silkeapy, and Fedosky, letter men of last year's team, are slated for regular berths on the initial lineup this year. Bill Darres and Drury are two promising new gridders. Following is the schedule of games:

Oct. 4, Lake Forest at Chicago; Oct. 11, Wheaton at Wheaton; Oct. 18, Michigan Aggies at Lansing, Mich.; Oct. 25, Carroll at Waukesha; Nov. 1, Great Lakes at Great Lakes; Nov. 8, Wabash at Crawfordsville; Nov. 14, Western State Normal at Kalamazoo, Mich.

Badger Is South-Central Amateur Golf Champion

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 20.—Al H. Badger, of Dallas, Tex., won the south-central amateur golf championship today by defeating Tom E. Martin of Hot Springs, Ark., state champion, 4 and 3, in the thirty-six hole final round of the tournament played over the course of the Hot Springs Country club.

WASHINGTON PARK WINS.

Washington Park Lawn Bowling club yesterday defeated the combined teams of Milwaukee, Wauwatosa, and the Hickory club of Wisconsin by a score of 109 to 64 points at the local club.

SIMPSON TAKES TROPHY IN GOLF AT RIDGEMOOR

John A. Simpson, recent winner of the club title at Ridgmoor, added the Fellowship trophy to his collection by defeating E. A. Herrick, 1 up in the final round.

In the Wind Up tournament the winners were R. M. Henry, 72; B. Webb, 73; Harry Radix, 75, and Simpson, 75.

RIVERSIDE.

Winners in the sweepstakes were: Class A—J. C. Hertig, 73; E. A. Campbell, 73. Class B—E. M. Love, 67. Class C—J. B. McDougal, 78.

GLEN VIEW.

Tying at 76, D. A. Crawford had the luck in the draw against Kenneth P. Carpenter and won the prize in the handicap event for class A players.

R. W. Campbell won in class B with 86—14—72, and E. A. Mayo in class C with 95—19—76.

MAYWOOD.

The feature match in the second round of the club championship tournament was a victory at the twentieth green by J. B. O'Shaughnessy over H. Benson. E. A. Schultz defeated W. Maas, 1 up; F. Wilcox defeated K. J. Pederson, 2 and 1, and Judge Nutter defeated E. A. Appleton, 3 up.

PARK RIDGE.

Turning in a card of 90—17—73, W. W. Wickersham won the eighteen hole medal play event for men. Mrs. W. J. Berg annexed the women's championship by overcoming Mrs. G. W. Nickolson, 3 and 2, in the thirty-six hole final.

EDGEMOOR.

Charles Hopkins, 76—3—74, walked off with the medal play handicap event. Second place went to Dr. Moore, who had a card of 84—9—75, and third place was taken by Theodore Buis, his card reading 80—4—76.

NORTH SHORE.

L. Macomber, 1 down, captured the match play against par event. H. H. Harrison fought 3 down and A. B. Cooper and F. Delong 4 down.

GLEN OAK.

In the semi-finals of the club championship W. Waterbury Jr. defeated A. Herman, 2 and 1, and W. C. Connell beat W. McGuire, 3 up. The finals will be played Saturday. L. B. Bastine won the event against par, being 2 down. J. A. Watson, G. Herman, C. Wright, and F. E. Snyder tied for first in the blind bogey event, each having 77. A two-way tie existed for second place, but McKinnie and Dr. Boyce being in the deadlock.

BUTTERFIELD.

G. H. Deaton was awarded the first prize for the best costume worn in the costume tournament. Low net went to J. B. Wanta.

EDGEWOOD.

Charles W. Berguist Jr. defeated Benjamin O'Neil, 3 and 1, to win the president's cup. A card of 85—14—71 gave Ben McAuley low net prize. Art Sweet, with 79, had low gross.

INDIAN HILL.

In the eighteen hole match play against par event for the A. T. Stanton trophy R. O. Lord was the winner, finishing 2 up. Roger A. card of 82—14—68 gave Ben McAuley Brown, 3 and 1; H. S. Camp defeated C. W. Martyn, 7 and 5.

Sweepstakes winners were G. I. Rayman, 73; Camp, 74; C. M. Ballard, 77; J. F. Craddock, 77.

ACACIA.

The mantle of club champion fell on the shoulders of Ray G. Biegler, who defeated S. Martin, 3 and 4, in the thirty-six hole final.

In the semi-final for class B players F. Colins defeated Dr. Theobald, 4 and 3, and C. V. Peterson defeated L. F. Armbrecht, 3 and 2.

J. T. Samuels, 70; C. C. Garnell, 79, and M. D. Reder, 74, were the winners in the sweepstakes.

CALUMET.

Les Tallgren, 4 down, and Richard O'Hara, 5 down, were the winners in the match play event of the year. In the blind bogey contest, which was also match play against par, W. L. Eulass and C. C. Cole tied at 6 down.

Tallgren and Frank Kolter, finalists in the first flight of the Admiral cup tournament, postponed their match. In the second flight final T. V. Aaron defeated Dr. F. B. Van Wormer, 3 and 2, while in the third flight J. H. McElroy defeated G. E. Dewey, 3 and 2.

WESTMORELAND.

Frank M. Swirles took the club title yesterday after a victory of 1 up against A. C. Perry in the thirty-six hole final. Perry found solace by winning first prize in the sweepstakes with 76—4—75.

The Fellowship cup went to R. G. Gebhardt, who had 84—12—72.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

In the terrific battle for fifth place in the American league pennant race, the struggling White Sox yesterday split even in a double header with the Athletics, which leaves the Mackmen in the desired place and the Sox in seventh. The only way the Sox can accomplish any results in their ambitions is to knock their rivals off a couple of times in the same afternoon and that couldn't be done. The Macks won the first game, 7 to 4, and the Sox took the second, 5 to 2.

But regardless of the fact that these boys aren't really fighting for anything, one has to admire their pep and gingar in their play. One might have thought the two teams yesterday were battling for the pennant, so earnest was their performance. The fans knew better, though, as was indicated by their cheers or groans as the results of the games in which the Yankees and Washington are playing were tabulated on the scoreboard.

Thurston Beaten in First.

The White Sox, who never have believed they belonged below fifth position in the race, are making a gallant fight in these closing days to advance further from the cellar position. In the first combat of the double bill yesterday they had their ace pitcher of the year on the rubber, Mr. Hollis Thurston, and he was licked because he was opposed by the ace of the Athletics, Rommel.

It was a close and exciting game until Mr. Thurston made the mistake of grooving a ball to Mr. Simmons. He hit all the groovers in the Pacific Coast league over the Rocky mountains last year and he hit this particular one over the left field fence with a couple of mates on the bases, along in the seventh inning. That blow settled things.

Sheely's Blow Settles It.

In the second encounter, young Ted Blankenship was sent to the rubber to oppose Bryan Harris, the six foot six curver of the Athlitics' staff. Young Ted was in fine fettle and held the Macks to a half dozen scattered blows while his mates pummeled Mr. Harris with considerable vigor and vim, the deciding blow being delivered by Earl Sheely in the seventh inning, when the contest was close.

Harris had just purposely walked Eddie Collins to take a chance on Sheely and Earl socked one against the left field fence for two sacks that sent two of his mates home and salted the ball game down for keeps.

Young Mr. Archdeacon must be given a lot of credit for his work of the afternoon. He was out in center in place of Johnny Mostil. He got a double and two singles in the first game and followed with two singles and two walks in four times up in the second. He scored one run in the first, and three in the second, and he turned a couple of nifty plays in the outfield.

Lamar Stars for Macks.

He and Mr. Lamar of the Macks were the leading lights of the day. Lamar swatted the ball safely four times in the first game, three singles and a double, and scored three of the runs. Seemed as if the boys couldn't get him out. In the second game he was tamer, getting only one blow, but it was a two baser and drove in the only two Philadelphia runs.

Another double header between the same teams will be staged at the south side today, and the fighting is bound to be hot. Before the game there will be a parade on the field by the Miami-Dixon drill and drum corps, who hail from Florida and have won all the medals of the season.

Old Time Fans Back Memorial for Chance

At Friday night's meeting of the Old Timers' Baseball association at the Great Northern hotel it was decided that the association honor the memory of the late Frank Chance, former manager of the Chicago Cubs and more recently manager of the Chicago White Sox, by giving their assistance in every way to the plan to raise a fund to build a memorial tablet in honor of the once "peerless leader."

DAZZY VANCE. [Brooklyn Robins.]

Here are four of the pitchers who are responsible largely for keeping their teams in the front rank in the major league races for the pennants. Johnson is the oldest of the veteran quartet, but has never played in a world's series, while the two New York hurlers participated in the final struggles last year. Vance has set a season's record for strikeouts after formerly having been one of the wildest moundsmen who ever donned a major league uniform.

BROWNS BEAT GRIFFS IN 10 INNINGS, 15-14

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 20. — The Browns drove Walter Johnson from the box in the first inning and defeated Washington, 15 to 14, in the second game of the series, which went ten innings here today.

With the score tied, 13 to 13, in the ninth inning, Goslin drove out his second home run of the game to place the Senators in the lead. But in the Browns' half of the tenth inning, with two on, Marberry fielded Bennett's grounder and hurled it into center field, allowing Sisler and McManus to score, giving the game to St. Louis. Williams drove out a home run in the second inning. Score:

TIGERS, 6; YANKS, 5.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 20.—Detroit made it two straight from New York today with another sensational last inning spurt. The score was 6 to 5, a wild pitch by Shawkey letting Manush, who had doubled, score the winning run. Ty Cobb made his 2000th safe hit of the season in the first inning of today's game and broke the record he held jointly with Willie Keeler of making 200 or more hits in eight seasons. The hit, a single, drove in a run. The veteran Tiger manager followed with another single late in the game. Score:

FOOTBALL TEAMS TO PLAY OPENING GAMES SATURDAY

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

After two weeks or more of intensive preparation, featured in some cases by morning and afternoon practice sessions, important opening struggles of the 1924 football season will be played on Saturday.

While the winners of these games can be determined with a degree of certainty in advance, they will be forerunners to the more important struggles to be decided on succeeding Saturdays.

Kick-Off Rule Changed.

Confronted with four radical changes in the rules, one of which, the screen forward pass, has wrecked the offense of some coaches, the mentors have been busily engaged evolving new formations. The kickers have been and will be given plenty of practice for kick-off and place kicks from the field. As tees are absolutely tabooed, the ball must be kicked off the ground, and players forbidden to even scrape up the loose dirt for a tee. This should result in the kick-offs being run back further and place a premium on the players who can drive the ball fifty yards over the goal lines on the kick-offs. The ball now will be kicked off from the center of the field instead of the forty yard lines, as was the custom in former years.

The rule which forbids ineligible players from interfering with opponents who may catch forward passes practically sounds the death knell of the screen forward pass. Ineligible players of the passer's side must keep out of the way of opponents who are in positions to catch the ball.

Bar Tricky Pass Play.

The other two alterations of note are the placing of the ball on the three yard line after touchdowns instead of the five yard mark, as was the case last year. If an ineligible member of the passing team is struck by a forward pass the ball is not automatically dead. If a member of the defending team secures possession of the oval before it strikes the ground and after hitting the ineligible player he may run with it. In any event, he has the choice of gain or his team may have possession of the oval at the point of previous down.

Coaches are also aware of the fact that a player cannot run out of bounds and the return to the field of play to receive a forward pass. This play was used extensively by a number of teams in recent years, but was absolutely contrary to the spirit of the rules, which provide for the game being played between the two end lines and side chalk marks.

In the middle west three western conference elevens will open their season on the week-end. Wisconsin, coached by Jack Ryan, and which has bright prospects, will open with North Dakota at Madison.

Hoosier Prospects Bright.

Rose Poly will be the opponent of Indiana at Bloomington. Prospects at the Hoosier institution are a little brighter than in former years.

Wabash, in its first struggle. Wabash has always been a stumbling block not only to the Boilermakers but other teams in the conference as well.

DUNDEE-WAGNER BOUT AT AURORA WILL BE FAST

Mike Dundee of Rock Island and Eddie "Kid" Wagner of Philadelphia are expected to furnish the fireworks when they meet in the windup of the boxing show at Aurora on Wednesday night.

Wagner has met and defeated some of the best fighters of his weight. Dundee is a stiff right hand puncher and a fairly clever boxer. Following Wednesday night's bout Manager Dick Curley will take his protégé east. They will box ten rounds and weigh 130 pounds at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

Eddie Shea, the west side Italian 122 pounder, will tackle Terry McHugh, another boxer of Max Hoff's stable. Shea is expected to show continued improvement against McHugh, who is a hard puncher with either hand.

Ray Miller of the west side will take on Al Gordon, another easterner. Miller packs a wallop in either hand, but Gordon is such a clever fighter that Ray may have a lot of trouble to land effectively.

In the eight round opener Jimmy Gory and Vic Hirsch, both of the west side, will try to settle a long standing question of boxing superiority.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the usual places and special trains will be run over the Aurora and Elgin electric.

The local boxing fraternity including many well known fighters will turn out in force tomorrow night for the testimonial to be tendered Sam Langford at the Eighth Regiment armory. Langford, as all followers of boxing know, was one of the greatest fighters of his day and looked upon as one of the most popular colored fighters in the history of the game. Sam is nearly blind and his friends are anxious to raise enough money to send him to California to spend the remainder of his life.

Joey Scully of the stock yards, and Al Dundee of Mansfield, O., have been matched to box twelve rounds in Mansfield on Wednesday night.

Harold Smith of the stock yards and Earl McArthur will clash in a ten round bout at Sioux City, Ia., on Oct. 3. Smith hurt his hand in the third round of his recent match with Al Dundee, but Manager Buck Montgomery asserted it will be well enough for Harold to resume training this week.

ROMANO WILL BE HEADLINER ON MAT BILL FRIDAY

Mike Romano, claimant of the Italian heavyweight championship, who gave World's Heavyweight Champion Ed (Strangler) Lewis two interesting matches in Chicago within the last year, will be the headliner at the Star and Carter next Friday night. Romano recently returned from a successful trip to the Pacific coast, and his opponent will be selected from a number of the heavyweights now in Chicago.

NOTES OF THE CUE ROOMS.

Gordon beat Murphy [36], 25 to 14, last night in Musser's house billiard tournament. Grossman beat Ragland [30], 30 to 25, in the same series.

Youth and strength will be pitted against science and experience at the Coliseum on Tuesday night when Joe Parelli, the Italian, will defend his world's middleweight wrestling title against Lou Talaber, a grappler who knows more holds than any wrestler in the game.

For years Talaber has been a strong contender for the 160 pound title. This was especially true of the time Johnny Meyers wore the crown. For reasons best known to himself Johnny refused to meet Talaber in a finish match for the title, and naturally Lou's friends claimed Johnny did not want any of their favorite's game.

During the years he has been a contender Talaber has put on a little weight and many thought he had outgrown the middleweight class.

Parelli Insists on 158.

Since he won the title from Meyers in Milwaukee last winter, Parelli has insisted upon all challengers making 158 pounds at the ringside, something unheard of in wrestling and boxing circles in late years. In fact the middleweight limit has been raised to 160 pounds and in most states where boxing is legalized, afternoon weight is made.

These arguments were advanced when Promoters Krone and Cutler attempted to close the Parelli-Talaber match. After hours of wrangling, Parelli finally agreed to permit Talaber to weigh 160 at 5 o'clock on Tuesday evening. When he made this concession, the Italian told Talaber he will beat him if he weighs 200 pounds.

Parelli is many years Talaber's junior. Joe is strong and possesses a world of endurance. He is a glutton for punishment and the longer this match goes, the better his chances to retain the crown. Joe will undoubtedly rely upon the flying mare or reverse head lock, although he can apply the toe hold as efficiently as any 160 pounder.

Talaber Knows Stuff.

Talaber, as previously stated, is master of many deadly holds. He is given credit for bringing out the double wrist lock, which he can apply from an yposition. Talaber also is a genius in clamping on the double arm scissors and knows something about the toe lock.

They will wrestle to a finish best two in three falls. Champion and challenger will enter the ring promptly at 10 o'clock regardless of the results of other bouts.

FIELD DAY AT ST. MARY'S TODAY

St. Mary's Training school of Des Plaines, Ill., today will hold its annual field day and track meeting, featuring the boy athletes of the institution. Thirty numbers will make up the program, which will include racing, pole vaulting, baseball throwing, jumping, and military exhibitions.

AURORA FEATURE WON BY GO FOIN AS BIG FAVORITE

BY FRENCH LANE.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Show me folks from Missouri continued to "show 'em" at the Fox River valley races today when B. A. Jones sent his three year old Go Foin out to win the Edgewater Beach hotel handicap.

It was the feature race on a card riddled by scratches due to a slow track deep in mud. It carried a trophy cup to the winner and a cash value of $1,250.

Mr. Jones has been the leading owner in money won and his jockey, Charley Groes, has been the leading rider. Go Foin is the sprint star of their stable.

Odds Prohibitive.

The players have come to regard the Jones starters as dangerous every time they face the barrier and when the four dash cracks paraded to the post in the handicap, Go Foin was backed into a prohibitive odds on favorite. There was so much money wagered on him that he was at 2 to 5 at post time. A lot of the operators didn't want the money at that price.

It was just a parade for Go Foin from barrier to wire to win by two and a half lengths at the finish. Alleden was the only contender and was running fastest at the wire, but Jockey Zucchini made his move too late and was only able to grab second place from the faltering Doc Horn.

Outsider Wins First.

The original seven race card was badly damaged by the flood of scratches that came in the wake of the heavy overnight rain. The third race was finally declared off entirely. The sun was shining throughout the afternoon, however, and a big crowd was on hand. There was a noticeable increase in the Chicago attendance, an extra train having been added to the schedule of specials.

Favorites did not fare so well, Red Squirrel being the first to upset the players of form, when he captured the 2 year old race which opened the program. He was much the best of his band. Try Again, the favorite, ran second, and Brunseth was third, but neither menaced the leader at any time. Kosman had been backed extensively but he finished last.

Favorites Cop Finals.

Fifty-fifty and Theo got the play in the third but Finday was the victor. There had been a plunge on him right at post time and he made good from the start, leading all the way, with Fifty-fifty second and Isaman third.

Bootblack and Chaplet were heavily backed favorites to come romping home in front in the fifth and last numbers. Both were easily the best of their fields. Corto and Pinch o' Snuff finished back of Bootblack, and Hasty Miss and Jack Frost were the ones to divide up the purse with Chaplet.

The old gray gelding Yorick found the track just to his liking in the sixth, and after running around Sequel on the back stretch, won as he pleased. Margaret Ware, a Chicago horse, was a heavily backed favorite but could only finish third back of Belle Amie.

SIX DAY CYCLE RACE SCHEDULED HERE IN OCTOBER

"Sleepless week" will be celebrated in Chicago beginning Oct. 25. There have been many other kinds of weeks observed this year and Manager Paddy Harmon last night announced that he would start the international six day bike racing at the Coliseum on the above date. He also said that for several weeks past he has been receiving orders for seats from many of the dyed in the wool fans, who also wanted to know when the race would be run.

Harmon promises to have an unusually strong field of foreign riders this year. He visited Germany, France, Italy, and Belgium during the last summer and had a good chance to pick out the star cyclers of these countries. This week he will go to New York, Philadelphia, and Newark, N. J., to get a slant at the American riders now in action in these cities, and also look at the foreigners who have been campaigning in this country.

Carl Stockholm, Chicago's cycling star, is back after winning the New England championship for the second straight year.

5 SOCCER GAMES ON SCHEDULE FOR THIS AFTERNOON

Five games will be played today in the second round of the major league soccer race, the Canadian Club-Olympia battle at 47th avenue and 19th street being the feature. This match will bring together the titleholders of last year and the year before.

German Club and the Spartas will clash at 27th street and Kostner avenue in another important game. The Germans, who were defeated last Sunday, have their injured stars back in the lineup and expect to put up a real battle.

Pullman will travel north to Riverview park to meet the Swedish-Americans, runners-up in the national amateur cup competition. The Car Builders' followers are elated over the showing made by their team against the Bricklayers in the first league match, and the pennant bee is already buzzing out south. Carl Johnson and his gang promise to make things hot for them, however.

MAJOR LEAGUE.

Canadian Club and Olympias at 47th-av. and 19th-st.; Bricklayers at Harvey; German Club and Sparta at 27th-st. and Kostner-av.; Pullman and Swedish-Americans at Riverview park; Thistles and North Shores at Foster field, Evanston.

MISSOURI ALUMNI TO MEET BEFORE CHICAGO GAME

University of Missouri alumni of Chicago and the Missouri Society of Chicago are coöperating in a dinner and reception to be held Oct. 3 at the Hotel Sherman for the purpose of organizing former Missourians now in Chicago as rooters for the football game on Oct. 4 between Missouri and University of Chicago.

This will be the opening game of the football season in Chicago, and many prominent Missourians are to accompany the team to Chicago and attend the dinner the night preceding the game.

Besides the team and coaches who are to be guests of honor, well known Missourians, among whom will be Gov. A. N. Hyde, Sen. James A. Reed, and Congressman H. B. Hawes also are expected.

SEVEN GAMES OPEN MIDWEST GRID LEAGUE CARD THIS AFTERNOON

Teams in the Midwest football league will swing into action today with seven games scheduled to be run off on local and suburban gridirons. The Washington Parks of Evanston and the Moline A. C. will furnish the feature game of the lot at Evanston. Other games follow:

Hammond Scots and Tricolors at Hammond; Twin City A. C. and Calahan Rovers at East Chicago; Delco Independents and Cicero Rooters at Morton Grove; Lindblom A. C. and Chicago Indians at Humboldt park; St. Florian A. C. and O'Connor Rovers at Hegewisch; Good Fellows and Hammond Juniors at East Chicago.

Members of the board of directors will be elected and the schedule for the following weeks will be part of the business scheduled for the weekly meeting of the organization tomorrow night at the Great Northern hotel.

The Biggest Buyer Is Back

He buys more automobiles and trucks than anyone else and needs more than he has been able to buy

LAST month the farmers of northern and central Illinois bought twice as many Reo Speed Wagons as they did in the same month last year.

So far this month they have bought more than twice as many Reo automobiles as they did in the same time last year.

These two facts are early straws that show which way the trade winds are blowing.

Dollar and a quarter wheat and ten dollar hogs have helped to increase the value of the 1924 crop one billion dollars during the last hundred days.

This billion has brought the country's biggest present and potential buyer of trucks and automobiles back into the market.

The people living on this country's farms own more automobiles and trucks than any other major segment of the population—more than the people living in towns of from 1,000 to 5,000, more than those in towns of from 5,000 to 25,000, more than those in cities of from 25,000 to 100,000, more than those in cities of 100,000 and over.

They own more because automobiles and trucks are even more useful and necessary to the farmer than they are to those living in towns and cities.

The farmer is, moreover, still the biggest future buyer of automobiles and trucks.

There is still only one automobile for every fourteen people living on farms.

And two-thirds of these cars cost less than $500.

The farmer, like the business man, knows the superior economy and usefulness of better cars and trucks.

For some years he has been suffering from the worst handicap of the unprosperous—the inability to buy the best.

An appreciable proportion of the billion dollar increase in the value of the 1924 crop will go toward buying new and better automobiles and trucks.

The recent swift increase in the sale of Speed Wagons in the rural communities of northern and central Illinois shows that more and better trucks are one of the farmer's most keenly felt needs.

Better marketing always demands better and more economical transportation.

The Reo Speed Wagon, for the purpose for which it is designed, is the best self-propelled vehicle in the world.

It will haul a pound, a bushel, or a gallon of any multiple up to its rated capacity cheaper and quicker than any other method of transportation.

Reo conceived the Speed Wagon idea—created the vehicle—copyrighted the name and popularized the type.

There is only one Speed Wagon; to be a Speed Wagon it must be a Reo.

RICHARDS BEATS NORTON IN SKOKIE NET EXHIBITION

MATCHES TODAY

2:30—George Lott vs. Brian I. C. Norton.

3:15—William T. Tilden vs. Vincent Richards.

4:15—Tilden and Norton vs. Richards and Lott.

BY CLARK KELSEY.

Vincent Richards, Olympic champion, who faces William T. Tilden, national champion, on the Skokie courts this afternon, opened the two day exhibition program yesterday afternoon by backhanding the ball where B. I. C. Norton wasn't, winning three straight sets, 6—4, 6—2, 6—0. Norton, who now resides in St. Louis, was national doubles champion with Tilden a year ago.

In the other portion of the triangular bill George Lott Jr. sledgehammered the ball to two victories over Frederick Kalms, Australian Davis cup player. In the singles, Lott was victorious, 7—5, 6—2, and paired with Alex Squair, veteran Chicago star, defeated Kalms and Wray Brown of St. Louis, Missouri valley champion, in doubles, 6—4, 6—3.

Kalms is the third Davis cup player who has met defeat at the hands of the young Chicago champion this year.

Vinny Outclasses Rival.

Richards marked up his victory with his backhand cuts and chops. His service was weaker than usual and he did not open up with his forehand—at least, he lost more points than he gained with it. Norton kept the spectators on the edges of their seats with his slashing drives, brilliant tallies and bullet service, in addition to his antics.

Richards took the first three games of the opening set, divided the next two, and the ruddy cheeked Briton then broke through his service twice, and won his own service to even the match at 4 all. Richards took the next two and the set.

In the next spasm he drove home nine winning points with his backhand, took one good forehand slam and let Norton drive the ball out of bounds or into the net for the rest of his points. The Olympic champ did not open up with all his strokes and four times double faulted on his service. In the final set Richards tore through with his reputed skill, and snatched every game.

Lott Erratic at First.

Lott met a tough customer in Kalms. The Australian had an edge with his bullet service and Lott was wild in the early stages. He steadied down, however, and matched Kalms' brilliant cross court volleying with side winding placements and equally scintillating volleys. Some brilliant rallies, which Lott usually ended by hopping the ball over the net, kept the stadium in a constant roar of applause.

In the doubles match, Kalms and Brown streaked off with a 4—1 lead in the first set before Squair and Lott could get started. The veteran played his usual steady game throughout, and bothered the opposition with his reverse American twist service. He teamed well with Lott, and after the duo had gotten started they piled up enough straight games to make the match hands down.

GRID LEAGUE MEETS MONDAY TO CARD GAMES

The Central States Football league will hold its weekly meeting tomorrow night at 211 South State street to book games for next Sunday. Teams may slate their own games, but they must play at least four contests with members of the league to be eligible to win the silver championship trophy. There are twenty-six teams in the league, and the regular season will open next Sunday. Any teams wishing to join the league are requested to phone Secretary Bernstein, Harrison 9091.

LAKE VIEW MAULED.

Lake View's eleven invaded Harrison field yesterday and received a 30 to 0 mauling from the home team. The Red and White warriors were no match for the winners, who experienced little trouble in breaking through for consistent gains.

STAGG SHIFTS BILL ABBOTT TO FLANK POSITION

In his hunt for ends to replace injured men, Director Stagg shifted Bill Abbott from a quarter back position to an end yesterday afternoon, and Abbott performed in that position during a long scrimmage. The former Oak Park boy began as a lineman, then was put in at quarter, and now may finish as an end, for he looked good there yesterday.

The scrimmage yesterday was a hard one, and it was evident that the players are not yet in the to pof form. Despite the heat, the "old man" kept the men running for two hours or so while he corrected their faults.

Backs Get Attention.

Much of the attention of the coaches yesterday was directed to the fullbacks, who have been more or less neglected so far. McCarthy, Francis, Marks and Connolly worked there yesterday, Law being at an end and Kernwein at halfback. Francis is pretty sure of remaining at the place, but McCarthy or Marks may be shifted to a half after the experiments are finished.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock will be the closing hour for applications for season tickets. There are still several thousand of the 6,000 seats set aside for the general public still available. All applications received up to the closing time will be on the same footing, for seats will be assigned by lot, no matter if the application was mailed on Sept. 1 or yesterday.

Seven Games for $16.12.

Prices of the reservation for seven home games is $16.12. Checks will be received without application blanks, and the blanks forwarded for use before the drawings are made.

PURPLE DRILLS HARD

Coach Glenn Thistlewaite rounded up his Purple athletes yesterday and gave them a double dose of practice medicine. In the morning he ordered the boys to the gym, where he delivered a chalk talk, while in the afternoon he had the griders out on the field taking part in a hard drill.

The end men received most of the abuse yesterday during the sessions in which the ends and the backs were taught how to box or knife the wing men on offensive plays. In this session the Purple chieftain explained how easy it is for an unwary end to be kept out of a play instead of turning the play inside.

No signal drills or scrimmages were on tap yesterday, Coach Thistlewaite going over the work he gave early in the week. With enough time ahead before the first engagement of the season, the Purple mentor believes it is better to brush up on the fundamentals and having everything absorbed instead of skimming over the work.

Ends Seidel, Bouscher, Herman and Hathaway were given an abundance of practice yesterday. Herman particularly made an impressive showing in practically every phase of the work prescribed.

Woods and Waters by Bob Becker

SHOOTING JACKSNIPE IS SPORTY GAME.

Known as the acrobat among shore birds, the Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe is close to the sportsman's heart partly because of the excellence of its flesh but chiefly because it furnishes just about as tough a target as any hunter could ask for. Early in the fall shooting season the speedy jacks come down from the northland and then, spreading over the marshes and moist lowlands of the middle west, one can hear their rasping scaip, scaip—a welcome sound to the hunter as he sloshes along in his boots.

The flight of the jacksnipe is swift, tricky and torturous, and man, O man, what shots he does give a fellow! Springing from the grass as if he were shot from a cannon, Mr. Jack twists and jerks at great speed while the gunner tries to figure how to lead the disappearing bird. The jacksnipe belongs to that large group of game birds known as shore or bay birds. Their long bills serve both as probes and forceps in getting food, and soft, moist soil is necessary for them as they cannot force the leag "beak" into hard earth. Nesting far to the north, the jacks keep ahead of cold weather which freezes up their feeding grounds. So they drift southward as autumn comes on to finally spend the winter in the Gulf region, the West Indies and eves in Brazil.

For jacksnipe shooting the prescription reads: A 20 gauge gun, shells loaded with No. 8 or 9 shot [we prefer the latter], and hunting down wind unless you want nothing but tough shots. By ambling across a piece of snipe ground with the wind at your back you will receive a quartering shot two out of three times; and as a rule the speedy jacks will wing off on a straight course for a short distance. If you work across the marsh with the wind in your face look out for some tricky, flying stuff by the birds. Then in when Mr. Jack jumps as if his nerves were on end, and twists and sidesilps while the gunner as a rule punches holes in the air. It takes clever shooting to bag the birds when they behave like that.

For the "meat hunters" snipe shooting is not recommended. It takes a heap of work to plug through swampy, mucky ground in big boots, to stir up snipe, snappy shooting to drop 'em and when the day is over the bag, in actual poundage, is small. However, the true sportsman, the fellow who likes shoot.ng because it tears his skin with hands and eyes, and because it takes him out of doors, revels in the game of jacksnipe shooting. And on days when an occasional yellow leg or teal can also be picked up to make a mixed bag, the snipe hunter's fun reaches the nth degree in sport.

CARDINALS MEET PULLMAN TODAY IN GRID GAME

Today, besides marking the opening of autumn, marks the opening of the professional football season. The Cardinals, members of the National association, major gridiron league, and the Pullman Panthers, one of the strong representatives of the Midwest league, will oppose each other at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue. The kickoff is slated for 3 o'clock.

The Cardinals will have several of the stars who carried the team through the season last year. Paddy Driscoll and Rip King, half backs, who are well known for their triple threat abilities, the McMahon brothers, Koehler, Gillies, Fois, and other popular heroes of last year are in the starting lineup. The lineups for today are:

Industrial Decks Clear for Steady Motor Production

Detroit Adds to Working Army and Curbs Auto Speed.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Unmistakable indications of an improvement in the automobile industry is shown in August reports, which list an output of 268,477 passenger cars and trucks. This was 6½ per cent greater than in June and 2 per cent above that of July.

Fo rthe corresponding month of 1923, however, the output shows a decrease in production of about 22 per cent. Dealers have just about liquidated their stock and are prepared for the winter campaign.

The best proof that the industry is gaining strength lies in the fact that production schedules are being increased in practically every one of the leading factories. Manufacturers have been, and still are feeling their way, and the day is past when they will be caught with full warehouses and but little demand as was the case last spring.

When automobile plants increase working hours and add to their force of workmen it is a never failing sign that business is picking up—and that's the present condition. A noticeable increase in closed cars is due to the nearness of fall and winter, while sport models, except in a very few popular lines, are less in demand. Light truck market prospects are better than last fall in many of the large cities, with heavy duty vehicles promising business equal to that of a year ago.

But whatever the increase may be in the remaining months of 1924, manufacturers have abandoned any hope that may have existed that it will break any records. The Ford plant, it is said, will continue indefinitely its five day week policy, being satisfied that it can take care of all incoming orders, and give employes two days off each week. After about ten weeks trial, officials of the great plant are satisfied that the output per man is nearly, if not fully as great in five days as it formerly was in six.

Several other plants in Detroit and other Michigan automobile centers will probably not average more than forty to forty-five hours a week throughout the fall and winter months. Some of them already are working on a five day week schedule. Costs are now said to be at rock bottom, and if any changes are made, it is conceded along automobile row that they will be increased.

One encouraging fact is the demand for cars throughout sections where grain threshing is either finished or under way. Farmers are showing preference for closed cars to a greater degree than ever before. They are hesitating, however, on whether or not their automobile should be equipped with the balloon tires, preferring to see what they will do on country roads.

Cities throughout the country where traffic violations are aggravating problems, will do well to keep an eye on the workings of Detroit's new traffic violation bureau in the campaign being waged by the police department to stamp out careless and reckless driving in Detroit streets. Its value was proved by the August report.

Crowded traffic courts are things of the past, and this despite the fact that there has been a great increase in the number of complaints being issued by the police for traffic violations.

A comparison of the August record with that of July reveals that three times as many arrests are now being made by police and three times as much money is being collected from motorists who persist in disregarding the driving rules.

In July 5,630 drivers were sent to traffic courts. During August the figure was 17,034 and the fines paid amounted to $32,908, corresponding with $10,328 in July. Only one day in August did the total of offenders drop below the 400 mark, and the average daily figure was 567, the "peak" day, Aug. 8, being 828. The new system provides that the offender can report at the bureau, leave a cash bond of whatever his court fine would be, and forfeit his bond. This saves hours of waiting on his part as well as relieving the traffic judge of considerable work. The bureau is fast educating motorists in observing traffic rules.

Road Revenue.

Since the state of Oregon first imposed a tax on gasoline in 1919, thirty-five states have adopted this means of collecting revenues for highway construction and maintenance. The average of the tax is about 2 cents, though twelve states make their levy only 1 cent a gallon, and Arkansas imposes 4 cents a gallon. The total revenue in all states will be more than $50,000,000 this year.

Like Little Fritzs.

Owing to the high price of gasoline, $3 a gallon, in Berlin, Germany, fat chauffeurs are no longer favored. Short, slim chauffeurs, about the size and weight of jockeys, are most in demand. Small cars of the runabout type are popular, and a large driver would take up all the seating capacity, leaving no place for the owner him-

PICTURING LONG TRAILS.

Equipped with aerial compass and a dozen other modern devices to register location, elevation, the condition of road surfacing, and like data, this car was recently fitted up by the Automobile Club of Southern California for the charting of roads and highway map making. It cuts in half the tedious methods used formerly in surveying and logging roads.

Michigan Shows U. S. How to Overcome Highway Dangers

DETROIT, Mich.—[Special correspondence.]—What for years has been known as the country's most dangerous thoroughfare—the narrow pavement between Detroit and Pontiac, which is always congested—is rapidly changing into what will be known as the country's safest and best paved way.

Concrete is now being poured and when completed it will be a boulevard through the picturesque portion of southeastern Michigan, twenty-five miles long and 200 feet wide. Heavy vehicles will have their part of the great highway, leaving passenger vehicles to their assigned lanes.

The work will be completed in 1925. It will have all the earmarks of the famous two mile "ideal section" of the Lincoln highway east of Chicago Heights in Illinois, with added features of being more than twice as wide and through a hilly lake region.

New York Police Declare War on Unsafe Drivers

MOTORISTS generally are watching with interest the enforcement of the new state motor vehicle law in New York, which goes into effect on Oct. 1. The particular feature of the new law that is attracting attention is the provision for the elimination of unsafe drivers of motor vehicles.

A corps of 125 inspectors has been trained as enforcement officers ready for service when the new law goes into effect.

Regarding the elimination of unfit drivers, Commissioner Charles A. Hartnett of the New York police says:

"Primarily the work of this force will be to pass upon the competence of every driver applying for a license, after we will have accomplished the issuance of 1,250,000 licenses now confronting us.

"As I see it, the law was enacted for the protection of all the people, and no one is entitled to nor will be shown any favoritism. A person is either safe or unsafe as the operator of a motor vehicle. The unsafe driver must be eliminated, regardless of who he is, and the responsibility for passing upon his qualifications rests largely with the inspector on the highways.

"Any inspector who knowingly licenses an incompetent or unsafe driver or allows such a driver to retain a license is potentially guilty of whatever crime that driver may be accused as the licensed operator of a motor vehicle.

"With proper administration of the law, plus the sincere coöperation of the public, there can be no question as to the success of our new venture. We are ready and anxious to do our part. It may be your wife, child, or other relative who will be offered on the altar of unsafe or careless motor vehicle operation tomorrow. Let us all unite in an effort to prevent that very thing happening."

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question $5 is awarded to J. A. McMullan, 6230 South Central avenue, Chicago.

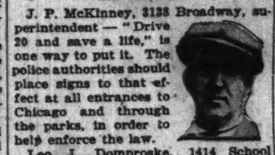
The Question.

What would you suggest as a warning sign for motorists who exceed the twenty mile speed law?

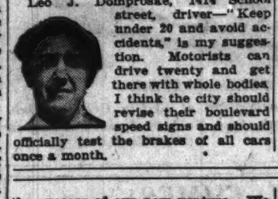
Where Asked.

North avenue and Clark street.

The Answers.



J. P. McKinney, 3138 Broadway, superintendent — "Drive 20 and save a life," is one way to put it. The police authorities should place signs to that effect at all entrances to Chicago and through the parks, in order to help enforce the law.



Leo J. Domproske, 1414 School street, driver—"Keep under 20 and avoid accidents," is my suggestion. Motorists can drive twenty and get there with whole bodies. I think the city should revise their boulevard speed signs and should officially test the brakes of all cars once a month.

J. J. Klemner, 1345 Oakdale avenue, bowling alley owner—The twenty mile speed law is now upheld in Chicago. We should keep our motorcycle officers riding the streets and boulevards instead of hiding around corners. This would keep motorists on the lookout and they would cut down their speed.

Frank Bobrytake, 2501 Southport avenue, milk dealer—I suggest that motorcycle police in uniform would be the best warning sign against speeders on our boulevards. By patrolling the streets in plain sight the police officers would be better than any signs that could be established. Warning signs should be placed throughout the city, too.

John Coutre, 2949 North Ashland avenue, superintendent—Warning signs reading, "Do not exceed the twenty miles an hour speed law" should be placed in the streets one mile apart all over Chicago. Then there would be no excuse for motorists exceeding the safe limit. Now the signs are contradictory and confusing.

Have you seen this new car?

—It is both a closed car and an open car!

VALUE POINTS—
New Special Six

1. The new closed-open DUPLEX BODY framed and shaped in steel. It is light, steel-strong and permanently beautiful. The price is the same as that of an open car.
2. Genuine Balloon tires—the big tires with the small wheels, 20x6.20 in., which means riding comfort, protection for the chassis and body against road shocks, greater braking surface, much less possibility of skidding.
3. Chassis and body mechanically designed for balloon tires, steering, springs, and even the fender lines moulded to harmonize in appearance with big tires.
4. New Force Feed Oiling System with new idea in clean surplus oil supply.
5. The design of the crankshaft gives an entirely new sensation in smooth vibrationless performance.
6. New satin-lacquer finish in dark blue with ivory striping.
7. New ease in gear shifting, new ease in brake power and control, new ease in steering and clutch action. More room than in any other car of its wheel base. New comfort in balloon tires, long springs and a new idea in seat cushion springs.
8. Four-Wheel Brakes optional—a system totally unlike anything ever used on an American car before—unsurpassed in simplicity, safety and power. Pressure developed automatically—you apply it like you apply engine power.

A WEEK ago the new Studebaker Special Six DUPLEX-PHAETON was first announced

Today, countless thousands of people are talking about this entirely new type of car.

One moment it is a closed car—in five seconds it can be transformed into a delightful, airy, open car. But it is always the closed car in deep soft cushions, beautiful fittings and finish and luxurious riding comforts.

When you see it and ride in it you will know why it has made so profound a sensation—you will realize then that it gives you more than the finest open car can ever give you, plus the comfort and protection of the closed car.

And all at the price of an open car!

And this is the new DUPLEX BODY on the famous Special Six Chassis.

Hundreds of thousands of owners all over this country and abroad have given the Studebaker Special Six a name for value, dependability and performance second to no other automobile.

The new Studebaker Special Six retains all the qualities which make great reputation—to these have been added every real improvement which science and owner-service could suggest.

Even aside from the sensational new DUPLEX BODY—the Studebaker Special Six has no superior in value in any car yet built. It was the conscientious intention of Studebaker in planning and designing the new Special Six to make it just such a leader—to that end every resource of the great Studebaker organization has been concentrated.

Even if we had the space we could not begin to tell you of the very many new and unusual features which indicate its superiority.

Certainly no words could do justice to its distinctive beauty.

In appearance it is unlike any other American car—yet its long, low, broad, sweeping lines are conservative, crisply stylish and in beautifully good taste.

Think of the new Studebaker Special Six Duplex-Phaeton as the ultimate in value and performance in a five-passenger car—think of it as a car matchless in practical convenience and desirability.

But to appreciate the sparkling beauty of its totally new lines you must see it. To know its perfection of operation and performance you must ride in it and drive it.

If you have not seen this NEW type car—come today.

Main Street Is Out as Route for Through Traffic

Expert Urges Belt Line Roads for Express Travel.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—Improving automobile "express" traffic by developing turnouts or runarounds for the motor tourist who is not interested in making a stopover, and who is thus a liability to the community, is advocated as a civic necessity by Alvan Macauley, president of Packard, writing in "American Motorist," official publication of the American Automobile association.

Macauley, speaking as a member of the Traffic Planning and Safety committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, says that because the modern tourist knows where he is going and travels on a schedule which calls for a stop at noon and another at night he is not necessarily a potential customer in every community he traverses, and that heavy through traffic has not been an asset to those merchants and business interests who have insisted on leading it by their doors.

"The laying out of America's state and federal highways, now rapidly progressing, has a vital influence on city traffic congestion, on the convenience of tourist travel, on freight transport costs and on local business," he explains. "Proper location of through routes can greatly aid solution of municipal problems in which all motorists are greatly concerned. Civic bodies now deplore that five years ago they demanded interurban traffic thrpugh their business centers."

The article stresses the importance of interlocking the arterial road system as now being laid out with the routing of through motor travel. It is pointed out that with the correlation of state systems into an interstate system of national benefit, state and federal road authorities have been engaged in laying out roads which will carry over 80 per cent of the highway traffic of the nation, but that despite the vision behind this great national movement very little active coöperation is being had from American cities.

"Left alone," said Mr. Macauley, "the majority of our state highway departments, with the aid and coöperation of the federal government, can, with a state and national viewpoint on the traffic situation, lay out a system of arterial highways which, in addition to serving interurban traffic most efficiently, will go far toward relieving many of the ills from which the majority of cities suffer.

"Our cities have just begun to wake up to the fact that it is not an advantage, but a decided disadvantage, to debouch into the maelstrom of their downtown traffic the through travel which has no desire whatever to be tangled up in city congestion, hampered and delayed by its necessary regulations and led by devious windings through main streets of business blocks where it does not wish to stop. Through traffic and intracity traffic should be, in so far as possible, absolutely separated, and it is odd that this apparently simple truth is only now beginning to be appreciated by the business and civic authorities of the average American community."

According to the view taken by Macauley, a main route that leads straight through the business and shopping section of a city is as undesirable as a main line of railroad that cuts through the heart of a community. Cities that are well planned allow the through traffic to pass by without business interruption, the article shows, yet allow for convenience of entrance into the business section if the steam road traveler desires to stop over.

"Making cities way stations instead of terminals" is the way he sums up the subject. A recent census taken in downtown Pittsburgh on the Lincoln highway, he contends, showed that some 20 per cent of the vehicles represented the through travel, which did not want to be in that part of the city at all and which, had it been possible, would probably never have entered the city.

"The way station ideal is alive in New York," the writer adds, "with talk of elevated marginal ways to make midtown New York a way station for traffic from lower to upper Manhattan. On varying scales all cities need to study and work along these lines."

Yankee Toll Road Hands Tip to 1924 Highway Builder

"PAS-YOU-USE" has proven the most economical and fairest policy of highway development since the early days in America, says the latest Minnesota state highway bulletin. From the revolutionary war days down to the present, it states, the policy has obtained wherever there has been any notable highway development. At the beginning it made possible transportation for the New Englanders and profits for toll road owners.

Chartered companies for more than 100 years built turnpikes under franchises which authorized collection of tolls at gates for the use of the road after at least $800 had been spent to improve it. The early settlers and many up to fifty years ago paid for the use of these toll roads 1 cent a mile for each ten sheep or hogs, each horse with rider or led horse, and each cart, or other carriage of "burthen" drawn by one beast; 1½ cents a mile for every sulky, chair or chaise with one horse and two wheels and each sleigh drawn by one horse, and 3 cents a mile for every chariot, coach, stage, wagon, phaeton, or chaise with two horses and four wheels, and for every carriage of pleasure the like sum, according to the number of wheels and horses drawing same.

It's probably a safe guess that road "taxes" were at least five times as high as now and the roads relatively bad, continues the highway bulletin. But the farmer may figure his own comparisons from the use he gets out of his road.

Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, suggested that at the lowest rate of 1 cent a mile, toll roads would be very profitable today in Minnesota. On the 150 mile road serving 1,000 vehicles daily the 1 cent a mile toll would yield upwards of $325,000 a year, while a gravel road would cost only $167,550 and pavement $247,650 annually, depreciation, interest, and maintenance all included. And besides the big profit for the toll takers, he added, there would be a saving of upwards of $500,000 annually to the road users on reduced vehicle expense, also big gain in comfort and convenience.

"It is another example of how quickly a good road will pay for itself," said the commissioner.

PLENTY OF FUEL.

Motorists needn't worry about declining fuel supplies. The largest supply of gasoline yet recorded in the history of the country was on hand at refineries June 1, with total stocks of 1,647,359,535 gallons.

BRAKE TEST WEEK IS LATEST MOTOR CITY SAFETY MEASURE

DETROIT motorists are supplementing their strenuous efforts along many lines to cut down the number of serious street accidents occurring constantly, with a "brake test week."

Quick acting brakes are acknowledged to be the greatest insurance against automobile accidents and in order to make it easy for every car driver to learn without cost just how efficient his brakes are, this brake test plan has been evolved and already it has proven extremely successful in cities where it has been tried.

The safety and traffic committee of the Detroit Automobile club is sponsoring the project, which already has received the indorsement of the police department and the Detroit Auto Dealers' association. These organizations have for years worked to make Detroit's streets safe and believe that this new departure from the usual safety campaigns, will accomplish much in the way of curtailing death and accident.

Simple Repair.

When a rim for a clincher tire becomes bent, it may easily be straightened by a large wrench hooked under the bent part of the rim. After slipping a piece of pipe over the end of the wrench to increase the leverage, pressure is applied in the direction toward the bent section. This will cause the rim to be bent back into place.

Counties Come to Rescue of Badger Highway Funds

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.]—Wisconsin must triple its highway funds to meet federal aid funds during the next three years if the state is to continue to receive federal aid money, according to estimates prepared by W. O. Hotchkiss, chairman of the state highway commission.

A tabulation compiled by Hotchkiss shows that for the year 1925 the state has provided funds amounting to $563,289 to meet federal aid funds. The federal allotment to Wisconsin for the same year is $1,452,692, or nearly three times as great, the commission chairman points out.

Wisconsin's federal aid allotment for the year 1926 fiscal year, according to reports received from the federal bureau by the state commission, will total $1,884,325, and for 1927, $2,179,033.

Under federal road laws, Hotchkiss says, the various states are required to match federal funds dollar for dollar. Any state failing to do this loses its share of the federal money.

To meet the federal funds for 1925, the highway commission has accepted voluntary funds from counties in the state, it is said. All funds now available by the state for federal aid work is supplied by the automobile license fees.

A summary of federal aid work compiled by Hotchkiss states that since 1918 the state has contributed $9,075,594 to meet funds contributed by the federal government. The same amount was furnished by the government, and for the next three years an additional amount approximating $5,500,000 has been allotted the state.

During three years, 1920, 1921, and 1922, the state supplied $1,700,000 each year by general property taxes. Since 1922, however, no funds have been supplied in this way. Total contributions by the state from property taxes for federal aid have totaled $5,100,000, while fees from motor licenses have added $3,976,594.

Gossip of the Auto Trade

ANOTHER eight-in-line automobile has come to the Chicago row out of a clear sky—so far as advance announcements are concerned—in the new Auburn models to be featured this week. The line includes three body types, a touring car at $1,895, brougham at $2,395, and sedan at $2,550, all equipped with an entirely new and unusually flexible 8-in-line motor and numerous engineering refinements. Full balloon tires and 12 leave springs are used to insure riding comfort. Factory announcement of the new car was withheld until all dealers could be supplied.

Officials of the Franklin-Butler company have arranged a unique series of demonstrations to show the added power, flexibility, and safety qualities built into the new Franklin models.

Harry M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company, announced last week that the company has no cars in storage at present with the exception of a normal, day to day supply to meet current demands. Records of the dealer organization shows that it is sound financially and that it has less capital tied up in used cars than at any time in recent years, his statement adds.

E. H. McCarty, general sales manager, is authority for the statement that Nash has the greatest volume of orders on hand for the "advanced" and "special" six series than ever before in the company's history. September orders, he declares, surpass those of any like month on record.

Deliveries of General Motors cars by dealers in August totaled 54,149 cars and trucks, according to the last company statement. Deliveries from Jan. 1 to the end of August totaled 494,014 cars.

Feature Highway.

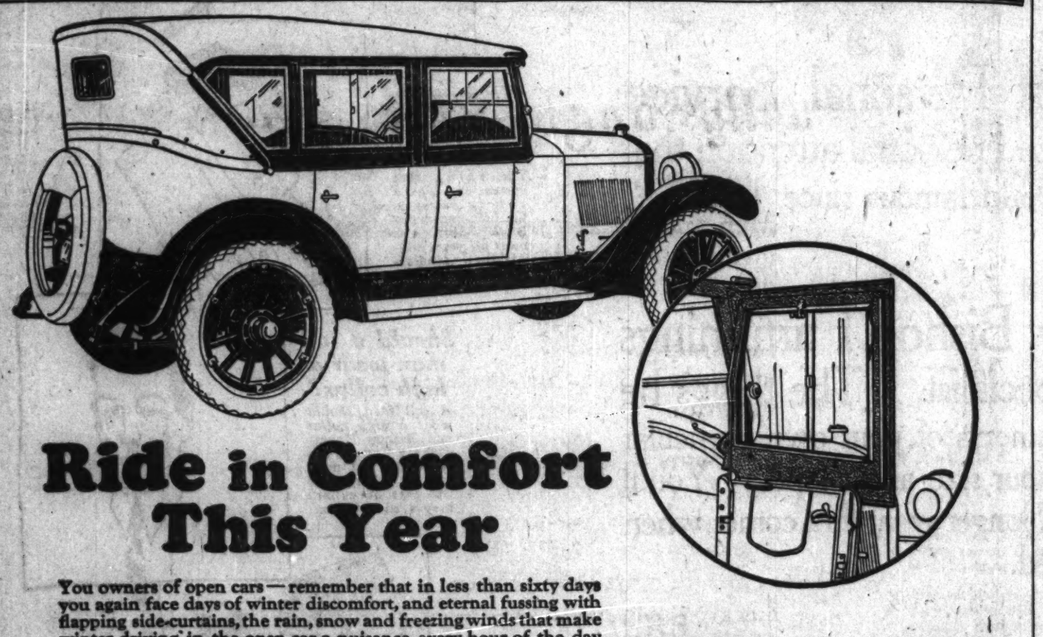
REDUCED TRAVEL.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Though the quarantine line may be crossed by almost any automobile party that has not come from an infected area, motor car travel still is at low ebb, with about thirty cars a day on the Old Trails highway, eastward bound from Needles, and about ten cars a day on the Blythe and Yuma routes.



Ride in Comfort This Year

You owners of open cars—remember that in less than sixty days you again face days of winter discomfort, and eternal fussing with flapping side-curtains, the rain, snow and freezing winds that make winter driving in the open car a nuisance every hour of the day and a serious menace to your health and that of your family.

You own the greatest car in the world for summer use. Make it equally fine for winter driving with the

Glencoe Detour Looms as Winter Traffic Barrier

Small Bridge Ties Up Shore Road; Other Highways Clear.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

LONG suffering motorists of the north shore and bewildered tourists who use Sheridan road as one of the main arteries of travel in the middle west have definitely abandoned hope of improvement in the Glencoe highway situation this season.

A report received yesterday from the district engineer's office of the state highway department indicates that the Glencoe detour in Sheridan road will be in force throughout the fall and winter because of court proceedings which have tied up work on the middle of the three small bridges. Reconstruction of these bridges began last fall. The south bridge is complete now and open to traffic. The north bridge is practically ready for service, but the center structure is in status quo and will remain so until village legal difficulties are ironed out.

With greater Sheridan road paved and open over a distance of more than 700 miles from St. Louis north to Chicago and on from the Illinois state line through Wisconsin and into the Michigan cloverland, this devious and dangerous north shore detour is considered one of the worst interruptions to traffic anywhere in the Chicago district. Sheridan road vehicles are forced to leave the historic and beautiful old trail at Glencoe and head west and north into the Green Bay road—a narrow and winding pavement which crosses the Northwestern and electric line tracks at grade at several points, is badly cut up in places by truck travel, and is as dangerous and difficult an artery for through traffic as any road to be found in the west.

The long delay in completing these bridges over north shore ravines has prevented practical use of state trunk highway 42 for about a year. The fact that it is one of the seven main highway entrances to Chicago and the direct gateway from the lake shore district to the north adds to the seriousness of the traffic interruption, Chicago engineers point out. It leaves the Waukegan road, several miles to the west, and the Green Bay road, a truck artery, the only available gateways.

Officials of the county highway department declared yesterday that the Glencoe delay is also seriously hindering county improvement plans and making impossible the long needed repairs and improvement of Green Bay road. A steady stream of vehicles, they say, flows over the Green Bay detour road and makes maintenance and repairs next to impossible. Numerous accidents have been reported at the Northwestern grade crossing and the work of straightening and widening the old road cannot be started until traffic can be diverted back to the lake trail.

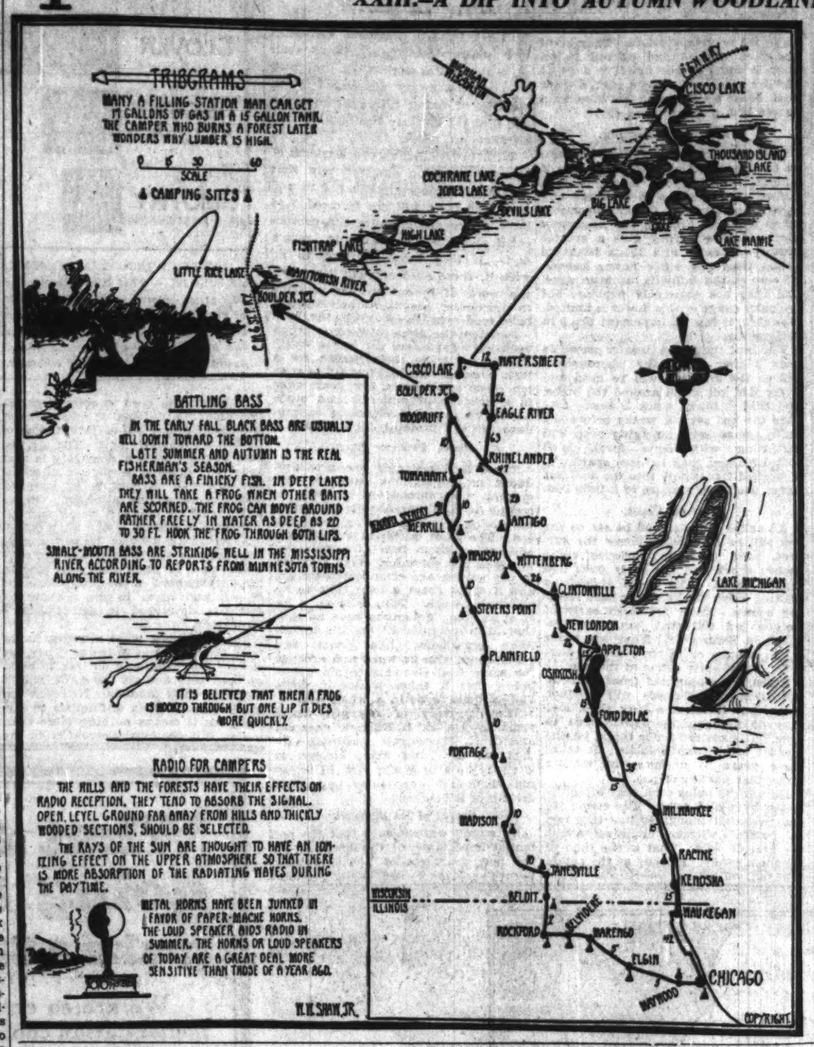
XXIII.—A DIP INTO AUTUMN WOODLANDS



Some compensation for the Sheridan road situation is held for Chicago drivers in the announcement made yesterday by George Lamb, district engineer, that the subway pavement in Roosevelt road at West Chicago is completed and open for service. This release, with the recently opened stretch between Des Plaines avenue and Fifth avenue, Maywood, practically clears Roosevelt road and the Lincoln highway from Chicago west to the Mississippi.

Prison Labor Lays New Sports Trail for Coast Drivers

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Prisoners in the Los Angeles county jail are doing their bit toward making motoring enjoyable in southern California. Under the "honor system" thirty miles of highway leading into the newly created Big Pine county park has just been completed. It represents the labor of inmates of penal institutions during the last two years, and has made available for motorists 540 acres of majestic pines overlooking the sandy wastes of the Mojave desert.

The new county park is surrounded by national forests, and is 100 miles east of Los Angeles. It is designed to provide a perpetual recreation spot for southern Californians before the rapidly increasing population absorbs all camping places.

The social experiment of building a road into the new playground with prison labor will be conducted in other county enterprises. It has been found that men sentenced to serve are eager to get out in the open and work, especially since they are paid 50 cents a day for their labor. This permits the accumulation of a fund wherewith to face the world again when their terms expire. In addition to the bank roll, the prisoner is paid with robust health, steady nerves, and habits of industry.

The newly opened county park is nearly 7,000 feet elevation, and will afford Los Angeles facilities for winter sports. The road will be kept free from snow by tractors, so that former residents of the east may recall joys of the past with snowball battles, bobsledding, ice skating and skiing by a motor trip of four hours into the Big Pine country.

The canoe trip pictured is a suggestion made by Fred G. Wilson, state forester of Wisconsin. He says that it can be negotiated in one day of hard paddling, or can be extended to about one week if the country covered is really to be enjoyed. The best fishing of the northern woods is to be found along the sequestered streams and lakes outlined.

Oil Your Car at 60 Miles an Hour!

YOU'RE rushing along in your Cleveland Six at 60 miles an hour. A squeak or rattle develops.

Do you stop and get out the grease gun? Or endure the noise until you get back home? Not at all!

You simply step on a convenient plunger and the noise is instantly silenced.

That's why the "One-Shot" Lubricating System ranks as one of the great advances in motor car design.

It enables you to lubricate all moving chassis parts without leaving the driver's seat.

It does more than save time and eliminate greasy hands or garments. It insures easier riding, smoother operation, longer car life and higher re-sale value—all because it makes chassis lubrication too simple and easy to neglect.

Because of the sheer value it represents, the 1925 Cleveland Six is winning new buyers at a rate that makes it one of the most popular six cylinder cars of the day.

Here are some of the reasons for that popularity.

Mileage Motor—a matchless master of hills with a flashing get-away in high gear.

Full Balloon Tires—extra comfort at no extra cost.

4-Wheel Brakes—of Cleveland Six design, optional at a moderate extra cost—

The Lanchester Balancer gives Willys-Knight a vibrationless smoothness unique in a motor car.

Willys-Knight Scores Again

Men and women who drive cars rightly demand the most of them. They render a verdict of enthusiasm for the Willys-Knight. The test of every-day driving proves to them the completeness with which its latest refinement, the Lanchester Balancer, prevents vibration at all engine speeds.

Car owners, who object to vibration in open cars, find it amounts to a continually renewed irritation in closed cars. With closed cars coming more widely into use each year, demand for the elimination of engine vibration has grown imperative.

Willys-Knight supplies this demand—the Lanchester Balancer conquers vibration. The Balancer makes a better engine of the world's best engine—the famous sleeve-valve motor that improves with use. It registers another achievement for Willys-Knight,—the car that literally outruns its field.

The Willys-Knight with Lanchester Balancer is on view now. Inspect it. Try it out. Then render your verdict.

FARM AND GARDEN

Striped, Flashy Tulip Makes Way for Solid Color

Now Is the Time to Get the Bulbs for Fall Planting.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

HOLLAND bulb growers have had a bad season this year, but shipments of tulip bulbs are arriving on schedule time for the fall planting. The prices may be somewhat higher than last year, but the popularity of the tulip has gained such headway recently that this will probably interfere little with plantings this fall.

The fortunate thing about tulips is that they can be grown by amateur or professional gardeners around the home, in the garden, on big estates, or in parks—adapted to all sorts of situations and furnishing every color imaginable. The tulip is probably one of the oldest flowers in cultivation, but, like fashion, tastes for the different kinds change. It is of oriental origin.

The growing of bulbs is an old industry in Holland. In fact, Holland is the only place in the wrold where tulip bulb growing has been successfully developed on a commercial basis.

Solid Color in Favor.

Tastes in tulips have changed markedly since the tulip craze in Holland many years ago, when there was wild speculation in bulbs during an episode called the tulipomania. At that time the striped, flashy colored tulip flower was popular and the solid colored blossoms, so strikingly popular today, were unwelcome.

There has been a big change within the last twenty years. Tulips are commonly grown today in simple beds, while during the Victorian period the taste in flowers and methods of planting was in harmony with the taste in art and other things. Nature was distorted, and complicated designs were popular in parks and home grounds. Carpet beddings were common and the plants were used to work out geometrical designs. Along with that went the taste for primary colors—red, yellow, and blue—and the color was established according to its degree of brilliancy. And the type of tulip that lent itself to that kind of planting was the early one. For many years gardeners' attention was centered on the short stem, early flowering, brilliantly colored striped tulip. This type is still good for certain locations where formal beddings are desired, but the long stems are ranking highest in America.

Obtained by Hybridizing.

In recent years there has been a marked change—not a change that comes about suddenly as in the color and design of clothes and automobiles, but a gradual change. The popularity of the striped, flashy flower is decreasing, while more and more of the so-called solid colored tulips are being used. The new varieties are obtained by hybridizing, and are not sports.

Dutch fanciers grew the breeder type of tulip in order to get others that were more desirable years ago. They called them mother bulbs, and they used them to get the striped flowers. The breeder tulip is of a dull blended colors, always of a rich tint. It is referred to as having solid colored flowers merely to distinguish them from the striped types, but the colors really are blended—they do not have the distinct stripes. Practically all of the flowers of the breeder tulip have a touch of brown, which is rare color in flowers. It is the tulip now desired by so may flower lovers.

Darwin Gives Pastels.

Thirty-five years ago the Darwin tulip was introduced into commerce. Its origin is unknown but believed to be selection from the breeder tulip family. That's the newest class of tulip, characterized by colorings which nearly always have an overbloom of white, giving a soft delicate effect. The Darwin gives pastel shades of the most delicate kind. The Darwin is a May flowering tulip.

The Cottage tulip is an old type and is commonly used in beds today where gardeners want to do away with the stiff, formal scheme of planting. The design used to dominate, now it is the flower; the design is subordinate to the flower.

Many growers reject blooms that have red or yellow colors. They plant the pink and orange colored tulips. Blue is common because it is a great blender of colors. There isn't a color that doesn't combine with blue in a flower bed, old gardeners say.

First of the Spring.

There are two outstanding qualities to be found in the tulip that gives it a high rank. Tulips bloom in May before iris and when there is not any other outstanding flower blooming. They are the first of the important spring flowers. They give a greater variety of color and more beautiful colors than any other flower known. Of course, the daffodils bloom in April and they are extremely popular, but the color range of this flower is limited. However, it fills an important place in the garden.

The best tulips are usually grown in beds higher than the surrounding soil so the drainage will be good and water will not stand around the bulbs. Soil that is fairly sandy is best. Prepare the bed several weeks before the bulbs are to set by digging deep and fertilizing with bone meal. Well rotted manure may be used sparingly, if worked thoroughly into the soil, but never use fresh manure in a tulip bed.

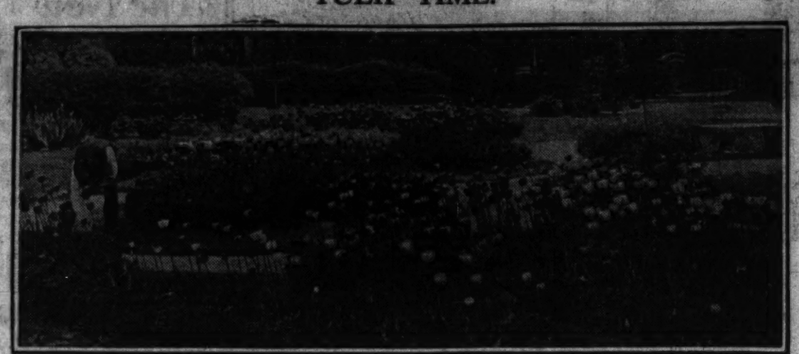
How to Plant.

All tulips bulbs should be set so the top will be five inches below the surface. Set the late varieties eight inches apart and the early ones five inches apart. The bulbs should be planted a few weeks before hard freezing comes. Many set them early in October on soil that has been prepared in September. They are often set in masses or in rows around borders. Plant early tulips in the sun.

Bulbs are propogated from bulblets, not from seed. Seeds will produce bulbs, but it takes a long time, and they do not produce flowers true to type. The mature bulbs found on the market come from bulblets. It takes three years to produce the mature bulbs that gardeners use.

Dig up the bulbs each year after the leaves have died down. The stems are usually tough enough so that they can be twisted without cracking about the first of July. That is the time to lift them safely. As soon as the petals fall, pull off all the seed pods.

TULIP TIME.



GARDENERS GET MAY FLOWERING TULIPS LIKE THESE BY SETTING BULBS IN OCTOBER—This formal planting of tulips in a park shows how effectively beds can be arranged with shrubbery and trees to form a dark, contrasty background. A variety of colors is found here in these beds that bloomed in the spring before the oak leaves were out.

WHERE AMERICANS GET THEIR TULIP BULBS—This is a scene in a tulip field in a limited section of Holland, where Dutch fanciers grow bulbs for the world. This is the only place where the tulip bulb growing industry has been successfully developed. Note that the flowering tulips are being grown here in raised beds. The old Holland windmill on the right is used to pump water out of the ditches into the canal in the background. The mainmast of a sailboat on the canal is shown at the left in the background.

POULTRY TIPS

The well fed summer hen not only produces more eggs during that period but lays more eggs in winter when prices are high, says H. L. Shrader, poultry specialist at the University of Missouri.

Yeast Cells May Replace Crops as Food Laboratories

FAR fetched dreamers will start on another flight around their theoretical world when they hear of the newly discovered yeast, capable of fixing nitrogen from the air, dragged out into the light by two chemists at Ames, Ia.

Without blinking an eye, students of science stand up and tell you that the time may come when plants and cows and hogs will not be needed to build up or manufacture the complicated proteins necessary in man's diet. If they have anything to do with it, these students will turn over the work of manufacturing proteins to unicellular organisms or they will have food synthesized mechanically.

Perhaps the time will come when back yard gardeners can throw away their hoes, trade their garden for a little concrete vat, and instead of sowing seeds broadcast a few yeast cells in a solution of minerals and other necessary chemical elements to produce all the proteins they need.

Plant Process Slow.

These food elements are now produced by dropping a seed in the ground; roots spread out in every direction to drink or absorb the water containing minerals coming from the soil. The plant takes these chemicals and makes them into carbohydrates, proteins, and vitamins. Plants grown in the garden are complicated things, and it takes them a long time to do all of this work. They take up a lot of space, too. Scientists have an idea that little insignificant looking unicellular organisms, like yeast and other fungi, can do work and produce the same food elements within a few hours that it takes plants in fields and gardens to do in a whole season.

The discovery of nitrogen fixing yeast by Dr. E. I. Fulmer, chemist, and G. N. Massengale, graduate student, at the Iowa State college, is likely to be a long step toward bringing about the apparently impossible dreams of the theorists.

Secret of Its Success.

An announcement says that the potential importance of the discovery of the new yeast—called Saccharonyses Cerevisae, Race F—lies in the possibility of its being used to convert carbohydrates into proteins, or substances of low commercial value into those of higher commercial value. The big feature of the chemists' discovery is that yeast will grow in a solution of sugar and minerals without being supplied with combination nitrogen. Others have tried to make it grow without combination nitrogen, and have failed.

A writer in Science Magazine says the secret of this success lies not only in the race of yeast used, but also in the development of the proper balance of salt and sugar in the medium by methods developed in Dr. Fulmer's laboratory.

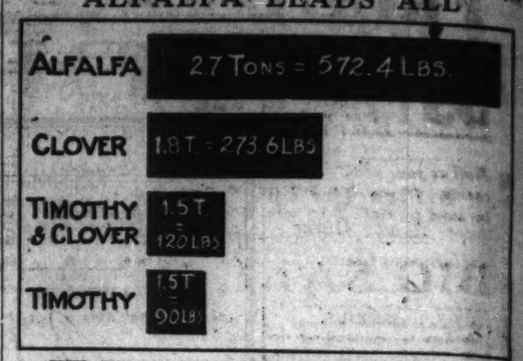
Farmers know what nitrogen fixing from the air means to them. They use clovers and alfalfa to do this to build up their soils and get the right kind of feeds for their animals. Nitrogen fixing is a term often unfamiliar to laymen, but it means nothing more than taking this chemical element from the air and storing it up so that it can be used later. Tiny germs, bacteria, that cause nodules or wartlike knots to form on the roots of alfalfa and clovers are able to take nitrogen from the air.

Converting the Nitrates.

It has been generally understood among scientists that there are apparently few substances having the power to fix nitrogen of the air; the bacteria found in the nodules of leguminous plants, including clovers, alfalfa, peas, and beans, are the most common and best known. On these plants the nitrogen is fixed in the form of nitrates, which must be converted, chemists explain, into the vegetable protein before they are available as food for either man or animals.

Scientists at the Iowa laboratories believe that the new yeast indicates a possible way of producing proteins from carbohydrates in a form that is ready to be used as food.

ALFALFA LEADS ALL



WHY WISCONSIN FARMERS ARE INCREASING ALFALFA ACREAGE.—This chart shows the average per acre yield of the different hay crops grown in Wisconsin over a period of ten years and the number of pounds of digestible protein. Protein is the food element needed in the dairy cow's ration, and this chart shows the relative value of alfalfa over the other crops—alfalfa contains 572.4 pounds of protein to the acre, as against only 90 pounds for timothy.

The Flowers Every Garden Must Grow

THESE are the headliners in the garden pageant, each starring in its season, following one another as though Nature had planned an all-season show:

Daffodils in April; Tulips in April and May; Iris in May and June; Peonies in June; Lilies and Larkspur in July; Hollyhocks in July and August; Phlox in August; Hardy Asters in September, and Chrysanthemums in October.

From June to September a numerous company of both annuals and perennials should be built up to support them, but without the stars the garden will lack its chief attractions. And all, except the chrysanthemums and hollyhocks, can be planted now. Read the special offers below:

All Summer Collections of Dominant Flowers

$5.00 We will send 6 daffodils, 6 early tulips, 12 May-flowering tulips, 3 iris of different varieties, 1 peony, 3 delphinium plants, 6 madonna lily bulbs, 3 hollyhock plants*, 4 phlox plants, 3 hardy aster plants, 3 hardy chrysanthemum plants*, 50 items in all, express collect for $5.00

$25.00 We will send 12 narcissi of named varieties, 18 daffodils of named varieties, 50 early tulips of named varieties, 50 May-flowering tulips of named varieties, 18 iris, three each of 6 named varieties, 6 peonies of six named varieties, 18 delphiniums, 12 madonna lilies, 12 umbellatum lilies, 18 hollyhock plants*, 18 phlox plants, 18 aster plants and 18 hardy chrysanthemum*, 268 items in all, for $25.00.

*Chrysanthemums and hollyhocks shipped in the spring.

Daffodils

Naturalized like to nestle at the feet of shrubs. They are beautiful naturalized in drifts of 100 or more, in woodlands or shady corners of the garden. They enjoy a place in the hardy border, among the roots of perennials. Plant them liberally as they come in the spring when there is not often anything else to gladden the eye.

A Brougham for Hundreds Less Than Open Cars of Like Size and Power—$2175

YES—Paige Brougham costs hundreds less than many open cars of the same or smaller size and power! Just think what Paige gives for $2175. Enclosed comfort, performance, appearance, long life that you cannot duplicate in any other enclosed car unless you pay much more! The new Paige Brougham costs only $280 more than an open Paige!

The lines of this New Paige 4-Door Brougham are long, clean, graceful. The body is colorfully finished in maroon—with ebony black fenders and radiator—and black fine-grain leather finish on rear and trunk. Deeply cushioned seats are richly upholstered in gray mohair.

The big 70 h.p. Paige motor is a perfected six—giving perfect balance, smoothness, simplicity. More cylinders would only add useless parts! You can take hills in high where most shift or stall. Or crawl smoothly along at 2 miles an hour in high. Paige has more than ample power for its job. That means long motor life. Why pay the same price for a smaller car with far less power—less ability?

You'll marvel at Paige's riding comfort! That's the advantage of 131-inch wheelbase, rear springs more than 5 feet long, and snubbers front and rear. Try to find such comfort in other cars anywhere near Paige's price!

Come in and see this New Paige Brougham. Try out its amazing performance. Mark its riding comfort. (356-4)

What are you doing to help make a safe city?

We are so enthusiastic over the humanitarian contest now being conducted by the Chicago American to make Chicago's streets safer, that we are spending of our own money to help call the attention of everybody to this contest.

The American is offering prizes aggregating for the best ideas and suggestions on how to cut down the terrible toll of killings and maimings on our streets due to automobile accidents.

The Autoist-Pedestrian problem is an all-fired real one in Chicago.

What should be done about it?

WARD TO BUILD HUGE BRANCH AT BALTIMORE

Chicago Mail Order Firm to Spend $2,000,000.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's great mail order house, Montgomery Ward & Co., yesterday started a trade invasion of the effete east by beginning work on a $2,000,000 eight story branch in Baltimore, Md.

It will be the fourth largest of the group of Montgomery Ward & Co. buildings, which now literally stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the far nothern part of Uncle Sam's domain to Texas.

Chicago Building Largest.

The Ward building in Chicago, at the Chicago avenue bridge, of course has the greatest floor space. Next comes the Kansas City branch. Third in size is the huge structure at St. Paul, Minn. Then will come the new, big Baltimore branch. The Oakland, Cal., building is fifth and the Fort Worth, Tex., branch sixth in size.

The new Baltimore building was designed by W. H. McCaully, engineer of construction for Montgomery Ward & Co., and is being built by a Chicago concern, the Wells Brothers Construction company.

Some idea of the size of the building will be gained when it is known that it will be 460 feet long. That means it'll be approximately as long as The Tribune Tower is tall. Its floor area will be 700,000 square feet.

Will Employ 1,500.

It will be of fireproof construction with steel sash and automatic sprinkler system. It will be of reinforced concrete, flat slab type of construction and the surface will be concrete rubbed smooth and finished with white cement.

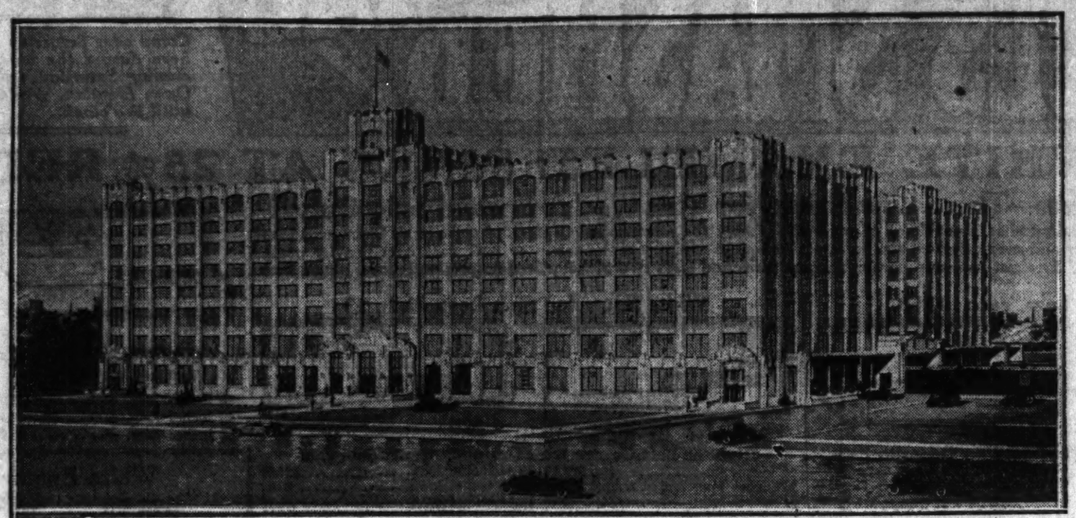
As is the custom with Montgomery Ward & Co., when opening a branch, a group of executives and certain employés who want to move to that particular city, will journey to Baltimore next August for the opening. Most of the 1,500 men and women, however, will be hired in Baltimore.

Building Operations Heavy.

Evidence of the growth of the big Chicago mail order concern, pioneer in its line, is shown in its recent building operations. The first of the year it opened its branch at Oakland, Cal.

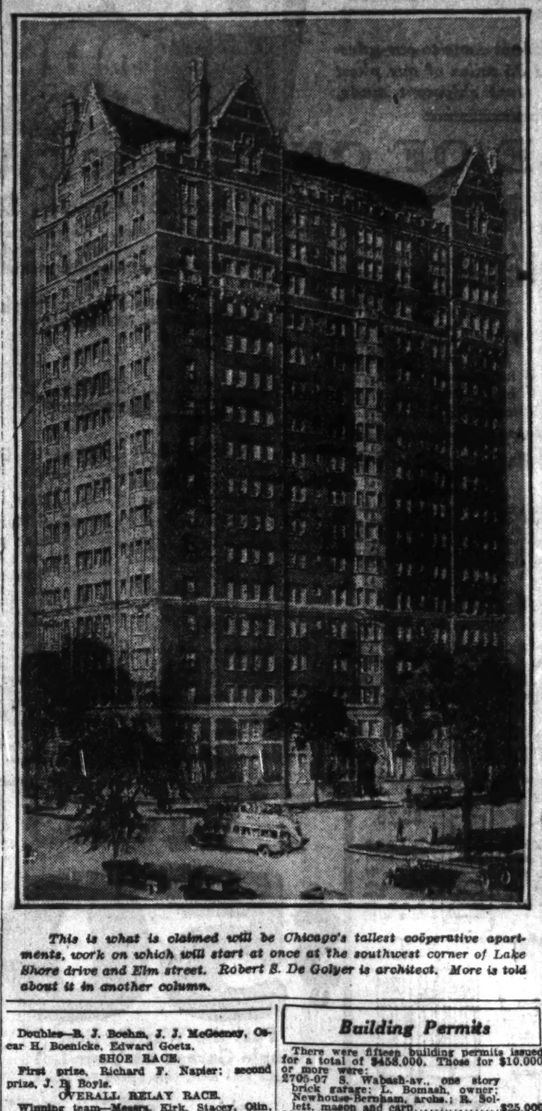
In the spring the Fort Worth branch was moved to larger and more modern quarters. Plans recently were completed by Mr. McCaully for doubling the size of the new Oakland branch. The Baltimore branch will serve the Atlantic coast states from Maine to Florida.

$2,000,000 Baltimore Branch of Chicago Mail Order House



Above is the big eight story branch of Montgomery Ward & Co. to be erected at Washington boulevard and Monroe street (Lincoln highway) in Baltimore, Md., from plans by W. H. McCaully, engineer of construction for the Chicago mail order house. This will be the sixth branch of the main establishment, which is at the Chicago avenue bridge. More is told about this project in a nearby column.

Chicago's Tallest "Co-op"



This is what is claimed will be Chicago's tallest cooperative apartments, work on which will start at once at the southwest corner of Lake Shore drive and Elm street. Robert S. De Golyer is architect. More is told about it in another column.

TWO CHICAGOANS WIN M. I. T. PRIZE FOR FIRST TIME

Donald S. Nelson and Louis Pirola Named.

For the first time since the Massachusetts Institute of Technology inaugurated its annual national architectural competition for all citizens of the United States under the age of 28, two Chicagoans have won first prize, a year's scholarship at

DONALD S. NELSON

LOUIS PIROLA.

"Boston Tech" which no "M. I. T." man or New Englander ever calls it, but which midwesterners often do.

The prize winners are Donald S. Nelson of the office of Granger, Lowe & Bollenbacher and Louis Pirola, with David Adler & Robert Work, Inc. Both are active members of the Chicago Architectural club and its "Atelier Parsons."

First Time for Chicago.

"The competition called for a design of a postoffice in the heart of a city of approximately 100,000 inhabitants," explained an official of the Chicago Architectural club. "The competitors were required to submit preliminary and final drawings for which nine days were allowed. The work was to be entirely their own without help or criticism.

"The program provided one of the two prizes could be won by a student of M. I. T., and one by an outsider, but the drawings submitted by the two young Chicagoans were of such superior quality and character that the eastern jury awarded both prizes to them. This is the first time Chicagoans have won it."

Leave Chicago Tuesday.

Mr. Pirola has resigned as treasurer of the Chicago Architectural club and will leave Chicago with Mr. Nelson next Tuesday for a two weeks' tour of eastern cities and then go to Boston, where they will do senior work at Technology.

COOK COUNTY REALTY BOARD ASKS INQUIRY INTO LICENSE LAW

The Cook County Real Estate board has decided to hold a series of public hearings on the question of investigating alleged shortcomings in the present Illinois state brokers' license law.

In a statement issued by the committee appointed to make an investigation, it says: "The committee will endeavor to secure the coöperation of the department of registration and education with a view of agreeing upon a series of amendments to be introduced at the coming session of the legislature."

In a statement by the state license law committee of the real estate board, the following comment is made: "Some express the belief the license law 'lacks teeth'; others maintain education and experience provisions are woefully lacking, and again, by some a demand is made for amendments which will require three years' experience plus a text book qualifying examination; again some ask a heavy surety bond or a higher license fee or both."

Subdivision News

Subdivision property totaling $3,000,000 is announced by the Talman & Thiele Realty association for marketing. They state they have acquired and are opening ten new subdivisions. They are: forty acre Edgewood subdivision just north of Brookfield; thirty acre 22nd street subdivision, west of Riverside Golf club; sixty-two acre tract in La Grange park; Indian Hill subdivision; forty acres at Edgebrook.

In the Niles Center district are forty-five acres at Howard and Waukegan road; a subdivision at the northeast corner of Main and Laramie and the Eichelberg road subdivision on the east side of the "L" extension, between Main and Oakton stations.

They also are opening subdivisions near the Kenilworth station and in South Evanston, near Dodge avenue station of the "L" extension.

Talman & Thiele say they have placed on the market so far this year sixteen subdivisions in excess of $5,000,000. They have completely sold out two Niles Center subdivisions.

Four and a half acres at Crawford, between 18th and 19th, fronting on Komensky and Kariov avenues, have been sold by the Burke estate to Alexander Brothman, through Magee & Worth, who will subdivide it and put on the market at Alexander Burke's daughters' subdivision.

News of the Architects

The regular meeting of the Illinois Society of Architects will be held on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the Art institute.

RENTS FLATS FOR HOTEL.

Steve Foit has leased from Anna B. Martin the six flats at 2019 Lane court for ten years at a term rental reported to be $60,000 and will operate as a hotel. Friberg & Co. were brokers.

Brokers' Notes

A. R. Eddington and D. E. Allen Jr. have bought the real estate business of Frint George & Co., Wilmette, and will continue under the name of Eddington & Allen. Mr. Eddington has been in the realty business for fifteen years. He bought the business of D. E. Allen & Son in March, 1919, and since April 1 of this year has been with Frint, George & Co.

Mr. Allen started in the real estate business in 1907, entering the office of Barker & Allen, pioneers in Wilmette real estate. The new combination keeps intact a business which has been active for two decades, having been originally founded by Barker & Allen. Frint George has given up the real estate business and will devote his time to his outside interests.

Thomas A. Collins, for many years active in the building business under the name of Collins & Morris and at one time a vice president of S. W. Straus & Co., has been made a director of the South Shore Investment company.

The Coffman Realty company has moved from the Coffman building, at Foster and Sheridan, to larger quarters three blocks south, at 4924 Sheridan road. Same phone.

Joseph D. Herbert and Harold E. Durham, subdividers, have opened an office at 105 West Monroe. Telephone Dearborn 6661.

Briggs & Farren have moved from 1154 West 79th to 1203 West 79th street. Phone unchanged.

Realtor to Lecture on History of Realty Values

John P. Hooker of Hooker & Slosson, will lecture on "History and Elements of Real Estate Values" before the Y. M. C. A. School of Commerce real estate class next Tuesday evening.

FIRST TENANTS OF SHORE CO-OP TO O. K. OTHERS

Most Show More than Big Bank Balance.

The first five families who buy apartments in the $1,800,000 skyscraper co-op at the southwest corner of Lake Shore drive and Elm street, are going to be judge and jury on the cases of the other fifty-three gold coast seekers of homes in this exclusive structure.

And, according to Elmer A. Claar, head of the coöperative homes department of Baird & Warner, selling agents for the building, it's going to be about as hard for the first five to prove their right to residence as it would be for a Chinaman to get into the K. K. K. Ability to pay the purchase money will be only a minor consideration in the searching scrutiny into the applicants' claims to entrance.

Some Ready Next Spring.

Work is to start at once on this "Chicago's tallest co-op," with the hope of having a few flats ready for occupancy by next spring. The building won't be entirely completed for ten months or a year, according to Mr. Claar.

There'll be fifty-eight apartments if all are completed as provided by the typical floor plan, which calls for two six room flats, one five and one seven room duplex. The top floor will have a nine room apartment with a one and one-half story living room and an eight room flat. A purchaser can have rooms of any size or any number of rooms provided he selects his apartment before the typical plan has been completed.

Sold to Corporation.

The building has been sold to a building corporation for $1,500,000. There is $1,000,000 equity and an $800,000 mortgage.

The first floor will be used for butlers' quarters, playroom, and baby carriage garage, etc. Apartments will have wood burning fireplaces.

SAXON SILK MAKERS PLAN CHICAGO PLANT

An industry new to America is to be established in the Central Manufacturing district of Chicago. A group of Saxon silk workers has come to Chicago from Saxony to start the manufacturing of noncrushable silkstuffs hitherto produced only in Germany.

The one story frame bungalow building at 3900 South Winchester has been leased by the Elastic Lasting Silk Manufacturing company, the name adopted by these Saxons. Machinery imported from Saxony is now being set up and weaving the new silk will start about Oct. 1.

Old Lake St. "L" Branch Right of Way to Be Sold

An echo of the days when the "L" roads were fighting each other for patronage is heard in the announcement that the Chicago Rapid Transit company has decided to sell the right of way of a one time proposed branch of the Lake street "L". This was bought thirty-five years ago with the idea of the old Lake street "L" cutting in on the territory of the Humboldt branch on the old "Metropolitan."

It runs north from Lake street in the alley just west of Western avenue to the alley north of Division, then to the alley east of California, and from there to North avenue.

The total value of the property that can be sold along the right of way is said to be about $100,000. Thomas B. Roberts of G. Whittier Gale & Co. of Oak Park, has been commissioned by the transit company to sell the land.

DEARBORN-OHIO CORNER SOLD.

The southeast corner of Dearborn and Ohio, 40x80, improved with two old residences, has been sold by Agnes Gleason to Bessie A. Geiger for an indicated $46,000, subject to $30,000. Martini & Miller represented both parties.

CENTRAL DISTRICT SALE.

The T. Johnson company, coopers and dealers in coopers' supplies, have bought the property they've been occupying at 1104 West 38th street, from the Central Manufacturing district.

BUYS NORTH AVENUE STORES.

The four stores and ten garages at 3325 West North avenue were sold by Abe Root to Samuel J. Cohen for a reported $60,000, subject to $37,000. Magee & Worth were brokers.

HERE'S OFFICIAL LIST OF PRIZE WINNERS AT REALTY MEN'S OUTING

Figures not obtainable on the day of the annual outing of the Chicago Real Estate board, held last Tuesday at Grand Beach, Mich., show, according to Pierce W. Jones, executive secretary of the board, that it broke all records for attendance. He states that there were more than 300 on the special train.

President Henry G. Zander of the realty board paid a tribute at the annual dinner at Grand Beach to James W. Belanger for his indefatigable efforts in making the outing a big success. Declines in hog prices were checked in the week end session, as weakness vanished, due to a scarcity of better grades.

The latter changed hands quickly at strong to slightly higher prices compared with the low time previous day, with top equaling Friday's peak at $10.10, which stands lowest since Sept. 4, and 40c under the high time of the week. Choice 190@220 lb butchers reached the day's top, while average price at $9.25, equaled Friday and compared with $9.50 a week ago.

After reaching the highest price level in over six weeks, better grades of hogs experienced a sharp reaction last Tuesday, with daily top prices dropping from $10.50 second day of the week, to $10.10 on Friday and Saturday. A break in corn prices, together with weakness in the meat trade, was responsible for the slump in live hog values.

Hog Receipts Small.

Hog receipts last week at 119,800 stand smallest since September, 1923, being 12,100 smaller than previous week, 37,400 smaller than a year ago, and 13,500 above the ten year average. Estimated average weight of hogs at 243 lbs stands 5 lbs lighter than previous week, 3 lbs heavier than a year ago, and 4 lbs above the ten year average. General average price of hogs last week at $9.55 was 15c above previous week, $1.30 above a year ago and $2.70 below the ten year average.

During the last two weeks producers have unloaded over 140,000 head of cattle on the Chicago market, the largest two succeeding weeks this year. Offerings last week at 69,900, following previous week's immense supply, proved beyond trade requirements, causing further uneven declines of 25c to $1.00 on all but strictly choice beef steers and yearlings. Weighty cattle were off sharpest. The week's general average price dropped to $9.50, against $9.80 previous week, being 80c under the corresponding week a year ago and $1.95 under the ten year average.

Western range cattle offerings for the week at 16,000 included a larger proportion of 1,100@1,300 lb steers, selling at $8.50@7.00, which helped considerably in dragging down fair to good heavy native beef steer values last week. Butcher stock slumped 15@25c. Stockers and feeders lowered 25@50c. Calves held steady with last week's decline.

Sheep Receipts Increase.

Last week's sheep receipts at 139,900 were largest since the corresponding week in 1923, when actual arrivals at 144,270 totaled largest since October, 1921. This immense increase caused sensational declines in fat lamb prices, while feeders, despite liberal offerings from the west, held steady, bringing prices in both classes together on closing rounds, for the first time since a year ago. Shipments from Chicago this week at about 54,600 were largest of the year, including a big share of feeding lambs. Killing lambs slumped $1.00 @1.25 since a week ago, with aged sheep steady to 25c lower. Top fat range lambs late brought $13.25, against $14.50 at the high point previous week. Feeding lambs at $12.25 equaled the highest since June.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 25,000 cattle, 37,000 hogs, and 33,000 sheep, against 28,552 cattle, 40,409 hogs, and 36,269 sheep a week ago, and 42,022 cattle, 51,758 hogs, and 41,161 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 70,000 cattle, 120,000 hogs, and 130,000 sheep, against 79,631 cattle, 157,262 hogs, and 122,583 sheep a year ago.

DRY GOODS MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—A strong undertying tone prevailed in the cotton cloth market today with prices working higher despite the restricted volume of business. Burlaps advanced in the local market in sympathy with a rise in Calcutta. Raw silk quotations were easier. Finished fabrics were in demand for both prompt and future deliveries.

A. F. OF L. FACING NEW POLITICS, NEW ECONOMICS

BY SCRUTATOR.

Even before the election it is beginning to appear that there will be a warm session of the American Federation of Labor at El Paso in November. Labor's first major political venture then will have been liquidated.

The vote polled by the third party will have an important effect on the future orientation of the American labor movement.

If labor's official suggestions to its rank and file do not show better in the election returns than somewhat similar action in behalf of Cox, there is promise of a pretty row.

The faction favoring the formation of a permanent third party on the model of Ramsay MacDonald's party in Britain will be encouraged by a big vote. But if the vote in industrial states is light, those who favor a return to the former policies, which they are trying to sustain even in the present campaign, despite the strange new alliances, will have a strong talking point.

They have plenty to say as to the effect of the British policy on the membership of organized labor. The membership of British unions as disclosed by the last meeting of the Trade Union congress has declined almost 50 per cent since the Socialist inner circle got control and devoted the major activities of the unions to politics.

The report on the federation's membership therefore will be of great interest. There is an impression that a gain has been registered since the big loss shown in 1923. This is believed to be true in the hand trades at any rate, because of the building boom. On the other hand, there is some evidence of losses on the railroads.

Labor banking is sure to come in for discussion. The old timers resisted indorsement of such policies as late as the Denver convention of 1921. Since that time labor banks have acquired resources of $100,000,000.

But the question of their further growth and future methods is becoming sharper. Radicals in the movement are assailing them. On the other hand, the controversy between John L. Lewis, head of the miners, and Warren S. Stone of the engineers, is likely to revive the opposition of the conservatives.

Lewis, who contemplates a labor bank for the miners, has had what perhaps is a unique experience with bankers. He borrowed a large sum on the personal credit of himself and his assistant in 1922 to finance a strike from a "capitalistic" bank, close to Wall street.

But the president of a labor bank, also the executive head of one of the oldest unions, refuses to bow to the orders of the miners' union in the conduct of coal mines owned by the engineers. In his letter to Lewis, Mr. Stone quotes figures as to production costs, just as any other capitalist would in a similar controversy.

But the Engineers' Journal, also under the jurisdiction of Stone, has been one of the most "advanced" of labor publications, openly sympathetic with Russia and furnishing a forum to some of the most "advanced" American radicals. To contrast Mr. Stone's argument that his men are entitled to earn money on their investment in a coal mine, with the general tone of the contents of the monthly journal under his control is to get quite a shock. Scant respect has been paid to the arguments by railroads, which sound exactly like the arguments of Mr. Stone as a mine operator.

Labor is becoming more and more a capitalist. But it is quite evident that labor leaders who also are bankers and industrialists will be spared much worry if workingmen generally buy into the industries in which they are employed rather than into industries which employ other men.

There will be less complications for them. From the standpoint of the general public, the educational value to labor of the ownership of varied industries by unions and the creation of dual or even triple personalities, is all to the good. But from the standpoint of old line unionism it is a perilous and complicated matter. As such it is bound to provoke lively discussion at the next big gathering of the clans.

CHICAGO CURB MARKET

Increased activity at advancing prices characterized trading in the local unlisted securities market last week.

Burroughs Adding Machine common was in demand, the closing quotation of 65¼ bid, 66 asked, ex-dividend, representing a net gain of some 3 points for the week. The preferred ruled firm between 100¾@101¼. Creamery Package full voting shares at 28½ bid and the nonvoting stock at 28½ bid, were 1 point higher, on the declaration of an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents. On a light volume of trade Godchaux preferred rose 3 points to 52½ bid, 51 asked. Hydro-Products Coke was erratic, breaking from 36½ to 34¼, then rallying to a close of 35¼ bid, with no stock offered for sale. Numerous trades in Goodman Manufacturing were reported between 52¾@53¾. The announcement of an initial 75 cents quarterly dividend, payable Oct. 1, on the common stock of H. O. Stone & Co. was reflected in an upturn of 2 points to 23 in the bid price of these shares. Units, consisting of one preferred and one common, closed at 99 bid, 101 asked.

Union Stockyards of Omaha closed at 112 bid, 113 asked, up 6 points. Federal Electric preferred, at 21 bid, 23 asked, was 1 point higher. Some few transactions in National Tea preferred were reported at 102¾@103¼. After opening at 49, Interstate Iron and Steel sold at 51. Bids of 50 were general at the close, with little interest on the selling side. J. L. Craft common relinquished a minor fraction at 7¼@7¾. Little trading occurred in Chicago Mill and Lumber preferred, despite the enhancement of 1 point in the closing quotation of 95 bid, 96 asked. Wahl preferred sold at 82@82¼. Offerings of Kellogg company common found ready sale between 19¼@20¾. Bids of 20¼ at the close failed to bring out definite offerings.

Motor Products was an outstanding feature in the motor and accessories group. This issue rose some 13 points to 90 bid, 91 asked. Ford of Canada was also 5 points higher in selling at 455. Paige-Detroit gained fractionally at 13¼ bid, 13¾ asked, while Timken Axle was stationary at 4¼ bid, 4½ asked. Motor Wheel also showed no change at 9 bid, 9¾ asked.

Renewed buying in the public utilities again started these shares on an upward trend, numerous issues establishing new highs for the year. United Light and Power class A common warrants, which entitle the holder to subscribe to stock at 35 at any time prior to Dec. 31, 1925, advanced some 6 points to high sales at 11¼ and closed 10¼ bid, 10¾ asked. American Light and Traction rose from opening sales at 127½ to high sales at 138½, from which point it reacted to a closing quotation of 136¾@137¼. Continental Gas and Electric at 73 bid, 74 asked, was up 4 points. American Public Utilities closed at 90 bid, 94 asked, up 10 points for the week. Offerings of Lehigh Power Securities found ready sale, scoring an upturn of 6 points to 87 bid, 88 asked. Commonwealth Power corporation common ex-rights, in the late trading jumped 4 points to closing sales at 106½.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Declaration of a 32 per cent stock dividend by the Western Pacific railroad, contingent on completion of the Denver and Rio Grande Western reorganization, will not be voted by the directors until the latter road has been sold and the receiver discharged, according to Western Pacific officials.

The Northern Pacific railway will do no new financing this year, according to Charles Donnelly, president, who expects August net operating income possibly will exceed net of $1,205,236 in August last year. This would bring the total for the eight months of 1924 to about $7,500,000; compared with net of $5,736,198 in the corresponding period of 1923.

At a meeting of the receiver and creditors of the Columbia Motors company, the Security Trust company, receivers, filed an inventory and appraisal showing assets of $097,455 and liabilities of $865,569, without giving effect to any capital liability or the commitments of the company. Application for a sale to be held about the middle of October will be made in a few days.

The Wells Fargo Express company will take another step in eventual liquidation of the company by distributing about Oct. 1 to each stockholder $5 a share in cash and two-fifths of a share of American Railway Express company stock held in the company's treasury. This distribution of American Railway Express will require 96,800 shares, leaving 3,797 shares of railway express in the treasury.

Efforts are being made by the management of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway to line up large holders of bonds maturing next year in favor of a plan to extend them, it was reported.

Dividend distribution in October, it was estimated, will be the largest of any month this year and also will swell the total for the last quarter to the highest level of any three months' period.

The Western Electric company reports billings of $195,167,000 for the first eight months of 1924, an increase of $37,676,000 over the same period last year. Orders received amounted to $198,892,000, a gain of $7,566,000.

Fewer commercial failures in the United States last week are reported by R. G. Dun & Co., the total of 291, comparing with 319 in the preceding week, and 302 in the corresponding week in 1923.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

[Copyright: 1924: Fairchild News Service.]

LONDON.—A new method of manufacturing artificial silk, one in which it would be spun from cotton, wool and other wraps, has been perfected by a group of Yorkshire spinners and a syndicate is being formed to produce and exploit the new fabric. The plans and identity of the syndicate's backers are being kept secret until they are ready to undertake their merchandising campaign, but it is understood that a variety of fabrics will be turned out suitable for both men's and women's wear lines.

NEW YORK.—The national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World will have a fund of more than $150,000 for its work in keeping the country's advertising truthful during the coming year. The committee reported that most of its work was now in radio and motion picture advertising.

WALL STREET NOTES

Sixteen stocks yesterday established new peak prices for the year, including American Tobacco A and B, Liggett & Myers B, California Packing, United Drug common and first preferred, National Biscuit, Loose Wiles Biscuit, Studebaker, Nash Motors, Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, Colorado & Southern, Missouri Pacific preferred, Pittsburgh & West Virginia preferred, and Southern Railway preferred.

Western railroad shares were again under accumulation on the theory that the heavy grain loadings of the last few weeks would be reflected in the earnings statement of the next few months. Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Missouri Pacific preferred, and Wabash preferred A moved up 1@1¼ points, while Chicago and Northwestern climbed 3 points.

Strength and activity of the American Tobacco issues, which added 3 more points to their recent gains, is said to be based on a split up of the shares. Good buying also was noted in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, National Lead, and Jewel Tea, all of which climbed a point or more. A few issues for which there was a thin market, such as American Radiator and Nickel Plate, showed substantial losses on a small turnover.

Standard Plate Glass broke more than 5 points to 19¾. This was probably due to the changing of the word "corporation" to "company" in the name of the company. The alteration of title necessitated removal from the trading list of the shares of the old name and the substitution therefor of the new. The first notice of removal, failing to mention the substitution, apparently led to some hasty liquidation.

D. & R. G. W. Railroad to Be Sold on Oct. 29

Denver, Colo., Sept. 20.—The Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad will be sold at public auction on Oct. 29, according to an announcement here today by C. I. Herrington, special master in chancery. The minimum bid to be received, under the direction of the court, will be $17,936,706.

A Sound Water Power Investment

SIERRA PACIFIC ELECTRIC CO. controls five hydro-electric plants and furnishes electric power and light in Western Nevada, with transmission lines connecting with Pacific Gas & Electric Co.

The 6% cumulative preferred stock of the company is strongly protected by earnings which, after bond interest and dividend requirements, show a balance of over 20% of gross earnings. This compares favorably with the balance, after bond interest charges alone, of many public utilities.

We recommend and offer Sierra Pacific Electric Co. Preferred stock for investment.

GRAINS LOWER; LONGS UNLOAD BIG HOLDINGS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets were on the downgrade a good part of the day with the finish at the bottom on unloading by local longs. Wheat finished with net losses of 2@2¼c, corn 1¼@2c, and oats ½@¾c. Rye was ¼c lower to ¼c higher.

Prospects for clearing weather in the Canadian northwest was responsible for a break in Winnipeg wheat after prices there had moved up sharply early, and the finish was 1⅝@2½c lower.

Wheat Market Unsettled.

Wheat market held within narrow limits the last week, having a range of 2¼@3¼c, and the finish was at the bottom, with September 3½c higher, December ½c, and May ⅝c lower. The market is in a rut with some new incentive needed to bring about a decided change in the price. Corn was weak and sharply lower, and at the last showed net losses of 1½@7¼c lower, while oats were 1¼@1¾c lower. Rye showed independent strength due to heavy export buying, and gained 3⅝@5¾c for the week. Lard declined 12½@37½c, with ribs 12½c lower and bellies 5@15c higher.

Bullish crop reports from abroad had little effect on the wheat market. Germany was officially reported as short 48,000,000 bu wheat and rye as compared with last year, but the market has not been acting in accord with the foreign news or the persistent export demand for some days, and the undertone a good part of the day was distinctly heavy. Toward the last there was liquidation by scattered longs, and the finish was at the bottom, with September $1.37¾@1.37⅞, December at $1.31½@1.31⅝, and May at $1.37¾@1.37⅞.

Corn Closes on Decline.

Lack of a general speculative interest is having considerable influence on the corn market, and while there was a good class of buying of December early under $1.06, the short covering finally ceased and prices declined rapidly. September closed at $1.14½, December at $1.07@1.07¼, and May at $1.07⅝@1.08. Wet and cool weather over the belt was without effect, even though frost was expected in the Dakotas if the sky cleared. Weekly forecast indicated that generally fair and cool weather would follow the rainy spell. The frost damage to corn in parts of South Dakota and Iowa is now showing up and led to some short covering early.

Oats showed relatively more strength than corn but averaged lower, with that grain and closed at the bottom, with September at 45½c. Nothing was heard regarding export demand, and even the domestic call was a little slow. Receipts 144 cars. The trade look for a good increase to be shown in Monday's visible supply statement.

German Rye Crop Short.

German rye crop is officially estimated at 220,000,000 bu, or 56,000,000 bu short of that harvested in 1923. Scandinavia was after wheat and rye at the seaboard, and sales of the latter grain were estimated at 200,000 bu. Trade in futures was fair, and the deferred deliveries relatively firm. Interest in the September has fallen off materially.

Packers were moderate sellers of lard, but this was offset by scattered commission house buying, and at the last prices were unchanged to 7½c higher. Ribs and bellies were unchanged. Packing of hogs at Chicago for the season to date aggregates 2,978,000, against 4,570,000 last year. Prices follow:

Chicago Bankers Offer Course on Investments

Do you know the difference between bonds and stocks, or the difference between various classes of stocks and bonds? In order to offer such information the Investment Bankers' Association of America, represented by a committee of Chicago bankers, has arranged a course of lectures to be given at the Y. M. C. A. School of Commerce, 19 South La Salle street.

The course is entitled "Fundamentals of Investments," and consists of sixteen lectures, to be given every Thursday evening. The lectures will be by well known Chicago bankers specializing in the investment field. While the course is designed primarily for men in banking and brokerage fields, it is open to the public on payment of a moderate tuition.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. — Cottonseed oil closed 5 to 15 points net lower. Sales, 2,000 barrels. The census report was more bullish than otherwise, but did not bring in any buying. August consumption was 197,000 barrels and stocks, all positions, 216,000 barrels, the latter being the smallest in years. Prime crude, 8.12½c bid; prime summer yellow spot, 9.50c; September closed, 9.75c; October, 9.75c; December, 9.55c; March, 9.85c, all bid.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—Cottonseed ally crushed during August totaled 63,541 tons, compared with 55,090 tons in August last year, and on hand at mills, August 31, 192,649 tons, compared with 123,003 tons on Aug. 31 last year, the census bureau announced today.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Scandinavia was after wheat and rye at the seaboard and sales of wheat in all positions were estimated at 400,000 bu and rye 200,000 bu. Other countries did little. Liverpool will change back to sun time today.

Chicago handlers said some wheat to exporters, but the quantities were not given. Domestic shipping sales were 15,000 bu wheat, 70,000 bu corn, 50,000 bu oats, and 5,000 bu barley. Deliveries on September contracts were 21,000 bu wheat, 10,000 bu corn, and 30,000 bu oats.

Basis on red winter wheat here was firmer at 6¼@7c over September, while hard was firm at 2¾@3c over No. 2, while No. 3 hard was 1@1½c over and No. 4 hard September to ½c under. Receipts 150 cars. Premiums on ordinary grades of cash wheat at Kansas City were 1c higher. St. Louis prices were 1@2c and Omaha 1¼@2½c lower. Minneapolis sold 75,000 bu wheat for shipment with an active demand for spot offerings.

Cash corn sold mainly at 1c over September for No. 2 mixed, yellow and white, while No. 3 mixed and white was September price and No. 2 yellow September to ½c over. Receipts 153 cars. Outside markets were unchanged to 1½c lower, with Omaha leading the decline.

In the last two days cash oats have gained ½c or more on the December, the basis moving up ¼c yesterday to 1¼@2c under the future for No. 2, while No. 3 white was 3¼@4¼c under. Receipts 144 cars.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The grain markets are not acting right for a bull and tired longs are selling wheat and corn futures, while a few of the strong local professionals are endeavoring to hold prices up. The trade is disposed to look for lower prices unless there is material improvement in the speculative buying and in the general export demand.

Farmers have sold wheat freely and are largely responsible for the decline in prices of 10c a bushel from the high point of the season. They needed the money and the majority of them had to sell. Those who are friendly to the buying side of the market are endeavoring to sustain values and hope that farmers will see it to their best advantage to be more conservative in their marketing. Primary receipts since July 1 aggregate 190,252,000 bu, against 135,000,000 bu last year.

Local professionals who tried to sustain corn prices were the largest buyers yesterday and were readily filled up. There were indications of their unloading toward the last.

There are a few of the commission houses who are bullish on wheat and bearish on corn. They believe that there will be a demand for all the wheat available for export, and say that the bull side of corn has grown stale for the time being. Comparatively little new buying is coming into the corn market, so brokers say, and all strong spots bring out liberal selling.

A report from a Central Illinois grain man said: "We have corn on our land that will yield 70 bu per acre, and a light frost will help. Springfield, Ill., reported that new corn was being fed there and contracted for at 90c a bushel.

There is said to be a great deal of changing of spreads in wheat from Chicago and Minneapolis into Winnipeg, as it is the highest market. Close there yesterday was at losses of 1⅜ to 2¾c on wheat, ½ to ⅝c lower on oats, and ¼ to ⅜c lower on rye futures.

A belief that Canadian wheat would sell at $1.50 per bu was expressed by G. W. Walker of the Australian grain firm of Lloyd-Jacobs, Walker & Co., in an interview at Regina. He is completing a tour of the world. He looks for importing countries to take a little more wheat than they did last season.

Winnipeg October was the strongest of wheat futures there, losing only 1⅝c against 2¾c by the deferred deliveries. October there is 8c above Chicago December. Large purchases of October wheat were made by mills and exporters when the difference was not so great, and these buyers want the wheat and there is limited selling pressure. There was selling of wheat here against buying at Winnipeg.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

German official crop report shows materially smaller yields of rye and oats, as compared with last year. In many districts the condition of crops is critical, and some 50 per cent of the wheat and oats have been ruined by rain. Comparisons follow:

	1924.	1923.
Wheat, bu	93,600,000	106,000,000
Rye, bu	220,000,000	256,000,000
Oats, bu	281,000,000	413,000,000
Barley, bu	110,500,000	108,000,000

R. W. Kinyon wired Jackson Bros. & Co. from Beatrice, Neb., that a bus trip from Lincoln to York showed corn of lowlands to be short, weedy, and late, and many fields will be a total loss. Out from Lincoln 70 per cent of the corn on rolling land is past frost danger. Ears short and a large per cent maturing chaffy corn. Not over 50 per cent of the crop will be of contract grade.

Weather in Argentina is fine. Wheat improving rapidly. Plowing for corn progressing rapidly and a record acreage is expected to be put in.

The Important Elements of an Investment.

The principal points to be considered in an investment are safety of principal, certainty of income, yield, marketability and stability of price. All these factors are not of equal importance. Some are more essential to the needs of one individual than to those of another.

The first two points are, however, of prime importance to every investor. Without safety of principal he may lose all. Without certainty of income he may receive an inadequate return on his investment, or even no return at all. Therefore, while the other points assume varying degrees of importance according to the requirements of the individual, an investment is not a good one unless it contains to a high degree safety of principal and certainty of income.

Having made sure of these two essentials the yield, or rate of return, should be considered. It is, of course, very generally true that the greater the degree of safety of principal and certainty of income the lower is the yield obtainable. This is not always true, however, for the next point, marketability, here enters into the situation. A safe bond which has not a ready marketability may pay a larger rate of return to compensate for its lack of marketability. The individual, therefore, who does not require a marketable bond, intending and being in a position to hold it until maturity, may be able to secure a good yield in a very safe bond.

Marketability is important to one who may, at some time before maturity, need either to sell his bond or borrow money on it, using the bond as collateral. Such a one may have to be content with a somewhat lower yield in order to obtain the ready marketability which he needs. He can rarely have both, combined with safety of principal and certainty of income, except under unusual market conditions.

The individual must determine which of these factors best suits his particular requirements.

Closely linked in importance with marketability is stability of price. The investor who requires ready marketability needs to know that, if he should have to sell at any time, he may reasonably expect to secure a price fairly close to that at which he bought. A security which fluctuates widely on the market is not a desirable investment for one may be forced to sell at any time, for he may be compelled to take a loss. If, however, the first two elements are present, stability of price is very apt to be present also, for the safer the bond the less likelihood there is that its price will fluctuate to any considerable degree.

Before investing in any security the individual should consider and weigh these five elements and decide which ones are most necessary for his own particular requirements. Having done this he should seek to secure the proper combination with as little sacrifice as possible of the other elements.

The New York Times.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The week ended in character on the financial markets today, for the day's movements presented a stock market retracing its steps of the day before, a foreign exchange market in complete uncertainty, and a bond market which continued its slow and deliberate advance.

Although the turnover was not particularly large, many stocks advanced briskly in the final hours of trading today and gains ranging from fractions to as much as two points were established in a large number of issues. The tobacco issues advanced generally to new high records for the year, while there was persistent strength in most of the steel and food issues.

U. S. Bonds Advance Again.

With investment bonds the trend was what it has been ever since the further lowering of discount rates last week. Every class of United States bonds advanced another fraction; and their gain in price for the last week as a whole ranges from one-tenth of a point to one-half.

This continuing movement is as interesting as it is unusual at this particular time, for the advancing of the premium on these securities should logically mean that the banks not only have superabundant resources but that they expect the condition to continue. For other domestic bonds, the "averages" are up nearly one-half point for the week.

Upturn in Cotton Ends.

The recovery of the two preceding days in the cotton market ceased. The week-end figures showed a remarkably rapid increase in cotton exports. Probably the moral effect of this was counterbalanced by the fact that another fortnightly government estimate on the yield appears next week.

As a result of the shifting of credits incident to the federal tax settlements, loans, discounts, and investments of the New York clearing house banks, this week increased $132,881,000. Net demand deposits increased $109,356,000; time deposits increased $23,852,000; circulation increased $95,000, and excess reserves increased $22,746,130.

U. S. STEEL MAY REVISE PRICES FOR THE WEST

New York, Sept. 20.—The decision of the United States Steel corporation to do away with the "Pittsburgh plus" practice was the outstanding development in this industry during the week. The expectation that as a result of the decision, affecting some other companies as well, there would be some advances in prices to make up for the loss in delivery revenues appeared today to have been justified.

It was reported that the price of steel plate, shapes, bars, sheet, and tin products at Chicago would be raised $2.00 a ton, the new prices to be posted shortly. It was said that the independents in Pittsburgh and east of Chicago would suffer, inasmuch as it will cost $5.00 freight per ton to compete with the Steel corporation in Chicago.

The expected new prices will give the Steel corporation an advantage of $3.00 a ton over the Pittsburgh mills in Chicago, where the corporation has a plant and the Pittsburgh corporations have none. Bethlehem was also reported to be contemplating a new schedule of prices.

German Hogs Higher at $17.67 Per Cwt., It's Said

Hog prices in Germany are advancing rapidly, according to the reports from the Berlin office of the United States department of agriculture. Hogs of 220 9265 lb weight averaged $17.67 per hundred at Berlin for the week ending Sept. 19, as compared with $16.37 for the previous week and $15.34 for the corresponding week in August. Weekly receipts were at about the level maintained for the last two months. Notwithstanding the sensational upturn in hog values, lard prices at Hamburg were steady at around $16.50 per cwt.

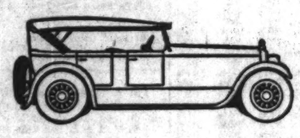
Any Child Over Five Can Understand This

This is an automobile.



It has four wheels and everything.

The first automobile had a motor with one cylinder.

It went "Chug-chug!"

It jerked Pa's hat off.

It made the dogs bark.

Then someone built a motor with two cylinders.

It went "Chug-chug! Chug-chug!"

Not so many dogs barked.

It was just a little less jumpy.

No one ever successfully built a three cylinder motor because it would be like a dog running on three legs. It would have a sort of wobbling motion.

So a man made a four cylinder motor.

1 2 3 4

It was better than a two or a one, so father sold his two cylinder to a man with whiskers who handled old iron.

And bought a four.

One Sunday morning mother was sitting in the back seat holding on to her hat, telling father how to drive.

Someone blew a horn and a six cylinder went by.

1 2 3 4 5 6

Mother was unhappy. It was a neighbor who had passed her on the hill.

The six cylinder had arrived.

One day a man opened the hood of a six cylinder down on Main Street.

All of the busy people stopped.

Father noticed that the fenders did not jiggle so much when the motor was running.

Engineers call that v-i-b-r-a-t-i-o-n. But "jiggle" is a simpler word.

The six was so smooth as compared with the four, that it looked for a while as if all the little ones would continue to ride in sixes until old age.

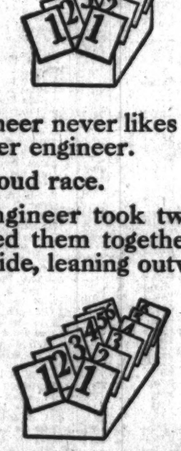
But the engineers were not satisfied.

One engineer tipped a four sideways and attached another four to it, just in the same position as the Siamese twins would be if one wanted to stay in bed and the other wanted to get up.

But one engineer never likes to do the same thing as another engineer.

They are a proud race.

So another engineer took two six cylinder motors, hooked them together in the same way, side by side, leaning outwards.



Another pair of Siamese twins. One of these Siamese twins wanted to go to the movies when the other wanted to see the circus.

Always opposed to one another.

Of course, those engineers would have put the cylinders in line and attained smoothness, except for one thing.

They were afraid that the motor would be longer than papa's garage.

Then Mr. Isotta Fraschini, over in Italy, who liked to ride fast, built a racing car with eight cylinders in line. He had brains.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8

Someone else built another—then another and another. Smoother than sixes could be.

Finally one appeared in America at the Indianapolis races.

It won the race.

Then Fred Duesenberg built one for his car.

Packard did the same thing later.

Then other American engineers began to build line eights. They wanted smoothness.

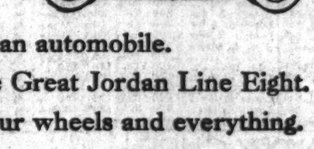
But some of them couldn't seem to get away from the idea of tying two four cylinders together.

One even took two four cylinder motors, hitched them together and put on a double intake manifold, double exhaust, double carburetor and double ignition.

1 2 3 4 — 1 2 3 4

No necessity for two engines in one motor car.

Then Jordan built The Great Line Eight.



This is an automobile.

It is The Great Jordan Line Eight.

It has four wheels and everything.

Send Your Son to College

A Story with a Plot—By GEORGE M. COHAN

The college authorities . . . kept returning day after day.

I RECEIVED the following letter from New Haven a few days ago:

"Mr. George M. Cohan.

"Dear Sir: I read your syndicate letter last week. Will you kindly answer the following questions?

"Where is the plot?

"What is the story?

"Why do you find fault with college boys?

"What did the bookmakers and Wall street operators ever do to you?

"Kindly answer me care above hotel, as I am connected with this establishment. A few words of enlightenment will be appreciated by

"J. B. Shotwell."

I should like to have the gentleman understand that I have nothing against college boys or gamblers or hotel men. And to prove it I will now tell a little story, with a real plot, that I have made up out of my own head in order to pay tribute not only to Mr. Shotwell and all college boys but also to the well known city of New Haven.

The Story.

ONCE upon a time a fussy old guy who had a son named Oswald decided to send the boy to college.

Blue being the old boy's favorite color, he naturally picked out New Haven, so Oswald, without any voice in the matter, was dressed up in a pipe and sweater and hurriedly shipped to Connecticut.

He was placed in charge of a tall, sickly looking gink with a bad cough, blue eyeglasses, and an English dialect.

Oswald fitted in very nicely in the freshman class, having already gained fame in his home town as the freshest guy that ever lived there.

The college professors, for some reason or other, did not appeal to Oswald, so after socking one of them on the point of his vandyke beard he was immediately expelled and told to keep away from the college grounds altogether.

There was Oswald, with his father's hopes of a brilliant career gone smash, friendless and alone in the streets of New Haven.

"O, how am I ever going to break the news to father?" thought Oswald as he stopped to adjust his tie in front of a jewelry store looking glass.

Then another thought struck him and he smiled as only a guy named Oswald can smile.

"Why should the old gent ever hear about this at all?" said Oswald to himself, as he fanned his face with his funny college hat. "He'll never hear about it unless I myself spill the beans." He continued to talk to himself, for, although not a motion picture actor, Oswald had the habit.

And the boy was right. The old gent would never know the truth unless Oswald divulged it. You see, it was almost impossible for the college authorities to notify the father, because the old gent had no permanent address. He was a Bible salesman by trade and traveled about the country ringing doorbells.

The college professors did not appeal to Oswald.

"I'll stay here in New Haven for the next four years and he'll never know the difference."

THAT was Oswald's decision in the matter as he strolled into the corner drug store and ordered an orange phosphate.

After carefully weighing himself up in the soda fountain mirror he lapped up the orange juice, paid his check, winked at the cashier, and walked deliberately out of the drug store into the streets of New Haven again.

He fumbled in his pocket and drew forth the remnants of his bankroll.

Twelve dollars and a half to the penny.

"What could a guy do to get a start in life with twelve dollars and a half?"

That was the horrible thought that flashed through Oswald's mind. He approached the nearest traffic cop.

"I beg pardon, officer," Oswald ventured, "but could you direct me to the squarest roulette game in town?"

"There's no such thing in this town," shouted the officer. "If there is, then some one's holding out on me."

There was a mean look on the officer's face as he said this, so Oswald timidly turned away and bumped into a baby carriage as he did so.

After being properly called down by a colored nurse girl he regained the sidewalk and wended his way to the center of the town, finally arriving at New Haven's busiest thoroughfare, where several people were walking up and down.

"No roulette game in town. O, this is awful!" thought Oswald. "What am I to do? O, what am I to do?" He said it twice, it sounded so good to him the first time.

On approaching the local hotel, which had previously been pointed out to him, he strolled into the lobby and to the office desk.

"How much do you charge for a room for four years?" inquired Oswald of the day clerk at the desk—the hotel had a day clerk and a night clerk, and they were as different as day and night.

"You mean to tell me that you're going to stay in this town four years?" asked the day clerk in answer to Oswald's question. And then, to simplify matters, Oswald told his story, explaining that he was merely making his choice between New Haven and murder.

"O, dear! O, dear!" said the clerk when he had heard the tale. "This is too bad. Altogether too bad."

The clerk wasn't on the level with his sympathy, however, as he hated college boys, anyway, because they wore funnier hats than he did.

"We charge the actors a dollar a day for one room, but as you're going to stay here for four years, you'll probably want a room with a bath, and that will be fifty cents extra."

Oswald smiled when the clerk said this and immediately inquired, "Is this where the actors live when they play in New Haven?"

"Not all the actors," answered the clerk. "Some of them go to the big hotel up the street. You see, we don't allow the leading actors or actresses to stop here because they complain too much about the food and want too much waiting on. We don't wait on anybody in this hotel—every man for himself and women and children first."

"Well, I'll try it for a year, anyway," said Oswald, "because I love to mix in with show people and listen to all their funny cracks."

THE bellboy showed Oswald to a room with blue wallpaper—all New Haven rooms must be blue, the same as the occupants.

"Here's your key, mister," said the bellboy, "and I'd strongly advise you to keep your door locked."

"You mean to imply that things have been stolen in this hotel" queried Oswald.

"Everything in this hotel has been stolen," answered the bellboy. "Every chair in your room was brought here in the middle of the night."

Oswald handed the bellboy a dime and the lad ran downstairs and split it with the clerk.

"O, dear! O, dear!" moaned Oswald as he sat on the edge of the bed and polished his finger nails. "Here I am, sentenced to four years, and there's no roulette game in the burg."

Tears started to come to his eyes, and he rushed to the looking glass and watched himself crying.

Oswald was a gambler at heart, and the thought of being planted in a one night stand with no game of chance in sight broke his spirit completely.

His love of gambling came to him naturally, as his old gent at one time worked the shell game with a honky-tonk circus before he went into the Bible business.

AFTER crying bitterly and sympathizing with himself for an hour and a half, Oswald wiped the tears from his eyes with the blue handkerchief he had purposely brought to New Haven to wave at the football players, polished his boots with one of the hotel towels, plastered his hair down with vaseline, put on his funny college hat, and strolled downstairs for the sole purpose of hanging around the hotel office and sizing up the other boarders.

He leaned against the desk and bent over to get a slant at the hotel register in hopes of discovering the names of some theatrical celebrities.

"Any actors stopping here now?" he inquired of the clerk.

"Sure. The house is full of them."

"Where do they hang out?"

"Most of 'em are upstairs in their rooms playing poker," said the clerk.

"Do you suppose there's any chance of an outsider breaking into the game?" asked Oswald.

The clerk took a good look at Oswald when he said this. He immediately became suspicious. All hotel clerks are suspicious. Especially in New Haven

In a flash Oswald was hep to the fact that the clerk had him tabbed for a boat gambler or a short card guy, so he alibied himself immediately.

"You see," he went on, "I feel rather lucky today, and I'd like to take a shot at the hunch. Is there such a thing as a square roulette game in town?"

The clerk laughed for four minutes.

"Not in this town," he answered. "Why, listen, young fellow, if any one had nerve enough to spin a wheel or deal faro or make a handbook in this tank he'd make a fortune right out of this hotel alone. These actors spend half their time looking around for something to bet on."

Oswald smiled when he heard this. His mind was made up. He knew exactly what he was going to do.

"So they all like to play the ponies, eh?" Oswald was thinking fast now.

"Certainly they do; who doesn't? I'd like to get a little bet down once in a while myself, but there isn't a chance around here."

There was a silly grin on the clerk's face as he said this.

OSWALD leaned over the desk and began whispering to the clerk at this point, and whatever it was he said seemed to interest the clerk, because his eyes started to pop out of his head until he became the dead spit of Eddie Cantor.

After a long whispered conversation the clerk drew back and looked at Oswald in amazement.

"But what of the story you told me a while ago about being a college boy?" asked the clerk.

"That's the way I work," answered Oswald. "I never tell any one who I am until I'm sure of my man."

Throughout the day, one by one, as the actors came to the hotel desk they were quietly tipped off that bets could be made in room 412; racetrack odds would be laid at all hours of the day and night.

Inside of two weeks' time Oswald figured out his winnings as follows:

From the actors playing in New Haven, $11,957.50.

From the actors playing in New Haven, 14 trunks of wardrobe.

From the actors playing in New Haven, 7 diamond rings.

From the waiters in the hotel cafe, $1,984.50.

From the bellboys and chambermaids, $77.15.

From the day clerk, $22.

From the night clerk, $26.

Over fifteen thousand dollars' profit realized on a capital of twelve dollars and a half.

The middle of the third week the hotel proprietor and the manager of the local opera house started to make bets, and inside of the following ten days Oswald won the hotel and the theater just as they stood.

There was Oswald, who no more than a month before had been nothing but an ordinary college boy, now suddenly transformed into a successful hotel and theater owner, besides having a cash bankroll of $55,000 to boot.

He immediately sent the following telegram to his father:

"Come to New Haven at once; I need you badly."

The old gent hurried to New Haven, thinking, of course, that Oswald had broken out with some college epidemic, but upon arriving was told the glad news and rewarded by his grateful son by being made clerk of the hotel during the day and doortender at the opera house during the evening.

One day the college professors heard there was a bookmaker in town and immediately notified the police department.

That afternoon twenty-seven coppers came to Oswald's room and bet on the whole six races.

By the end of the second month Oswald had won

He hated college boys, anyway, because they wore funnier hats than he did.

two department stores and a hat factory from the men who had formerly owned them.

Then the college authorities, getting no satisfaction from the police department, made up their minds to take matters into their own hands, so in a body they arrived at Oswald's room one day and kept returning there day after day until Oswald finally won the college, football grounds and all.

At the end of six months Oswald had won the entire town of New Haven, and upon doing so presented it to the city of Bridgeport as a token of his esteem, and two years later died in Danbury, mad as a hatter—which only goes to prove that Oswald wasn't such a bad guy after all.

The Whole Story by Princess Bibesco

She Wrote Her Life Instead of Living It—Until Reality Thrust Itself Into Her Dreams

"IT is so like you to want to know the whole story:"

"Please let me be like myself."

"And it is so like me to pamper you, isn't it?"

"Delightfully like you. I want you to begin at the beginning. How did you come to know her? No one has ever met a best seller. I have always felt it would be easier to get to know a person who had invented a vacuum cleaner than some one who sold 300,000 copies of a book—because, how does one set about it? The whole literary world stands between you. E. M. Forster would quite genuinely never have heard of her, and the rest of the intelligentsia would hardly be intelligent enough. To them she would be a giggle—an unconscious echo of their private schools. One might approach Arnold Bennett, of course, but his books sell too well. It would be the rubbing in of a resemblance and a difference, and he might not know that one knew which was which. Yes, clearly, it would have to be an accident. It was an accident, wasn't it?"

"A kind of accident."

"Of course, I know every time that I go to the country I am surrounded by rectories overflowing with serial writers—but how am I to find out?"

"Why don't you write 'Care of the Daily Mirror,' 'Dear Madam: My life has not been the same since I read "Clare's Calvary." Would it be possible for me to meet you? There are so many things I would like to talk to you about,' etc., etc."

"No, I couldn't do that—it wouldn't be decent."

"Dear me, you are like a New York friend of mine, who, when told that a young lady of his acquaintance was in love with Chaliapin, said 'But it's impossible, her father was a member of the Raquet club.'"

"Margaret, you are prevaricating—please don't tease me, I want my Arabian Night."

"From Balham?"

"Was it Balham?"

"No, of course not—Godlaming."

"LET me nail you down to the first fact. Miss Eunice Evans lives at Godalming."

"That is not the beginning. The beginning is, as you meant it to be, in a rectory."

"But how did you peep through the window?"

"Miss Evans, the eldest Miss Evans, Miss Ethel Evans, was my governess."

"Good heavens!"

"Not at all. My Miss Evans was everything that a governess should be. She wore her watch on a watch chain, tucked into her belt; she sketched a little in water colors; she played the piano, allowing her chords and arpeggios a communal life. She knew all about English grammar, and she believed that everything was for the best. She lowered her voice in speaking about the dead and raised it in speaking about the clergy. She was never without a shoe horn and a button hook. Her brush and comb were always in a bag, and so was her nightgown, which was called a night dress. She never traveled without eau de cologne encased in wicker work and brandy concealed in a small scent bottle. These excesses were covered by the formula, 'One never knows.'"

"And Eunice?"

"Don't you want to know any more about Ethel?"

"I know all about Ethel. She adored you and she always said, 'Margaret has a very hot temper, but it is quickly over. I can't bear a person who sulks—of course, she is a difficult child—so passionate—but a heart of gold!'"

"How do you know?"

"All governesses say that about their pupils."

"But I have got a heart of gold."

"Very possibly. And Miss Evans explained that what she really liked about you was your open nature. Those brown eyes, she would say, could harbor no deceit."

"She was quite right. Miss Evans was the niece of an archdeacon. It was long before archdeacons had had a word said against them. Eunice was her younger sister. Occasionally, when we were in London, she would come and spend a night or two, and we would go to 'Julius Caesar' and a promenade concert."

"Was it always 'Julius Caesar'?"

"Once it was 'Raffles.' In winter we would have tea at Charbonnel and Walker—chocolate with whipped cream—and in summer we would go to Gunter's and eat strawberry ices."

"Big ones?"

"Small ones, with a glass of iced water and a sponge cake."

"AND Eunice, what did she look like? What did she talk about?"

"Her hair was a little fairer than hair colored. It was always loose, with a net trying to keep up with it—a net that was either lamentably short or else sprawling about her forehead. Her eyes were gray—they were bound to be gray, weren't they?—rather charming and surprised, with a nice, foolish expression. She always thought it so wonderful to be in London, in the same town as the National gallery and the British museum and so much wickedness."

"And the mother of parliaments?"

"Yes, and Park Lane. She felt that Park Lane was full of international financiers. She adored mother—mother was a dream then, you know—and she used to love to see her dressed for a ball with her jewels on. Miss Evans—Ethel—said that the expression of her eyes was the crowning jewel, but I don't think Eunice felt that. She said that there was something very gay about diamonds."

"Poor Miss Eunice!"

"She is so rich now—so very rich."

"But how did it all begin?"

"I don't know—'Wax Flowers' it was called—her first book, I mean. It was a tremendous success. The hero was suspected of cowardice, and he went out to India under another name and saved his rival's life—or was it his native servant's? Anyway, the heroine didn't believe in him for a long time—not for about 400 pages—but she became very humble at the end, calling him, I remember, her 'Sahib,' which is a term of respect, isn't it?"

"Don't be flippant, Margaret—what happened then?"

"Well, she wrote one book after another. Her heroes became more and more manly—they took their beloveds to shacks and chained them up and told them they ought to be whipped—perhaps they even whipped them—I don't remember. But the ladies, though unmarried, were as safe and sacred as they would have been in their own drawing rooms at Tooting, and when once they had learnt their lesson they were allowed to marry and dream of cradles. Later, much later, there was a new crop, pages and pages of unconsummated marriages, but that has been the last state."

"BUT, Margaret, I want to know about Eunice herself."

"Well, Mr. Evans died and Ethel died, and Eunice took her house at Godalming. One couldn't see it at all from the road, she said, and one could get to the Hogs Back quite easily. There was the biggest monkey puzzle I have ever seen in the garden, and lilacs and laburnums and syringa, all looking so unflowery. There was a summer house, too—a rustic one—and arches of Dorothy Perkins ramblers. And I remember a little bit of artificial water with a tiny waterfall and some elaborate rocks peering about among maiden hair. 'Of course,' Eunice said, 'I know there isn't really maiden hair in the wilds, but poor father always said that what is beautiful is true.'"

"And inside?"

"Inside? There was a pianola and a gramophone and lots of little tables covered with slums of little silver things. And the wall paper looked like moire. Everything looked like something else. The lamp shades were dolls, the tea cozy was a golliwog, the books were card boxes, the cigarets were marzipan, only in the hall there was a tiger skin with the tiger's head, and even he was considered by Eunice to look very much like a tiger."

"And did she like it?"

"Well, it was an achievement—a delegate of a house. It represented prosperity and space and the possibility of an unlimited overcrowding of objects."

"How do you think one wraps oneself in this ermine cloak, dear?" she would ask.

"And her bedroom? Describe her bedroom to me."

"It was frilly. The pillow cases had frills, and so had the sheets. The dressing table was a crinoline of white lace tied up with bows. There were photographs of her father, of Ethel, of the archdeacon, and an enchanting daguerreotype of her mother with a plaited bun and black velvet trimmings to her flounces. There was a full length oval looking glass, which always tilted too much forward or too much back, and every drawer had a sachet in it."

"And didn't she travel?"

"Well, she was always thinking of going to Monte Carlo, but she felt that it would look so odd for a woman alone—and her friend, Mrs. Jenkins, who sketched so beautifully, always seemed to prefer Dieppe—so to Dieppe they went, and ate the sort of honey which is always out of a comb, and lunched at half-past twelve, because it was so important to be taken right out of one's self abroad. And some of Mrs. Jenkins' pictures were sold at the church bazaar, and every one agreed that they looked so foreign."

"But you, Margaret, surely you of all people must have been able to find out what she thought about?"

"She thought about others—at least she thought she did. She was always doing kind things and being fantastically generous—she enjoyed that—the surprise of the porter or the postman or the collecting nun."

"But did she have no life of her own?"

"Well, you see, she wrote."

"But I mean——"

"SHE wrote her own life—it was, in a way, so much better than living it. She was able, you understand, to have red hair and long fingers and difficult overlapping love affairs. She could be first arrogant and then self-abasing. Eunice longed to abase herself, but there was no one but her neat parlor maid, and that wouldn't have done for the niece of an archdeacon. And then all of the paraphernalia of yachts and casinos and Simla garden parties—those were the settings in which she liked to move, and it was so much simpler on paper—after all, with the written page you can never be one mango short."

"But surely she must have wanted more?"

"Well, I suppose she felt it would inevitably resolve itself into being less."

"But didn't she want to be kissed?"

"Yes, I suppose so, but only against her will. She was determined—so pathetically, resolutely determined to be mastered. She told me that she thought it only natural for men to be rough—it didn't prevent them from being tender, too. But, of course, no one ever dreamt of being rough with Eunice—she was so kind and gentle and sympathetic. And, then, she was a little short sighted—I always think it must be almost impossible for a short sighted person to inspire brutality."

"And so no one ever made love to her?"

"Well, a nice doctor wanted to marry her. She told me about it. She said, 'I ought to have felt myself to be a fortunate woman.' 'What did he say?' I asked. 'Well, he put his two hands on my shoulders and said, "Miss Eunice, I have the deepest respect and admiration for you—don't you think we might jog along pretty happily in double harness?"' 'Poor Eunice!' I said. 'Of course you couldn't.' 'No,' she agreed, eagerly, 'I couldn't, could I?' I said, "You see, I'm not in love with you," and he answered, easily, "That doesn't matter—you mustn't imagine that we are characters in one of your books," and I couldn't explain to him. 'Of course,' she added, determined to be fair, 'he is a widower.'"

"What a horrible story, Margaret."

"That was about the time that she wrote 'The Masquerade.' Don't you remember the scene at the end when Pearl slips out of her house in Grosvenor square, never to return? 'Out into the night she walked, under these same stars that somewhere were shining for him. In the heavy scented darkness of the east, a boatman was singing a love song. You could hear his oars splashing lazily, and the rising and falling of his cracked voice. And though the notes were broken, is not the song of love the same the world over? To Gerald, sitting with his head in his hands, it seemed that another voice was singing and through the vast silence he could hear a whisper, 'I am coming, beloved'——"

"POOR Eunice."

"I think she was very depressed at that time. Reality had bumped its head into her dreams. Presumably the doctor had been a man, and what he had offered her must be a sort of love. It took her quite a long time to clear her mind of these discouraging thoughts and re-enter her own world. For quite a long time zest had gone out of the flashing heroine, as she stooped humbly to kiss the man of action's hand——"

"And she stayed in Godalming?"

"Yes. There was a semi-circular gravel drive, and opposite the front door there were two flower beds forming the monogram 'E. E.' in begonias. In winter the same design was carried out in white pebbles. 'It is nice for one's two names to begin with the same letter,' she told me a little wistfully. 'Yes,' I said, 'and you will be able to have that even when you are married. Fame has entitled you to them forever.' She brightened a little—'I don't think I shall ever marry,' she murmured. 'I want so much.' And it was true—there were no compromises for Eunice. She could order the meals, and go to church and help with the school treat and attend the vicarage sewing circle, but none of those things were real to her. Her real life was altogether different. Quite easily the church became a dim medieval chapel, the monkey puzzle stretched into a spreading cedar, and Mrs. Jenkins herself, brisk and managing and vital, would be transformed alternately into a warm hearted, eccentric duchess or a venomous worldly aunt.

"You see now why Eunice stayed at Godalming—why she didn't buy a country house—why she had no Rolls Royce. Knole would have been of no good to her because it was not also the Villa d'Este and Chenonceau—and the motor would have needed to be a coach and a camel and a victoria. With human beings it was the same thing. The pope himself would have been useless to Eunice because he wasn't all the other popes. If you are a Doria, what a pity not to be a Borgia or a Medici—how disappointing for Alexander not to have been Caesar and Napoleon as well. Once you have personality, is not every limitation an insult, even if you be limited by the future or the past?"

"Margaret, you are giving too much philosophy to Eunice."

"No, I am only giving you a rather overlogical description of Eunice's subconscious attitude towards life. You see, she never wanted the undramatic—that was what made her books and that was what made her life. There were to be no gray, psychological moments whatever with reality clicking like the new fastening of a bracelet. That was the doctor's crime—he had behaved as if they were leading ordinary lives, and of course Eunice wasn't. 'Wax Flowers' was real, 'Clare's Calvary' was real, but not the monkey puzzle, not the photograph of the archdeacon."

"AND so she had no personal relations?"

"She had what is called a 'host of friends,' only they were outside her life—as outside as a switchback or a game of croquet. We are all such muddles compared to Eunice. We try to mix the world of our thoughts and dreams with the world of our acts and habits, and so we inflate our relationships with illusions and prick our visions with realism, and all the time we are being tugged at by frustrated fulfillment."

"You humbug, Margaret—you with your coat of many colors."

"You see, we all lack courage. I inject a hope into every disappointment—I safeguard each dream with a doubt. Eunice wasn't like that. She didn't try to make her house beautiful because it wasn't necessary; she didn't live in it. When she had first bought it, it had been a toy, but the monogram and the tiger and the maiden hair represented her last compromises with fate. There were no more subterfuges. After that she lived entirely in marble palaces and shacks and tents. She even gave up writing on pink note paper."

"And her clothes? Didn't she care about her clothes?"

"No, I don't think so. She didn't so much dress for dinner as change for dinner—it was a matter of a fichu instead of a collar, short sleeves instead of long ones. You see, she was really approaching a roulette table, very decollete, in a hat, with an ermine wrap dripping from her shoulders and a long jade cigaret holder in her mouth—for it was only after the entry of Howard upon the scene that the disastrous collision occurred."

"HOWARD?"

"O, I forgot that you didn't know about Howard. Howard is the story. I wonder if he is worthy of being it; perhaps he is. I, myself, always find it so difficult to believe in Howard—he seems so unnaturally like a feminist idea of a man——"

"In what way?"

"You mustn't be impatient—Howard has got to be uncoiled like a snake—nothing would induce me to show you the whole of him at once. And then, there are so many Howards. There is Howard as Eunice sees him, Howard as I see him, Howard as he sees himself. Then there is the Godalming house as Howard saw it and Eunice as Howard saw her. You see, it was all misleading, even for him"

"Mayn't I see the head of the snake?"

"Howard is—these are undeniable facts—six foot two, large, heavy, with a mustache which would successfully gobble up a smaller man. His eyes are like large melting chocolates—they can only melt, they have no other function—you always feel as if they were going to drip. He came to Godalming from East Africa, bathed in the glamor of big game. Actually, I think he had been sent there in the optimistic spirit which makes so many families regard the colonies as professions in themselves.

"The first time I saw him he was having tea with Eunice. I will say this for him, he certainly did dwarf the drawing room. Even the tea service looked like a doll's tea service. I remember thinking at the time that he was as much out of place in that room as one of Eunice's day dreams. But of course I was wrong—just as wrong as she was——"

"Did she——"

"You are trying to hustle me. He sat there saying nothing at all. At least he said, 'I'm not much of a tea drinker,' and when Eunice pressed a whisky and soda on him he accepted with the words, 'Everything in moderation, especially water.' Eunice murmured, 'I suppose in the tropics, I mean in the wilds—' and then she broke off nervously with 'Mr. Carruthers is a great traveler, Margaret, dear.' 'How delightful,' I said, hoping that it didn't sound too discouraging. 'Ever been to Africa?' he asked. 'No.' 'Ever been to British East Africa?' 'No.' 'Pity.'

"And that was that—Eunice begged him to tell us about his adventures, but he merely muttered, 'Never been much of a talker.' Personal pronouns played practically no part in his vocabulary. That was the beginning. After that everything was as swift and relentless as a Greek tragedy. Howard was broke, Eunice was rich, I was helpless. And there were things, one had reluctantly to admit it, that Howard understood. Women, for instance, in a facetious music hall sense of the word. And he studied Eunice as no cat ever studied a mouse. He had, I can't deny it, a sort of low cunning. At first he said things like 'a lady's privilege' each time Eunice changed her mind, but later he veered round to a line of rather coarse, brutal directness. Women, he asserted, were the plaything's of man's pleasure. He talked about Shanghai—Eunice trembled a little. 'The nonsense men put up with nowadays makes me sick,' he would say. 'A man should be master in his own house—if his women folk don't obey him, he should give them a good spanking.'"

"BUT he must have been quite dreadful."

"He was dreadful—but Eunice was thrilled. 'Dogs adore him,' she would explain a little apologetically.

"And then, of course, he proposed.

"'I'm not much of a hand at talking,' he said, 'but I think you can guess,' and he took her in his arms. 'He has loved me all the time,' she explained, 'only he didn't dare to admit it to himself—you see, he is poor, and he did so hate the thought of my having money.' 'Naturally,' I said. 'You will help me with my clothes,' she begged tremulously.

"Now you have your scene set. You know Eunice and you know Howard. You know what Eunice thinks of Howard, this mixture of god and brute. 'Women have never meant much to him,' she told me. 'He says he doesn't know what to talk to them about. Of course, one doesn't see them much in the wilds, not nice ones, I mean,' and she blushed a little as she thought of the 'plaything's of pleasure'—perhaps she even thought a little wistfully that it would be nice to be a plaything."

"But, Margaret, I don't know what Howard thought of Eunice."

"That is what I was coming to. He hadn't thought about her much. She was, he knew, rich, and he liked motors and cigars. Beggars couldn't be choosers, and even if she did pay the piper, she wasn't likely to call much of a tune. She was a nice little thing—rather quiet, without much to say for herself, and, by golly, it wasn't every one who could make pots of money simply by sitting down and writing. Of course, she wasn't young or pretty, but one couldn't expect everything, and, my hat, wasn't she gone on him."

"Good God, Margaret, did he really talk like that?"

"Of course he did—and you see he knew nothing, absolutely nothing. How was he to guess about the marble palaces? The house at Godalming was a nice, comfortable place. The garden was pretty, too, and he would buy a billiard table.

"FROM the day she became engaged Eunice was, to those who didn't know her, transformed—actually, of course, she was simply turning herself inside out. Her exterior Godalming life ceased to exist. She insisted on going to Paris, on buying furs and clothes and jewels. In the evenings she would try them on in a vast cage of looking glasses. 'How do you think one wraps oneself into this ermine cloak, dear?' she would ask. 'If I hold it negligently, as the mannequin did, it drops off, and yet clutching it doesn't look right at all.'

"All of these difficulties had been so easily surmounted by Clare and by Pearl. They had simply not arisen. 'I suppose it is all a matter of practice,' Eunice consoled herself. But sometimes she got very depressed. She would remember all of the descriptions of her various heroines—and yet none of them seemed to fit. Where was the languid, haughty assurance of Clare, where the wistful, flower-like loveliness of Pearl? Eunice did so long to be quite at home with cigaret holders and vanity cases. 'I know, Margaret, dear, you never powder in a restaurant—you don't like the look of it in public—but aren't you just a little bit old fashioned? One ought to be able to, oughtn't one?'

"'I have never spent a more miserable ten days in my life—never before did I know what the word poignant really meant. Eunice was heartrending—elated at one moment, desperate the next, beginning each day eager and hopeful and ending it tired and discouraged. 'I think some of my things will turn out well,' she would say tremulously, but I have never in my life seen any one who succeeded to the extent that she did in looking as if her clothes were cutting her. There never seemed to be any sort of relation between her and what she was wearing. 'Howard loved you so much just as you were,' I would say to her, 'you mustn't go home too different.' 'Of course I know it is me myself that he loves,' she would agree, smiling happily. 'He would love me in rags—indeed, I know he wishes I were poor so that he should be able to work hard for me. But I think one ought never to forget that it is a wife's duty to be the plaything of her husband's pleasure.' So it had come to that—I was appalled. Her life really was to be led in the grand manner of 'Wax Flowers' and 'Clare's Calvary.'

"'Do you think one has the right to refuse oneself to one's husband?' she asked me one day. 'I think perhaps one has, but, of course, I wouldn't be a bit surprised at his insisting.' It was curious the way that Eunice hungered for force."

"AND when you got back from Paris?"

"We were met at the station by Howard and the new motor car that she had ordered as a present for him. He really was impressed. 'By Jove, she's a beauty,' he said, and then pulling himself together, 'but I can't accept it, little one; it's bad enough not being able to give you things.' 'You are making me a present by taking it,' she said. There was a look almost of love in his eyes. He kissed her rather noisily. 'Sorry,' he said to me, 'I've always got what I wanted in life, and do you know how it's done? First you must want a thing and then you must take it. Your lips are my property now, little girl, and I shall prove it to you just as often as I want to.' She looked at him with adoring eyes. 'But you're so strong, Howard, you won't take advantage of your strength, will you?' I saw the cunning look in his eyes as he responded to her hopes, 'You are going to belong to me,' he said roughly, 'and I shan't let you forget it.'

"'I am afraid you think that Howard is rather brutal,' she said to me one day. 'You see, he had never really been in love before—I sometimes think it is more overpowering when it comes to people late. Of course, I don't mean that he hasn't had lots of affairs with women,' she added, with pride. (He had evidently changed his route a little, but he took them quite coolly in his stride.) 'This is the first time, he told me, that he has ever felt not quite master of himself. And, of course, he is rather primitive—I always feel he is so cramped by towns and houses, and even,' she blushed a little, 'by clothes.'

"Eunice wanted to be married at midnight, but she gave way to Howard, who pointed out that the vicar would be so much surprised, and so would Mrs. Jenkins, and what would his married sister and her husband and his married brother and his wife think? After all, being an authoress and all that, one had to be, if anything, more careful than other people.

"Eunice was thinking a great deal about houses—she liked the thought of Tudor with a courtyard, and, yet, how lovely the gold, gray stone of Somerset and Dorset was! After our visit to Paris nothing surprised me.

"ULTIMATELY she found an exquisite Queen Anne Manor house, with quiet, perfect proportions and a mellow, serene dignity which reminded you of a late summer afternoon. She had it furnished by a decorator. 'Later,' she said, 'we will pick things up, things that will make it more personal, but I didn't like to trust myself with the foundations, I am so inexperienced.'

"The house was in such perfect taste that it was undeniably a little depressing. Even the more daring touches (we quite understand that Miss Evans wishes for something individual) attained the impersonal quality that vicarious risks always manage to assume. 'It will be much friendlier,' I said, 'when things get littered about in it—embroidery, silks, and sealing wax and books.' 'And Howard's pipes,' Eunice added, in a low estatic voice.

"Eunice really didn't like women much, and the men she had known had failed in any way to correspond with man as she imagined him to be. The archdeacon, of course, had been an uncle, the vicar a clergyman, and the doctor a widower, but even had they not suffered from these disabilities it was useless to deny that they would still not have been very like Jasper in 'Wax Flowers' or Cyprian in 'Clare's Calvary.' Howard, of course, was quite different. Howard was a man—'a man's man, dear,' she would explain with pride. '"Don't imagine I am going to spend my time kicking my heels in your drawing room," he said to me. "Besides, I've got to work—you don't expect me to live on my wife's income, do you?"'

"But I couldn't tell Eunice any of the things that I expected. How could I? Her adventure was out of my hands. I could only soil it with advice and doubts and precautions, and possibly embitter the final crash with silent 'I told you so's,' so I decided to take the other line, to pander to her every whim. Even an unhappy marriage is entitled to its orange blossoms, its white satin, and its high forlorn hopes. Mrs. Jenkins thought Eunice should be married in a hat, and then it is possible that Mrs. Jenkins thought that Eunice was going to be happy.

"A registry office, an old coat and skirt—what other equipment do you need when you start out flooded with ecstasy, trying in vain to plant a doubt—for luck—into your secret certainties?

"But I, who knew that Eunice's romance could only last just as long as she was able not to realize Howard—I arranged that the church should be drenched in flowers and swollen with music, that a double choir should be triumphantly choral and a single soloist triumphantly pathetic (yes, she did sing 'O, for the Wings, for the Wings of a Dove.') I overrode Mrs. Jenkins and chose the stiff white satin, the silver brocade train, the vase bouquet of lilies of the valley. I pinned on the tulle veil which covered the whole figure in a mist of folds. I gave her a blue garter and clasped the pearls around her neck. After all, when she walked down the aisle on the arm of the archdeacon she looked 'a bride'—what bride can want to do more?—and with her veil thrown back and Mendelssohn convincing one that the whole thing was quite legal, she looked so radiant that I think even Howard himself must have felt either a little glad or a little guilty."

"AND was the wedding reception in the Godalming house?"

"Yes—that was the last time they were there. 'I have been very happy here,' Eunice said while she was changing into her going away dress, 'but now it seems as if it had been a sort of preparation for happiness, a kind of dedication.' She looked out of the window. 'The pergola really is very pretty,' she said, 'and I have always thought the maiden hair looked rather nice among the rocks.' With her dream opening, with reality gleaming ahead of her, she could afford to enter her house, the house that she had practically never inhabited. 'You never did very much like the begonias, did you, Margaret, dear? I confess I was proud of them, but I expect you were right, and, of course, the house would never have done for Howard.'

"She lingered a little sadly, I thought, in the bedroom where she had dreamt so many dreams. Then we heard Howard calling 'Where is my wife,' and Eunice hurried down stairs, but, just as she was getting into her motor, she ran back—'Margaret,' she said, 'the tiger skin—do you think that the tiger skin would look all right in the manor house?' 'Of course,' I assured her. 'I am so glad,' she answered, 'it will feel so nice seeing it again.'

"And that was the beginning of the end?"

"Well, in a way. They went to the Italian lakes and motored about—that was all right, I think. Eunice adored Howard, and Howard adored doing nothing. It wasn't until they came back that things began to go wrong. You have gathered, at least I hope I have made it clear, that Eunice was an absolutist, a romantic and idealist—call it what you will—she had never compromised. She didn't know how to. When they got back to Rosecomb (that was the name of the manor house) Howard didn't like it. He didn't say so in so many words, but he allowed her to gather that he didn't think the house very cozy."

She looked so radiant that Howard himself must have felt either a little glad or a little guilty.

"And had she considered the fact that there was no really first class golf links in the neighborhood?"

"No, she had not considered it.

"It had seemed such a lovely house (the agent had said that it was a gem of the period known to every lover of architecture) and near enough to London for him to go up to work.

"You must understand that it wasn't that Eunice wanted Howard to work; she couldn't at that time bear him out of her sight, only she knew the Howard that she loved wouldn't be able to bear a life of idleness, and therefore the Howard she loved must want to work.

"Howard said he must look about for something congenial to do. Naturally, he wasn't the man to loaf about kept in luxury by his wife's money. Eunice said she knew exactly how he felt about her money, but she proposed to make a settlement on him which would make him entirely independent of her—which she did."

"'THAT really was the end, I suppose?"

"No, it wasn't as simple as all that. Howard, of course, was a bounder and a kind of cad, but he was much too lazy to be vicious. The most he ever wanted to do was, as he put it himself, 'occasionally to make a night of it.' Sometimes he would get a little drunk, but only a little, just enough to make his voice a little thick and his eyes a little blurred. He liked his hearth and his home, his cigar and his doze in front of the fire. He wished no one any harm. When he wanted a thing, he was capable of an astonishing amount of cunning—when he had got it, he relapsed into quiescence. If anything was short of his expectations he was aggrieved, but if anything was in excess of them he was still more so.

"'The Godalming house was quite good enough for me,' he kept grumbling, and as what was good enough for him was clearly absolutely good, everything else was an irrelevance and an irritant. It was on these grounds that he so particularly disliked Eunice's beautiful red lacquer cabinet. It attracted his attention, and if there was one thing that Howard disliked more than another, it was having his attention attracted. 'Anything for a quiet life,' he would say, and the anything meant nothing. Nothing beautiful, nothing exceptional, nothing that could call for a comment or disturb the serene and desirable course of the absolutely ordinary."

"And Eunice?"

"I was warding it off. Later, when everything had come to an end, she confided to me what had been her first flash of realization. 'I knew I was being wicked, but I couldn't help it. I wanted to feel that absolute surrender which only comes when one has been physically mastered. I was so proud and so happy then to belong to Howard, and I was passionately in love with him. Only, I was haunted by

THINK---

How Will Your Home Appear if It is Furnished with Inferior Quality and Dead Home-Made?

Much thought should be given to the selection for your home. Quality of construction should be given first consideration because, without reliable workmanship, service will give you what is expected of it. Following in importance comes color. There should be some definite color scheme, the proper blending of tones, a period design in exact reproduction of the Old Masters or modern adaptations. This can be accomplished necessary for a home that is created for a month or a year, but it is a permanent investment.

As an aid in making your home more beautiful at no greater expense, we offer the services of our interior decorators who will, if you desire, at your request, help you to select for your home the articles you need. And every piece of furniture we sell is guaranteed and bears our metal guarantee tag, illustration of which appears immediately

The Hathaway House by Oney Fred Sweet

A Whimsical Story of Love, of Old Home Town Folks in California Boom Time, and of a Diverting Attempt to Freeze Out the Former Village Dowager

THE Hathaway house had stood at the edge of Maysville, as aloof from the middle west small town as was possible without having an actual corn field setting. The big home, almost hidden by evergreens and maples, had been surrounded by a wide porch. Off in the mysterious back yard a peacock could be heard on a summer evening. Plenty of space between the high picket fence and the front door. On the front door there had been the design of a basket of flowers stamped in a red glass panel. The memory of that panel was stamped on my brain. I had dared that front door once. I had called to ask Miss Ethel Hathaway to accompany me to a dance. The mother, meeting me at the door, had squelched my social aspiration.

The mother—Mrs. Wells Hathaway, my boyhood's symbol of aristocracy—was speaking to me now. She had come to my own door. She had flabbergasted me by stepping into my California real estate office.

"You remember me, Mrs. Hathaway?" I gasped.

She straightened, and an expression that was half defensive and half as if she had been insulted twisted her bloodless face. It was not at all strange that she did not recognize me. I had been pretty much of a kid when she had left Maysville.

She was making a purely business call. She had been told that my institution specialized in the sale of bungalow courts.

"I am sure we can get what you want," I assured, flushing, "if you will wait until my assistant runs through the list."

I glanced helpessly toward Betty Ann. Usually I have complete control of myself. At the weekly meetings of the lunch club they look upon me as a regular go-getter. My stenographer, too, was puzzled to observe my flounderings. But Betty Ann had never known Mrs. Wells Hathaway in her middle west background.

"Here's 'The Esperanza,'" Betty Ann announced presently. She was amazingly cool. "Six apartments, and it will be ready for occupancy in a week or two. You say the lady wishes to live in one of the apartments? That'll leave five rentals."

It was Betty Ann who showed Mrs. Hathaway the photograph of the structure that was nearing completion, spoke of the location, the cost, and the interest on the investment. It was my little stenographer who accepted the check as a first payment down.

I could only stand looking on. Mrs. Wells Hathaway, during all the days of my boyhood, had ruled in my home town—had been its first lady. Her royal presence flustrated me. It had been years since I had seen her. She and her daughter, Ethel—her daughter, Ethel—had made the trip to California when only the wealthier in the community considered crossing the Rockies for a life of ease amid the palms. The exodus of Tom, Dick, and Harry had occurred later.

Betty Ann tried to shap me out of my reverie, for I sat staring into space long after our visitor had gone.

"Expects us to supply the tenants," I heard Betty Ann drone. She was running her fingers over one of her card index systems. "How about B. T. Davis?"

I started as if I had been shot.

"What in the world is the matter with you this morning?" Betty Ann complained. I tried to tell her how the sudden appearance of Mrs. Wells Hathaway, after a long period of years, had completely flabbergasted me. I said nothing about Miss Ethel. My weak condition remained a puzzle to my stenographer.

"But you understand," I sighed, "that we couldn't put a fellow like B. T. Davis in the same house with Mrs. Wells Hathaway?"

"She doesn't know him."

"But she does know him. He's one of Maysville's old timers. That's how I happen to have his name on our lists. Why, B. T. was the lawyer who fought Mrs. Hathaway in that lawsuit when some of her husband's relatives tried to come in for a share of the estate. Scratch him off."

"Anson Miller?"

"No, no, Betty!" I threw up my hands. "Any one but Anson. I know we've got him listed. But Anson came out here from Maysville, too. She had him paint the red barns on all her farms one spring. Followed him around to see that he was on the job every minute and kicked on the way he worked. Anson's out here in the contract game." I paused. "Wonder what could have happened to Mrs. Hathaway's finances that she'd be wanting a bungalow court?"

"Oil wells, maybe. They've got a lot of 'em out here." She was continuing with the index cards. "How about Ben Groburg?"

"She'd faint at the sight of him across from her in one of those courts, Betty. There isn't a foot of plaster's difference in those apartments in a place like 'The Esperanza.' Folks live in one of 'em like peas in a pod. Ben Groburg is an old Maysvillian. Why, Mrs. Hathaway and Ethel——"

"O, ho," smiled Betty Ann. "So there was an Ethel. Why didn't you say so in the first place? That's why you've been acting like a lunatic instead of a hard-headed real estate man. I thought you——"

SHE was interrupted by the telephone.

"Yes," Betty Ann answered, "this is the Progressive Realty. . . . Yes, exclusive agents. . . . How much? . . . We'll be right over."

"Five thousand better offer for 'The Esperanza,'" she announced, hanging up the receiver. "Dodd & Doyle have a buyer who's crazy about it."

"And we've sold it to Mrs. Hathaway. What'll we do? Give her five hundred for her bargain?"

"I thought you were a real estate man. Thought you told me you were teaching me the business? The Duchess of Maysville coming in here this morning must have made you cuckoo."

She returned to her filing system and asked, "Jake Bockmeyer—who's he?"

"Well, Jake has been in here. He did want me to get the right kind of an apartment for him, but he's out of the question in this case. Jake used to be a renter of one of Mrs. Hathaway's farms."

"Fine!" grinned Betty Ann. She got up from the desk and adjusted her bracelet. "Thought I remembered Jake. He sat here all one morning visiting. Well, that's four. With Mrs. Hathaway taking one of the front apartments, that leaves only one vacancy. I'm going over to see Dodd & Doyle and get them to hold off their buyer for a week or two. In the meantime, speaking of bargains, we'll make Mrs. Hathaway so sick of hers that she'll be begging to sacrifice it back to us at any price. We'll have it on the market again. Two commissions are better than one."

"But she's——"

"You just leave it to me." Betty Ann was adjusting her hat. "Can't you see?" I pleaded. "A bunch like that can't be brought together again that way. These bungalow courts are about as exclusive as belonging to a can of sardines. Walls like paper. And, back home, the Hathaway house——"

"You've got the home town complex," Betty Ann derided. "You're a good fellow, and you've been doing well, but you're laboring under the memory of boyhood impressions. That woman's coming in here today has thrown you so out of gear that I'm going to have to take hold of this thing myself."

She was gone, and I sank back in my chair. The thing had gotten out of my hands. But why should I care? Mrs. Hathaway had certainly never done anything for me except show me the door. I could again see her driving up in front of the Maysville stores and expecting the clerks to drop ordinary customers and rush out to her. Nothing had ever suited. But knees had been bent all those years because she had been Mrs. Wells Hathaway who lived in the big house on the edge of town. A woman who always looked straight ahead, with her lips set. Never spoke to any of us when she passed us on the street.

No, I owed Mrs. Hathaway nothing. But the daughter—well, my feeling toward her had constituted a delicate secret which for so many years I had tried to repress. Ethel Hathaway had been something more to me than my "first girl." The memory of her had influenced my whole life, had been back of most of my motives. She had been the possessor of a hothouse sort of beauty that had made her seem unreal.

My thoughts went back to the snowdrifted night when I had nerved myself for the call at the big house among the evergreens. On that occasion Ethel had not even put in her appearance. Her mother had done the talking—brief, cold, and to the point. A year later they had gone to California. I had never seen Ethel since—except as a vision representing everything that was wonderful in womanhood.

Betty Ann, returning to the office, interrupted my daydream.

"Dodd & Doyle will hang on to their customer for us!" she exclaimed. "The thing for us to do is to take the car and go out and line up those tenants."

I revealed my reluctance, but Betty Ann shamed me out of the idea of permitting sentiment to interfere. She stood before me, her turban fitting closely over bobbed black hair. Her flashing eyes were legitimate enough, but I was not so sure about the coloring on her lips and in her cheeks. I had never become accustomed to plucked eyebrows.

We went out to the curb together. As she climbed into the car she said complainingly:

"Do you know this is the first time you ever took me riding in your old rattletrap? And I had to invite myself."

"I guess that's right," I agreed listlessly as we sped along in the sunshine.

My thoughts were more or less on the job of driving. The coast town had sprung up like a mushroom and we hadn't caught up with regulations for taking care of the traffic. In the intervals when my mind was free I was wondering if Ethel Hathaway was living with her mother. Perhaps the next time——

"And," added Betty Ann, "I've been your stenographer for three years."

"I guess that's right," I repeated.

THE Esperanza had been built flush to a corner on a lot with a fifty foot frontage. It was one story high and extended back to an alley. No basement had been required for the building, no heating plant. The framework had gone up as if by magic and the stucco speedily splashed into place. There was an open court running through the center and the entire length of the pink-tinted structure—three apartments on each side.

"Not much to look at," I sighed as we reached the spot. Land was high in the neighborhood, and every available bit of space had been builded on. You can't sell and resell, with each agent taking his commission and the owner his profit, without boosting the price of a property sky high.

"Not yet, maybe," answered Betty Ann; "but a few Spanish bars across the front windows, a transplanted palm or two, the name in gilt letters above the entrance——!"

"The Hathaway house," I nodded lamely.

But Betty Ann, womanlike, was hurrying to inspect the interior of the quarters.

"This breakfast nook," she exclaimed when I found her, "isn't it cute?"

"Is that what it is?" I marveled. "Jake Bockmeyer'll wonder."

"Why, yes," enthused Betty Ann. "You see, this railing here separates the breakfast nook from the kitchen, and this is really all you need outside of the combination bedroom and living room. Everything built in. O, they're dear!"

"They are," I admitted, "at fifty a month."

"If one had the table and chairs here in the breakfast nook painted a baby blue," Betty Ann speculated, "and then the right sort of piece or two for the living room!"

"Leave that to Ben Groburg's wife," I groaned.

But Betty Ann's cheeks were flushed as she figured it all out. Part of the new color in her face, I knew, hadn't come out of a jar.

"Let's go," I interrupted. "I suppose we'll have to hunt up those Maysville Californians. You'd want Ella Matlock for that sixth apartment if you knew about her. Ella used to do Mrs. Hathaway's washings. She's not looking for rooms, though. She's living in the rear of her hot dog concession down on the ocean pier."

I knew where to find Jake Bockmeyer. He would be down where they pitched horseshoes and played croquet in the park. California had done no more than Maysville in eliminating Jake's accent, but he smacked mostly of the middle west prairies. I called to him, and he came over and stuck one foot on the runningboard of the car.

"Won't be much room in the new place for keeping chickens," Betty Ann explained as I wrote the address of the Esperanza on a card and told Jake that all would be ready by the first of the month. "But," she added, "you won't have to climb any stairs, and you'll have nice neighbors."

"Vell, Aye have no trouble. Mrs. Hathaway, she used to make trouble a lot when Aye rent her farm; but landlords out here—they ain't so bossy no more. Aye guess not. Too many places to rent. Aye get what Aye want, or know why, by gollies." The lips beneath his faded and straggly mustache parted in a wide grin. "Aye make 'em yump."

Betty Ann smiled back at him as we drove away.

Anson Miller was painting the woodwork of a new duplex over on Lomita avenue. He turned from where he stood on a scaffold, spat voluminously toward a bunch of savings and, working his jaw with a fresh chew of tobacco, answered briskly, "'Sall right with me."

We watched him as he dipped his brush and directed it steadily along a beam.

"Me and the woman ain't exactly suited where we be," he confessed, his face toward the ceiling. "W've got one of those fussy landladies, afraid all the time I'm going to set the place on fire with my pipe."

"Remember that place of yours down by the creamery there in Maysville?" I ventured.

"I know," laughed Anson. "It was an eyesore. Folks used to wonder why, my trade being what it was, I didn't paint my own shack. Well, I'll tell you why. They were so darn stingy when I painted their houses, I couldn't afford to do anything on my own place. Take Mrs. Wells Hathaway. Worked for her all one summer making the barns red on those farms her husband had left her. Haggle? She was at my heels every minute, and I had to put the bill in B. T. Davis' hands for collection. Insisted I'd contracted to put on three coats. Been making good wages out here, though. Struck here during the boom. Me and the wife come out by machine last fall. Put up at the tourist camps."

Down at the ocean pier was a great place for men of a certain type to gather for arguments. It was, in fact, the last stand of "advanced thinkers"—souls who had moved on because their opinions in politics and religion had not been accepted by their neighbors. I knew where to locate B. T. Davis. In the old days Mrs. Hathaway had referred to him as a "crank" and a "windbag."

"The first of the month," he repeated absentmindedly. His ears were really giving attention to one of the discussions near by. "I am a trifle behind on the rent where we are. Yes, yes—the first of the month."

I asked him if he still subscribed for "The Radical Voice."

"It became too conservative," he informed us. "I found that its columns were being subsidized."

"You used to quote from it there in Maysville," I recalled.

"I believe it is the duty of any man to enlighten those about him," he said, evenly. "When the time comes that I cannot lift my voice to express my opinions I am going to know the reason why. Speaking my mind at any and all times has caused me considerable trouble. Then, of course, my voice is the kind that carries." He looked at me, quizzically. "I always think of you as just a lad."

"But I remember you so well, Mr. Davis. You used to live above McCormick's store there in Maysville.

"Yes, lived up there all the time we were in Maysville. You must remember my part in the Hathaway case, too. If ever there was a purse proud shrew, it was that woman. I knew her before she married Wells Hathaway. Her maiden name was Elvira Hawkins. Came out from Vermont to teach school. After she got Wells, nothing was good enough for her. All that big house idea with its hall and attic and picket fence was hers. I made a good case for the poor relatives, but the judge ruled that she keep the estate. It was that lawsuit that soured her, though. She left Maysville shortly after. Out here in California some place. Never any love lost between us two."

IT was somewhat more difficult to find Ben Groburg, but the last I had heard of him he had been mixing cement for the new boulevard to San Marco canyon. Betty Ann was eager to take the drive.

Finally we came to Ben. Change of environment had not altered him a whit. No pouring of high wages into the pockets of his trousers, that were but partially hitched to his person, would have caused Ben to comb his hair or, by any similar hint, "put on style."

"Don't know," Ben stalled, "we like it now where we be."

"You mean down there in that hollow by the junk yard?" I inquired, reproachfully.

"Yeah," he nodded, "we only pay fifty a month."

"That's all it would cost you at The Esperanza."

"Never have been much on houses," Ben mused, "just so it's a roof and there's something to eat inside it. Helped build a good many of those houses back in Maysville. Laid the foundation for the Hathaway house and put in the chimneys. You remember the Hathaway house."

"Yes, Ben."

"Lost money on that job. She made me tear the fireplace out and build it over again. She was a regular old catamount. Always kind of glad that she lived in one end of town and I lived in the other. Guess she was glad, too." He laughed. "I was over 'across the tracks' where we didn't pretend to be anybody. You see, at this business, when I get home at night, my feet are always dripping with mud or plaster. Don't know, though. I'll speak to the woman. We might try a change. Ain't got nothing to move but a lot of truck."

I told Ben that I appreciated his spirit.

"Well," I sighed, as Betty Ann and I started back toward town, "I guess we've about finished with the dirty work. If Mrs. Hathaway survives finding Jake and Anson and B. T. in the same house with her, Ben will be the cause of her dying gasp."

"It's getting dark," said Betty Ann.

"It is," I agreed. "And now that I've got to take you home, I haven't the slightest idea where you live."

"Same place that I have for the last three years," she pouted. "At The Alamo. I went there because the name sounded like Texas."

"It's over on Loma Vista," I nodded. I was thoughtful for a moment and then I asked, "What brought you from Texas, Betty Ann?"

"Foolish question. The movies, of course."

"And when did you change to stenography?"

"As soon as I found out that I wasn't the only pretty girl in the world."

I glanced at her sidewise. Betty Ann was pretty.

She was looking down at her pumps as she said, "Long ago I had sense enough to give up the idea of wanting to be a movie actress."

I asked her if she preferred stenography.

She puckered her lips. "I don't know as I care to stenog all my days."

I wanted to know what was her ambition.

"It isn't to go to the hospital!" she exclaimed, grabbing my arm as a heavy truck skimmed past our windshield.

We were back in the heavy traffic and shortly we came to The Alamo. It wasn't a very cheerful looking place. The stucco on the front of it had cracked and peeled off, and the geraniums suffered from lack of water.

"You'd have to wait for supper until I've cooked it over my gas plate," declared Betty Ann.

"O, I won't bother," I told her. I watched her as she tripped up the steps.

Then I went to my own room at The Poinsetta. I had a hard time going to sleep that night. It was all very well to have carried out Betty Ann's idea. I had little doubt but what Mrs. Groburg's cooking smells and Anson Miller's pipe and Jake Bockmeyer's trick sleeve holders and B. T. Davis' soap box oratory would inspire a mad desire in Mrs. Hathaway's heart to sell back to us cheap. And yet—

I tried to shake off an indescribable mood. The day had been a strain. Seeing Mrs. Hathaway again, that way. Back home memories haunted. The seasons, contrary to our California sameness, were coming and going again in distinct fashion—drifted snows, June roses, dog days, Indian Summer. It wasn't that I was homesick. Lonesome, maybe—Ethel Hathaway.

There had been a time when I had firmly resolved to become rich or famous that I might flaunt my new position in the world before Ethel's blue eyes—yes, and in front of the cold eyes of her sarcastic parent. Mrs. Hathaway's visit to the office had yanked me back—not exactly to Maysville, but to the vague realm in which I had dwelt during the bittersweet days of my adolescence. Ethel had once taken part in a home talent entertainment at the Maysville opera house—red lights playing on her glinted curls and soft cheeks. To me, she seemed never to have fully stepped out of that tableau.

Well, I had become neither rich nor famous. Come to think of it, I had never married, but I had never been bachelor conscious. I was pretty much wrapped up in making a success of my Progressive Realty company, yet there are spells when I guess the most practical man falls the victim of a sentimental mood.

THIS tender mood vanished quickly enough next morning when the Eastman outfit asked me to help put over its subdivision on Santa Clara Heights. The Eastman company had planned a barbecue and arranged for free bus rides and was conducting a tremendous newspaper campaign. But it was shy on agents who could "close" with its prospects, and knew it. It flattered me to think the company was willing to make it worth my while to join its staff for a few days.

I was surprised on getting back to the office one night to find Betty Ann waiting for me.

"Rather late, little girl, to be sticking around."

In answer, she pointed toward the calendar. It was the first of the month.

"That's so," I paled. "Grand opening day at The Esperanza."

"Mrs. Hathaway phoned late in the afternoon," Betty Ann apprised me.

"Yeah." I tried to keep my voice steady. "What's up?"

"She wants you to come out right away."

"Does, eh?"

I tried to tell myself that I was simply worn out from my day at the Santa Clara tract—that the press of other matters had caused me to be not exactly fit for the climax we had so nonchalantly planned. I wanted Betty Ann to think that was the case, too.

"Of course I'll go with you," she suggested. "We better start right away. It is the queen's command."

As we neared The Esperanza, I saw that it was still there. The walls appeared to be intact and the windows unbroken. It was dark, though, save for the light that came from one corner of it. Possibly the tenants had not showed up. The light was all in the Hathaway apartment on the corner.

No one answered our ring. There was, instead, the response of a voice, "Come in!"

I opened the door. The Groburgs and Bockmeyers were seated at the first table. They glanced up with that detached attitude so characteristic of persons who have been suddenly disturbed at their game of cards.

"Two of you. Just enough for another set!"

It was Mrs. Hathaway's voice. Despite the haze through which I was groping, I watched her as she trumped Anson Miller's king.

The tiny quarters were crowded, but somehow they had been able to drag the Davis and the Groburg breakfast tables in there. There was a tendency on the part of all the card players to return to their shuffles and bids, but Mrs. Hathaway, evidently sensing my bewilderment, arose from where she sat and, pushing her way through the tables, came over to where Betty Ann and I blinked.

"I didn't know when I was in the other day that you were a home boy," she explained, graciously. "B. T. and Al told me tonight that you used to live in Maysville, too. Of course, you belonged to the younger crowd and I don't remember them so well. They change so."

"That's all right, Mrs. Hathaway," I assured, limply. "You sent for me. I hope everything's all right."

"That sixth apartment, you know. According to the agreement, all of them were to be rented when I took hold. There's that one vacancy. I did want to see you as soon as possible before you got a party. Now the bunch we've got so far—well, you can see how it is. The fact that we have so many memories in common makes it so congenial. An absolute outsider might spoil the Maysville atmosphere. If you could get some one for that last vacancy who used to live back there, too . . . I did want to get in touch with you before it was too late."

"I see, Mrs. Hathaway."

I glanced up from twirling my hat. Ethel Hathaway had come to stand beside her mother.

Ethel met my gaze indifferently, and my own heart failed to skip a beat. I knew that the spell was broken. Ethel didn't seem to be conscious that I had labored for years under any spell—that for half my life I had been in bondage to a boyhood memory. She and her mother both smiled at me benevolently as I backed out of the place.

I was silent as Betty Ann and I drove toward The Alamo, but this time when she started to get out of the car to dash up to her room I caught her by the arm.

"Wait a minute, Betty Ann," I interfered. "When I want to see you the worst way, then you're suddenly anxious to break away."

"Don't be silly," she tantalized. "I wasn't really trying to get loose."

She was always just ahead of me with her talk, but her face in the moonlight just then was mighty serious and sweet. She listened attentively enough as I said:

"I've been in love with you for a long time. How long has it been?"

"For three years, I suppose, but you've been awful slow saying anything about it."

"It was because I was wedded," I explained—"wedded to an ideal. But I'm saying it now," I assured fervently.

"And I'm agreeing to marry you," she returned. "You can't fool me, though. You're thinking most about filling that last apartment in the Hathaway house. I've already started to embroider a cover to go with that blue table in the breakfast nook."

Elaine at the Gates by W. B. Maxwell

ELAINE FLETCHER, left an orphan by the death of her father, grows to lovely womanhood at the home of an aunt,

MRS. CASTLETON, in beautiful Nun's House at Tudor Green. Her guardian, infatuated with

THE REV. MARK AWDREY, rector of a fashionable church, dies with a broken heart when the clergyman departs for a tour of South America. Elaine is shocked to learn that her aunt had been married to Awdrey on his last day in London. She goes to live with her uncle and aunt,

MR. AND MRS. MARSH. Ever since she can remember, she has been in love with

ARNOLD THORNE, last of an old and important family. Arnold returns from the war in the grip of an unappeasable restlessness and, though at heart he loves Elaine, neglects her and plunges into a violent flirtation with

PEARL ESDAILE, a brazen coquette. At length he wakes from his madness, returns to Elaine and wins her promise to be his wife. Fate intervenes however. Pearl learns that she is to become a mother and Arnold extends the protection of marriage. He breaks off the bethrothal with Elaine. Prostrated by grief and horror, she lies near death on the day of Arnold's wedding. A flaw in her aunt's will had left her penniless, distant relatives and Awdrey falling heir to the estate. Upon her recovery she is offered a compromise through her aunt's solicitor, but spurns the offer and, for a time, has a depressing experience as governess in the home of a

MR. AND MRS. SINCLAIR, at Rexhill. Awdrey, back from his wanderings, tries to persuade her to take the money that came to him from Mrs. Castleton's estate, but this, too, she flatly refuses. Then in a high-handed manner, the rector carries her off to London, where he has been converting a disused factory into a church, and by the sheer force of his voluble insistence persuades her that she can serve humanity by becoming his wife. So they are married—a "marriage in name only"—and Elaine plunges into the drudgery of work among the poor. Awdrey, she finds erratic and self-centered, demanding everything for his magnificent services and willing to do little or nothing for her own poverty-stricken charges. At first she rebels; then she bows to his will and becomes, in effect, his housekeeper. Presently Arnold Thorne and the girl he married make themselves known among Awdrey's parishioners. Thorne has found hopeless unhappiness; Pearl, his wife, has drifted into loose living. They have come to London from Liverpool, where Thorne has lost good business prospects, and their child, who had held all that was left of his heart, is dead. At Awdrey's urgent request, Elaine undertakes to help him bring about a reconciliation between the two. Soon she finds the pain of her old love coming back. One day Pearl, in ribald and defiant confidence, reveals that there was never any need of Arnold's having married her. Returning home with this in her mind, Elaine finds Arnold there, waiting for Awdrey. An irresistible impulse drives them into each other's arms. Then she writes him that she cannot trust herself further; he must stay away. The same night she is called to a hospital to fight smallpox, and it is two months before she sees Awdrey again. Elaine returns and Awdrey chides her for leaving him. He confesses it was Elaine herself he missed, not her work, and strives to win her as his wife in reality, not in name only. She repulses him. In his anger he forces from her the story of her love for Arnold Thorne. She admits she has kissed Thorne once since her marriage, then she decides to leave Awdrey. She arranges to spend a night with a church worker, Miss Twining. Returning home for clothing, she meets her maid leaving. Awdrey has given the maid the night to herself.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

Escape.

ELAINE went to the door and reopened it, then moved toward the sitting room. She had meant to go in there and write a note to her husband, telling him she had gone, but she found now she could not do it. She could not enter the empty room. She could not remain in this empty house, in this house that was empty and yet full of fear. She could not even go upstairs and get those things that Miss Twining said she needed. She could not do anything at all—during a long minute, she could not do anything except stand like this, motionless, as if paralyzed by the all-surrounding, all-pervading fear.

Then with a wrench or jerk of the limbs, as though breaking free from the invisible forces that held her, she rushed through the lamp lit hall into the dark garden.

She breathed again when she reached the open street. The darkness was friendly, the air had freedom in it; she felt almost safe as, with her head down, she started to run along the pavement close beneath the factory wall; she felt safe—until, after no more than a dozen yards something stopped and held her. It was as though out of the wall itself a human hand had been extended to clutch at her and held her fast. It was like the cruel imagination of a nightmare; but it was worse than that, because even in the most abominable dreams the element of surprise is nearly always lacking, and this had the added terror of being shatteringly unexpected.

The hand had slid through her arm, after turning her round. The shock of it robbed her of all power to resist. Mark Awdrey was leading her back to the empty house, talking to her as they went, in a quiet but unnatural voice.

"Too late at night to be running your errands, Elaine. Half past bed time—if not more. Time that all good little girls and boys should be indoors and going to by-by."

She went with him without a word, and as soon as he released her arm she hurried down the passage into the kitchen. From there she heard him shut the hall door, lock it, and noisily put up the chain. Then he came to the kitchen door and stood looking at her.

"Why have you come here?"

"You have sent the servant away. So I must do her work. I have a lot to do."

"Well, do it quickly. Aren't you going upstairs to take off your hat first?"

"No—I shan't trouble," and she took off her hat and then her cloak, and put them on the kitchen table.

He remained at the door watching her, and after making a few aimless movements she picked up a crockery dish and went into the scullery. She turned on taps there, making a pretense of useful activity, and from this deeper recess she heard him soon go upstairs himself. He was up there for a considerable time, and he seemed to make a great noise. She turned off the taps in order to listen, and after a while came back into the kitchen, but then she could hear only footsteps. He seemed to be pacing to and fro on the upper landing, as though on guard, and she thought, "I have lost a chance. Just now I might have been able to undo the hall door and get away." But she knew truly that it had been no chance; she was physically incapable of the required effort.

He came downstairs and stood at the door again. At sight of him she once more retreated into the scullery.

"What are you doing in there?"

"A lot of things . . . I am busy."

"I think you had much better go to bed."

"O, no. I must finish. I've the fire to lay—and tomorrow's breakfast."

"It doesn't matter."

"O, but it does, Mark."

She heard him in the sitting room after that, walking up and down, and time passed. Then she saw him at the door again.

"Elaine, go to bed now."

"Mark, I can't. Catherine has left things——"

"Do as you are told. Go upstairs and get to bed."

He was standing near the bottom of the stairs as she went slowly up them. When she reached the landing she paused and spoke to him.

"Good-night, Mark."

He stood there, looking up at her, but did not speak.

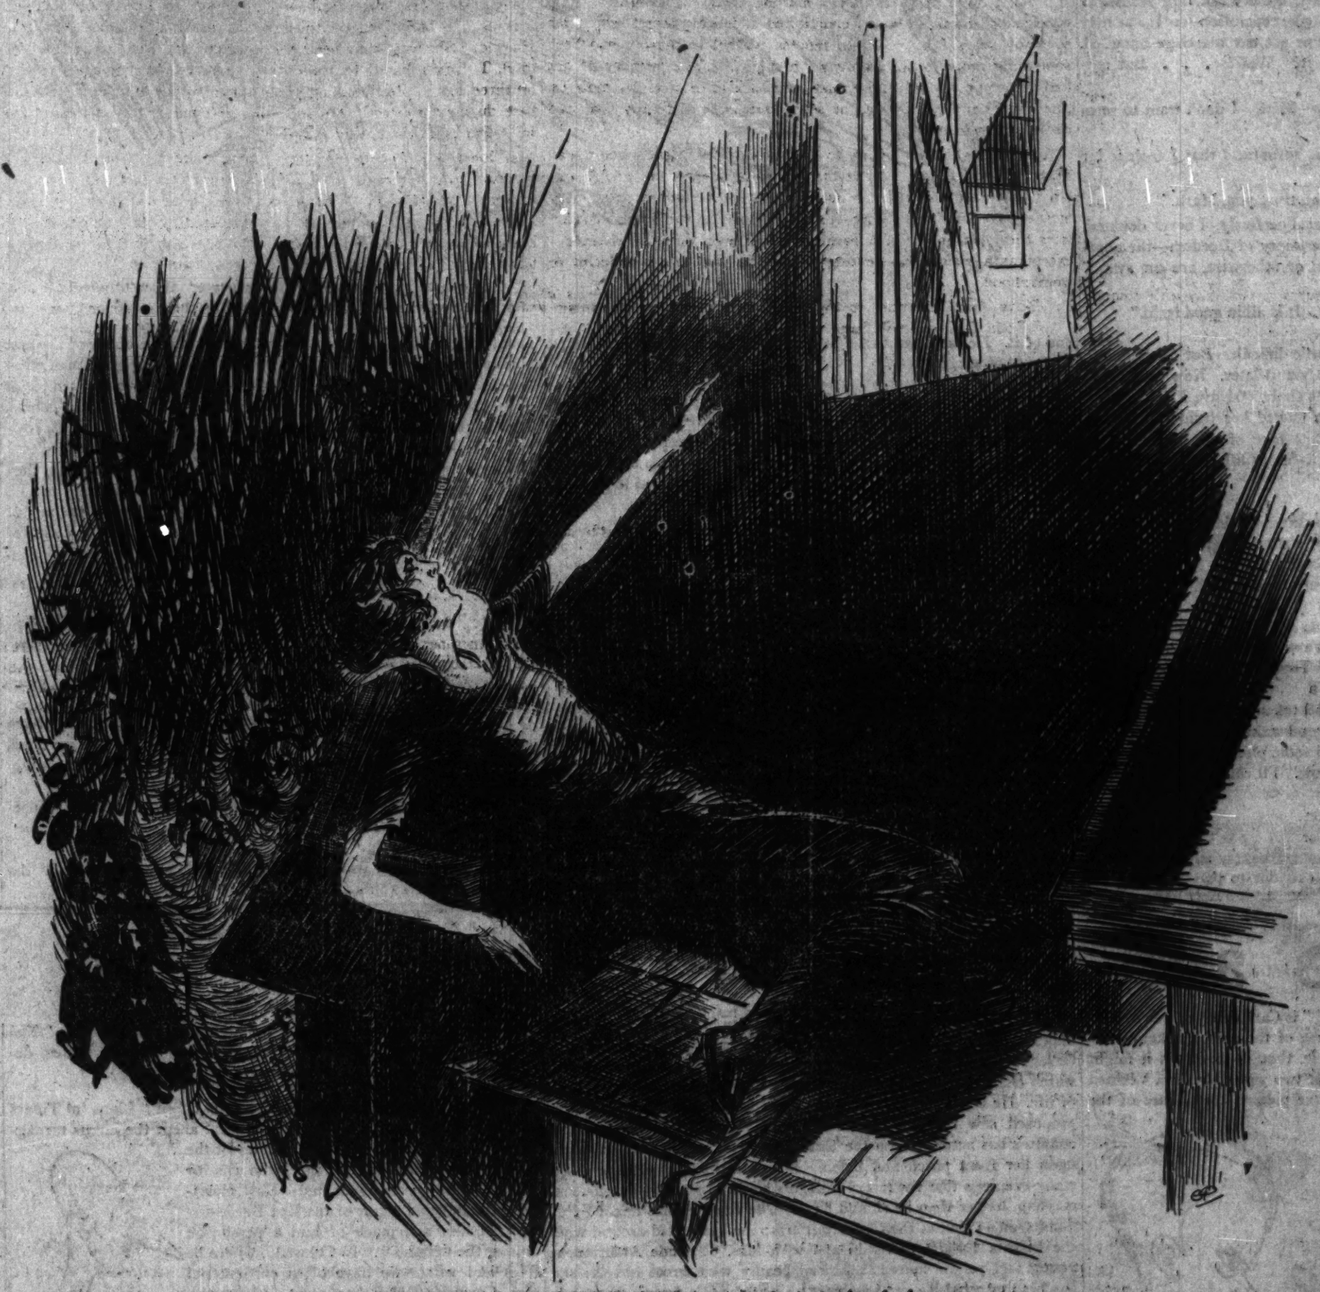
SHE went into her room and turned on the light, feeling half mad with fear, and for a moment she had another of those arrests of volition, the blank paralyzing stoppage of any nerve current sufficiently strong to invite muscular action, so that she stood with her hands to her head, and stared stupidly at the door of communication between the two rooms as if she did not understand what it was plainly telling her.

The brass bolt and the staple were gone. They had been roughly wrenched from the woodwork. The wood had large splinters about the broken screw holes, and there was a long tearing wound down the wooden panel. The key of the lock was gone, too. Then she swung round to the door through which she had just entered the room, and saw there the same evidence of fierce strength and unrestrained passion. It had neither bolt nor key. She sprang at it, turned its handle, tried to open it. It would not open; it was locked. He had previously removed the key to the other side of the door, and in this brief space of time he must have followed her up the stairs, stealthily, noiselessly, and locked her in. She was caught, trapped, at his mercy. This was why he had sent the servant away. They were alone.

He was in there—in the other room; he was waiting there—with the look in his eyes. Nothing could save her. He would feel no pity, no compunction. He was a resolute, starving man, waiting in there.

Again for a perceptible time she was absolutely still, and yet in this culmination of horror, before it passed into mere panic automatism, she was conscious of intensely rapid thought that mingled with the increasing whirl of illusions. Then the blind impulse came, and thought ceased.

In the moment after raising the window sash, as she lay face downwards on the window sill with one leg already across it and the other leg drawn up to follow, she saw a little way beneath her the sloping slate roof of the bay and the buttering that surrounded it all bright and glistening in the lamplight from her room. Farther down, beyond the guttering, there was a black darkness, as of a profound cavern. Her feet just reached the wet slates; she was hanging to the window with one hand, groping downward with the other, and automatically she intended to reach the gutter, hang again with her hands there, and then drop. But directly she let go of the window sill her feet shot away from her. She seemed to roll sideways on the slates; her shoes caught the rim of the gutter, and with a faint cry she went head over heels into the darkness, and fell upon the gravel twelve or fourteen feet below.



With a faint cry she went head over heels into the darkness.

THE shouting brought people into the garden, neighbors from the wretched little houses, stragglers from the streets, then a policeman, then another. They all stood round in the light of the house and the light of the policemen's torches, talking and watching, not minding the rain which had begun again, until after a long while the police ambulance came to take her away.

The light of the torches showed Mark Awdrey with bare feet, in his pajamas and gaily colored dressing gown, squatted upon the wet ground, and Elaine insensible, with her head lying on his knees. Together they resembled the sadly typical group that forms itself so often in this part of London after a street accident—say, a mother distractedly wailing over a child who has been knocked down by a motor car.

They took her to the small hospital, where she had served as a nurse, and by a curious chance it was considered best to put her into the little room in which she had slept and dreamed before her marriage.

She had a dislocated shoulder and ankle, a broken arm, and two broken ribs; but, although the injuries were serious, the people at the hospital seemed to see no reason why she should not get over them satisfactorily.

"Isn't it splendid?" said one of the nurses, coming out of the room with a basin of crimson water and a lot of reddened cotton wool. "She hasn't spoiled her face."

IN spite of the great tideway of traffic flowing so near to its doors, the hospital was very quiet, and Elaine, as she lay there, battered, broken, aching, was nevertheless mentally at peace.

To the people of the hospital her case at first appeared intensely interesting, although its history was obvious and simple enough. Like so many other too enthusiastic young women of the present day, she had overworked and completely worn herself out; then, becoming neurasthenic, she had developed claustrophobia—claustrophobia in a marked degree—that fear of inclosed places which begins by rendering its victims uncomfortable when the door of a sitting room is closed upon them, and may end by making them wish to pitch themselves from a railway compartment of an express train traveling at full speed. In an access of the nervous trouble she had fallen from a first floor window of her own house.

Mark Awdrey, however, soon destroyed scientific interest and reduced the case to a lower grade by giving it less unusual characteristics.

Wishing to allay his frantic and far too noisy grief, the house surgeon told him all about claustrophobia, assuring him that if he had entertained any dread of there being suicidal tendencies at the root of the disaster he might dismiss such a thought from his mind.

"Rubbish," he shouted. "I haven't thought of suicide—I think of murder. I give it its true name. If she dies, it is I—it is I alone—who have killed her"; and he struck his forehead with his first. "Don't spare me, any more than I mean to spare myself"

His voice rang and echoed through the corridors; nurses and a doctor came out of the wards; the doctor and the surgeon got him presently alone with them in a distant room.

In there the noise that he made did not matter, although they were shaken by it almost as much as by the violence of his words. Gradually they quieted him; gradually they succeded in persuading him that reticence and not explosive confession of his faults was his present duty. They were serious—as men of responsibility always are when forced to decide on a line of conduct without being really sure of the ethical solidness of the ground on which they stood.

"I—I alone—drove her to it," he said. "She leaped to a probable death in detestation of me—in horror and loathing of my insensate lust. She flung herself down to escape from me—from me, her husband—her natural protector—the guardian God had given her—because I had betrayed my trust. O, I'm not mad—sane again, sane again. And listen to this. I loved her, I loved her. Do you read books? What did that man say—that man unhappy and accursed like me in the sins of the flesh—what did he say in the poem? 'For all men kill the thing they love. By all let this be heard.' Isn't that out of a poem?"

"Yes—'The Ballad of Reading Goal'!"

"Reading Goal! That's where I ought to be. O, I don't shirk it. I want all the world to know the truth. Pass it on, the two of you. Give it out from the housetops."

The surgeon was older than the doctor, and it was he who successfully urged the propriety of silence when at last Awdrey became quiet.

"I put it to you, what can possibly be gained by making known these painful circumstances?"

"Retribution and punishment can be gained," said Awdrey in a somber tone.

"But your wife, Mr. Awdrey? You are not alone."

"No, but I must act for her and publish the truth."

"Can you for a moment suppose that she will wish to have the facts of her domestic affairs and her most private life made public? Even assuming—and it is unlikely—that she desires retribution and punishment to fall upon you."

"I will not shield myself behind her pity or compunction."

"No. Very good. But at least she must be consulted—and she is in no state for that yet. You must wait. Whatever action is to be taken must be postponed until she is well enough to know what you are doing."

After a couple of days he told them that he was grateful for their advice and he had decided to follow it.

MEANWHILE the doctors had allowed the nurses to understand that from their point of view the case was quite an ordinary one. Elaine became then merely an accident. Many of them were fond of her as an old friend, and others felt a gratification in recognizing that a celebrated person was in their care; for all day long visitors were calling to inquire about her—not only Miss Twining and her fellow workers, clergymen, and lay assistants of the various churches, but those humble souls in whose homes she had been made welcome year after year. The nurses said it was touching to see these poor little factory girls bringing nosegays of flowers, with written cards or scraps of paper bearing such inscriptions as "For dear Mrs. Awdrey, from Daphne Mills," "To our best friend, from Miss Edith Abbott," "We say our prayers for you. Nell, Kate, and Anny.

"My word, she has made herself popular," said one of the nurses.

They were fond of her—the matron, the sisters, the nurses; they admired her, they tended her well; but insensibly, infallibly, the more deeply sympathetic thoughts of all these women wandered from her bed of pain and concentrated themselves upon the man. They were sorry for Elaine, but they were sorrier still for Awdrey.

Although other visitors were allowed to sit by Elaine's bedside, the doctors for some time did not consider it advisable to let this husband see his wife; or rather, they let him see her, but forbade him to speak to her. There was a screen in her room between the bed and the door, and at certain times when she seemed to be sleeping soundly the nurse would summon him. He used to sit for hours on a bench at the end of the corridor waiting to be fetched; and he followed the nurse and placed himself behind the screen so noiselessly that she scarcely knew if he was there or not.

"Now," she said, after making sure that the patient was still asleep, and he came round the wing of the screen and stood looking down at the white face and the bandaged, splinted figure.

The nurse watched the patient to see if she stirred in her sleep, but she did not. Then the nurse watched Awdrey. He went away as soon as she told him to do so, and when she came off duty she reported to the others that it had been dreadful to see such a great strong man standing there with the tears rolling down his lined cheeks.

He made no attempt to conceal the outward evidences of his grief, and he totally disregarded any comforting or encouraging words that were offered him by sympathetic observers. "He just gave way," as they described it.

NEVERTHELESS, he had achieved a complete mastery over himself and his composure amazed the nurse when, three weeks after Elaine's admission to the hospital, the house doctor brought him into the room for their first conversation. Elaine had asked for the interview.

He drew a chair to the bed and sat down, smiling at her.

"There is no need to ask you how you are," he said quietly, still smiling. "I can see what good progress you have made. But now you must try to get well quickly."

"That's what she is doing," said the nurse cheerfully. "We shall soon have her sitting up for an hour or two, shan't we, doctor?"

"You must get strong as quickly as possible," Mark said, taking no notice of the nurse's cheery words, "and take up your interrupted work, Elaine. It seems, you know, that they can't do without you. They all tell me so."

"Ah, but they'll have to do without her for a bit," said the nurse, kindly and gaily. "And we can't have you hurrying her, Mr. Awdrey. She'll need a nice holiday first."

Then he glanced around at the nurse, who was smiling brightly at the foot of the bed.

"Will you please leave us alone for a few minutes? I want to talk to my wife."

The nurse looked at the doctor as if for instructions, then went out of the room, and the doctor, after saying a word or two, followed her.

"Elaine," said Awdrey, as soon as he knew that they were quite alone, and the gentleness in his voice made it sound almost as a whisper. "You are not afraid of me any more, are you?"

ELAINE AT THE GATES . . . . . By W. B. Maxwell

"No, Mark."

"I see you are crying, but that is only from weakness, isn't it? It's not fear?"

"No, it's not fear."

"Don't fear me. Nearly every day I have been trying to tell you not to fear me. I told you in your sleep. I said, 'Elaine, you have nothing to fear from me—now or ever.' Did you get my message? Did you hear me?"

"I don't know—I can't say. But I knew that the fear had gone."

"That's right."

"I knew I could think of you as you used to be—and that everything had changed again."

"And it doesn't agitate you having me here—so near to you?"

"It agitates me, Mark, but not in that way—only because I still feel so weak."

"Exactly. Then I won't tire you. I'll only say just the essential things."

"Yes, Mark . . . Mark. Now you are thinking about me differently, can you bring yourself to believe what I said about Arnold Thorne?"

"Yes, dear, I do believe. I know it's true. I have seen Arnold Thorne. With a hard road before him, he is doing his duty—doing it nobly. You have both of you done your duty, and deserve the utmost praise. I mean it, Elaine. Thinking about it quietly and comfortably, I have seen that no two people were ever more sorely tried—or went through the trial better. Elaine, dear, I honor you both." He paused to blow his nose and, after putting the handkerchief away with a jerky flourish of his hand, he went on in the same gently modulated but steady voice. "As to myself, I don't ask forgiveness. I don't deserve it. No. But I want to make reparation—as far as may be possible. To begin with, I mean to get our marriage annulled. That is what you would wish, isn't it? Well? . . . But naturally you wish it."

"Yes, I do, Mark. . . . Only—Mark—I don't want to seem unkind."

"Unkind! What a notion! It is so natural that I took it for granted."

"But not because I don't feel I can trust you, Mark."

"No, no, of course not. I understand perfectly. I never doubted. What you feel is that you want the certainty of freedom—the absolute assurance that all restraints, legal or otherwise, are cut away."

"Yes, Mark."

"Well, I have set about it already. It is all in good train."

"But, Mark, is it possible?"

"Yes. I don't say that it isn't a little difficult. But the difficulty shall be surmounted. I'll tell you all about it later. Now we mustn't chat any more," and he got up from his chair. "Have I tired you?"

"No. Stay a moment," and she moved her head a little and looked at him anxiously. "Mark, take care of yourself. You're much too thin. Who have you got in place of Catherine to look after you?"

He laughed softly.

"In place of truant Kate I have secured an old lady who comes every morning and attends to all my wants. I give her as little trouble as I can—and she makes me comfortable."

"Are you sure, Mark? Do you get proper food?"

"Yes—banquets. Elaine, dear, I do not for an instant mean that my old crone manages the house as admirably as you did. No, that would be a poor compliment to you and ungrateful of me. I only meant I have nothing to complain of. There. Good-night."

"Mark, hold my hand—will you?"

"Yes, I will hold it—as a sign and a token, Elaine."

He took it in both his hands and stood smiling down at her.

"Poor little weak hand! Get well soon, please. Let me see you strong and robust. Now. No more now. I'll come again soon, if I may."

"Yes, I want you to."

"Good-night, Elaine."

Outside the door he looked at the nurse sternly and, passing her without a word, he stalked along the corridor to that bench at the end of it. He sat down there, buried his face in his hands, and burst into a fit of sobbing.

"Yes, I will hold it—as a sign and a token, Elaine."

AFTER this the doctor gave orders that he was to be freely admitted to the patient's room, and he came there often.

Elaine's cure progressed satisfactorily. She was out of bed for most of the day; then she was walking about the room on crutches; soon she would be sent away to a convalescent home in the Isle of Thanet.

"Does your ankle still hurt you?" asked Awdrey, sitting by the window and watching her as she moved slowly to her couch.

"Just a little still."

"They were afraid you would be left with a permanent limp. But now they tell me that in time you will be quite sound on the injured foot. I should be sorry to know you were to go limping for the rest of your days. If we met years hence, it would be a painful reminder to me."

Then one afternoon he talked to her fully about the steps that were being taken in order to get their marriage dissolved.

"If you feel strong enough, Elaine, I should like to go into the whole business with you."

He brought out a notebook and glanced at it.

"Yes, my dear, we are moving now in earnest. You will soon receive papers from my solicitors—the citation, I think they call it. You will be served with it. But you need take no notice. The case, you understand, will be undefended by you—you are to let things slide altogether. But there are certain things for you to say and do, about which you shall be told in due course. I have obtained the best possible advice, and they say I am to have a clinking good man when the case comes on—Sir Somebody Something—I have omitted to jot down the name—and a clever junior called Timms. Yes, Timms. That name stuck. . . . Naturally there must not be a whisper or hint of our own agreement. But that goes without saying, doesn't it? If they knew of the compact you and I made before marriage, they would not, of course, give us relief. Although such a bargain as ours is void in the eyes of the law—against public polity and all the rest of it—its existence might suggest that this was perhaps a collusive action." As he said this his face darkened and he laughed contemptuously. "Elaine, my bona fides might be impugned."

"Mark, it seems to me horrible."

"Think of it only as a means to an end. Suppressio veri, suggestio falsi, and, if they aren't enough, a few thumping lies. It's the recognized procedure of that court, my dear child."

"But, Mark, can you lend yourself to it? Can you bring yourself to do it?"

"Of course, I can," and he spoke gravely and sternly. "I am dealing with men's laws. I care nothing for them. I am governed by far higher and simpler laws. Men helped me to do a great wrong. I must undo it with men's help."

"Mark, I don't like it. Have you considered possible consequences to yourself?"

"Not particularly."

"Won't it harm you? What will people say? What will the bishop and others think?"

He laughed again.

"Ils peuvent penser tout ce qu'ils veulent penser, et cela me sera bien egal," he said, with a French accent that seemed to have become even more torturingly English than in the old days.

A LITTLE while before she left for the convalescent home he talked to her of her plans for the immediate future, and when she told him that on her return from Broadstairs she intended to go right away, he implored her to remain.

"Your work, Elaine! O, I beg you to go on with it. Stay here, dear, among the people who love you. Let us save something from the wreck."

And he went on to say that he himself would go rather than drive her away. In any case, he would be leaving the district as soon as he felt that his task here was accomplished; but he thought it would take a year and a half to finish things, and he did not want to go before then. He further said that, until his friends had advised him against such a course, he had fully intended to hand over their house to her for her sole use.

"I should have liked that, Elaine. It would have given me pleasure—it would have helped me—to know that you were living there, with the little place all to yourself. It would have helped me most of all if I could have thought that you were happy in it—able to feel comfortable there, with all its ugly memories wiped away. But they say it wouldn't do—in view of our peculiar position. So I have talked to your—your Miss Twining and a few more of your best friends. All arrangements shall be made for you. They count on you. Elaine, don't, please, desert us. Do please stay with us."

She said she would do as he wished.

"Thank you. That helps me, Elaine. As Mr. Kaye, the American gentleman, says—that is going to help me more than a little."

On the day of her departure from the hospital he came there to fetch her and drove with her to Victoria station. She could walk now with very little aid from a stick, but he made her take his arm and begged her to lean upon it as they went slowly along the platform. He found a ladies' compartment in which there were only a large, comfortable looking matron and two little girls, and after putting her dressing bag on a corner seat and buying some illustrated newspapers, he led her a little way from the carriage door and talked to her in a low voice.

"Elaine, there is one thing that I [illegible] I must say. I don't like saying it—I am shy of saying it, and yet I feel I must. But will you forgive me?"

"What is it, Mark?"

"Well, it's just this," and for a moment his eyes turned from her attentive questioning face. "I am assuming—in fact, you gave me a kind of promise, but I am perhaps wrong in assuming that it holds good, after what happened. You said you would not see Arnold Thorne any more."

"No, I shall not."

"And by seeing him, do you include still—as I understood at the time—having any communication with him—such as letter writing, telephoning, and so on?"

"Yes."

"Is that still a promise?"

"Yes."

"A sacred promise?"

"Yes, it's a sacred promise, Mark."

"Thank you, Elaine. Now get in, get in. Sit down. You must not tire yourself."

He waited till the train started, and as it glided along the platform Elaine stood at the compartment window looking out at him and waving her hand. All the people on the platform grew small, vague, confused, and still she could see him, a tall, black motionless figure.

When at last she sat down again, the stout, comfortable woman in charge of the little girls opened a cheerful conversation.

"Was that gentleman your husband?"

"Yes."

"Ah, I thought so. He's sorry to part with you. That was very easy to see. But no doubt you'll soon be together again. I expect you and he are one of the old fashioned couples that aren't often separated."

BOOKS and BOOKMEN - - - - By GENE MARKEY

"THE TATTOOED COUNTESS" is Carl Van Vechten's offering to the hors d'oeuvres course of the season's literary repast, and we found it palatable, though to others it might seem a bit highly seasoned. In the last two years Mr. Van Vechten has prepared delectable dishes that have pleased the palates of the epicures, and some of these may evince a slight disappointment in "The Tattooed Countess." It is perhaps not so clever and coruscating as his last two novels, but we were pleased to discover it more sound. Moreover, it is to us a relief that Mr. Van Vechten has discarded the blind choir boy motif. In this age of clumsy realists and tuppenny romanticists Mr. Van Vechten stands out conspicuously, a throwback to the flamboyant nineties; he has conjured up the gay, graceful ghost of the earlier Beerbohm (if we may be pardoned for mentioning the much kicked about name of Max). And people who enjoy writing with an edge to it have flocked to the bookshops and made of this author who writes for the few a best seller. Mr. Van Vechten is almost never dull, and his deft avoidance of the commonplace is a joy.

Carl Van Vechten

In many ways "The Tattooed Countess" seems no exception to the Van Vechten tradition that was established with "Peter Whiffle," though it is vastly different in treatment. It is a tale of the Countess Nattatorini (nee Poore), who returns in 1897 to her native town of Maple Valley, Ia., after twenty pleasant years in Europe. The lady finds Maple Valley in 1897 somewhat different from Paris, where she has lived much and loved many. Both her lipstick and her cigarets are frowned upon, not to say denounced, by the righteous citizens who knew her, for theirs is a civilization of detachable cuffs and progressive euchre parties. The countess has reached that time of life when she must count her calories; indeed, of all the dangerous ages of woman this is the most dangerous, the late—but not too late—forties.

Suffice it to say that the countess has fire in her eye when there appears upon the scene young Gareth Johns, eighteen and eager. Gareth's father is a wholesale grocer with an elk's tooth upon his watch chain, but Gareth yearns for the bigger, if not better, things of life. He longs to hear about the great world that lies beyond the proposed new railroad station of Maple Valley, and because the countess has actually seen the Eiffel tower, Gareth is anxious to sit upon her front porch and listen. Forsooth, he does sit there—so many evenings that the merry villagers begin to gossip—and listens, mayhap, longer than he should have. The countess has heard Sybil Sanderson's debut at the Opera in Paris; she has palled around with the Infanta Eulalia of Spain and with Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, a young and yellow haired American beauty who wrote novels; she has been everywhere and seen everything; she is a femme du monde—and a femme du monde is as much out of place in Maple Valley as a top hat on Michigan boulevard. But Gareth is wide eyed with admiration. The culmination, as the newspapers say, of this April and October romance, we refuse to divulge. Mr. Van Vechten has written a novel that is, at moments, enormously amusing, that contians some fine ironic realism, and one high point of sentiment. "The Tattooed Countess," like everything Mr. Van Vechten writes, deserves the attention of those who enjoy deft writing.

Courtney Ryley Cooper's new book is called "Lions 'n' Tigers 'n' Everything," and it hands out hot stuff anent the circus menageries. Nobody knows his way about under the big top better than Prof. Cooper, who was for years a circus press agent, until Karl Harriman, the intrepid editor of the Red Book, discovered him and made of him a personage among the fictionists. In Colorado, where he lives and where we have often encountered him, Courtney Ryley Cooper is an honorary member of the Sioux tribe, in whose tepees he is hailed as Chief Naked Skull, for reasons that the accompanying portrait may reveal. This latest book of his is the most authentic animal stuff—caged animals—that we've seen.

the thought that I had given myself so willingly, so almost greedily—a man must surely want to have some resistance to overcome. So, one night, when he came into my room, I said, "Not tonight, Howard, please not tonight, I am so tired." He didn't even come up to my bed. He just said "O, all right," and walked away into his dressing room. His voice sounded quite indifferent, but I thought that he must be hurt, that he was steeling himself. So I crept into his room—he was snoring quite peacefully. I woke him up. "Howard," I said, "I haven't wounded you, have I?" "I don't know what you're talking about," he said, "for God's sake let me go to sleep," and he turned over and was asleep in a minute. You see,' she went on pathetically, 'if he had believed that I was tired or not feeling well, he ought to have been concerned, but he just seemed indifferent and a little relieved at being spared all the bother of being loved.'"

"POOR Eunice."

"Poor Eunice—her brute was not only not a brute, he was hardly a man—just a lazy, self-indulgent creature with barely enough personality to be called an egoist, with just enough sense of self-preservation to be cunning when it was necessary and not enough self-respect to honor his pledges.

"And yet how hard Eunice fought for her illusions. I have told you the end so quickly. It took ever such a long time, really. For months she put her imagination between them, struggling in vain to hide from herself the daily spectacle of Howard as he really was. For months her passion—and she was in love with him—enabled her to overlook him, to recreate him in the image of her love. But she was worn out, worn out by his content, his unconsciousness that there was anything the matter."

"And did you never speak to him?"

"Yes, I tried to make him see it. I said, 'Surely you remember all the things you pretended to be when you were engaged?' 'But,' he argued, 'one can't go on pretending forever.' 'Then they were false pretenses?' 'So was the house at Godalming.' (Howard's cunning was reasserting itself.) 'No, not a pretense, an alibi, a place of retreat.' 'Well,' he said, 'if I did all the manly business to impress her, didn't she buy this confounded house to impress me?' 'No,' I said, 'a thousand times no.' 'Then, what did she buy it for?' 'For herself and you—for your happiness.' 'She was perfectly happy at Godalming.' 'Till you came along, and romance.' 'Well, she's got a husband—what more does a woman want? She was getting a bit long at the tooth when I took her.'

"You see, it was hopeless—Howard had never seen one of Eunice's dreams. He had realized in a sort of coarse way that she longed to be swept off her feet, that she wanted to be mastered. But that was all—he knew nothing of the life she had led before she met him, of the marble palaces, and the Simla garden parties. She had just been a maiden lady living at Godalming, surrounded by knick-knacks—a nice, safe investment with a monkey puzzle and an arbor.

"Perhaps we are unreasonable to blame him—perhaps, after all, he showed more of his character than she did—poor Eunice, the gray deceiver."

"Eunice the creator, Eunice the dreamer. She is not even a best seller any more—a worm of life has got into her books, a horrible dry rot of reality.

"She has a villa on the Riviera now, you know. But the other day she wrote to me 'The Cote d'Azur is charming in its way—but it's not all one thinks.'"

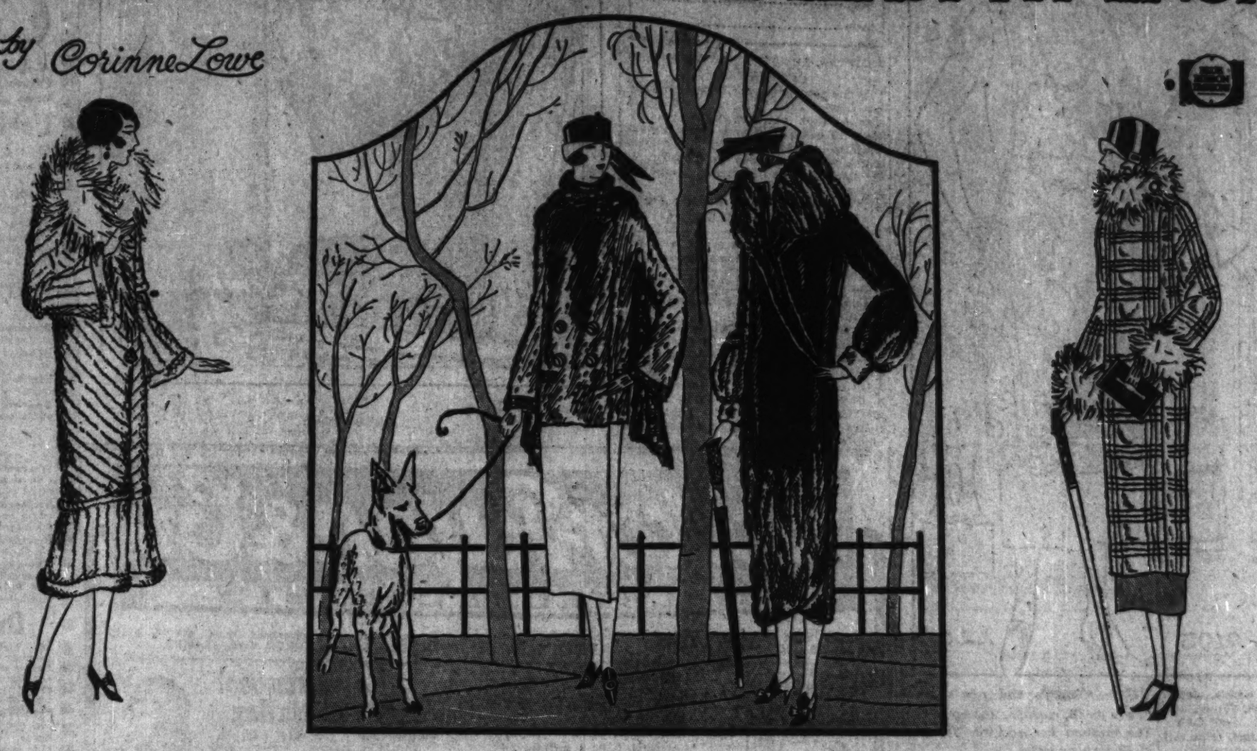
YES, OUR LAST YEAR'S FUR COAT NEEDS AT LEAST A MINOR OPERATION

by Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK. — (Special Correspondence.)— Last summer when I was in Paris I bought for myself a jacquette of gazelle fur. Its price was so low as to be almost a joke. Its lining was a lovely brocaded rose color silk. Its exterior was equally winsome. I was overcome with my good fortune in obtaining such a paragon, and I sustained this high note of emotion until an hour after I had first donned it.

Then what happened? Simply this: The blue twill over which I had worn the fur coat looked as if I had been holding a gray dog whose shed was worse than its bite. More than this. I had left all over Paris similar traces of my contact. However fleeting such contact may have been, I am sure that it was sufficiently long to communicate a few of those gazelle hairs to every man, woman, and child whom I touched in omnibus or shop. Indeed, one handsome Parisian glared at me so fiercely after his arm had collided with mine in the Metro that I slunk away as if I had acquired not only the gazelle pelt but the gazelle temperament.

Right then and there, in fact, I came into more intimate communion with that old plaintive thought, "I never loved a young gazelle," etc. The only difference between Tom Moore's heroine and me is that I did not have to learn to know my pet well before it betrayed its disappointing qualities. Mine began to die on me at once, and by a gradual but determined process it achieved extinction. By the time I got it back to America even the customs house officer was touched and let me bring it in free of duty.

However, all my tales of "Wild Animals I Have Known" are not so morbid in tone. Four years ago I bought a leopard sports coat. I have worn this garment assiduously. I have traveled in it, and many a time it has preserved me from a glacial death in one of those unheated and marble floored rooms of an Italian or French pension. Does it, like the gazelle, moult? Not a bit of it. Neither does it show any signs of wear. Now, I'm getting discouraged about that coat. Its powers of resistance are so unlimited that I'm afraid it will take two more generations to wear it out. It is, quite literally, a hairloom.

I am giving these two adventures with furs not merely for the pleasure of autobiography but because they point to the chief moral of buying a fur coat. There are pelts which are not much more durable than a poppy. There are others which season after season may, by occasioqal remodeling, be worn with the assurance that they look almost as well as they did on the day of purchase.

But before I press this point further I want to render justice to gazelle. My own garment proved perfidious. So have many others. But, on the contrary, there are some coats of this pelt which have been so well treated that they render a reasonable amount of service. A friend of mine who is a merchandise expert says that one must always shake the gazelle garment before buying. If the hairs do not fly at this test, then one does not need to apprehend any such tragedy as mine. Incidentally, let me advise to make the shake vigorous. Nothing but a terrier's technique or a housecleaning arm will reveal latent treachery.

Aside from this point, gazelle has much to recommend it. It is not cumbersome. It is charming to look at. And it is comparatively inexpensive. Always a favorite with the Parisian creators, it is being used more and more in this country, and it achieves both the utility coat and the one of more formal character.

At the right I am showing a gazelle coat in a plaided effect produced by lines of self-fur dyed black. This is collared and cuffed in either gray or black fox. Here we have one of those general utility garments which may be worn to a football game, to restaurant lunch and matinee—all with equal propriety. If you do not care for fox you may substitute for it Hudson seal. The latter fur looks exceedingly well with gazelle and is often employed for collar, cuffs, and bandings.

This trick of plaiding the fur, so much in line with our present violent sentiment concerning plaids, is introduced by Worth in a very smart coat of gazelle that is collared and cuffed in white fox. A very dressy wrap, this latter, and one eloquent of the formality which the Parisian designer can obtain from the fur under discussion. As to the three-quarter length of the model illustrated, let me pause to remark that this length is very much in vogue this season, especially for the sports and general utility models.

If you have any feeling that you ought to remodel, obey that impulse. For this is a year of rather radical changes in fur garments, and to bring last year's model right up to the minute will require at least a minor operation. The most pronounced current in fur coats is toward the flared hem line. This is frequently achieved by a cut in the pelt. If you possess, therefore, a straight line garment, it will be impossible to make any such complete revision. The coveted flare hem may be produced, fortunately, by another method. This is by the flounce, easy enough to add to our old model.

I am showing one of the flare hem effects at the left of the page. Here is a coat of taupe dyed ermine which is created for the elaborate afternoon occasion and which most of us would consent to don for evenings. The final result of finesse and charm is attributable not only to the flounce—echoed by the sleeves of the garment—but to the clever manipulation of the skins. These, as you will see, run in three different directions. The finish is supplied by a collar of taupe dyed fox and by silver buttons.

The flaring flounce so dear to the heart of the designer may be of either matching or contrasting fur. Two examples of the latter treatment which I have seen recently are, first, a mole coat with flaring flounce of gray fox, and, second, a Hudson seal coat with the essential detail worked out in gray squirrel. Both were charming and both afford suggestions to the woman in search of ideas for revamping an old model.

Another equally valuable suggestion is to be located in the tiers so frequently encountered this year. A friend of mine is even now coaxing novelty out of a four year old Hudson seal coat by placing two tiers of matching pelt beneath the original garment. Still another friend is administering side tiers of kolinsky dyed squirrel to an equally venerable Hudson seal of hers. Both methods are admirable, for the tier in both complete and side versions is constantly encountered in the new fur models.

Again we seem to have become grayhounds in our fur choice. Not that the brown and cocoa tints which were so much worn last winter and which were so widely exploited this past August, have renounced their place in the wintry sun. The brown range is still good. Nevertheless, the most fashionable emphasis now seems to be on the gray and silver range. Mole, that loveliest of furs, does not, of course, have to do anything about this. But some of its sister pelts have gone to the beauty parlors to acquire gray merit. Both caracul and the processed baby lamb, now so much in vogue, are often dyed in the taupe and silver tones. Also our faithful friend, the muskrat, has got herself the same fashionable complexions.

Many of the sleeves on the new fur garments widen at the wrist. In fact, innumerable models show the same bell treatment sounded at the left of the page. Still others are marked by that puff from elbow to cuff so often observed in the cloth coats. To this last type is pledged the very effective Hudson seal model second from the right. This model is combined most stunningly with Viatka dyed squirrel.

For a time Hudson seal languished in obscurity. One seldom saw it worn by any woman who could help herself. Now, however, there seems to be a revival of this true and tried pelt, and certainly to the woman who searches those twin goals, length of service and width of service, Hudson seal should always present itself first to thought.

Although the jacquette does not occupy its former share of our affections, it is far from an outgrown taste. There are still smart jacquettes and still smart women who wear them. These jacquettes are often of the leopard or leopard cat which represent our first choice in sports furs, and the model second from the left is typical of a present whimsical treatment. Here we find brown, red and gold braid featured as pockets, cuffs, and trimming on a scarf collar of kolinsky. Braid often gives a touch of chic to the autumn's new creation of fur. Also one encounters an occasional experiment with some harmonizing fabric. Thus, one very effective jacquette of leopard is bound down each seam with a narrow strip of brown broadcloth.

Patterns by Clotilde

2117—Woman's and miss's dress. Sizes 16 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 7 yards of 40 inch material, with 1⅛ yards of 20 inch contrasting.

2193—Woman's and miss's dress. Sizes 16 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 40 inch material with ⅝ yard of 36 inch contrasting.

2205—Woman's and miss's apron. Cut in small, medium, and large sizes. The medium size requires 2¾ yards of 40 inch material.

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

THIS one piece dress pattern, No. 2117, will make up attractively in one of the pretty flannels that are so popular. Tan with a brown or dark blue line marking off the check, or any other combination of colors. The contrasting color in this case would be the same as the line that forms the check.

Buttons are one of the best trimmings, and this dress, closing down the front as it does, could be really buttoned the entire length. The pattern provides for long or short sleeves, and at this season it would seem as though the long sleeves would be the thing. Before basting the seam of the long sleeve together, lay it on a lap-board or table and bring the seam edges together. Then look at the outside fold and see if it lies perfectly smooth. If there is even the smallest kind of twist, shift the upper seam edge a little, until the fold is smooth. This putting together with more or less of a twist at the fold is responsible for many poor fitting sleeves. If a very close fitting sleeve is desired, it will be necessary to leave it open a little way—an inch or two—and smaller buttons, matching those used on the front, may be used, setting them close together, up the outside of the sleeve, nearly to the elbow.

The string sash should be made of the dress material and is seamed together on the wrong side. To turn right side out, sew a tape needle to one raw edge at the end, first putting the needle into the opening; then the needle can be pushed down through and in this way the piece can be turned right side out without any trouble. Before pressing the sash, use a needle as you baste the edge of the seam flat, to keep the seam pulled out in place.

This design makes the prettiest morning dress, using a checked gingham, combined with plain.

Pattern No. 2205 makes a dressy looking apron. The waist and skirt parts are cut out separately and joined. The skirt part is set on the top perfectly plain across the middle of both front and back, but gathered as each piece nears the sides. There are ties at the sides and a pocket may or may not be added, just as one prefers. The upper part of this apron is cut in one piece, while the skirt is in two, being left open at the sides. A figured material, bound with a plain color, would be very pretty, or vice versa. Maybe you have a binding attachment for your machine? If so, it will not be hard to put these on perfectly. If not, the bindings will have to be stitched on in a narrow seam, then the binding turned to the wrong side and hemmed down. In hemming, one must take care that none of the stitches show no the right side.

Make the ties of the figured material, and bind the edges with the plain.

Pattern No. 2193 is for a tunic blouse and a one piece, straight skirt with an elastic inserted in the upper edge.

Tunics are very good this season, and a dress of this kind will look well made of one material, or two—just as one prefers.

The tunic closes at the left side of the front, and a band, like that shown in the picture, is the prettiest sort of a finish. There is an extension hem on the under side of the opening and small snaps are used for the purpose. Pin the opening together and mark for upper and under parts of snaps at the same time. The ones that are sewed under the finishing band should be put at least ½ inch in from the edge—that is, the outside edge of the snap should be ½ inch from the edge—and they should be put on about ⅜ inch apart.

A shaped trimming band, the same width as that used down the front, as suggested as a neck finish, also for the lower edge of the tunic. The sleeves may be made long or short. If short, the same finish may be used at the edge as on the rest of the dress. A pattern of a prettily flaring cuff comes for the long sleeve; and if this is used the cuffs should be cut from the trimming material.

The belt is also of the trimming material.

Blue and brown are both good colors this fall, while black is always good. It is just a matter of one's own personal choice. Bengaline, satin crepe or satin or any of them is suitable for a dress of this kind; while, if one wishes something warm, there are many lovely woolen materials to choose from.

APPEAL FOR THE NEW ARRIVAL

IF YOU want to attack poverty and misery wholesale, and do it without trouble or expense, we have the chance of chances right now—a chance that most of us can seize, and with which we can accomplish wonders this week.

We all like to think of the advent of a new life in the world as one of the happiest occasions imaginable. So it is—when the parents are able to provide for the little one. But right now we have dozens of cases on file where the expected arrival of a baby is falling with crushing force upon many a Chicago family—cases where illness or unemployment have used up the family savings, expectant mothers who have lost their husbands, families that are making enough to get along but not to provide for extras. The parents or mothers simply don't know how they can provide, and worry is consuming their strength and courage daily.

There is no reason why this should continue another day, if we do our part. Just think of the baby carriages, cribs, infant clothing, and supplies which are idle in thousands of homes, kept for sentimental reasons, or just kept after being outgrown. They accomplish nothing now—and every one of them can be a life saver, if those of us who have them will put them to

Don't Squeeze Blackheads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and digging out blackheads makes the pores larger and causes irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and are dissolved in one, and only one, way. There is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—and it won't wrinkle the skin or disorder them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of ordinary powdered peroxide a little at a time, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and the blackheads disappear, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.

Par Study and Reading.

"I have an old edition Encyclopedia Britannica and some novels which I would like to offer to some one who is interested in obtaining the same and who cannot afford to buy them.

Mrs. C. L. W."

This is certainly a generous offer on the part of Mrs. C. L. W. and one that will bring far more than passing pleasure to the lucky receiver of the gift.

Donates an Oven.

"I have an oven box in good condition to offer to some one who needs one and cannot afford to buy it.

"Mrs. C. A. L."

If you desire the oven that is so kindly offered, please write to us with your request, immediately.

A Gift of Fuel.

"I wish to offer a two ton load of wood to some needy family who can make good use of it. Mr. W."

We wish to thank Mr. W. for his most generous offer. We are sure some family will receive a great deal of comfort and pleasure from this gift.

He Wants a Wagon.

"I want a coaster wagon badly and my father is dead and my mother cannot spend the money for one. If I had a wagon I could run errands for my mother, bring the groceries in it, and bring up the coal and wood. Mother cannot work since she came from the hospital, and she wants me to have a wagon, too, but cannot buy one for me. Do you suppose there is any one who has a wagon to give away. PADDY."

There is something just a little whimsical about Paddy's request. We know he would run those errands for his just-back-from-the-hospital mother, and we know that he could have a perfectly glorious time with that wagon after all the things a boy can do to help are done. Who will send Paddy that wagon and make his heart expand with joy?

Wants Drawing Set.

"I am eager to go to school and am much interested in mechanics, but I cannot afford to buy the materials I will need. I wonder if there is anyone with a discarded mechanical drawing set who would care to pass it on to me. E. M."

Not many of us have mechanical drawing sets to give away, so if it happens that you are that person, you will be sure to let us know, won't you?

TWO generations have, for forty-nine years, maintained the preeminence of this great institution. Honest merchandising and lowest possible prices have built it from a small shop, serving a few hundred Chicagoans to the great store it is today, serving Chicago's three million people with some of their wants all of the time. We invite comparison—we want the people of Chicago to investigate—to compare—and be convinced of our price leadership.

Superior Quality Seamless Worsted Wilton Rugs

9x12 Size, a Regular $135 Value

$95

PRODUCED by one of America's best makers of this superior quality. During the construction, very often the weavers become careless, causing a tuft to be left out. Because of this, the rugs are slightly imperfect, but the wearing quality is not impaired. By the efficiency of our work room these tufts can be replaced and this will be done without charge where selection is made; but all are sold slightly irregular.

ANSWERS TO LOVE PROBLEMS

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

Too Modern for Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going out with a young man three years my senior. During that time I considered him my ideal and best pal. Lately our friendship has drifted to almost nothing. He has rather old fashioned ideas and says he doesn't care for my company because I have developed modern ideas. It seem as though he has lost all interest in me and never asks to take me out or even suggests seeing me. I am willing to banish these ideas if I only knew our friendship will be renewed by doing so. Kindly advise me how I may do so without putting myself forward.

"REPENTANT."

It's up to you, dear, to explain to the young man that you would rather give up your modern ideas than lose his friendship. He does not know that you have had a change of heart and feels you are not the type of girl he wishes to continue his friendship with. The good, old fashioned ideas aren't so bad after all, are they?

You Need Friends.

Dear Miss Blake: I am 20, and a fellow one month my senior constantly comes over to see me. I get tired of him. What causes this, dear Miss Blake? I don't think I really love him. But yet I think he loves me, by his actions, although I am kept strict and can't go out alone with him. Please tell me the reason why I get tired of him when he comes to see me, and yet I feel blue if he doesn't come.

ANNA.

Anna, I do not think you are in love with him when you feel as you say you do, but the trouble is you want companionship. You are old enough to be allowed to go out with your friends, dear, and should try to explain this to your parents. Now is the time to make friends and have pleasures. Remind them they were young once and had their pleasures, and you in turn are entitled to yours.

Nothing to Do.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a fellow two years my senior. I have gone with him a year—on and off. About two weeks ago I went out with him and we had a grand time. That was Saturday. He said he'd call me up Monday, but he never called. I wrote him a letter asking him why. Now I realize I should not have written to him. Could you please tell me how I could get him back. He told me he loved me every time I saw him.

"IRENE."

No, dear, you should not have written to him. It was up to him to offer an explanation without being asked for it, and I am sure if he wished to retain your friendship he would have done so. There is nothing you can do, dear, to get him back. It is his place to make the next move, not yours. I'm afraid they don't always mean what they say about being in love.

How to Tell.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a girl two years my junior. We went to school together, but now that we have grown up I have found out that I really love her. She lives in the same building that I do, and when she sees me she only says 'Hello.' I would like to take her out, but I do not know how to tell her. Her parents have known me for a long time, and I wish to find out whether she cares for me or not. C. M."

If you like the young lady, it is up to you to show her that you do. Having known her for so long, and seeing her as often as you do, it should not be hard for you to be friendly. Next time you see her stop and chat with her, then ask permission to call upon her. Having gone to school together, you will have plenty to talk about, I am sure. If her parents are agreeable, you might suggest going to the theater or the movies, and don't forget that candy and flowers do much to win the heart of any lady.

Speak Up Frankly.

"Dear Miss Blake: I'm deeply in love with a boy two years my senior, and he has talked to me several times and has asked me to go out with him. But lately I found out by some boys that he keeps other company. Please advise me what to do as I love him very much. BROKEN HEARTED.

Brokenhearted, the next time the young man asks you to go out with him, tell him what you have heard. It is only fair to give him an opportunity to state whether it is so or not. If he is not engaged to the young lady, and wishes to take you out I see no reason why you should not accept his invitations.

She Lives Next Door.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young man, 19, and know a young lady, 18. She lives next door to my garage. Every time I go down to take my car out I meet her. I would like your advice as to how I could get acquainted with her, as I often speak to her mother. LONESOME JOE."

Joe, if you speak nicely to her mother and show her that you are the kind of chap she would like her daughter to know and have for a friend, she will have you meet the daughter. Of course, she may wish to make a few inquiries about you before doing so, so just have a little patience.

Buck Up, Mickey.

"DEAR MISS BLAKE: I AM 16 and go around with my chum. We went with two girls who are about the same age. Recently we had a quarrel with them. My chum has made up with his girl, but somehow or other I cannot make up with mine. I see her quite frequently, but have not nerve enough to stop and talk to her. I know she goes out with another fellow, but I would like to have our friendship renewed, as I love her dearly and would like to have your help.

"MICKEY."

It doesn't take nearly so much nerve as you think, Mickey, and with a name like yours, meeting the enemy shouldn't cause you to bat an eyelash. However, I realize that when that enemy is a woman it takes just a little more courage. But don't put it off any longer, Mickey, for the longer you wait the harder it will be for you. Next time you see her step right up and tell her how you feel.

He Doesn't Speak.

"Dear Miss Blake: I went out with a boy about two months and I was in love with him, and I think he loved me until one Sunday I met him and he would not speak to me. I would like to speak to him, but I have no nerve to go and speak to him first.

"ROSE."

Rose, it seems foolish not to speak to each other when you meet, don't you think? If I were you I would go right up to him and ask him if you did something to cause him to act in such a manner, explaining that you are unaware of having done anything, so cannot understand his attitude and are anxious to know the reason. If he hasn't a good reason to offer, I wouldn't bother with him further, if I were you, dear.

Don't Worry.

"DEAR MISS BLAKE: I AM A girl of 18 and recently I met a boy whom I care a great deal for. What worries me is when we are alone he is very attentive, but in a crowd he never bothers with me much. Do you think he cares for me? Should I bother worrying my head about him? I am considered very good looking and dress right up to date. "WORRIED."

Worried, I wouldn't worry a bit more about it; in fact, I think the trait you mention a commendable one, as it shows that he has consideration for your friends when he gives them some of his time and attention, and I know you'll agree with me after giving a little thought to it, dear.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

By Jane Eddington.

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington, with current market materials, and are indorsed by her.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

MELONS AND DUTCHED CUCUMBERS.

MANY a food notion has grown up from pure caprice. For instance, why do people ice melons? Probably for the same reason they put ice in water, and for an even less justifiable one. The flesh of melons is naturally cool, cooler than most of us realize—a fact recognized for hundreds of years—so cool that those in a weak state of health have not been able safely to eat this fruit or "beverage." Yes, in old time writing about it you will find the watermelon in particular called a beverage, and why not since it is 95 per cent water?

In hot parts of the world, as in Persia, where the poor centuries back almost lived on melons for months at a time, ice was unheard of as a food accessory, and fortunately. And many a picnic group in our own United States has come home the happier from a watermelon feast because the watermelon had no other cooling than that from the ground or water. Such groups have not only enjoyed their watermelons, but have kept themselves in condition to have further enjoyments, whereas iced watermelon would probably have set some to sneezing, and induced stomach aches and colics in others, or helped to some sort of discomfort.

Bad Ice Practices.

Iced melons are just as much less wholesome than plain cooled ones as iced water is less wholesome than cooled water, or more so. Iced melon is not as honey sweet as one plain cooled, and the variety of spicy aromas and flavors is fairly deadened by the chill. Even when a melon has not been cooled, or only by being in a heap of melons, you will find the inside cool to the tongue, just as you will find a snow berry cool to the touch when the air is warm. To fill a canteloupe with ice is a bad practice for several reasons. The ice melts and dissolves the sugars of the melon, it deadens the flavors and does, in a measure, just what picking melons unripe does, makes them taste "like the quintessence of nothing at all." And, besides all this, it is sloppy, or anything but paintably attractive.

In fancy services, melons may be arranged around a dish of ice to keep them cool, but if melon cut in fancy shapes is in a dish setting in another of ice it soon gets undesirably cool or chilled. Melons should not be chilled, and, for one, I hope never to make any recommendation again to have them so. The number and variety of melons are increasing every year, and if we want to get the health and delight there is in these, we have much to learn about them.

Using the Rejected Parts.

There is another custom or practice with melons that seems to have the elements of folly in it, considering the cost of production and marketing. It is the waste of all but a bit of the heart, just as we formerly wasted the great brush of the stalks of celery, and the coarser stalks. Today no reasoning and thrifty cook throws away anything of the celery tops except withered leaves, because she knows that the perfectly blanched leaves, dried, are a wonderful accessory in soup making, in sauce making, in stew making, and in such processes as pot roasting; while green leaves and coarse stalks make a liquid for cream of celery soup, or seasoning any soup, for reducing and salting as a seasoning, and so forth.

Perhaps the time will come when we shall have as large a number of ways of using the part of melons, now so universally thrown away as we have for using celery tops. There are a number of ways well known now besides pickling these rinds, and besides the best pickle is not made of watermelon rinds when the heart is ripe enough to eat. The rejected parts of almost any of the melons may be candied or pickled, except of the canteloupes, and a fruit butter may be made of these when they are exceedingly ripe. But good candying of anything requires considerable skill, and the findings of her experience are a great aid when a woman would do such work.

The Honey Ball Melon.

The melon newcomer in the market this year seems to be a Texas product. It is the color of a honey dew melon but is smaller and netted like the canteloupe. There is no need of wanting any more of this melon than you waste of a banana, for it is sweet to the skin. After you have taken out the seeds and dipped out the heart to eat in the canteloupe manner, cut the rest up in strips, put away in a light brine of salt and cold water, and you will find these pieces almost as pleasant to eat from the fingers as apple, and excellent for various types of salad, but only those of a fruit nature out of vegetables. It is too sweet for a French dressing. By the way, the honey dew melon originated as a cross between the Rocky Ford canteloupe and a South African melon somewhat like a cassaba. Now there seems to have been a further crossing, which we shall hear about as the honey ball grows in popularity.

The Honey Dew Melon.

When one pays the price and gets a poor specimen of honey dew melon, the market has lost more than it can guess, yet this melon has deserved the term magnificent because when perfect it is delicious. It is said that the Rocky Ford's contribution to the cross that made it was hardiness. In poor honey dews there is too much of this hardness, but when the honey dew is most like the original South African melon, with a velvety yellow skin, it is a delight. It has been described as "suggesting a gigantic grapefruit, five or six inches in diameter and seven to eight inches long. Inside the flesh is of a delicate green tinge, resembling the cassaba, but ripening from the center to within half an inch of the rind. This flesh is exceptionally sweet and tender and has a baffling blend of flavors that remind one of pineapple, banana, and vanilla. Touched with a few drops of lemon juice, it is a dainty fit for the gods on Olympus."

Yes, some most interesting articles, from the growers' standpoint, are now being written about it and other melons, and the eater's part always get a little attention in these. Note that this melon is ripened to within half an inch of the rind. Probably those developing the honey ball had in mind the ripening of a melon to its rind.

The Cassaba Melon.

The cassaba melon is not unlike a cucumber in salad use, and the green outer flesh cooked in a thick sirup makes an excellent candy. The way I described the making of a salad of this melon when I first experimented with it was as follows: Cut the melon in quarters or eighths and these pieces in halves, then cut out the inner half on the easily visible line between the softer inner part and the harder greener outer part. Cut this soft part in nice pieces just before it is to be served and set it under the nose of the eater without any dressing, so that he or she may get the full benefit of the odor that it should have if it is ripe and has been kept in fresh and pure air. Serve with it French dressing separately or mayonnaise well thinned, or a sour cream dressing. Grocers need to learn that cassabas should not be left packed long in excelsior, or perhaps growers will cease this practice, finding a better way.

Pennsylvania Dutch Cucumber Salad 1.

People in general have extremely limited ideas as to how to use the cucumber, a vegetable of many traditions, exceedingly ancient and entertaining ones, therefore this fine product of the, or a, vine has not the credit it deserves to keep it out of the pickle barrel, as surely as melons, which are so much of the same nature, are kept out. My friend Mrs. Clements, having lived in Philadelphia, learned there the Dutch way of making a cucumber salad, which her husband, the doctor, recommends as "better than ice cream." This is the way she makes it: Peel and cut three cucumbers in the thinnest possible slices, and cut one onion in the same way, and add to them. Add salt to make a heavy brine, a small handful at least, with a quart of water, or several tablespoonfuls of salt and a piece of ice. Let them stand in this form from half to three-quarters of an hour, then pour them into a colander and squeeze water out with a potato masher. Put them into a serving dish, add a little pepper and a dash or two of vinegar, and cover with a thick sweet cream, not a thin one, although one "on the blink" or just turning may be used.

Pennsylvania Dutch Salad 2.

The following recipe [tried out] is to be found in the book of Pennsylvania Dutch recipes, "Mary at the Farm and Book of Recipes," under the title "Dutch Cucumber Salad," with the Dutch quoted: "Thinly slice one large green cucumber and one medium sized onion, if liked. Sprinkle over about one teaspoonful of salt. Allow to stand a short time, then place in a piece of cheesecloth and squeeze out all the moisture possible. Place cucumbers, when drained, in the dish in which they are to be served, add two tablespoons of sour vinegar, mix well. Then pour over enough thick sour cream to half cover, and a dust of pepper. Cucumbers are considered less unwholesome when prepared in this manner."

In trying this out I used but one tablespoon of vinegar and we voted the salad an exceedingly or exceptionally good thing to eat, and one way of preparing cucumbers by wilting them that was exceedingly good. As for me, I am loathe to believe that a cucumber plain is unwholesome. It is when it is drowned in vinegar that it becomes unwholesome and practically foodless, its 95 per cent of pure mineral water losing almost all worth in diluting or extending the vinegar.

Candied Citron Melon.

It is not so much the recipe used in candying melon-citron, cassaba, and others (probably the outer part of the honey ball will make an exceptional product)—as the way you do the work. Unless the work is well done the candied melon will not keep, and since the fresh melon does keep well until well into the winter, it is not a bad plan to have melons on hand to candy freshly for Thanksgiving and Christmas cakes and puddings or simply preserve the melon and take out the pieces, drain them, roll in sugar and slowly dry with turning. Put the pieces away in dry sugar, but notice that if they are not evenly dried some part may mould.

To make a preserve, wash melon, cut in slices, peel, remove seeds, and cut the slices in nice pieces; weigh, cover with cold water, and cook gently until tender and transparent. Make a sirup of the same weight of sugar there was of melon when it was ready to cook and half as much water, or use the liquid in which the melon was cooked. Simmer cooked melon in this for half an hour, and put up like any preserve.

Mrs. Janet Hill's recipe for candying melon is widely used. She prepares the melon and soaks it over night in a brine made of half a cup of salt to a gallon of water, from which it is in the morning drained, then rinsed and cooked until tender in fresh water in which it is cooled then the directions are: "Take sugar equal to the weight of the melon before cooking and a cup of water to each pound of sugar; let boil and skim. In this sirup cook the citron until transparent; remove and let the sirup simmer until quite thick; put in the pieces of citron and let stand over night. Take out the citron, reheat the sirup, pour it over the citron, and let stand again. Repeat until the citron will take up no more sirup. Then let dry off and store."

PLAYING HOUSE.

IS the lure of the kitchenette responsible for many modern marriages? The girl-woman has only to go back a tiny trip through the realm of fancy to the make believe time, when "let's play house" was a part of almost every day's gayety. Playing house had always to do with dishes and sugar and staples filched from the kitchen, and a tiny table with cakes and milk or lemonade—not a hearty diet.

The kitchenette is like a kindergarten entrance into life. It offers the scene of a tempting adventure, with ready made food, chiefly cakes and cold meats brought from the delicatessen, instead of cookies and other between meal morsels concocted by mother's good natured cook. But many a fine home has been built up from just such a small, hopeful, happy starting point. Many a splendid matron in after years will look back at her first experience in housekeeping and smile at the recollection of the small initial quarters, as at the memory of some exquisite toy.

When the bride gets her housework well under way she begins to find that ready cooked food is insufficient, and her new interest in cook books usually couples up with a fastidious feeling that cooking and eating in the same room is not altogether pleasant. Then she hits upon the expedient of having a drop leaf table [which is easier to sit at than a gate leg table] in her living room. She will also have a wheel tea table, and drawing it in from the kitchenette, close up to drop leaf, will have it at hand during her simple meals, using it as a serving table, setting and unsetting the several courses from it.

In these days, when apartment dwellers realize that space is at a premium, hyphenated rooms are a foregone conclusion. Either it is a kitchen-dining room, and a living room-bedroom, or where the pleasant extravagance of three rooms is permissible there may be a separate bedroom (thank your happy stars!) and in this case there will be the living room-guest room, hyphenated into being by means of a davenport bed. Living room sets of three pieces usually include this adaptable article. An interesting interior has a set composed of a wing chair, a low backed chair, and a davenport. The suite is upholstered in small diaper patterned mohair velvet, with three loose down cushions, covered with gold and black damask, edged with black moss.

The davenport is the focal point in the room. Above it hangs a well proportioned painting, framed in a narrow moulding and hung flat to the wall. End tables hold a pair of lamps in old rose silk covered with gold colored georgette, trimmed with black moss. No other painting mars the importance of that side wall, but on the opposite side hangs a group of etchings, and a framed mirror lends its help in converting the spinet desk into a dressing table whenever the occasional guest requires such service.

In most dining room-kitchens, where the young housewife does her own work, breakfast room furniture is used. Some of the new sets are attractive. Windsor chairs are the most popular type, and they can be had in walnut, mahogany, or finished in light colored paint. The walnut ones are nice, for they can be pressed into service in the living room, on occasion, without looking obtrusive. China cabinets are frequently built in but are also offered for sale in breakfast sets, together with serving tables, small extension tables, drop leaf tables, and buffets. Sometimes, a single color print of a good floral painting is given a place on the small kitchen wall. It gives to the pots and bowl of flowers in the room that repeat of motif so essential to good decoration.

When you see a group of girls, some with engagement rings, some with wedding rings, bubbling over with enthusiasm about details of interior decoration, it is a safe guess that they have been to a shower and the conversation is likely to be something like this:

"Isn't Carol's kitchenette the sweetest thing! The walls and woodwork painted in two tones of oyster green! That little window with a table in front of it, flanked by a pair of benches. And the space! So small that the benches rest right against the wall! Wasn't it a cute idea to have curtains and table cover of that bright green and white checked gingham? Yes, and the bench pads had slip covers of the same stuff. Weren't the dishes pretty of that plain canary yellow? What was that flower vase made of, that light, bright red one? Austrian glass? Really, it was too cute! It almost makes one wish—oh, let's all get married and play house—keep house, I mean!"

I remember a little wren in the country who came to my studio window and, finding that I seemingly paid no attention to her, hopped in and out of the room, picking up twigs and bits of twine. She carried them—of all places in the world—into a little red paper Japanese lantern that hung vivid against the blue of the bay and the sky, on a nail by the window. She hopped about busily, even trying to pick up some nails, the carpenter had left on the floor. Her instinct for nesting outweighed all fear. Her little one room apartment was the keenest joy of my rare summer time.

75% Of All Sickness caused by clogging

Take constipation seriously; remove it promptly with a stiff dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

AN old-fashioned notion persists that constipation is unavoidable, yet it is easily prevented and may be easily relieved. The fact is that certain foods do not agree with certain people, so avoid those which do not agree with you.

When you feel clogged up take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and relief will come by morning. Many who are habitually constipated take a dose regularly once a week as a precaution.

There are, of course, many other remedies that you can take besides Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Cathartics and physics in the form of pills and powders, however, are harsh and griping; Syrup Pepsin is a liquid, a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant aromatics, and it acts gently and mildly but emphatically. The formula is on the package.

Candy cathartics, which usually contain phenolphthalein, a coal-tar drug, may cause skin eruptions, and salt waters are simply a purge that dries up the saliva. You are therefore best off with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been the standard laxative of thousands of families for more than 30 years, and over 10 million bottles are bought annually.

Every druggist sells it, and at so low a price that an average dose costs less than a cent. Many attributes the unbroken good health of their entire family to the general use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as Mrs. Allie Graham, Handley, Tex., and Mr. A. F. Schmit, 1517 Detroit Ave., Toledo, Ohio. They use it for constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, torpid liver, heartburn, fevers and colds. It contains no narcotics or opiates and is as safe for an infant as for you.

People who know will tell you that Syrup Pepsin is a truly wonderful internal treatment, which dispels all forms of intestinal poisons resulting from constipation and indigestion, disorders which cause 75 per cent of all the more serious diseases. A teaspoonful when you are feverish or feel a cold coming on may ward off an illness and save you time, money and inconvenience.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Pepsin Syrup Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them, prepaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

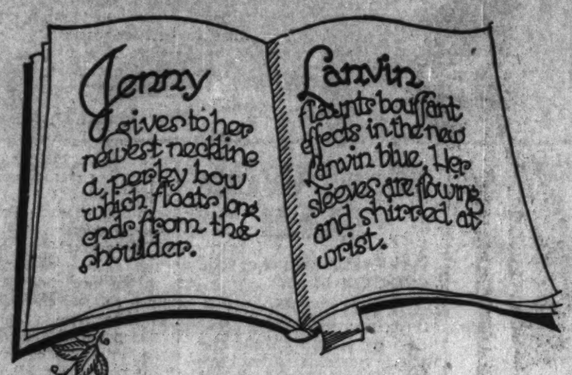
PAGES FROM MANDEL BROTHERS' "BOOK OF FASHION" HERALD THE FALL OPENING



Here you will find the splendor and originality of Paris' own inimitable designers transplanted and placed before your very eyes. In fact, had you been in Paris yourself and there viewed the assortment selected for your approval, you would believe it had all been done with the aid of a magic carpet.

Apart from the extensive and exclusive importations, you will find, also, numerous adaptations, executed by the deftest American modistes.

That Furs

have come into their own is undeniably true this season, as proved by the sumptuous fur garments which throng the openings.

Coats, jaquettes, scarfs and chokers, in all the softest, most luxurious furs imaginable, stand foremost in favor. Ermine, mink, squirrel, beaver, kolinsky, caracul, Hudson seal, and fox find delightful representation in the Fur salon. Fifth floor.

The New Corsetry

provides an indispensable foundation for the straightline of fashion and finds renewed inspiration in the fall modes.

The new corsets, girdles and corsettes, with their clever designing and novel combinations of material, assure the lithe lines so imperative to a well-groomed appearance. Fifth floor.

New Knitwear

so intrigued Queen Mary of England that she chose six knitted outfits for her fall wardrobe. Among them are included just such tunic frocks, unique overblouses and novel sports coats, as are now lending gay touches to the Palmetto shop. Third floor.

The Blouse

Elaborately beaded crepe de chine blouses meet semi-tailored requirements, while longer tunics of velvet and colored laces go three-quarters of the way toward the making a more formal costume. Blouse shop, third floor.

Frocks and Gowns vary, but in no wise impair, the slenderness of the youthful silhouette.

In the godets, cape effects and tiers of the new frock for daytime, the influence of the Directoire Redingote is evident, and long, tight sleeves and high collars are favored by Lanvin, Patou and other couturiers of Paris. For evening there are beads and more beads, quaintly contrary to the chaste simplicity of line. $65 to $395. Fourth floor.

Coats and Wraps

have become increasingly elegant, and one might walk straight to Paris on the miles of fur she sponsors for trimming. Velvety suede cloths, lustrous deep-pile materials, and glinting evening fabrics choose the richest of harmonizing or contrasting furs to join them down the straight and narrow path fashion permits them to travel. And now and again a graceful cape adds its bit of dash to slender coat. $95 to $495. Fourth floor.

Costume Ensemble

—wholly delightful cross between the trig tailleur and the more elaborate afternoon frock—is the unqualified choice of the Parisienne.

Madame may wear it for shopping tour or club meeting, and—since the three-quarters length, fur-trimmed coat reveals a sleeveless tunic or embroidered frock—she need not hurry home to dress for dinner and the play. $125 to $395. Fourth floor.

French Hats

are cleverly created in new postillion, off-the-face, turban and narrow brim styles. Satin, felt, velvet and hatter's plush are the chosen materials—and the Parisian modiste employs now one, now another, often two together. Ostrich, in motif ornamentation, saucy "brushes" and drooping plumes, with enchanting applique, embroidery and bejeweled ornaments are much in evidence. 22.50 to $58. French Salon, Fifth floor.

Straps, upon straps, upon straps! "THE DANSANT" makes its composed bow, secure in the knowledge that a twice cut out vamp, a new Spanish heel, a neatly turned sole, and four nobby straps are more than enough to start one on the road to complete modishness. 13.50. First floor, State.

Trefousse French kid gloves cover the hand of fashion—gloves in autumn browns, or gray, or black. Two-tone stitching on the back and a novel three-tiered, scalloped cuff, also in two tones: all for a mere 4.95. First floor, State.

French silk chiffon hose of exquisite, sheer texture, in all the tantalizing Deauville shades. Blond, ocre, blanc, salmon, apricot and French nude—variety enough to meet requirements of even the most elaborate wardrobe. 7.50. First floor, State.

The simplicity of the modish costume demands the compensating sparkle found in a handsome bracelet, gorgeously gem-studded. Flexible wristlets of platinum soften the cold brilliance of rare diamonds with deep blue sapphires and regal emeralds. $390 to $2,500. First floor, Wabash.

The very latest in neckwear splashes down the front of the new tailleur. A stock, bow and vest all in one is this snappiest silken dress accessory, with its handsome applique. 9.75. A dashing net scarf to match adds a striking finishing note. $10. First floor, State.

Gorgeous Shawls

in bewitching colors continue to be carelessly and fashionably swirled about a formal evening frock. For opera and the dance madame will wear artistically printed or heavily embroidered shawls of silk, generously fringed and utterly enchanting. Palmetto shop, third floor.

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

THE DOUBLE-FRONT COAT A FALL INNOVATION.

By Bettina Bedwell.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—The wrap-around coat, which crossed from hip to hip and depended on an accurate hand clutch to maintain a pictorial and protective closing, is being replaced by Chanel and some of the other leading Paris houses by the coat with a double front, which allows one's hands a vacation from street duty in cold weather. The new coat also provides an excellent opportunity for contrasts of color and fabric, and the French couturiers have let themselves go the limit on the business of designing and displaying fronts to fit into these straight line coats. Chanel likes to make them of taffeta, in changeable tones, and she quilts them just as you find them in the de luxe Parisian hotels, or as they are done by deft old ladies back in Ohio and Indiana, with formal geometrical or floral designs, done in exquisite stitchery. Of course, there is a padding to set off the design, and the edges of the front which meet neatly and fasten unobtrusively are usually banded in fur.

You can use the clutch method of holding the outer coat together, and conceal all but the lower and upper V's of the double front, or you can let the outer coat sway with the winds, in a free sweep that matches your graceful American stride, for the inner coat all padded and hooked will give you the protection your mother insists on when January takes control of the rise and fall of the barometer.

Another item from the autumn openings that I want to tell you about is the cape scarf. There is nothing smarter for the street than a robe tailleur, and you can wear it without a coat until along about November, when reports of ice blockades begin to come in, if you have something warm for your neck and shoulders.

Of course, the silver fox in a luxurious neckpiece is one of the impeccable ways of giving yourself protection, but silver foxes are not for everybody, and even their opulent and costly appearance can pall. A substitute, and a new and smart one, is the cape scarf, which has the virtues of both these items of apparel, and, worn over a tailored dress, it has the warm and comfortable appearance necessary in cool weather. To describe it my thesaurus fails me, and I resort to the artist's pictorial powers. You can get an idea for yourselves by looking at model two in our sketch.

The dress and cape are made of black velvet, and a row of velvet buttons functions in front to permit the wearing of this brief manteau according to the temperature of street or room. The back flares smartly, and is split to the shoulders, so you can drape the ends over your shoulders if you want novelty of effect.

Don't you think the cape-scarf is a nice idea for the in-between cloth and fur coat times? It was M. Worth who conceived it. The dress, which matches it (everything in the way of a wrap matches these days), is made of black velvet cut in a rectangle to the waist in front, and split down the center from belt to hem. It has a front and sleeves of the new plaid velvet in green, beige, and black, and a green leather belt, of which you get only a glimpse in the front as it joins the onyx and jade buckle that fastens in the center front. The slit pockets suggest that there is such a thing as a normal waistline.

The first offering shows one of the best efforts of the new season in the way of a tailored dress. It is an extremely becoming dress for a slender figure and has an unusual amount of smartness; and, above all, it has the virtue of being practical and in perfect taste for daytime.

Sand colored kasha with pearl inlaid wooden buttons and bands of opossum. A smart way to keep the neck and shoulders warm is the cape-scarf. Rust colored marokellaine harmonizes with lame blouse of gold and brown. Smart coats are affecting double fronts this season.

It is made of sand colored kasha, a shade that you will see a lot of this winter, and the unusual feature of it is the closing, which begins on the left shoulder and continues down the front to the old fashioned waistline, where it crosses under a bias band to the right side, finishing at the hemline. This line, with the buttons, which are made of brown wood inlaid with circles of pearls, gives a quiet distinction.

The V line at the neck is just an indication, and suggests a compromise for the high choker collars they are putting on so many of these tailored dresses in Paris. The fur is opossum, and the thoughtful couturier has slit it on the right side to give a little more play in walking. A wide belt of suede fastened by wooden circles and inner circles of pearl makes an agreeable finish. That slight flare at the wrist of the tight sleeve is an autumn fancy to relieve the monotony of the sleeves we have been wearing the last season.

Our third model has some of the same virtues as the first, for it is practical, smart, and becoming. The coat needs no introduction, except to point out that that new narrow collar is chic for autumn, when your three piece is trimmed with fur. You put an extravagant band of red fox fur, like this, near the bottom of the coat, and restrain it to a mere trifle at the neck. That is the way Molyneux is doing it, often omitting the fur at the neck altogether. The color of the suit is rust and the material is marokellaine, a rich fabric with an irregular surface that looks a little bit like astrakhan cloth, only silkier.

The dress part of this ensemble is not a dress at all, but a blouse and skirt, of which seven-eighths is blouse and the rest skirt, so far as the eye can see. This one-eighth makes good use of its brief visibility by sporting a wide band of red fox fur.

The blouse, however, is the important member of the firm, for it is made of gold and brown lame, in the bright daytime manner I have told you about. The cut is the extreme of simplicity, with plain sleeves and a round Byron collar ending in a buttoned band. The sash is a narrow fold of the lame with silk tassels in rust color. By keeping this severity of design and cut, they make the lame seem a perfect fabric for daytime wear.

The last offering is the double fronted coat I mentioned before, and is another of the accepted versions. This one is made of black kasha lined with black velvet, and cut perfectly straight, without a break in the line from shoulder to hem. There are flaring cuffs and a straight collar of black marten, as we call it in America.

The inner front, which is attached to the outer at the side seams, is made of herringbone lame, black and silver, quite sober and discreet in effect, but displaying, nevertheless, a well bred richness that is enviable. The fur edges of the lame front are of marten, of course. These lame fronts to coats, and even dresses, are being strongly featured in Paris just now.

This Girl Knows—Do You?

This girl has THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in her home. She can explain to you interestingly and correctly all the familiar things which she sees around her. Her teacher will tell you that when she wants a quick and intelligent answer from her class this girl always answers first. She understands many subjects of interest in the papers and magazines and in the conversation of her elders. She has made a "long start in the race for knowledge."

The Book of Knowledge

CURIOSITY—The Great Teacher

CURIOSITY is the beginning of all knowledge. Do you know any subject about which your child has not asked you a dozen questions? Let him ask as many as he likes, and be sure to answer them correctly. That is the parent's most important and most easily neglected duty. If you discourage your child's curiosity you will injure his mind, and the bright boy or girl becomes stupid or indifferent. Through curiosity Columbus discovered America. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the simplest and most natural method of helping the child to educate himself. IT ANSWERS EVERY QUESTION A CHILD CAN ASK IN PLAIN AND SIMPLE LANGUAGE. So captivating is this great original work to the mind of a child that he absorbs with little effort the profound truths and great facts of the world of knowledge while reading its delightful pages and looking at the thousands of striking educational pictures.

Your Child Is Unique

Your child is like no other child in the world. He has his own peculiar taste and need for both physical and mental food. If you put a meal before him and let him choose what agrees with him best, he will thrive. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the right kind of nourishing food for the child's mind during the growing years. Give your child this remarkable original work, and watch carefully which of the 16 Great Departments interest him most. Nature, Science, History, Biography, Astronomy, Physiology, Art, Literature, Poetry and Manual Training. It will prove THE KEY to his natural bent, and the kind of work or profession in which he will most easily succeed.

Your Child's Chance

In round numbers, what is your child's chance to become successful? If uneducated, he has one chance out of 150,000; with a common school education, 4 chances; with a high school education, 87 chances; WITH THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in the home, every chance. MEETING OLD AGE SMILING by Antoinette Donnelly

Keep Busy; Look Forward, not Backward; And You May Laugh at Grim, Old Father Time.

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Skin or hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or fat footed? Write to me. I have a tonic a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply, send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

NEW YORK. — [Special Correspondence.]—What is the secret of youth? How can you defy the ravages of time?

Have a few tucks taken up in the sagging cheeks? Go call on Dr. Steinach or some other gland enthusiast?

Miss Mary L. Downes of Chicago, one of the officers of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, offers a recipe which has cosmetic surgery and endocrinology backed off the boards for easy accessibility and "guaranteed to last" endorsement.

"Keep working, and you will meet old age with a smile," she says.

"The fear of age is one of the most tragic and unnatural fears known. Sometimes it is the unpreparedness of the poor that is responsible for this fear, and it is against this that fraternal insurance is a protection. But other things besides poverty make people afraid of old age."

Miss Downes cites the case of a prosperous man who killed his wife and hanged himself because retirement from active life made the approach of age unendurable.

"Wise men and women not only save money for their old age but plan their work so that it will never stop entirely so long as they live," she says.

Keep on Loving.

Dr. Charles Gray Shaw of New York university, who recently startled us with the forecast that in some thousands of years hence there will be no laugh left in the world, as we will all be so learnedly sophisticated we will be incapable of seeing humor in the thing that now affects our low brow risibilities, says the worst thing about age is the lack of ideas, of interests. Incidentally, too, Dr. Shaw says the lack of love robs age of the glory of youth.

"It is a common idea," says the professor, "that love is an accompaniment of youth. But real love comes only with maturity. A man is not a perfect lover till he is past 50. After all, the only way to stave off age is to keep on loving."

A most excellent recommendation, if the man past 50 will keep on loving his wife. Some men forsake the role of sober, quiet paterfamilias to turn into philandering Don Juans. And age has been known to be precipitated with the fears and the worries attendant upon the unethical application of the well meaning doctor's philosophy.

Look Ahead Not Back.

Mary Garden, in an interview in a current publication, says, "So long as your mind is fixed upon the future, just so long as you possess some unrealized ambition, or cherish some unaccomplished aspiration, you are resisting age. Age begins to defeat you only when your mind retreats into the past instead of advancing into the future."

Mary recalls the story of Ninon de L'Enclos, the famous French beauty, who at 80 was still exercising her subtle fascination. Her secret was retaining a perpetual ecstasy in living; living in the future—never in the past.

Constant contact with other minds to provoke mental alertness is urged by Miss Garden as necessary to youth prolongation. In her opinion, it is as important to cultivate one's social side as it is to exercise one's body.

All the precautions to prevent physical deterioration, to enhance physical attractiveness are imperative, of course, but in Miss Garden's opinion the secret of lasting youth is an ambition that spurs you on; to possess some definite purpose for which you are living, working and for which you are living.

Spurs Father Time.

Sarah Bernhardt's defiance of age will stand as one of Father Time's most notorious defeats. Another is dear old Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, a stellar attraction at 79 in a play now running. We have Chauncey Depew, at the age of 90, going to his office at the New York Central railroad daily, and Edison at 77, Elbert H. Gary, 78, Luther Burbank, 75, and Cyrus H. K. Curtis, at 74, all upsetting the ancient notion that work is finished at three score years and ten.

All of these have had that definite purpose to work for, and found it to be the secret of everlasting youth.

But what of the woman who is not a professional? What of the women whose physical resources are drawn upon heavily in devotion to family? And finds herself at middle life thrown out of a job? What is her future? May she go ahead on some unrealized ambition, some unaccomplished aspiration?

The professional woman who has never been forced to abandon her work finds it an easier job to live in the future than the middle aged mother. It is an easier job for her to keep herself in physical trim, and to keep her mind more alert with social contact. The professional is going along in one straight groove for which she has been preparing since early maturity. The mother job faces a period of painful adjustment when her children are grown and away. Grandchildren are not so numerous nowadays, and with the scientific way of raising the modern baby grandmothering as a profession is well night an extinct one.

How is she to prepare for that maturity which without some definite work will lead to atrophy of the spirit of youth?

Warning to Mothers.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher faces the problem for just such women: She advises them to admit and face the fact, hard as it may seem, that whatever it may have been in other periods of history, at the present day maternity is not the occupation of a lifetime. It does not, as modern existence is organized, last long enough to fill adequately the entire length of a vigorous woman's existence.

Mrs. Fisher advises women to have interests, tastes, judgments, and occupations of their own—not to be wives and mothers only.

"Let a woman, while she is still young, search her heart to know what would have been her keenest interest if she had not become a mother, and then let her hold herself fast to that interest through all the busy rush of rearing a family; let her hold fast to it in the face of other demands, even in the face of ridicule and laughter, yes, even though that interest be only a liking for tatting. Anything is better than having no personality at all. Whether her tastes turn to gardening or to study, to teaching, or to preserving fruit, to sewing, painting pictures, or to social service, let her keep her little flame alive.

"The mother of grownup children finds herself in exactly the same position, notoriously perilous, of the business man who has retired from active life while still vigorous. If there is something to be worth doing, we will be happy. If not, we will be miserable.

"Like the retired business man, we are in a much harder position than those whose work is continuous, and who at 50 or 55 are putting their mature energy and staying power into work which has occupied them since youth. We must do not only our own new work but find it, and it is hard to find things at 50. Of course, what we ought to do is to begin to find it long before we are 50, so that when the inevitable comes we may slide smoothly into our new element like a boat launched head on, and not splash into it like a man tossed overboard. And although coming late to our work we are at a disadvantage compared with those who have been steadily devoting themselves to it, our freshness to the subject we choose has some advantage in it."

BEAUTY ANSWERS.

MARY: BATHING THE FACE with warm milk is helpful to the complexion. It should be applied after having thoroughly cleansed the skin, and may either be patted on with the finger tips or applied with absorbent cotton. Allow the milk to dry on the face. A good time to do this is just before going to bed.

THELMA: IF PROPERLY PREpared and used moderately, tea and coffee are not harmful to the average person, although tea, because of the tannin, which acts as an astringent, may be objectionable to those who suffer from constipation. Tea should be steeped, not boiled, and should not be allowed to stand for any length of time. If used to excess, tea and coffee may cause indigestion. This is partly due to the fact that they are generally taken either too hot or too cold—the latter when served with ice. They should be taken lukewarm; when hot, they are least harmful at the end of a meal.

MRS. D.: THE BROWN SPOTS under your eyes and near the nose are known as moth spots, or liver spots. The cause of these spots is unknown, but they are not considered as indicating any general health disturbance. I cannot recommend any treatment, for treatment is unsuccessful.

WORRIED: THE BEST RESULTS in straightening a child's teeth are obtained if the work is done between her sixth and twelfth year. There should be no danger of decay, as orthodontists watch the bands very closely, and if you see to it that the child is faithful in brushing her teeth decay will be controlled. Of course, while the appliances are on the teeth great care must be exercised, as they make the cleaning more difficult.

H. C. M.: THERE IS NO WAY OF fattening the face without building up the entire body. Skin foods are of no use for that purpose. You could well afford to add a few pounds to your weight, so send along a stamped, addressed envelope for instructions on how to gain weight. As your weight increases you will find your face will grow fatter.

RITA: IF YOU ARE SUFFERING from a slight bunion, buy shoes with a straight last, and have them properly fitted. A felt pad between the great toe and the next toe helps maintain the straight line, although care must be taken not to deform the other toes in so doing. Appliances may be had to protect the bunion, relieving the irritation.

MOTHER: THE LEMON JUICE IS added to the last rinse water after washing your daughter's hair, to give the hair a golden tint. It is not harmful, but whether or not it will keep the hair blonde I am unable to say. It may help to do so. The quantity used depends upon the amount of hair she has. The bleaching effect is due to the citric acid in the lemon juice.

MARIE: THERE ARE MANY DIFferent causes of eczema. I would advise you to consult a physican and let him determine the cause, after which he will be able to prescribe. The treatment depends entirely upon the portion of the body affected and your general condition.

Slanguage

SLING UR SOME SLANG.

The Sunday Tribune will pay $1 for each original slang expression to take the place of the hackneyed standbys:

It's the cat's whiskers!
What do you know about that!
Put it in your pipe and smoke it!
Heaven have pity!
I'll tell the world!

There are dozens of other slang expressions so old they have whiskers on them. Let's replace them with some shiny new ones.

$1 will be paid for every phrase published.

Be sure to sign your full name and give your address, street number, and name of city where you live.

Lists must be original. No phrase using any sacred name will be considered.

Cod Live Oil Full of Vitamines

Makes Weak Folks Strong

Everybody knows that nasty-tasting, evil-smelling Cod Liver Oil is chock full of Vitamines and is a wonderful flesh producer and strength creator.

But who wants to swallow the horrible stuff when these wonderful tablets—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—are just as good and so easy to take?

A box of 60 tablets for 60 cents—and if any thin man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days or money back, Ask Buck & Rayner, Public Drug Co., Walgreen Co., MacLean Drug, Boston Store or any good druggist anywhere.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets."

"I have been taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets for two months and they have done wonders for me." David P. Woodburn, Owego, N. Y.

How to Have Pretty Natural Looking Curls

Straight, limp hair is becoming to but few women and there's no excuse now for anyone looking homely and unkempt on that account. Those who have forsworn the curling iron because of the damage it does by drying and wrenching the hair, will be glad to hear that the simple Silmerine method will produce a far better and prettier effect without any injurious result whatever. If just a small quantity of liquid Silmerine be applied with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair it will produce the loveliest natural looking curls and waves, and there will be no streaky, sticky or greasy effect. Only ten cents at any drug store, will provide sufficient for months. Silmerine, obtainable at any drug store, will prove a welcome addition to the dressing table. The beautiful wavy effect will last a long time, whether the hair be long or bobbed, thick or thin.

LOVE LETTERS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every love letter published. If you can write a good one, or if you have one in your private or family possession you would like to enter in this contest, send to Love Letter Editor, The Tribune, Chicago. As no letters will be returned, send copies of the ones you wish to keep.

CONFESSION.

LOVED ONE: Hours have I waited; hours have I spent in agony waiting for your return. If you knew how my aching arms long to clasp you and hold you close, surely you would take pity on this lonely heart and end the torturing pain that throbs with every beat.

Always I hear your voice, always I feel your arms about me and seek your lips—in dreams. When I awake there is only gnawing emptiness in my heart.

Is this love to be one of pain never ceasing? Must I always, even in moments most occupied, seek to control the yearning that pulses through every drop of blood in my body? Will it never be appeased? The future surely would be a forbidding depth into which to plunge without you.

If you only knew—if you only knew! My mind revolves about those words—my very heart beats them. Even the winds are merciless; continually they whisper, "If you only knew!" I feel that I live only for those four words, believing that God will be good and send you back to me.

But I wait—counting on the love you once had for me to bring you back.

I have realized far too late that I was the blunderer. Can you forgive? Dearest, try. Come back to one who waits. ALICIA.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH MATRIMONY

by Doris Blake

Isn't It Because They Want the Rewards of Years of Service Before They Are Earned?

"IF marriage is a failure," asks Pliny, "isn't it because we have forgotten how to make it a success? Demanding success before we have assumed any responsibility, before we have done anything to deserve success?"

"A girl or boy goes into an office, shop, factory? How does he get to be manager? How does she earn promotion? By expecting all the privileges of those who have been rendering faithful service for years? By spending on clothes and luxuries the same amount of money the older employés does? Not so you'd noticed it! They have to show themselves willing to do the humbler job willingly. They have to show character enough to live according to salary. They have to show willingness to assume responsibility. They have to be industrious.

"Why can't more boys and girls apply the same principle to making a success of the home? Why aren't they willing to live according to the modest salary, and work with their shoulders to the wheel to improve that salary? Why can't they see that privileges impose responsibilities which cannot be escaped?"

If they only could, Pliny, the divorce lawyers would be busy reading the help wanted columns! But what with the jazz and style, speed and extravagance mania rampant in this year of our Lord 1924, I fear the lawyers will be turning in this year's model for the newest advancement in 1925 motoring luxury.

The Story of Marion.

Here's Marion. She started in as a file clerk, earning $15 a week. She lived in a girl's club house that first year and part of the second. She did her own washing, as is the privilege of many institutions, where girls of small salaries are boarded. She bought a few yards of goods and ran up a dress or a blouse in an evening or two. She was neat and she was happy. She was a faithful young worker, never late on her job, always willing to lend a helping hand around the office. And never felt she was put upon. She was anxious to get on. She knew one of the tricks of getting on is making yourself generally useful.

Pretty soon she was transferred to another department at $18. She moved to a boarding house, a reasonable one. She moved there because the rules at the club were pretty stringent. She lived there for a couple of years until she was earning enough to take an apartment which she shared with two other girls. There were many inconveniences to this mode of living. The place was not large, but by compromise the girls lived quite happily—much more so than in the cheerless boarding house.

Time went on and Marion was earning $50 a week as secretary to the head of the concern. In the meantime she had studied stenography at night school, and had taken a course in English. She had developed herself quite remarkably, and all due to her perfect understanding that if she wanted to get anywhere in her work she had to fit herself for success.

Plunged Too Far.

She married. The young man was earning $75 a week. Marion had some money saved. So had he. They lumped their savings and plunged on a house in a fashionable suburb. They went in over their depth. The furnishings were naturally delayed in purchase. Marion grew restless. Then she grew discontented. Her clothes were getting shabby. She had been in the habit of buying good things. Compromise with the less expensive was now impossible. She wanted to join the Country club. She wanted to meet and make friends. A raise in her young husband's salary made the membership possible. But the upkeep he could not make.

They have been married only two years and they are more in debt than either of them ever dreamed possible before they were married. They had lived within their salaries, naturally, or they would not have been able to save money. But whatever marriage does to some young couples there flew to the winds all the old principles of thrift and industry, so far as the girl was concerned. Bitten with the social bug, she was frankly unwilling to be seen by neighbors doing any work around the house. Perhaps some good fairy will rescue them from their predicament, but Marion believes now she made a terrible mistake in marrying a "poor man."

Here's the Answer.

Now, if she could think back a few years ago and reason out why she advanced from a $15 a week clerk to a $50 a week secretary she could readily discover what is wrong with her present failure. If they had taken a smaller house in a less fashionable neighborhood in five years, perhaps their present location and its upkeep would have been a simple accomplishment.

But that's the way it goes — when marriage is a failure! They want the rewards of years of service before they are earned.

Take another girl I know. She knows how far a salary of $35 a week goes, because she has been earning that for a couple of years. She submitted to an engagement ring being thrust upon her, upon persuasion from an honest young fellow, whose salary exceeds hers by $20, only after she was sure the ring would be larger than her chum's. He paid almost a full week's wages down and contracted to fork up so much a month for some months to come.

They went looking for an apartment, and $90 month was the rent of the one she wanted. No other would do. They went to a furniture store to look at a parlor suite. A $350 three piece set was what she told John she would be content with, and nothing less. The bedroom set was almost equally out of proportion to the boy's earnings. He protested. The next day she broke her engagement.

Now She's Sorry.

She is an attractive girl to men. She was not long in finding a successor to the honest one. He was well dressed and ardent, and wooed her with fervor. She married him on his promise to buy her the kind of things her earlier suitor could not afford. Instead of which he took her to a boarding house to live. She confided to her chum recently that she had made a terrible mistake. She loved the first fellow. He was honest and square. "If I had the chance over again, I'd live with him in a shanty without any furniture at all," she wept.

Here was a marriage failure due to unwillingness to assume an honest responsibility.

THE ADVENTURES OF FUZZY WUZZY

FUZZY WUZZY FINDS SOMETHING

By Raymond Kelly.

"OOHOO," came the sound of shrill whistling, and Fuzzy Wuzzy sat in bed rubbing his eyes with his paw. "Oohoo," it came again, and the little bear was out of bed and jumping into his clothes as fast as he could, so that before Hawk Feather could get up breath enough to whistle more than three times more, Fuzzy Wuzzy was standing beside him wider awake than any one of you is at this minute.

"Hello," said Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Hello," answered Hawk Feather. "Guess what I found."

"A bee tree," said Fuzzy Wuzzy, but Hawk Feather shook his head and said, "Guess again."

"Lemme see," said Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Maybe it's a dog, or a tricycle, or a little tent that we could have to play in."

"No," said Hawk Feather, "it's a raft made out of ten logs, each thicker than I am, and ten times as long. I'm a going to sail away on it till I come to the South Sea island, and find me a couple of gold mines, and a native princess, and a lot of things. Then I'm going to be a king and give my father a dozen hundred ponies and my mother the wooden bowl she wants to chop meat in. Want to come along?"

"Sure," said Fuzzy Wuzzy, "just as soon as I eat my breakfast."

"Well, all right, I'll wait for you," said Hawk Feather. "What are you going to have?"

"Porridge and milk, and maybe an apple and a doughnut."

"Fine, you can bring me some doughnuts if you want to, and we can eat them on the way to the South Seas. It's quite a long trip, I understand."

So Fuzzy Wuzzy ate his breakfast, and begged Mother Bear to give him six doughnuts and four apples to take along. He didn't tell her that he intended going half way around the world that morning because he was afraid she might not understand. Grownups often fail to do that, as you very well know. But he did tell her that he was going on a long voyage, and might be a little bit late for lunch if she didn't mind, and Mother Bear said that it would be all right for just that once. So she gave him a hug and a kiss and four sandwiches, and stood in the door of the den to watch him and his little Indian friend out of sight down the path between the tall pine trees. Pretty soon Fuzzy and Hawk Feather came to the place where the brook becomes a creek that is almost a little river, and there, sure enough, the raft was waiting, tied to a stump that stood on the bank. It was only a step from the bank to the raft, but Hawk Feather laid a pole across and made Fuzzy Wuzzy walk across that way because all ships have to have a gang plank, as he explained to the little bear. Then he pulled the pole on board and stuck it on end between two of the logs, because regular ships must always have masts, too. And then the two friends marched round and round the make believe anchor, and singing the chanty that they made up themselves. It went this way:

O, heave ye ho, my gallant lad,
To sail the bounding main.
A merry day is this and glad
When we set forth from Spain.
A noble craft's our gallant raft
To cross the ocean wide,
And we're away at break of day
A sailing with the tide.

Then they cast off the rope and the raft started down stream, where the two friends had the adventures that I'm going to tell you about next Sunday.

By A. T. Gallico

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The scene is Grand Central terminal, New York, where our friend Mr. Smith, whom we have presented to you before, is once again awaiting the arrival of his young cousin, Jim Brown, from more rural and more western a point. A month or so ago Jim Brown paid a visit to his New York cousin, and became well acquainted with all the fine points of New York's sartorial experts. He went home with so large a wardrobe that he had to buy an extra suitcase. Then Mr. Smith got a letter that Jim was coming again.

"Couldn't wait another week to have another game of golf with you at that Long Island club," said Jim Brown, enthusiastically, as he grasped his cousin's hand. "When can we go?"

"Right away, Jim, as soon as we get rid of your baggage, if you've got any."

"Well, I haven't got much. I'm going to get a lot of new things here to last over the winter. I've never had such good clothes as those you picked out for me. I want you to get me just the right suit, and some shirts and ties to go with it. But first I've got to get a new golf suit, before we go to the club. I suppose they dress differently in the fall at the country clubs."

"Not much," answered Mr. Smith. "Just a little warmer. Knickers are still the correct attire. But you won't find many linen knickers at this time of the year—mostly knicker suits, with coats to match the knickers, or checked knickers with plain coats of the same material. Knickers are worn all the year round for sport, for golf as long as the blizzards hold off, and then for winter sports and general country wear. But the materials are heavy tweed, or cheviot, or other warm goods."

"That four piece suit," continued Mr. Smith when they were in a taxi, "that we got when you were here before, will be just the thing for you for a fall golf outfit. It is a good warm cheviot. You remember it was so warm this summer that you preferred to wear linen knickers and a light slipover sweater when you played. If you brought that suit, you won't need to buy another. I tell you what, though, we'll get a bright colored knitted vest to go with it. Those vests are always popular in the fall for wear with sport clothes. Your suit is smoke blue. We'll get a vest with a lot of yellow in it, and hose with the same colors. Add to this a blue and yellow striped tie, or yellow foulard bow ties, with white or blue oxford shirt, and you are all prepared for a sartorially perfect if not form perfect game of golf."

When Mr. Smith and Jim Brown got to the club they found it was as Mr. Smith had said. The golf suits all looked warmer than the hot weather costumes that golfers had resorted to in July and August. Woolen knickers with coats to match or substantial coat or slipover sweaters, and sweater vests everywhere took the place of the linen knickers of summer. In place of the Panama and leghorn straw hats, caps and turn down felt hats were worn.

Mr. Smith himself wore a brown tweed knicker suit, white oxford shirt, brown golf hose, tan sport shoes, a brown and yellow bow tie, tan felt hat, turned down, and brown and yellow hat band.

"I thought you told me they didn't wear fancy bands on anything but straw hats," Jim asked his cousin when he saw his hat.

"On these knockabout felt hats that are only for sport, a fancy band may be worn," answered Mr. Smith, "but never on a street felt hat. The fanciest they come on the regular hats are dark blue occasionally on gray hats, and tan or brown on the tan hats."

"I notice that a lot of men are wearing brown," remarked Jim, as they made their way from the locker house to the first tee.

"You're getting observant, Jim," answered his cousin. "All you'll have to do now is look for yourself at what the well dressed man wears. I won't have to tell you a thing. Yes, brown is a popular fall color. It's warmer looking than gray, and seems to blend into the general coloring of autumn. But you'll find that the smoke blue and the heather mixtures are just as popular at this time of the year for both sport and street wear."

"I like that outfit over there," said Jim, indicating the costume worn by the man about to drive off. "He has on a brownish suit, and one of the knitted vests of tan with blue and brown pattern. And he's wearing a striped tie of brown and orange, tan shirt, and hose of checked pattern in brown and tan."

"Yes, that's a good scheme," agreed Mr. Smith. "And so is that one—suit of glenurquard check, black and white, gray hose, black and white checked bow tie, white shirt, and cap to match the suit."

DRESSING FOR THE FALL SPORTS

O, DON'T YOU REMEMBER—

O, don't you remember the shack, Ben Bolt,
We built in the grove by the spring?
Here our secret gang met and in grave council sat,
A grim and terrible ring.

VARIED ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

Women buy nine articles out of every ten.

A Texas woman has a wholesale and retail business for the buying and selling of snakes.

Statisticians find that the average woman has a chance of living longer than the average man.

During the twelve years she has been employed as insect delineator of the bureau of entomology, United States department of agriculture, Miss Esther H. Hart has made pen and ink drawings of thousands of bugs of various kinds.

While beautiful of face, Egyptian women are exceedingly graceful in figure and poise.

With a shoe bill, said to be more than $7,000 annually, Pavlowa, the dancer, is claimed to be the world's greatest wearer of shoes.

Of the 21,000 women and girls employed in industry in Chefoo, China, about 18,000 are in the hairnet, lace and embroidery industries.

Argentine girls who formerly took no part in outdoor sports are rapidly taking up tennis and golf, at which they are proving adept players.

Rocked the Boat.

My most embarrassing moment came when I was guest at the summer home of a friend of mine. My friend was quite fond of canoeing and so was I. I had previously told her I knew how to handle a canoe and had done quite a bit of it, which I had. It was suggested that we go for a ride and I was to paddle. I got into the boat first and sat down, but a bit too close to one edge, and the thing tipped over, sending me sprawling into the water. My clothes were ruined and so was my reputation as a canoeist. C. W. S.

Not in the Ingredients.

My most embarrassing moment occurred when my mother was entertaining my fiancé at dinner and I was asked to ladle the soup. All were watching me as I bent over the steaming tureen. To my horror I felt my side comb slipping. Before I could catch it it fell from my bobbed head into the soup. E. W.

My most embarrassing moment occurred in the morning rush on an elevated platform.

I am a waitress, and when trying to make my way through a crowd in the restaurant with a tray full of hot food and avoid being bumped I say, "Hot stuff!" so the patrons will stand aside and let me pass.

This particular morning I was in a hurry and was trying to get through a crowd on the platform, and without thinking yelled, "Hot stuff!"

Was I embarrassed? I'll leave that for you to decide. H. W.

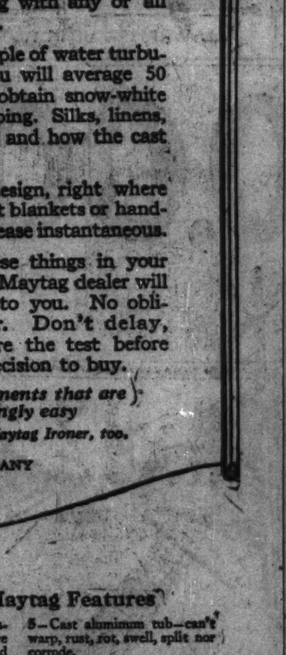
Kindness Wasted.

My most embarrassing moment came on the "L" not long ago. I was rather preoccupied and noticing a long hair on the coat of a man seated in front of me, absentmindedly reached up to pick it off. Just as it touched it the train came to a sudden stop and to my great embarrassment I gave the man a vicious dig in the back. As he indignantly looked around I rose and, with as much dignity as I could muster, beat a hasty retreat down the aisle. M. H.

She Wanted to Know.

I took my new girl home from the theater and we stood in the hall to talk. I sure was embarrassed when the woman in the first flat came to the door in her nightgown and her hair on curlers and asked what we wanted. I had been leaning on her doorbell. P. C.

CORNS
Lift Off—No Pain!



Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Before YOU buy
make THIS test

GATHER together the biggest wash you can find—and call for a Maytag Gyrafoam Washer.

Then, when convenient, do the same thing with any or all other washers. Make the comparison thorough.

Find out why the Maytag's exclusive principle of water turbulence washes twice as fast as others. Why you will average 50 lbs. of dry clothes an hour. Why you will obtain snow-white wristbands, collars and cuffs without hand-rubbing. Silks, linens, woolens—immaculate in 3 to 7 minutes. Why and how the cast aluminum tub cleans itself in 30 seconds.

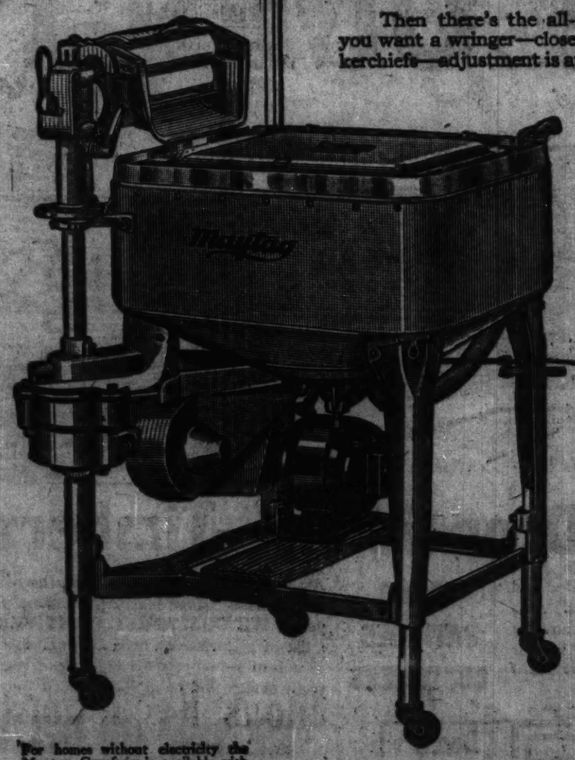
Then there's the all-metal wringer, low design, right where you want a wringer—close to water line. Feed it blankets or handkerchiefs—adjustment is automatic—tension release instantaneous.

Prove all these things in your own home. Any Maytag dealer will bring the washer to you. No obligations whatever. Don't delay, phone! They desire the test before you make your decision to buy.

Deferred payments that are surprisingly easy

Ask about the Maytag Ironer, too.

THE MAYTAG COMPANY
Newton, Iowa



For homes without electricity the Maytag Gyrafoam is available with Multi-Motor* attachment.
*The Famous Maytag Gasoline Motor.

9 Outstanding Maytag Features

1—Washes faster. The Gyrafoam Principle creates a more highly energized, turbulent and continuously effective water action. No idle water.
2—Washes cleaner. The Gyrafoam Principle mixes the soap evenly through the water, and forces the super-cleansing, soapier washing solution through the meshes of the clothes. No idle suds.
3—Largest hourly capacity in world—50 lbs. ordinary family wash per hour.
4—Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.
5—Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rust, rot, swell, split nor corrode.
6—Easily adjusted to your height, and height of tubs.
7—Clothes can be put in or taken out while washer is running.
8—Tub cleans itself in thirty seconds.
9—Metal swinging wringer. Low. Swings into 7 positions. Adjusts itself automatically for handkerchiefs or blankets. Automatic drainboard. Instant tension-release. All parts enclosed.

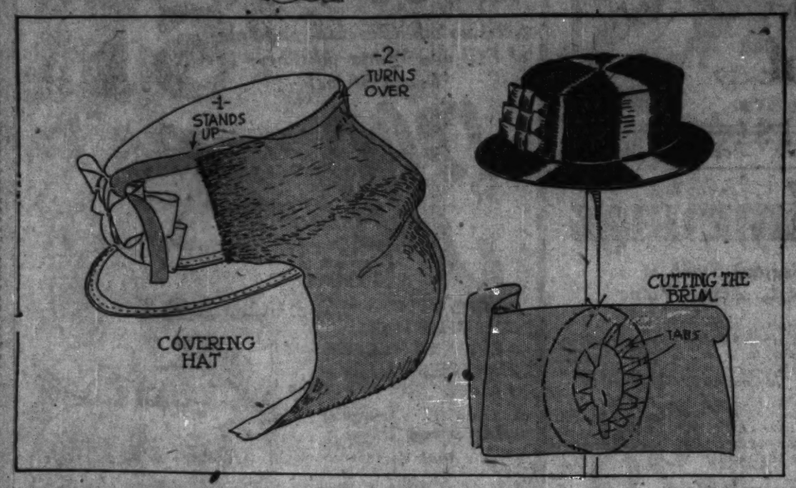
Practical and Fancy Needle Work

By Clotilde



What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang nicely or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago.

FINISHING THE NEW HAT.

LAST week the cutting and making of a frame for one of the new hats was described, and today will be told how to cover and trim it.

One yard of hatter's plush will be required. Most of the retail stores cut this material on the bias if requested. When buying, ask to have it cut so one end is straight and one on the bias. If the plush cannot be bought this way, fold one corner over and cut a true bias, as that will be needed for the side crown. In cutting a bias always have the wrong side of the goods up. Place the goods on the facing of the hat, with the right side in. Pin from front to back, and side to side, placing pins closely all the way around. Do the same at the head size. In center front of hat and material put crossed pins so that when the material is removed and put on top of the brim the pins will be the guide to show where the material belongs on the frame.

After putting the pins in the head size take a sharp scissors and cut down about 1¼ inches all around inside of head size. Cut one-half inch apart as illustrated. Take this shaped material and put on top of the brim, nap side up. Pin as before, front to back, and side to side. It may be necessary to slash the material a little more to make it fit over the head size, but care should be taken not to slash too deep, as this cannot be hidden by crown or trimming. Fit around the head size first. Then sew that, and pull it on the frame tightly, so there will be no blisters or fullness when fitted. Sew on the edge of the brim, and trim off evenly.

Then take another piece of material to fit in the facing—this time right side out. Pin as before—outer edge and head size. Slash and fit the head size first. Then pull the material to the outer edge, and sew down firmly.

The hat is now ready to be bound. For this 1¾ yards of ribbon are required. Start in the back and pull firmly around the edge. Sew closely, as the stitches must not show. Put the needle in the top and slant through to the edge on the under side of the brim. Bring the ribbon around to the back and lap one-half inch in the back.

For the top of the crown take a piece of hatter's plush that will be large enough to hang down about 1½ inches all around. Pin this on a flat piece of cardboard—a box cover will do. Mark the center with a pin. Have boiling hard in a tea kettle about two cups of water—the less water the better the steam will be. Hold the material that is in the cardboard close to the steam until it is quite damp. Then take a stiff brush and brush around—beginning in the center. Keep steaming and brushing around briskly so that the nap will run in a circle, as in a man's silk hat.

After this is accomplished, but while still damp, press with a hot iron. When perfectly dry take the material off of the pasteboard; put on top of the crown, and sew one-half inch below the crown edge on to the side crown.

Then take No. 3 ribbon and, beginning in the back of the crown, sew the edge of the ribbon to the top of the crown, so it will stand up. Then when bias side crown is put on, this is brought down and sewed with small stitches—making a nice, easy finish.

Take a 9-inch measure on selvedge of bias material. Fit around snugly at the bottom of the crown. Bring together in the back. Join on the machine with a small stitch.

Raise the material up from the bottom of the crown, and sew the crown to the brim. Put a pin in the center front of the brim and the same in the crown, so they will correspond when put together. Sew the crown with a heavy thread. Use milliner's silk finish thread, size 40. After the crown is sewed on, bring the material down, turn under, and slip-stitch to the top of the brim.

The hat is now ready to be trimmed. The trimming illustrated is of ribbon made in three tailored bows. One yard of five inch ribbon is required. This may be plain grosgrain or satin moire. There is one-fourth yard in each bow, and three inches are allowed for the tie strap or finish over the bow.

After the hat is all trimmed and lined, hold over steaming kettle, and brush with a stiff brush—brushing the brim from front to back, the top crown around, and the side crown around. This will give a slick finish. The hat must not be steamed too much, or the frame will become soft—just enough to bring up the nap thoroughly.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $1 for each child-ish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Sue, The Tribune, Chicago.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

I had told Ted to mind grandma when he was at her house just the same as he would mind me.

One day she told him to do something that he didn't want to do but he happened to remember what I had told him, so he said rather grandiloquently: "Well, grandma, you isn't my real bosser but I'll do what you says 'cause you'se my relation."

J. R.

Bobby had been trained to say "Excuse me" when leaving the table.

One day while he was eating with his aunt, she left the table without saying "Excuse me."

Bobby noticed it and politely said, "'Scuse you." R. J.

Donald was invited to lunch upon his fourth birthday with his playmate next door, and was reminded by his mother of the small points of etiquette which she wished him to observe.

Upon his return home she asked him if he remembered to say "Please" and "No, thank you."

"I said 'Please,'" he said, "but I didn't say 'No, thank you,' because I took everything they passed me."

Grace and Helen were playing bounce on the sidewalk, using tennis ball and racquets. Most of the time they were looking for the ball, seemingly unable to bat it straight.

Paul joined them and asked if there was room for him to play also, and Helen answered: "Sure is; we need another. You can be our caddy."

Mary Lou had been naughty and was punished.

She began to wail loudly, whereupon her mother said, sternly, "Mary Lou, stop that at once. You can't cry around here, I won't have it!"

The little girl quickly dried her eyes, but a moment later, she started toward the door.

"Doodby, mamma," she said, whimsically, "I'a goin' over to gramma's to cry." E. C. B.

Harry was told to watch the baby, who was peacefully sleeping in her crib. When his mother returned from the store she found him yelling and dancing around like a wild Indian, while the baby was screaming lustily. "I watched her as long as she slept," he explained, "when she unslept I amused her." L. E. C.

Aline's birthday came in May when a certain rose bush in the yard was in bloom. One day a woman called and noticed the intense expression of the child, asked, "Aline, how are you?" She answered in a sweet voice, "I am 5 now, but I'll be six when the roses come again." S. V. D.

Dorothy had learned a new piece to speak and was reciting it to some friends who had called one evening. She had gotten about half through when the words refused to come, and she remarked, "I've dot my piece in my memory, but my tongue can't reach it now." A. C.

One afternoon our little dog, Teddy, seized a caller's hat and was mauling it unmercifully. When my brother discovered this he lifted the puppy out of the room with his foot, not very gently. Little Melba exclaimed, "O, Uncle Abe, don't hurt Teddy, he has feelin's if he hasn't any manners."

A. H.

I was putting Junior to bed one night when his mother was gone. In spite of diligent search I failed to find his pajamas, and, in desperation, decided to put one of his sister's nightgowns on him.

Junior strenuously objected, and finally, intears, wailed, "Gee, dad, do you think I wants to wake up a—a—a girl!" D. B.

Mary and Junior were playing house one rainy day and the toys were scattered all over the room.

Mother came in and said, "Now, children, it is time to straighten up and put your toys away."

Junior looked at the disordered room and said, "Well, I'm the daddy. I've got to go to town." J. H.

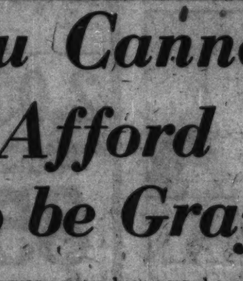
You Cannot Afford To be Gray



THIS is the Day of Youth. No matter how many years have passed over your head, you must present to the world the Appearance of Youth. There are no old women these days. Women do not accept age even at 50. And every modern mind grants this woman's privilege and lauds her for bravery withstanding the onslaught of time. Not only is it woman's right—it is her duty to be charmingly youthful.

PRESENT day styles of hair dressing make no allowances for Gray Hair. The "shingle," the "bob," the masculine pompadour, the chic coiffure of closely arranged hair, call for the greatest care.

Such arrangement accents gray, faded streaked or unevenly colored hair. The tiniest thread of silver forces itself to attention. A faded strand or streak clamors for prominence. Surely you cannot afford to be gray if you bob or shingle. It is so easy to keep short hair presentably tinted. A small portion of Brownatone brushed through the shorn locks and presto! Gray hair is gone! In its place is glossy, natural, youthful hair, the crowning glory restored to its rightful beauty. Especially trying to the new masculine pompadour is the slightest touch of gray. When the hair is combed tightly and smoothly from the face gray strands are especially noticeable. A touch of Brownatone and the pompadour is perfect. Why hazard your charm when assured beauty is so easily had?

Social leaders, and the most famous women of the stage, long since recognized the imperative need for hair tinting. Gray hair is unknown to the theatres' brilliant lights. To suffer it would be to meet half way the closing of a professional career.

As modes change and more extreme styles of head dress come in, the necessity for tinting hair becomes more and more apparent. For example, the style of shingling, parting in the middle back and combing forward, affords no opportunity of concealing unsightly hair.

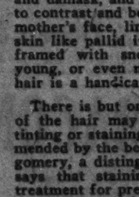
Gray Hair Ages Most Women

VERY few women have the facial endowment to compete with graying hair. It requires an unusually young and piquant face, a skin like old rose and damask, and the coloring of an infant to contrast and beautify gray hair. Grandmother's face, lined and seamed with age, skin like pallid ivory, is most becomingly framed with snowy hair. But for the young, or even middle aged woman, gray hair is a handicap.

There is but one method by which color of the hair may be restored and that is tinting or staining. This method is recommended by the best authorities. Dr. Montgomery, a distinguished authority on hair, says that staining is the only practical treatment for premature gray hair. "Duhring's Diseases of the Skin" says that staining may be resorted to. Thomas Cattell, M. D., M. R., C. C. E., not only permits staining, but advises it in a thoroughly professional way.

THE manufacturers of Brownatone now feel a duty to women to tell in plain words just how hair may be safely tinted to natural shades. The color cannot be "restored" to hair, naturally, because of its physical construction. A hair is a hollow, shaft-like structure, surrounded by a cortex, or wall, of laminated cells. The natural coloring, called "pigment," is contained in the hollow, or core. Gray hair is caused by the absence of pigment. When the coloring disappears, the hair blanches or turns gray. Pigment cannot be replaced—it never returns.

Brownatone permeates the hair entirely, from center to surface. Some dyes cause a brittle condition with a resultant splitting or breaking off. Other dyes coat the outer surface only, as an article is varnished or painted, while still others stain the hair by imparting to the outer cells a false coloring. Brownatone penetrates the hair gently and thoroughly, leaving the hair texture in a natural, healthy condition.



Brownatone imparts natural shades as desired—golden, blonde, or varying shades of brown or black. (You cannot, with any preparation, tint dark hair to a lighter shade without first bleaching the hair.) Brownatone acts quickly—no waiting for results; it is easy to use, and is only necessary to apply as new hair grows in. The color imparted is not affected by shampoo or bath. It will not rub off. Positively the most pleasing and satisfactory hair tint ever offered.

Be Certain to use a Guaranteed Harmless Tint

BROWNATONE is safe and sure—it is the best known, most used hair tint in the United States and Canada. Millions of bottles have been sold with uniformly satisfactory results. The manufacturer has a long and honorable business record. The guarantee is unequivocal. You are assured that Brownatone contains no sulphur, silver, mercury, zinc or peroxide; aniline, coal tar products, or their derivatives; neither does it contain lead or paraphenylenediamine (deadly poisons). Products containing these last named ingredients are prohibited from sale in New York City. Brownatone has passed the most rigid tests, made by some of the world's best chemists. You need have no hesitancy in using this reliable preparation.

EDUCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL

Columbia School of Music

Evening Classes Open Monday, Oct. 6th

(Accredited)

Day School Now in Session

The Evening School is conducted to meet the needs of students, teachers and players who are unable to attend the regular Day School and who wish to take advantage of all the facilities of this great institution of musical learning. Work is offered in all departments.

Music students of all grades and ages find in the Evening School a splendid opportunity for study, and beginners as well as artist players and teachers have the advantages of a course planned to meet their individual requirements under the direction of the regular members of the faculty.

The Faculty

The instruction in the evening school is the same in every respect as offered during day school and the same members of the faculty are in attendance.

Credits

Credits earned during the Evening School may be applied on the courses offered in the regular curriculum leading to a certificate, diploma or a degree.

Promotional Credits

The Board of Education, City of Chicago, gives Promotional Credits for work in all departments of the school.

Special Supervisors' Course
Public School Music

EVENING CLASS

Columbia School of Music offers a two-year course in Public School Music Methods upon the completion of which the student is awarded a Supervisors' Certificate which is fully accredited by State Boards of Education.

This Supervisors' Certificate permits the acceptance of a Supervisor's position.

An additional two years of study is offered leading to a Diploma in the third year and a Degree Bachelor of School Music in the fourth year which equips students for the highest positions available.

Transfer students from other schools and those applying for advanced standing will be furnished full information by correspondence.

GOOD MORNING!

Somebody discovered the South Sea islands. Robert Louis Stevenson did a lot of boasting about them. The movies have been endeavoring to prove for the last 'steen years that ANYTHING can happen on 'em. So we're pretty used to 'em now, but——

BEBE DANIELS, starred in a highly improbable South Sea film.

It's a little bit hard to have pictures such as "Sinners in Heaven" thrust on you without an "HONEST WE'RE ONLY KIDDING" label attached! All the time the film's unreeling, you see, you feel sort of on the "inside."

"Dream—or fractured skull, and they'll wake up on the surgeon's table—or something of the kind," you confide to yourself, and congratulating yourself on how bright you are—you laugh murrily over various incidents.

Then—THUD! Perfectly serious ending. Everybody's really been on the job! (Such an awakening for a true believer!)

The story is from a novel by Clive Arden. This are it:

A demure damsel who has spent an uneventful life in a small English country seat feels the urge to "live" just once before she settles down to matrimony with her devoted country swain.

The "one free spirit" of the village—a woman of mature years and advanced Mesa, ready to try anything once—has promised to chaperon her on an airplane trip to—the Bermudas—or some place—in some cause or other.

Ah! A Handsome Youth!

Of course, all the conservative scum of the place say "O, my!" and the dozen other things that mean O, my. But the swain, thinking that this little trip will cure his adored of her wanderlust, is willing. Perhaps he realizes he might just as well be willing, for once a girl like Barbara sets out to do something it's usually done.

Piloting the adventurers is a handsome youth who is known to Barbara slightly. He has at one time nearly run over her and been impolite over the incident.

"Why don't you do your dreaming at night?" he's asked without even raising his cap, as he inspected the flustered maiden who had been occupying the middle of the road just where it turns.

Later she sees him at a tea. She gets her innings by

MAKES FIANCEE HIS BUSINESS PARTNER

By Grace Kingsley.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—Larry Semon's fiancee and leading lady is also his business partner, it became known the other evening at a supper party given by the comedian at the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove in honor of Dorothy Dwan. Larry gave Dorothy a large block of stock in his organization as a betrothal gift, along with some rare jewels. Proving that Larry is a sensible young lover even if he is head over heels, and even though each course of the betrothal supper was sweetened by a kiss bestowed by Larry on his fiancee—a proceeding which he fondly imagined was sub rosa.

DOROTHY DWAN given block of stock as betrothal gift.

Miss Dwan looked lovely in a white chiffon dress with hair done high and marcelled. The dress was short, revealing sheer stockings and jeweled slippers.

Present also was Dorothy's mamma, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, widow of the late Lieut. Col. George Smith, an aviator in the world war, who was killed in action. Mrs. Smith is young looking herself. Clad in a modish pale gray evening gown with her black hair bobbed and curled, she looked 27 or 28. In fact, she completely fooled Betty Blythe, passing by, who was present at the Cocoanut Grove with another party.

Larry was sitting at the table before his guests were served, holding the hand of his sweetheart on one side and that of his going-to-be mother-in-law on the other. Betty, passing by, laughingly called out to Larry:

"Well, I don't see how you get away with holding two girls' hands at the same time." Then she was introduced and made a blushing apology.

Max Fisher's orchestra came over to the table and played: "It's Had to Be You."

The menus were amusing. At the head was the remark: "Eat, Drink, and Be Merry—It Won't Be Your Wedding."

Duty Sends Him to the South Seas.

Meetings and partings—that seems to be the fate of the lovely Claire Windsor and the gallant Bert Lytell. Now Bert has gone away off to Tahiti to play in a picture, and the mean old Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer people wouldn't let Claire off to accompany the expedition.

Claire accompanied Bert to San Francisco to see him off on the boat, however, and though her eyes may have been red from weeping she was as niftily gowned as ever. She wore a white and yellow broadcloth sport suit in straight lines with a small white and golden turban with veil. A farewell party at which Anita Stewart, the star, and other members of the company were present was given the night before the boat sailed, up in the northern city. Anita promised Claire faithfully that she wouldn't try to vamp Bert over there 'neath the silvery southern moon, and in return Claire promised in case she went back to New York, not to vamp a certain gentleman back there in whom Anita admitted to me she is much interested.

Heaven bless the radio! Bert has already wafted his undying love to Claire through the empyrean three times, and darn the expense. She has sent him a radio message once.

"But if ever there was a case in which silence was golden," sighed Claire, "it is when it comes to sending radio messages."

Contrary to report, Claire says she and Bert will not be

Civic Music League Thanks Mr. Stock

By Edward Moore.

"THE Civic orchestra of Chicago," says Superintendent Herbert E. Hyde in his annual report of the Civic Music association, "is a living tribute to the vision, enthusiasm and unselfish devotion of Mr. Frederick Stock to the ideal of making Chicago the center of the country's musical life." This is one of the comments on what has undoubtedly been the most spectacular and interesting outgrowth of the association's eleven years of existence.

By the way, or rather, first and foremost, when you are considering the activities of the Civic Music association, do not connect it in your mind with the Civic Opera company. Outside of the fact that both operate in Chicago, the two have not much in common. One of the most pronounced points of divergence is that the Civic Music association gets through a season on an astonishingly small income.

In another part of his report Mr. Hyde points out that the association's income for the year ending April 30, 1924, was exactly $28,446.01. Of this amount $18,569 was contributed by 752 members, in sums ranging from $2 to $1,000, the balance coming from concert receipts and miscellaneous items, the latter of less than $1,000. With this amount, much was done for the city's musical good, with a surplus for the year, I hasten to add, of exactly $1,358.46.

Here are some of the association's activities. Twenty-two concerts were given by local choruses at their neighborhood centers, plus two Christmas carol programs, a pageant at the Art institute, and the annual spring festival at Orchestra hall. Twenty-two artist's concerts were given at Sherman, Hamilton, Palmer and Ogden parks and at Cornell square. A children's chorus was organized last summer at the Municipal pier in cooperation with the city. Beginning with this season the children's classes in the south park system will be scored as a regular park activity and will receive the same support as the gymnasium and playground work. The Municipal pier was the scene of community singing during the Sunday nights of July and August under the direction of Frederick W. Carberry. With the exception of the first night, there was standing room only—and the pier auditorium seats 5,000 people.

Its Role in Music Life.

The Civic Music league came into being during the year. This is an organization of delegates to the association appointed by the clubs of Chicago and its suburbs, with financial aid which has been assigned to the scholarship fund of the Civic orchestra. There is a special chorus of the Presbyterian hospital nursing school; an orchestra was organized at the Park Ridge school for girls, and a band at the Boys' Brotherhood republic. As a perhaps minor but certainly interesting activity, 207 tickets to the opera were donated to deserving music students as a gift from the Friends of Opera and various subscribers.

Finally there is that unusual organization, the Civic orchestra. It began five years ago with the idea of training young instrumental players in the routine of symphony orchestra music, and during this time it has been consci-

MR. SHERMAN NAMES HIS SEVEREST CRITIC

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Lowell Sherman, having achieved stardom, and having been somewhat nightlingly spoken of by certain of his New York critics in their reviews of a new Willard Mack melodrama called "High Stakes," has acted very like a star in attempting to explain to his applauding audiences each even why it is he does not like those writers who do not like him. He did not mention any of them by name, but he did refer a bit pointedly to one described as "a little, round person."

LOWELL SHERMAN. Good as the alcoholic of "High Stakes." [Abbe Photo.]

It happens that both Percy Hammond, who writes of the drama for the Tribune-Herald, and Alexander Woollcott, who performs similarly for the Evening Sun, are round, though neither is little. Certainly not Mr. Hammond. Heywood Broun, the World correspondent, is also noticeably circular, though less so than formerly, having lately made progress in his pursuit of a straight front and a more human, or Woolworthian, figure than he formerly boasted.

Accusing each other of being the object of the Sherman attack, the critics finally drove Mr. Sherman to cover. He was forced to name one, and did so, with gusto.

It was Mr. Woollcott who had aroused his ire, he said.

So much he was willing to broadcast as far as the ether stretches.

Full of Tricks.

"High Stakes" is typical of Willard Mack, being a classy melodrama full of tricks. He is a skillful builder of plots, and his natural passion is for the dramatic surprise and the sudden unmasking of the least suspected of his characters.

In this new play he has taken the case of an elderly capitalist, widowered and lonesome, who marries a girl young enough to be his granddaughter to brighten his declining years. His alibi is that he is still physically sound and in his right mind and he wants a son.

His younger brother, however, he being an engaging alcoholic who writes plays, suspects the girl of being a mercenary little baggage. Which, as it transpires, she is. And brazen, too. Not only does she inveigle her "daddy" into marrying her, but she introduces her lover into the home as well.

Then brother unmasks the pair of them and sends them where all stage evildoers go. For himself he asks nothing, but there is an intimation that he will later seek the hand of his brother's stenographer. These two, incidentally, have as unconventional a love scene as has been played hereabouts for some time.

He loves her, he admits. But, knowing life and having been rather a free sower of wild oats, he would never feel justified in asking a so-called good woman to marry him. Not for the familiar reason that he feels unworthy, but because he knows women. He never would feel safe, says he, with a woman whose intimate knowledge of men and marriage was confined to her acquaintance with him, and who would come to him boasting her virginal innocence. He would never know what weaknesses of character marriage might develop in her.

Whereupon the stenographer, weeping gently, confesses

This and That of Actors and Plays

By Frederick Donaghey.

"SEVENTH HEAVEN" is one of those plays that given a good push, runs along on the momentum thereof until what is known in meteorology and big business as the point of saturation is attained. Also, it classifies as among those whose success baffles you while at the same time you do not see how they can fail. . . .

It is like one of the gaudy compounds with which Mr. Belasco now-and-again comes forward, bestowing it on this or that of his stars, and getting away with it, thanks to his understanding that true hokum is deathless, that there are just so many basic situations for drama, and that the tear-and-smile formula, carefully looked after in the laboratory, is the staple tonic, pick-up, stimulant, narcotic, and sedative of ten in every nine playgoers. . . .

JOHANNA GADSKI She bill-tops this week in the Palace

This one is not so expertly mixed and blended as the average nostrum from Mr. Belasco's pharmacopoeia; but it is at least as effective with the public as the best of his which comes to mind. He has put his name to nothing more exciting than that piled-up climax of the second act, with its hits from twenty plays that race in and out of the memory. I know of nothing in the theater that repays with more of tingle and delight than watching an audience rise to this act-end, wherein the diffuse "plants" of Act I are collected and hurled across the footlights with so much of genuine theatrical "punch."

Odds-and-Ends in "Seventh Heaven."

Austin Strong's story, of itself, is rather rich in imagination and a sense of real if inelegant romance; but I doubt if it would have been vendible in the theater in any other treatment save that to which it has been subjected in the making of a play obviously a stage-manager's rather than a writer's. . . . And, after all, this is a far more palatable preparation of what is known in the business now as the faith-idea than things like "The Fool," "For All of Us," and "The Sign of the Cross." Here is a nice, casual little fairy-play with a background of what Mr. Belasco, himself, long ago taught us to call realism, meaning that the settings carried a measure of illusion with respect to what they were meant to represent. . . . Too, giving Paris as the locale of the story is an adroit stage-touch: the idea could not survive the test of a New-York or Chicago or London locale. And it is such a back-stage, actory sort of Paris, with a cul-de-sac called a fool-de-sack, and a street a roo or a boulevard, and an occasional soliloquy fired straight at the audience. . . .

Then, if you're fond of that sort of thing, "Seventh Heaven" is a delightful temptation to pull the play to pieces and to try to fit the pieces back into the plays from which you think they were taken. . . . Thus, Diane, the heroine, can easily be fancied as both girls of the title in "The Two Orphans," with the wicked sister as the awful Madame Frochard, and Chico as both the devoted Pierre and the gallant Chevalier. Or Chico is Claude Melnotte, rushing off from Pauline to join the troops passing the house as in the second-act finish of Tom Robertson's "Ours"; or he is a blend of Dumas' D'Artagnan and Hugo's Man Who Laughs; and Diane is Kitty, most of the Gaiety girls, Gaiety Girl, and Sweet Nell of Old Drury, all in one. . . .

THE OUTLINE OF SCIENCE

EDITED BY Professor J. ARTHUR THOMSON

A PLAIN STORY SIMPLY TOLD . . . . . XL.—THE ORGANS OF SENSE

At the back of the head is the cerebellum, or "small brain," the chief center for coördinating the movements of the muscles so as to produce harmonious action. If it has been injured in a bird or a dog, the animal can no longer stand up or maintain a balance of movement. All day long the cerebellum must be receiving countless messages from all parts of the body and directing our 300 muscles to coöperate. It is entirely automatic, yet no central telegraph station in the world is so busy or so accurate. It also in some way maintains the tone of the muscles.

Below the cerebellum is the medulla, which, as we saw, is the organ for controlling the muscles of the chest that cause breathing. It has, however, much more work to do than this. It has some control of the heart and blood vessels, and it influences movement in the alimentary canal from the salivary glands to the small intestine. We must remember that these hind parts of the brain are the oldest. The cortex—the nervous matter connected with mental life—is a later acquisition.

And the oldest part of all is the long cord of nerve cells which is inclosed in the spinal column. Along this are the various centers for working automatically the great muscles of the trunk and limbs and abdomen. Pairs of nerves leave it at intervals, and all day long these are receiving messages and issuing orders. It has an extraordinary power of automatic learning. Watch the baby learning to adjust its muscular actions to its desires or feelings, or a girl learning tennis or typing. In a short time the machinery will react promptly and perfectly to the stimulus. It is through the spinal cord that the brain can influence movements which are usually automatic.

We cannot discuss here how far the bodily features may serve as indices of mental character, whether the face, the eyes, the shape of the head or the hands—an interesting chapter on the subject will be found in Sir Arthur Keith's little book, "The Human Body." There is no correspondence, he tells us, between the functions of the various parts of the brain, so far as we yet know them, and the overlying parts of the head to which phrenologists have assigned definite functions. Some day we may be able to add to our knowledge of a man's character derived from observation of the expression of his face, his words and actions. "The day may come when by looking at the brain, or even at the skull which incloses it, we shall be able to tell the capabilities of a child or a man, but we have not yet reached that point." Neither is it true that the lines of the palm of the hand can be "read" as guides to the future: palmistry is childish make-believe.

The Organs of Sense.

ANOTHER section of this work tells how our wonderful sense organs were slowly evolved, and it is enough here to observe that they began as simple sensitive patches in the skin which, in the course of millions of years, have grown into elaborate organs. They are the sentinels of the commonwealth of cells. For ages theirs was the vital function of locating food and announcing danger. Now, in man, they are the chief channels of those glimpses of nature which the mind unites in the marvelous structure of modern science.

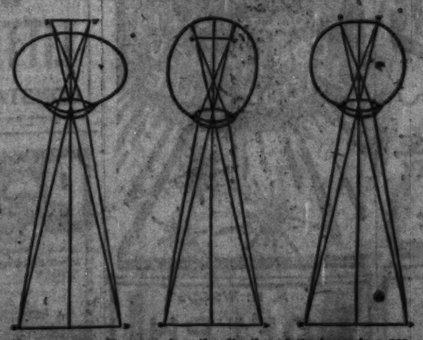
The skin, to begin with, is crowded with little organs of sense. Nerves from the great centers branch out in every direction, and the fine twigs at last end in sensitive bulbs underneath the skin. The most numerous of these are for the purpose of announcing "pain." We speak of pain as something in the body machine which we could very well spare, but a little reflection will soon tell us that it is a most benevolent institution. It announces some danger which, if it were not thus indicated by the ringing of the bell in the brain, would not be noticed, and might become fatal. Other little bulbs, especially numerous on the palm side of the fingers, minister to the sense of touch. Others feel cold, and a different set experience heat. By careful testing, the reader can find for himself that these sensations are localized in different areas on his skin. There are other nerve endings again for the sense of pressure.

Other sensitive bulbs which line part of the mouth are the receiving organs for the sense of taste. Little oval bodies stand up like a close regiment of diminutive soldiers on the upper surface of the tongue. Each of the internal cells of these "taste buds" ends in a hairlike process, and these processes touch the nerves which convey their particular stimulation to the brain. Probably different flavors are perceived by different nerves. The tip of the tongue is richer in the little bulbs that appreciate sweet things, while the back part is richer in the means of recognizing bitterness.

Substances must be in a liquid form to announce themselves to taste. For the sense of smell, on the other hand, they have to be broken up into very fine particles like a gas.

REPRESENTATION OF A VERTICAL CUT THROUGH THE EYEBALL IN ITS SOCKET.

In the figure muscles (F, G, N) of the eyeball are shown. A is the cornea; it closes the front of the anterior chamber (B), which is filled with aqueous humor and the back wall of which is formed by the curtain of the iris (D). In the middle of the back wall is the opening of the pupil (C), through which is seen the lens (E). Behind the lens is the posterior chamber (L), filled with vitreous humor. Entering the eye from behind is the optic nerve (M), which is distributed to the retina (K). The posterior wall of the eye shows from within outward the image-forming retina, the dark choroid with blood vessels (J), and the firm protective sclerotia (H).



These three diagrams show the circuitus of the image in a normal eye, in the myopic or short-sighted eye, and in the hypermetropic or long-sighted eye. In the normal eye the image a b is clearly gathered on the retina at the back. In the short-sighted eye the eyeball is too long and consequently the retina—or receptive tissue—is behind the clear image. In the long-sighted eye the eyeball is too short and consequently the clear image is beyond or behind the retina.

Nerves from the olfactory centers in the brain branch out in the membrane which lines the upper part of the nasal cavities, and this membrane includes numerous sensory nerve cells which act as sentinels against dangers which announce themselves in the air. An odorous body is one which gives off minute particles of its matter into the air. The sense of smell was once of the gravest importance in the animal economy, and even in men it is so highly developed that they can detect a speck of musk diluted in eight million times as much air. A very strong offensive substance like mercaptan can be "sensed" even if there is only one grain to twenty-five trillion times as much air. In man, however, the sense of smell is degenerating, and many individuals have it very feebly.

The Sense of Vision.

MOST important of all the senses is that of vision, for nearly all the ideas of things in the mind of an ordinary person are visual images. The essential part of the mechanism of this sense is the eyeball and the nerve which goes from this to the sight center in the brain. The eye is a camera of a most remarkable description. It is a roundish ball made of dense and strong fibrous tissue, opaque for five-sixths of its surface, but transparent in the one-sixth which bulges out in front, as the cornea. To the interior of the cornea, separated from it by a watery fluid, there is a delicate curtain which hangs over the transparent "window" in front and forms the variously colored iris.

This curtain is a wonderful arrangement for adapting the eye to the intensity of light which falls on it. Fibers of muscles are so ingeniously distributed in it that it can almost close the opening in a strong light, or open it wide when the light is fainter. The "iris diaphragm" with which the photographer regulates the entrance of light into his camera is merely a poor imitation of it. Moreover, it contains pigment cells, which may be crowded when the light is strong or fewer in number when the eye wants as much light as possible. So we get the black eyes (eyes rich in pigment, to mitigate the light) of the southerner, the blue eyes (with little pigment) of the dweller in the darker northern lands, and every intermediate shade and combination of them.

Behind the circular window, the pupil, is the crystalline lens, which, unlike any lens that man can make, can be altered by fine muscles so as to focus itself for any distance. Other muscles and tendons are attached to the outside of the eyeball, and they automatically turn it in the direction we want. Some men of science have found many defects in the eye, and there are defects; but when one thinks of the unconscious agencies that have built up this wonderful camera, and work it automatically every moment of our waking lives, one is not disposed to cavil.

But the most wonderful part of it is the "sensitive plate" at the back of the eyeball. A semi-transparent membrane, which we call the retina, lines three-fourths of the interior of the eyeball (which is filled with fluid), and it is particularly developed at one spot, the real seat of distinct vision. On this "yellow spot" in each eye the rays of light form an inverted image of the object at which we are looking. The stereoscope enables us to understand how the images of the two eyes are blended, and how they enable us to see nature more perfectly.

Vision, as might be expected, is still very imperfectly understood. The retina is a very complex layer of delicate nerve cells in which certain parts that are known as "rods" and "cones" seem to be the essential elements. There seems to be chemical action, though whether there are three distinct chemicals for the three primary colors, or one chemical that breaks into separate colors, or what happens, we do not know. It is generally suspected that color vision is connected with one or more fine chemicals which may be lacking in "color blind" people. However that may be, the nerve layer closes up at the back of the eye and, as the optic nerve, conveys the images of things in some way to the conscious center. What precisely travels along the nerve we cannot say, but to imagine that an image or picture is conveyed is to imitate children who think that words travel along a telegraph wire.

The Sense of Hearing.

THE organ of hearing is not less remarkable than the eye. We have already seen that the external ear is, to use the cautious words of Prof. Starling, probably of no use whatever. In cases where it has been cut off the sense of hearing was not affected at all. But it was useful and mobile in an earlier ancestor of man. From it, in any case, a narrow channel about an inch long, protected against adventurous insects by wax secreted by its glands, conducts the waves of sound to the real ear.

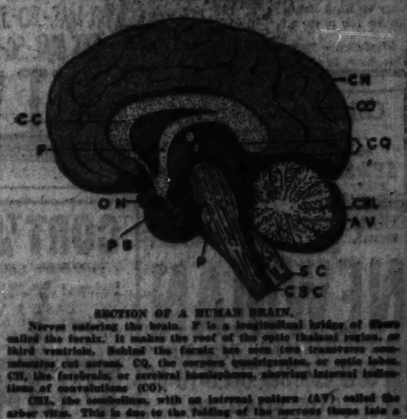
DIAGRAM OF THE HUMAN EAR. (After Howe and Wever.)

A, the outer ear passage; B, the middle ear; C, the bone (partially) inclosing the inner ear.

1. The ear flattened or plane, practically dead in man and unimportant. In many animals it helps to locate the sound. 2. The "window" or membrane with the drum or tympanum (3) connecting it to bone 4. The drum vibrates when sound waves strike it. 5, 6, 7. The ear ossicles, hammer (malleus), anvil (incus), and stirrup (stapes), which in their movements transmit the vibrations from the drum to the inner ear. The "window" in the bony wall of the inner ear on which it abuts is called the fenestra ovalis. 7. The Eustachian tube, leading down the back of the throat, by which air can enter indirectly into the middle ear. 8. The bony chamber of the inner ear, called the cochlea, the essential ear of hearing. (10), symbolizing the organs of Corti. These are also shown in the subsequent figure (12). 11. Another "window" in the cochlea, the fenestra rotunda. The duct entered cochlea is called the perilymph space. It contains a fluid called perilymph; it is separated from the internal cavity of the ear by a membrane which vibrates when the drum is struck. The dotted lines in back.

The sense of hearing is still less understood than that of vision. Its organ is a most ingenious construction. This membrane must not have a period of vibration of its own. It must respond readily and immediately to every sort of wave that impinges on it. It is, therefore, so constructed that each part of it has a different period of vibration, and it is further "damped" by a little bone pressing against it on the other side. The pressure of air on the outside of the drum, which must alter with changes of pressure outside, is regulated by a channel (the Eustachian tube) running to it from the roof of the mouth.

Three little bones (the hammer, anvil, and stirrup) convey the vibrations of the drum to another drum, which is stretched across the entrance to the real ear inside the skull. As the waves of sound impinge on the tympanum and set it vibrating the three little bones work together and repeat the vibrations on the second drum, the "oval window." Beyond this is a coiled shell which contains the real organ of hearing—a large number of hair cells (the "organs of Corti") interlacing with the fine fibers of the auditory nerve. The vibration of the "oval window" agitates the fluid inside this organ, and the hair cells communicate this movement to the nerves, which then convey it to the brain. Once more we have a mechanism full of ingenuity in every part, and brief descriptions of this kind are almost unjust to the various organs of our body; but today we should require a large volume to give an account of our knowledge of the brain and sense organs alone. We have referred to the three small bones of the ear by which the waves of sound are conveyed to the inner ear. The history of these bones is strange. The hammer was at an early stage of the evolution of mammals a part of the lower jaw; the anvil was the bone on the base of the skull, with which it articulated. When mastication and molar teeth were evolved in the ancestry of mammals a new joint was formed in the lower jaw, and these two bones—the hammer and anvil—were taken into the service of the ear."



SECTION OF A HUMAN BRAIN.

Nerves entering the brain. F is a longitudinal bridge of fibers called the fornix. It makes the roof of the optic thalamus region, or third ventricle. Behind the fornix here can be seen transverse commissure cut across, CQ, the corpora quadrigemina, or optic lobes. CH, the forebrain, or cerebral hemisphere, showing internal indentations of convolutions (CO).

CBL, the cerebellum, with an internal pattern (AV) called the arbor vitæ. This is due to the folding of the nervous tissue into a number of lamellæ, which give off secondary plates.

M, the spinal cord. CBC, the cerebro-spinal canal continued down the center of the spinal cord.

P, the pons Varolii, a bridge forming a sort of transverse fiber to the cerebellum. Behind P is the "bulb," or medulla oblongata.

PG, the pituitary body, a nervous and glandular body growing down from the floor of the optic thalami region, or third ventricle.

ON, the optic nerve.

This and That of Actors and Plays

By Frederick Donaghey.

ing Barrie's), and at least one of De Maupassant's short-story heroines.

As to Miss Menken, she is all there is of the rôle, and a bit more,—meaning that she is more logical in the part than is the part, itself. I don't know any other actress who could play this especial rôle with the virtuosity she puts into the chore; and this has nothing to do with how she might play another and a different rôle. (My recollection as to just how she was in another piece, "Three Wise Fools," is not sharp.)

Mr. Golden Chats a Bit.

Mr. Golden, who came to Chicago to rehearse the faux-pas that served as his excuse for an opening-night address to the audience after Miss Menken's big scene, talks entertainly of his plan to have the drama-critics of the country's newspapers serve as his play-readers. . . . "The idea was given to me," he tells me, "and struck me as capital. . . . There really is no sound reason for supposing that a drama-critic does not know as much about a play as anybody else." . . .

Then, speaking of the monetary rewards he has arranged for successful picking, he explained: "The critic who selects a play which I produce gets ten percent of the profits. Now, if the play earns a million dollars,—and many of my plays have earned that much, and more,—the critic will get one hundred thousand dollars. Or, even if the plays earns but a hundred thousand dollars, he will still get ten thousand." . . . He is unable to comprehend, he adds, why Mr. Collins, of the Evening Post, and I should have resigned from the committee of 191 critics which he appointed to receive, read, and recommend plays to him. "So many of the New-York critics, including Mr. Haywood Broun, regard the plan with warm approval!" Mr. Golden admonished me. . . . Well, I'm not fond of travel; but I shall gladly rush to New-York for the première of any play produced by Mr. Golden from a manuscript passed upon and recommended by any New-York drama-critic, especially if the drama-critic be Mr. Haywood Broun.

And, having received letters of inquiry on sending manuscripts to me for reading, I repeat that I am not a member of Mr. Golden's committee of critics, that plays are not to be sent to me in his behalf, and that it is no part of a play-reviewer's business to pass upon the unacted drama of a nation wherein, the statisticians say, ninety-one percent of the adult population includes playwriting among its pastimes, its industries, or its de-sentias. . . . The man to read and revise plays for Mr. Golden is the man who fabricated "Seventh Heaven" into what it is today: he knows what's what at the box-office.

One Thing and Another.

Miss Margalo Gillmore, remembered in Chicago from "The Famous Mrs. Fair"; Kenneth MacKenna, who has been an agreeable juvenile in two or three plays, including "We Moderns," last season; Miss Lucille Watson, here a year ago in "You and I"; and José Alessandro, as yet unknown in this neighborhood, are to be in Arthur Richman's "The Far Cry," due next week in New-York.

Miss May Vokes is to have in "Annabelle" the rôle she acted when the original version was done here in the Cort as "Good Gracious, Annabelle!" . . . Two former members of the cast of "No! No, Nanette!" will be with Miss Billie Burke in the new version: Miss Phyllis Cleveland, the pretty girl who preceded Miss Louise Groody, and Miss Mary Lawton, whose dancing was a high feature of the performances for a time.

Miss Claire Eames, also unknown out this way, is to have the principal rôle in Ernst Vajda's "The Little Angel." . . . When this play is made known there, New-York will have three plays by that Hungarian. . . . A fourth, "The Harem," is in Mr. Belasco's possession; and Avery Hopwood is making the adaptation.

James K. Hackett, who has been all mixed up with the French stage for some years, is sailing for Paris to see about the coming of Firmin Gémier, director of the Odéon, and some members of his company. . . . Mr. Hackett, who paid for the privilege of acting in Paris, has managed to induce the United States Government to put some sort of an official stamp on the coming of Gémier.

Fifty-two of New-York's sixty-odd "legitimate" theaters are in operation this week. . . . So far, few of the new plays there are regarded as successful. The hits to-date are confined to the two reported last week—"What Price Glory!" and the operetta called "Rose-Marie."

"Rain," put on in New-York with a view of filling in the month of September only, is said to be as successful as when the original run was at its height; and it is to be continued there indefinitely. . . . The arrangement fits in nicely with the continued success of "No! No, Nanette!" in Chicago; for "Rain" is counted upon for the Harris Theater.

Miss Georgia Lee Hall is the actress of Miss Jeanne Eagels' part of Sadie Thompson in a second cast of "Rain." . . . Miss Hall is not among the celebrities; but the Buffalo newspapers say that she is something like great in the part.

"High-Tide" is the name of a serious play by Mrs. Eleanor Thomas Hinckley. . . . The authors of a new piece with tunes think that "Miss Sin-Co-Pation" is a great little title; and it isn't.

Corse Payton, who rejoiced for years in being described as the "world's best bad actor," is going into the two-a-day with a company of eight to perform forty-five-minute versions of stock-company stand-bys.

THE MAN FROM BALTIMORE writes:

Radio Station WEBH, Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, Ill.

Just a word of appreciation of your splendid broadcasting last night. The principal came in wonderfully clear.

When I tell you that Miss Groody is my favorite musical comedy star, you will understand that my enjoyment of the program was complete. The other fine artists, Miss Ring, Mr. Winninger, Mr. Granville Miss D'Ramey, Mr. Barker the Male Octette and the ensemble—all demand my sincere applause.

Mr. Sherman Names His Severest Critic

By Burns Mantle.

that, never having hoped to meet such nobleness, such intelligence in a man she had long since determined never to marry. She, too, had sown a wild oat or two. And none but such a man of the world as he, experienced, philosophical, gentle, and forgiving, could ever possibly induce her to marry him.

Sherman is suave and interesting as the alcoholic. Wilton Lackaye plays the tricked "daddy" temperately and well. Phoebe Foster is the gold digging young wife, and Sue McManamy the unusual stenographer.

Gasps and Giggles.

John Willard, the actor who wrote "The Cat and the Canary," has fashioned a new play for the public of children grown tall that delights in the thrilling drama. "The Green Beetle" he calls this one. Inspiring both gasps and giggles in quantities, we are inclined to believe it will prove popular. That's the secret of success with this type of drama: Thrill them till they shiver and then shake them till they wilt with laughter. "The Green Beetle" is not quite as good as that. But it has this popular contrast: In the first act Chang-Yung, a noble Manchu running an antique shop in San Francisco's Chinatown, is about to close in on one Chandos, an American who, in his rough and roving days, had attacked and practically ruined Chang's own jasmine flower sweetheart in a garden in old Peking.

Thereafter Chang had sworn to wipe from the face of the earth not only Chandos, the seducer, but all his kin. This day Mr. and Mrs. Chandos, shopping in Chinatown, wander into Chang's shop, and, after he has weakened them somewhat with the droning eloquence of his honorable speech, he drugs the missus with tea and kills Chandos by beating a gong so close to his head his weak heart crumples up. Which provides a gaspy sort of curtain for the first act.

Then the laughs. Twenty years elapses during the intermission and Chang is now after the Chandos daughter, a be-youtiful soubrette of 20, recognized by the green beetle ring she wears. The girl, finding herself in a hotel in Chinatown, pursued by evil eyes and ugly faces, dashes madly through the halls and through the first floor she finds unlocked, which brings her on the stage. She is in her pink silk undies, and there is a bed in the corner. She dashes into the bed and pulls the covers over her head. Never guessing, you may be sure, that in the bathroom there is a young man—a timid man—taking his bath preparatory to putting on his purple pajamas and leaping right into that same bed.

Before that scene was finished, what with the young man doing his comic daily dozen and everything, I feared the folks who were my seat neighbors would fall right down on the floor, so hard did they laugh. And later, after she had explained, and he, being noble, had agreed to help her, cost him what it would, the venomous pursuers climbed up over the sill of the window and threatened to grab her by her virgin throat. Nearly everybody just died at that.

But, surprise you though it may, it all turned out right. Chang was scratched on the hand by a poison fan and died in a fit, as he should. The company is not well known, save for Ian MacLaren, who exhales innocence and eloquence as the Manchu. Lee Patrick is the soubrette and Louis Kimball the boy.

Faversham in Comedy.

William Faversham, loafing around with nothing to do, has interested himself in a comedy from overseas called "The Mask and the Face," the face being the man and the mask the vanity which prompts him to cover certain of his acts. Unless it is mightily improved with more and better playing than it enjoyed the first night, it is not likely to interest him long.

The idea is a good one, however. An excitable Italian, having made the boast that he would kill any wife who deceived him, catches his wife in an assignation and is forced to make good his boast. He tries to strangle her, discovers he has not the heart, and spirits her away to another country. Then he swears to his friends that he has in fact killed his wife and thrown her body in the lake.

He is arrested, kept in jail ten months, and acquitted. Out of jail the community demands that he drag the lake and give his wife a decent funeral. Faking his way through this situation, he fills a casket with a plaster cast, screws down the lid, and lets the neighbors mourn. In the midst of which ceremony the wife returns suddenly and heavily veiled.

If a funeral ever can be funny, this is a funny funeral. The wife thereafter works her way back into the affections of her husband, and routs the other hussies who were trying to win him for themselves.

A weak piece, with Faversham trying to be his old debonnair self and not more than half sure of his lines. Catherine Willard and Ann Winston are in the cast.

Horse Thiefs and Sentiment.

A sentimental drama has wandered in from the west entitled "Thoroughbreds." Out of town it was known as "The Horse Thief." Written by Lewis B. Ely and Sam Forrest, the latter stage director in chief of all the Sam Harris productions, it is not without appeal, and is intended to entertain those same tall children who react to the tricks of the mystery play and like their drama pure and simple.

Here the beautiful young lady lawyer, practicing among the roses in Tuckytown, Ky., suspects at the end of the first act that the messy but gentle old hoss thief she has been asked by the court to defend is blood kin of hers. There always has been a mystery concerning her youth, and certain of the more sniffy neighbors have questioned her social backing.

An act later she discovers the hoss thief to be none other than her own father, who has been stealing hosses for ten or fifteen years so that she may have an education and because he just naturally loves thoroughbreds.

They are all washed up and happy at the play's end. Ann Harding of Texas plays the heroine prettily, and George Marion of "Anna Christie" is properly messed and gentle as the hoss thief.

ENGLISH-SPEAKING STRANGERS

BASIL RATHBONE — MISS JEANETTE SHERWIN

MR. RATHBONE is an Englishman of Transvaal birth who is to take part in the performances of "The Swan," in which he has been acting with Miss Le Gallienne since its American premiere, nearly a year ago. He was in this country with Benson's company twelve seasons ago, and since then has risen to a measure of eminence on the London stage.

Miss Sherwin, too, is from England, and is brought hither by Walter Hampden for important parts in his repertoire. She will be with him next week, in the Great Northern, in "Cyrano de Bergerac," acting Roxanne—a rôle associated in American performances of Rostand's famous comedy with such celebrities as the late Ada Rehan, Miss Margaret Anglin, and Bernhardt.

able to wed for a year, as Bert does not get his interlocutory decree until about the time he returns from the South seas—viz., in about two months.

Leatrice Joy has been holding regular receptions at the Good Samaritan hospital every afternoon lately, with the small heiress of the Jack Gilbert family, Leatrice Joy II., as assistant hostess.

Leatrice says she prayed for a girl and is very, very happy over the event. She looks blooming. The baby's outfit includes some exquisite silken and lacey garments, and Leatrice has some negligees, notably a pink silk and lace one, that would make most women weep with envy.

Jack Gilbert has seen his baby several times, but it seems there is no reconciliation in sight for father and mother. He has brought the baby many gifts including a dainty ring and necklace.

P. S.—Reports that James Kirkwood Jr. and Ittie Leatrice II. are engaged are denied.

Among the Players.

Now that Agnes Ayers and Manuel Reachi have 'fessed up to having been married during the last three months and are going to Europe, the fair Agnes makes no bones of the fact that she entertains a coy hope in her bosom that she and her husband will be presented to King Alfonso. With her husband's political connections, this seems likely.

Alice Terry departed for New York the other day where she will join her husband, Rex Ingram. It is rumored that Rex is still far from being a well man. Alice looked ravishing when she left, in a pretty little gray gown, very plain, to travel in, with a toque to match.

She declared on leaving that the little Arabian boy the pair adopted while in Algiers has been put in school in the east because he was difficult to control at home, all his training and traditions being so different from occidental ways of thought and action.

"But he is a lovable little scamp,' said Miss Terry. "He telephoned me long distance the other night telling me how he was getting on in school, and exclaiming ingratiatingly, 'O, mamma, here's a kiss for you. I love you very much.'"

Just as soon as ever Louis B. Mayer decided to go to Europe, he felt a dinner party coming on. So he gave a nice one at the Ambassador Cocoanut Grove on Monday night. Several stars were present, the feminine ones being unusually beautifully gowned. All the dresses were short. Constance Talmadge alone was simply gowned. She wore a plain white dress with no jewels or other ornaments.

Norma Talmadge was in white georgette with a silver turban and an emb. broidered white Spanish shawl. Renee Adoree wore a sea green georgette with sequins. Aileen Pringle wore a flesh colored Paris gown with crystal bead trimmings. Norma Shearer wore a white silver cloth dress with a white Spanish shawl. Eleanor Boardman was decked out in a gown of white satin showing a thread of silver. Alice Terry looked lovely in the only dark gown present. This dress was of dark blue chiffon trimmed in iridescent spangles. Elinor Glyn was unusually attractive in white georgette with ropes of pearls her only jewels. Maude Fulton wore a silver and orchid chiffon. Mrs. Conrad Nagle wore silver cloth, severely made, with a bright green Spanish shawl.

Mr. Mayer must needs have his little joke, so beside each plate as a souvenir he placed a menu of the ship on which he will travel. Its italicised features were cocktails and sparkling Burgundy. There were no casualties.

Ben Lyon is at home in Hollywood again, following what seems to have been a hectic shelking season in New York, though there are those who say that Ben was more shelked than shelking. He is going about a bit with society girls these days. Maybe they are a rest to him after the rivalry between Barbara La Marr and Gloria Swanson for his young affections.

Ben took the quiet, safe, and discreet little May McAvoy to Montmarte the other night where she looked cool and sweet as a violet in a white dress trimmed with orchid.

NEW PLAYBILLS

What Is Due in the Chicago Theatres as Far Ahead as the Managers Know or Care to Tell About.

OPENING TONIGHT:

"The Magic Ring," with Mitzi, in the Illinois.—A play with music designed for the well-known soubrette by Miss Zelda Sears and Harold Levey, who outfitted her with "Lady Billy," in which she performed for a time in this theater in 1922. . . . Boyd Marshall and Sydney Greenstreet, who were with Mitzi in "Lady Billy," are with her in the new piece,—in which, it is told, she doesn't wear boy's attire; and there are two dancers from Hungary, the Misses Bitter.

TOMORROW NIGHT:

"The Swan," with Miss Eva Le Gallienne, in the Blackstone.—A comedy by Molnar, author of "Liliom" and the piece known in Chicago as "Peter and Paula." This play ran for months last season in New-York, where it has recently been on view again. . . . With Miss Le Gallienne are Basil Rathbone, Reginald Owen, Miss Henrietta Watson, Richie Linz, Miss Alison Skipworth, and Halliwell Hobbes.

NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT:

"Applesauce" in the La Salle.—A comedy by Barry Connors, with Allan Dinehart and Miss Claiborne Foster in the principal rôles. . . . The play is, as yet, unknown in New-York.

"Sweet Little Devil" with Miss Constance Binney, in the Garrick.—A piece with tunes which had a New-York run last season.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 29:

"Cyrano de Bergerac," with Walter Hampden, in the Great Northern.—Revival of Rostand's famous comedy in verse, in which Mr. Hampden acted 250 times last season in New-York.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 2:

"Expressing Willie" in the Princess.—A comedy by Miss Rachel Crothers that has been successful for some time past in New-York. . . . It is to be acted here by a second company.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 9:

"The Potters" in the Great Northern.—J. P. McEvoy's comedy based on his weekly sketches of like name that were for a time a feature of the Sunday issue of THE TRIBUNE.

The Thrill of Diamonds

The real pleasure of wearing a Diamond Ring is possible only when you know that the gem is full 100 per cent in value; that is has the brilliancy which only the highest skill in cutting can produce; and that the mounting is the work of an artist. GRAND PIANO

EXQUISITE workmanship, marvelous tone, perfect action and wonderful durability make the Wurlitzer the wisest investment for the home. To make the Wurlitzer one of the finest of grand pianos requires over a year in the building—far more time than usually consumed in the construction of high grade pianos. Hear the clear, sweet singing tone of the Wurlitzer—play it yourself, note its fine architecture.

A special showing this week of Wurlitzer grands and Reproducing grands in many new styles and finishes should be of interest to prospective grand piano owners.

Wurlitzer grands from $750 to $5,000. Pianos and players taken in exchange. Deferred payments can be arranged to suit your convenience.

'Sinners in Heaven'? Course It Can't Be!

By Mae Tinee.

referring to him as "only the pilot."

They start, at last, awa' from there.

Well—airship has a bad spell somewhere among the South Sea islands, falls into the water—gurgles and flops over. Only the girl and the pilot get to land. Island.

(Really one of the most perfectly equipped South Sea islands the movies have ever known.) With the airship near enough so that the man in the case can swim out for a change of clothes whenever it seems necessary.

This interesting piece of terra firma is evidently a religious community, with the communicants coming at only certain times to say their rites. Terrible looking somebodies when they do arrive—but with a full understanding of English. They believe the white man is a god when he vouchies for it, and when he tells them that the white lady is "Goddess Croft" they get him absolutely. God Croft shoots a little electricity into their anatomies with his wireless when they try to get fresh—which keeps them playing in their own back yards—UNTIL a jealous lady native discovers God Croft sheds blood when he shaves. (A most unGodly thing to do.) Immediately she is wise to the fact that he isn't a god, for, it seems, gods don't bleed.

She hastens forth to spread the tidings! Result—terrible uprisings!

However—things work around so that those who should be saved ARE saved. The story ends conventionally back in the tame English village—only, of course, Barbara has married her Capt. Croft with a key ring—and loves him besides. Which, of course, stirs up the hen parties and gives the man she left behind her a chance to prove that he's MADE OF THE RIGHT SORT OF STUFF.

The subtitles are pretty good. So is the acting. But, I ask you, IS the story reasonable? Should a movie audience be expected to swallow such foolishness hook, line, and sinker?

And the title, my dears! May the clergy protest! Everybody knows there are NOT any sinners in heaven—and—well—where does the title come in, anyhow?

O, well——

See you tomorrow!

Ask Me! Ask Me!

CAROLINA: Many of the smaller towns get pictures before the big cities do. Consider yourself favored of the gods—provided you liked the film. Yes, I should say so! But, when you want a personal answer please inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your request. Love to. Thanks.

A. D. AND S. A.: They say so. She was at one time more petite than she is now. Now, she's rather luscious to look at, don't you think?

Civic Music League Thanks Mr. Stock

By Edward Moore.

tiously drilled by Frederick Stock and Eric LeLamarter. Itself speedily expanding into symphony orchestra proportions, it has come to take a not unimportant part in the concert life of the city. During the last season it played five concerts at Orchestra hall, a sixth at the same place during the association's spring festival, six more in high school auditoriums, one at the Congress hotel at the invitation of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and a spring tour that embraced Jacksonville during the convention of music clubs, and Highland Park.

Outside of the concerts, the orchestral training has had most encouraging results, for eighteen former members of this organization have graduated into appointments with major symphony orchestras of the United States, and six of these are in the Chicago symphony. This means that eighteen young players have good jobs who otherwise would not have had them unless, by hook or crook, they had found or made the opportunity to go to Europe and get their orchestral training there.

Little by little, by sheer force of accomplishment, the Civic Music association is making itself known. More and more, other bodies are coming to work with it. The report acknowledges the coöperation of these twelve: American Society of Musicians, the board of education, the Chicago Association of Commerce, Chicago Federation of Musicians, the city of Chicago, Civic Music league, commissioners of Lincoln park, Drama league, Lake View Musical society, Musicians' Club of Women, south park commissioners, and the Orchestral association.

Enough has been said to indicate that in an untheatrical way and without pomp and circumstance the Civic Music association is doing important things for the betterment of the city's musical life. I know of no other person or group of persons doing as much or half as much. And this on an unbelievably small expenditure. With twice as much money it would probably do four times as much.

They Become Americanized.

Nathaniel Finston, conductor of the Chicago Theater Symphony orchestra, which begins its fourth season of Sunday noon concerts on Sept. 28 in the flagship of the Balaban and Katz chain of theaters, has some interesting observations to make on the Americanization of musicians. For these Sunday noon symphony affairs Mr. Finston has the pick of all musicians playing in the orchestras at all the Balaban and Katz houses. He augments his Chicago theater group with men from the Tivoli, Roosevelt, Riviera, and Central Park theaters, and through the four seasons has welded them into an exceptionally fine ensemble.

"I find," he says, "an American consciousness and instinct for truly American musical expression growing, growing among these men, the majority of whom have obtained splendid training in European orchestras, studios, or schools. Bringing this skill to America, they have in the peculiarly favorable atmosphere of our theaters grasped the feel and atmosphere of the American scene. For years now they have been playing the score which accompanies motion pictures on the screen. They have been interpreting American moods, American actions, for the thousands who sit out beyond watching the screen. They have been playing the masterpieces of world music, the gems of the old world composers, the best of American compositions, and the syncopation melodies and jazz themes.

"Out of this experience they are deriving an understanding of American folk music, the peculiar attitude and slant of the busy, nervous, canny, and hopeful, confident, yet self-deprecatory music that is becoming characteristic of this nation.

"I have found that these musicians wonder if the American folk tunes are less in value than the peasant melodic line of Russian or Germanic origin. And it has been an immense inspiration to me that they have worked so enthusiastically and eagerly with me on rehearsing the composition I have written for one number of our all-American program which begins our season, Sept. 28.

"I have gone on the theory that it is useless to make Indian or Negro themes accepted as national music. A national consciousness is growing which gives a composer inspiration to give modern tunes dignified treatment. Old world music relies on folk tunes, the intellectual part of a composition coming after these melodies have been selected as a basis.

"To discover if modern American melodies can be used as a similar base for symphonic composition is at the bottom of my composition built in parallel to Tschaikowsky's 'Marche Slav.' I have retained the original form of that composition, substituting American popular melodies for the Russian folk tunes. Where Tschaikowsky used 'The Funeral Dirge,' I use 'After the Storm'; where he employed 'The Russian Patrol,' I have set in 'All the World Is Waiting for the Sunrise'; for the tsar worship strain I have used 'The Star Spangled Banner,' and for the little Russian peasant dance, 'Dixie.'

"To have planned so experimental an attempt would have been impossible without the coöperation in spirit and intellect of the members of our symphony orchestra. This coöperation is, I feel sure, typical of the attitude of musicians in the great picture theater orchestras over America. They are among the best symphonic artists; they know the old world music; are grounded in the loftiest ideas of music; are trained in classical expression, and yet they are so near the American public, so close to all kinds of musical writing that they are evolving something that will make real American music possible."

Of Native Opera.

Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer says this department the compliment of taking one of its headlines, "From story to play, from play to opera," as the theme for some remarks on her researches in the field of American opera. She finds a good baker's dozen that have been founded upon American legends or tales. They are Chadman's "The Witch of Salem" and "Shanewis," Hugo's "The Sun God," De Leone's "Algala," Herbert's "Natoma," Carter's "The White Bird," De Koven's "Rip Van Winkle," Kerrison's "Last of the Aztecs," Nevin's "Poia," Lieurance's "Indian Legend," Seymour's "The Snake Woman," Bimboni's "Winona," and "The Buffalo Woman," by Grubb-Farnen.

For some reason Hadley's "Azora" has been omitted from the list, as has Hadley's "A Daughter of the Forest." Both were sung at the Auditorium during the days of Campanini's rule of the opera company there, and both may be added to the half dozen performed works of Mrs. Freer's list.

Mrs. Freer speaks with warmth of Hugo's "The Temple Dancer," which was brought out by the Metropolitan in 1916, then given five times by her own operatic organization in Chicago, and is to be heard again this winter in Honolulu with Peggy Center Anderson in the chief rôle. She likewise grows enthusiastic over the Eastman school of music and opera in Rochester, which, she says, well deserves the name of national, American, or civic, whichever you may prefer.

"Other institutions," says Mrs. Freer, "which use these names and which banish our music, our music-dramas, and in a large extent our artists are misnaming their organizations to the confusion and misinformation of the American public, which patronizes them. The seventieth birthday of Mr. Eastman was a triumph for the cause of American art, and our belated congratulations and thanks go to this great man. Any one can meet a demand, it takes a genius to create one. And he will, along with others, create a demand, sooner or later, for American art, which is American history. Without the one you cannot have the other.

"Another genius in this line is Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who has given pieces of foreign translations, already twelve in number, with more to follow, which are to be offered to singers and students in the entire English speaking world at so low a price that they become available to every one.

"These translations of Charles Henry Meltzer will soon be published, and we mention with pleasure that the first order for them has come from Rochester. A second order has come from Americans of foreign birth or extraction, who now wish to be identified with the art of this country, and who realize it cannot be done by adhering to the music and languages of Europe."

PRETTY AND, SO, WELCOME!

MISS CLAIBORNE FOSTER

SHE was here in the Spring of last year in "Two Fellows and a Girl," acting the rôle of the second girl—the one who didn't smoke cigarets because she was so well known. She is recalled as an attractive player in an attractive part. . . . She's returning next week to act vis-à-vis with Alan Dinehart in "Applesauce"; and it may be recalled that she was vis-à-vis with him in the final scenes of "Two Fellows and a Girl."

HAS "FAT" PART

HERMAN HIRSHBERG

He is at the head of the cast in "Welcome, Stranger!" wherein he acts George Sidney's former rôle of the patient, cheerful Jew whose arrival in a hidebound New-England village stirs the local bigwigs to wrath, hatred, and crime. . . . Mr. Hirshberg is not like Mr. Sidney in the part: he is more what Mr. Hirshberg probably thinks Mr. Warfield would be in the part, with special emphasis on the under-jaw.

Like Buying Your Fuel At About Half Price

COLES Original Hot Blast Furnace

HERE is the wonderful furnace that will save you ⅓ to ½ in fuel, because it gets full heat value out of every shovelful. Think what that means—you buy only about half as much fuel.

The ordinary under-draft furnace allows about 60% of the possible heat value to escape up the chimney. That's money wasted—gone forever. By stopping this waste Cole's Hot Blast heats your home two winters for about the cost of one.

This black smoke shows incomplete combustion—dollars going up in smoke—the result with an ordinary under-draft furnace.

Only a wisp of silvery gray smoke with Cole's Hot Blast Draft. Burning what other furnaces waste gives a guaranteed saving of ¼ to ⅓ in fuel bills.

Saves Money This Way

Cole's Patented Hot Blast Tube, shown in the center of the furnace, mixes super-heated air with the fuel gases and smoke and forces them back upon the fire, where they are completely burned. This mixture, which ordinary furnaces waste, is much the same as used in homes for cooking and lighting and which has a high value. A Cole's will save that otherwise wasted value.

There are many other important features in this great furnace. It insures a better heated home by passing the air over an extra large humidifier, which sterilizes it and charges it with just the right degree of moisture for healthful, comfortable living.

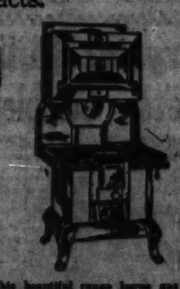
The big, broad radiator delivers maximum heat to the rooms. The opening between it and the combustion chamber is 50% larger than in most furnaces.

This money-saving, full satisfaction furnace is made for pipe or pipeless heating and burns any kind of fuel with amazing economy. Any of the dealers listed can give you full information and an expert installation, or you are invited to send us the coupon for complete facts.

A warmer home, a cleaner home, with a saving of ⅓ to ½—all yours with Cole's Hot Blast Heater. See the several styles and sizes.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Stoves-Ranges-Furnaces

You will get this same saving of ⅓ to ½ in fuel in all Cole's Hot Blast Stoves, Ranges and Furnaces. Whether you are thinking of investing in a new furnace, coal or wood range, combination gas-coal range, or gas range, or heating stove, it will pay you to call on the Cole's dealer nearest you, or mail the coupon for complete information.



This beautiful range burns gas or coal with wonderful economy and efficiency. The high oven is a great convenience. See it or send coupon for information.

ROLLS-ROYCE

A SYMBOL OF GOOD TASTE and an Indication of Sound Judgment

ALL OVER THE WORLD,

MEN AND WOMEN who will not concern themselves with less than the best turn instinctively to the Rolls-Royce.

A list of Rolls-Royce owners reads like Who's Who or The Social Register. Kings and princes, bankers and social leaders, manufacturers, publishers, statesmen—all those who insist on the best that civilization affords in their homes, and in every material detail of their lives, choose the Rolls-Royce as a matter of course.

THE Rolls-Royce is not intended to be an exclusive car. Nor a particularly expensive car. Nor a unique car. It is not designed for a class or for any special section of the public. But every minute detail of its manufacture is governed by one great idea. And this, like all great ideas, is simple—to build the best car in the world.

Such deliberate and carefully planned excellence elicits an immediate response from people who live in an atmosphere not necessarily of wealth, but of quality. Famous architects build their homes. Great couturiers design their frocks and their silver bears the hall-mark of notable jewelers. And when they make an investment in transportation they judge by the standards that determine all their purchases. Is it in good taste? Is it well designed? Is it worthy? Is it built by a reputable organization? Is it a sound investment? Does it command the respect of people who know?

In answer, let the list of Rolls-Royce owners speak for itself.

The Rolls-Royce is a possibility for anyone who wants a really fine motor car. Rolls-Royce owners are everywhere, in cities and small towns from coast to coast. And if you are one of those who set a proper value on quality, you will jot this down in your mental note-book to-day—"Call at the Rolls-Royce offices." You will be given the astonishing details of Rolls-Royce manufacture. You will see several handsome designs in coach work. You will get a definite idea of the kind of people who buy this incomparable car—and you will begin to understand why they do so. And you will be given a hundred-mile demonstration that will be a revelation of ease and comfort, of ability and performance. Or, if you prefer to make an appointment by telephone, a Rolls-Royce will be sent to your address for inspection and trial. You are also invited to visit the Rolls-Royce works at Springfield, Mass., at your pleasure.

Attractive designs of coach work for immediate delivery. Come to our showrooms and let us tell you of the attractive purchasing arrangements that can be made.

INSIDE DOPE ON THE MOVIE STARS

Tragic Mae Busch Scores in Poetry as Well as Films

By Julia Harpman.

MAE BUSCH, of the heavy tragedy droop and gray green eyes, has what she calls a "philosophy of life." This philosophy assays about 100 per cent in the quality known as blah and, whether she knows it or not, probably was absorbed from the gurgle and good departments of the movie magazines.

But don't walk out on Mae yet. For this girl has got something. She writes a far better line of poetry than you'll find in a six months' trial subscription to any of the horn rimmed magazines, and so far as our information goes, she writes it herself without any assistance from a $75 a week intellectual press agent or any recourse to the old published works of obscure but meritorious poets. Mae writes free verse—so wild and free that it just barely stays within the law.

Perhaps you will be able to forgive her even such meaningless cackle as "A man will lie rather than argue," which is one of her utterances given out with philosophical intent, after you have read this of hers:

BARREN!

Never to see your image in my arms, nestling at my breast—
Tiny lips draining the milk of my life—
Tiny hands clutching the tendrils of my heart—
Why does God create barren soil, when He forever fertilizes it with His rain?
His sun, His softly warm winds?
Is life forever to go on wanting?
With naught for my arms but the head of men,
Naught for my heart but their lash?

One's perspective is knocked out of joint in Hollywood. So it is not surprising that Mae, intent on being a movie vamp, kept secret her gift for turning cold words into burning phrases. Mae knew that no poet ever lived who made as much in six months as she gets in her pay envelope every week.

* * *

Rupert Hughes, in whose production "Souls for Sale," Miss Busch recently worked, is credited with discovering the poet in the actress. One of the best things in her scrapbook is entitled, "My Sweetheart." It reads:

Your eyes—the glow of altar candles;
Your lips—a virgin's breast;
Your smile—a rainbow;
Your touch—a butterfly's wing;
Your skin—moss on a bank;
Your walk—gentle swaying of willows;
Your voice—hushed wings;
Your heart—a mother's faith.
Your soul—a baby's prayer;
You . . . . . My Sweetheart

Oh, yes, Mae should be forgiven even such epigrams as: "Live with men only on the surface. Expect nothing. Ask nothing. Fear nothing. And you will hold them longer, stay younger and keep happier."

"I never ask men any questions because I know that they never tell the truth," says Mae.

She sounds cynical, but she really isn't. She says she is just not a simpleton—any longer. Her philosophy is a form of self-protection, evolved when she discovered that life wasn't all she had expected it to be. It was devised after her divorce from Francis McDonald—after the filing of a letter from her former husband as evidence of his desertion. The letter read:

"Mae—This is the finish. You can rest assured by tomorrow morning everything will be over between us. But remember I have kept my end of the bargain. Do not try to get me at the studio, and I won't answer the phone. By-by. MAC."

Mae married McDonald in Los Angeles Dec. 13, 1915—note the date—and they parted four years later, almost to the day. She was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in October, 1922, and the final decree was signed a year and a day later.

MAE BUSCH.

"I have had a very unhappy experience in my life," said Mae. "One never learns this sort of thing in any other way and the thing that I have learned is to save myself worry about men. You can do that simply by not expecting anything much from them beneath the surface pleasantries. Then you can't ever be disappointed and you might be delightfully surprised."

Miss Busch is an interesting personality, clear visioned and quick witted. She has not assumed the absurd graces of so many of the movie stars. She is paradoxical, seeming tragically unhappy, and yet she is possessed of a sense of humor.

They tell the story of some newmade star who, having become unbearably conceited, tried to highhat the fair Mae.

"O, don't you remember me?" cooed Mae. "We used to work on the lot together and you used to borrow my shirt."

When Mae was sixteen years old she played in a musical act on the same vaudeville program as Sarah Bernhardt. Sarah the Divine, after watching the girl from the wings, told Mae:

"Some day, if you suffer, my dear child, you will become a great actress."

Mae claims to have suffered enough to make good the prophecy of Bernhardt.

She is a versatile actress. Recently she reformed from vampish parts to appear in a comedy role in "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model." She is one of the greatest emotional actresses on the screen, having received great praise, especially for her acting in "Name the Man!" which was taken from Hall Caine's "The Master of Man."

Mae Busch is unusual in still another way. She is one of the few moving picture actresses who really was educated in a convent.

Won't Tell Age.

She was born in Melbourne, Australia, on June 18, of what year she refuses to say, although she looks less than thirty. Her father was conductor of the Melbourne Symphony orchestra and her mother, an English woman, was an opera singer. So it appears that Mae's stage career was foreordained.

She was sent to St. Elizabeth's convent in Madison, N. J., when she was for nearly four years. She had a good singing voice, which was trained during her residence at the convent. Shortly before her graduation she sang at an informal entertainment, where she met Elsie Janis.

Miss Janis, upon learning that Mae was anxious to go on the stage, gave her a letter of introduction to Charles Dillingham, who was then ready to produce "Over the River," with Eddie Foy. Mae lost no time in getting to the Globe theater where rehearsals were being held. Dillingham gave her the job of understudying Lillian Lorraine, who had the leading feminine role.

Nothing is truer of Broadway than that one girl's loss is another girl's gain. Mae Busch's rise to fame was one of those spectacular happenings which have formed the plots of many plays and pictures but which rarely are heard of along the world's brightest street. It was the story of the leading lady suddenly deserting the show and the unknown understudy taking her place and walking off with the laurels. Mae played the whole season through on Broadway.

Then she played in a girl show, called "The Beauties," which Jesse L. Lasky put on the Orpheum circuit. Mack Sennett saw her in Los Angeles and offered her a job with his bathing beauties, all of whom have become famous in the pictures.

She played in Keystone comedies, with Eddie Foy and Weber and Fields. Then she went to Paramount, for whom she played in "The Grim Game," "Her Own Money," and "Her Husband's Friend."

She married and retired from the screen for two years, returning to play in "The Devil's Passkey" for Universal. Her success in that led to an important part in "Foolish Wives," and to other vampish roles.

Her divorce was conducted in a quiet and unsensational manner. No other woman was named and no charge of cruelty was preferred. But it involved Miss Busch in a marital situation hard to find outside Hollywood or our best society circles.

Quarrels with Mabel.

After Miss Busch divorced McDonald, he married Belle Rosnoe, the divorced wife of Albert Roscoe, who married Barbara Bedford, who in May, 1921, announced her engagement to Irvin Willatt, the producer, who since married Billie Dove, whose real name is Lillian Bohney.

Mae Busch was reported engaged to Al Wilkie, a press agent, last year but they didn't marry. Recently she admitted she was engaged, but wouldn't say who her second husband is to be.

Hollywood rejoiced recently when Mabel Normand was invited to attend Mae's birthday celebration at the Montmartre. The friendship of the two actresses, which began when Mabel was a Mack Sennett star and Mae was doing small bits for the same producer, was jarred by a fierce quarrel several years ago. It was common gossip in Hollywood that their quarrel concerned the attentions of Sennett.

Mae is now under contract with Goldwyn Pictures corporation and has apeared in several of their biggest pictures. Some of her recent successes were "Brothers Under the Skin," "The Christian," "Souls for Sale," and "Bread."

Mae Busch Voices Her Philosophy

"I never ask men any questions because I know they never tell the truth," says Mae Busch.

It sounds cynical, but it really isn't. Mae's philosophy evolved out of the discovery that life wasn't all she had expected it to be. "I have had a very unhappy experience in my life," she says. "The thing I have learned is to save myself worry about men."

She is one of the few movie stars who was really educated in a convent, and she is one of the few understudies who really made good when her chance came.

Voice of the Movie Fan

A Second Bernhardt, No Less!

Dear Miss Tinée: I have just witnessed a film which I shall remember always, "The White Sister," with that dear little star, Lillian Gish. Is there anyone, I wonder, who can find one little flaw in this picture? If so, I should like to hear from that one, telling just what is wrong with it. However, the writer is so enthusiastic about it that she cannot believe anyone could be otherwise. It is safe for me to say that Miss Gish's performance in the above named picture is the best bit of acting I have ever seen on the screen, and I am positive there are many who are of the same opinion as I. My mother and I were actually enthralled with her marvelous work. She is a second Sarah Bernhardt, indeed. We have always admired her ability, but her performance in "The White Sister" has added an hundred fold to that admiration. Really, Miss Tinée, words cannot express my sincere thoughts of this little star, and my only hope is that we may see her soon again. EIGHTEEN.

Call for American Scenery.

Dear Miss Tinée: Just saw Jack Holt and Norma Shearer in "Empty Hands." The whole picture was pretty good, especially the scenery, and I know those scenes were not taken anywhere in Canada. I'll wager that four out of five Americans who saw the picture don't know that they were looking at some of the grandest scenery in the world, and right in their own country, the Yosemite valle in Yosemite National park. One scene was taken from Inspiration Point and it was easy to recognize El Capitan and the Halfdome. I have pictures here that are exactly the same as the scenes in the film. The river was probably the Merced. I wish that the film companies would put out some short films showing scenes in the national parks, etc. G. N.

The CHENEY

The Master Phonograph

—an instrument we cannot recommend too highly

—a greater phonograph service

You are invited to our spacious sales rooms where you can sit in all the comfort of home and hear your favorite records played upon The Cheney. This beautiful instrument has won nation-wide recognition through its superb tone quality and the artistry of its cabinets.

Clip and Mail

We have a booklet of more than ordinary interest which explains in detail the wonderful acoustic features which have given The Cheney its beautiful tone quality. These features are exclusive in The Cheney—have never been used in any other phonograph, and should be of particular interest to anyone seeking to find a phonograph which will get the utmost interpretative quality from records. We will gladly send this booklet upon request.

Name_____

Address_____

Send this coupon now. You will find this booklet exceptionally interesting and informative.

Have you ever really heard a piano on a phonograph?

You will, when you hear The Cheney in our beautiful sales rooms. This master instrument restores the beauty and "living" quality of the original itself to piano as well as all other records.

Many declare that Cheney reproductions are so perfect that they do not sound like reproductions at all, but like the transmission of the music itself.

Piano records are conceded the most difficult test of a phonograph. Ask for any piano record you wish from our great library—some record that you know, note for note, like Grieg's Butterfly, or Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 10.

What will you hear? The piano quality of tone as clear, as pure, as true as though the instrument itself stood in the room. The pitch maintained with absolute accuracy. You will clearly recognize the touch and feel the personality of the artist. You can even distinguish the pedalling which the artist has used.

Needle Scratch Practically Eliminated

This same magic touch The Cheney adds to every record it plays. Hear a great number like the Prologue to Pagliacci and note the balance between orchestra and voice, the fullness of tones, unblemished by needle scratch. Even more wonderful is a number like Massenet's Elegie, with its glorious violin obbligato, following the voice like a shadow. Or, if you love a violin record, hear Heifetz's great rendition of Tschaikowsky's Waltz from a Serenade or Kreisler's Melody by General Dawes. These records will demonstrate wonderfully the ability of The Cheney to restore every detail of tone quality, to delineate the very difference in touch between these two great masters.

Don't Hesitate to Ask Us for a Demonstration

There is no other phonograph like The Cheney. There can be no other like it. For The Cheney embodies patented acoustical features which are fundamentally new and different. It alone controls and develops tone in a series of carefully proportioned chambers. It is the only phonograph with a violin resonator carved from wood so vibrant that it sweetens and enriches every passing note. Our salespeople will gladly play all of the records which you would like to hear on The Cheney.

Cheney cabinets are the fitting counterparts of Cheney tone quality. In a wide range of models which reflect the great historic periods of Old England, they portray the finest furniture craftsmanship of this country. The Cheney is now on display in all of our stores.

The Cheney costs no more than the ordinary phonograph—$100 upwards

U. S., FOREIGN EXHIBITS CROWD BIG RADIO FAIR

Show Opening Tomorrow Fills Two Structures.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—One hundred and fifty American and foreign radio manufacturers will display the latest designs of radio apparatus at the Radio World's fair, which opens Monday in Madison Square garden and the 69th Regiment armory. The show will continue throughout the week.

Radio exhibits will be on display in both Madison Square garden and the 69th Regiment armory. Based on the attendance at the radio expositions last year, it is estimated that at least 100,000 will visit the show this week.

Plan Novelty Display.

The amateur builders' contest will occupy space in the basement of Madison Square garden. Another interesting exhibit will consist of miniature receivers. It is reported that one loud speaker model will be on display which rests on a base the size of a 25 cent piece. Eight foreign countries will exhibit in the 69th Regiment armory.

It is planned to have WEAF and WHN radiocast direct from Madison Square garden if the amount of program material available justifies.

Special arrangements have been completed for the business accommodation of the dealers of the country. Two hours of each morning will be given to them for discussion of radio business.

Leading trade organizations will hold their conventions in New York during the week and quite an influx of those identified with the industry is expected. At the Garden each day, before the doors are opened to the public, dealers, jobbers, manufacturers and others, representative of the trade, will have conferences based on what has gone on in the way of progressive movement the day preceding.

Associates to Meet.

The Radio Industries banquet, under auspices of the National Association of Broadcasters, National Radio Trade association, Radio Manufacturers' association and Talking Machine and Radio Men, Inc., will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., at the Waldorf Astoria. Entertainment will be furnished by radio and phonograph artists.

George Hay, announcer of WLS, Chicago, who won a contest for the most popular announcer in the country, will receive the gold cup at the fair next Saturday.

U. S. SEEKING TO OBTAIN FEEDBACK PATENT PRIORITY

The Armstrong and Westinghouse suit for control of the feed back circuit has been thrown out of court. On motion of the defendants, Judge Knox of the United States District court for the Southern district of New York, dismissed the bill of complaint in a suit brought by Armstrong and the Westinghouse company against the secretary of the navy, DeForest company, American Telephone and Telegraph company, General Electric company and others. The purpose of the suit was to have the United States District court review the ruling of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, that the feed back circuit was the invention of DeForest—and not of Armstrong. The suit was dismissed on the ground of lack of jurisdiction, and the legal battle will be fought out in the United States District court of Delaware, where a similar suit has been brought by the United States, naming the other parties as defendants. The government, during the war, acquired ownership of the Meissner circuit, an invention of a German, who is competing with DeForest and Armstrong as inventor of the feed back circuit.

800 PRIZES GIVEN FOR YOUNGSTERS AT CITY PICNIC

Every youngster in Chicago who can run, jump, eat pie, or catch greased pigs is going to have an excellent chance to annex a prize at the Chicago radio picnic in Grant park stadium on Saturday, Oct. 11. The picnic will be under auspices of the mayor's radio commission, assisted by the South park commissioners. Already more than $00 prizes, ranging from complete five tube sets to pieces of apparatus, have been donated.

Everything will be free. There will be no reserved seats. Programs containing a radio map and list of broadcasting stations will be given away. Mayor Dever, over all Chicago radiocasts, has invited the radio fans of the nation to attend.

Patent Situation Subject of Electric Club Talk

The radio section of the Electric club will meet on Tuesday evening at 7. M. W. Thompson will discuss the "Patent Situation in Radio," and John H. Miller will give a short talk on "Capacity and Condensers in Radio." A general discussion will follow.

Cleveland's Second Radio Exhibition Is Under Way

Cleveland, O., Sept. 20.—Cleveland's second annual radio show opened today in the Cleveland Public auditorium. The show will continue until Sept. 27. It is under auspices of Cleveland manufacturers and dealers.

W-G-N NOTES.

"Red Riding Hood," the serial by Elizabeth Jordan, now running daily in THE TRIBUNE, is ready every day during the Rocking Chair hour. Early installments of the novel may be obtained by sending postage to the station and the entertaining story followed day by day by radio.

The first concert of the fourth symphony season of the Chicago Theater orchestra, under direction of Nathaniel Finston, will be radiocast next Sunday by W-G-N. Through the courtesy of WMAQ, the Chicago Daily News radiocast, which broadcasts organ music daily from the theater, W-G-N is enabled to add the weekly Chicago theater Sunday noon concerts to its expanding Sabbath program. Next Sunday the Duncan sisters will be featured in the opening concert. The concerts open every Sunday at 11:45 a. m. and run for one hour. They will follow Uncle Walt's reading of the comics at 11 o'clock.

W-G-N is rapidly forging to the fore in juvenile radio entertainment. In addition to Uncle Walt's Sunday hour, "Sen" Kaney conducts a daily session at 5:30 p. m. called "Skeezix Time." It is "Sen's" practice to whirr and whistle like a skyrocket, call the name of a youngster who has written to him, and then "send up" a star into the heavens for the child. Cuckoo, the studio bird, is custodian of the children's stars and summons them on "Sen's" request.

* *

Gen. Ballington Booth, founder of the Volunteers of America, will speak from W-G-N next Saturday evening at 8:30.

RADIOCAST ZONE PLAN WILL BE PARLEY SUBJECT

17 Members of Advisory Committee Named.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—[Special.]—Seventeen members of the advisory committee of the third national radio conference, to be held in Washington, commencing Oct. 6, were announced today by the department of commerce. Additional members will be announced later.

Men So Far Selected.

The personnel of the committee, as thus far selected, follows:

R. G. Callvert, Morning Oregonian, Portland, Ore.

Edward A. Davies, director radiocast WIP, Gimbel Bros., Philadelphia.

George C. Furness, manager radio department, National Carbon company, Long Island City, N. Y.

A. N. Goldsmith, secretary Institute of Radio Engineers, New York.

R. B. Hale, radiocast KPO, Hale Bros., San Francisco.

A. H. Halloran, editor Radio, San Francisco.

W. E. Harkness, assistant vice president, American Telephone and Telegraph company, New York.

L. B. Henson, WFAA, the Dallas News, Dallas, Tex.

Lambdin Kay, director WSB, Atlanta Journal, Atlanta, Ga.

H. R. Kibler, radio department, American Farm Bureau federation, Chicago.

Joseph Knowland, the Oakland Tribune, Oakland, Cal.

F. A. Kolster, chief research engineer, Federal Telegraph company, San Francisco.

L. L. Lee, head of radio division, United States shipping board, Washington, D. C.

W. G. Logue, Independent Wireless Telegraph company, New York.

H. P. Maxim, president (K. B. Warner, secretary, alternate) American Radio Relay league, Hartford, Conn.

E. F. McDonald Jr., president (Paul Klugh, executive chairman, alternate) National Association of Broadcasters, Chicago.

David Sarnoff, vice president and general manager Radio Corporation of America, New York.

May Revise Zoning Plan.

The tentative program prepared for the conference includes general allocation of frequency or wave length bands, in which consideration will be given to all of the services which employ radio. For radiocasts there will be considered the division of their band among the several classes and also a possible revision of the present zoning plan. General problems of radiocasting will include power requirements and limitations, improvement of programs, revision of class requirements, and the question of licenses for operators.

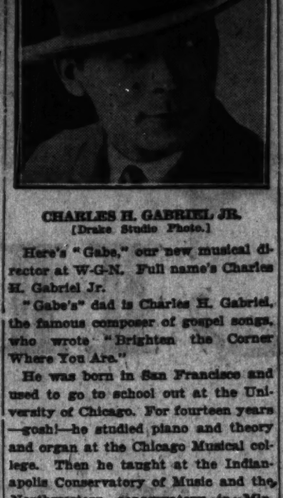
Problems for consideration affecting marine radio include assignment of frequencies or wave lengths to individual shore stations of groups of ships, types of waves to be permitted for various marine services, possible elimination of free transmission of position reports, and requirements for operators' licenses.

Amateur Bands Subject.

Among amateur problems are subdivision of the band allocated for amateur use and arrangements by which it will be possible to identify amateur calls from different countries.

Problems of reduction of interference with radio reception, include difficulties encountered from electrical devices other than radio transmitting stations and from use of unnecessary high power, variation from assigned frequency, broad waves, harmonics, etc.

The W-G-N Album



CHARLES H. GABRIEL JR.
[Drake Studio Photo.]

Here's "Gabe," our new musical director at W-G-N. Full name's Charles H. Gabriel Jr.

"Gabe's" dad is Charles H. Gabriel, the famous composer of gospel songs, who wrote "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

He was born in San Francisco and used to go to school out at the University of Chicago. For fourteen years—gosh!—he studied piano and theory and organ at the Chicago Musical college. Then he taught at the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music and the Northwestern conservatory in Minneapolis, and at both places he was head of the piano and theory departments.

Next he made two tours of this country and Mexico—wherever he could find a piano in Mexico—and played as pianist with Billy Sunday at times.

On THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE he's been a reporter, rewrite man, music editor, religious editor, and intermittently did book reviews. In New York he was editor of Automobile Topics, and in Chicago he was for a long time editor of Popular Mechanics.

"Gabe" has about 800 compositions, vocal and instrumental, in print. He's responsible for the new TRIBUNE Master Artists' concerts, which are staged between 2:30 and 5:30 at W-G-N on Sundays. And he has a lot more up his rolled-up sleeves!

130 RADIOS ON FARMS OF EACH COUNTY IN U. S.

Survey Shows Total of 370,000 Sets.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Rapid increase in use of radio on farms during the last year is shown in a special survey made by the United States department of agriculture. It is estimated that there are now more than 370,000 radio sets in use on farms, as compared with 145,000 a year ago.

The survey was made among county agricultural agents. Reports from 823 county agents placed the aggregate number of radio sets in their counties at 108,716, or an average of 130 sets per county. Projecting the average of 130 per county for all of the 2,850 agricultural counties in the United States yields an estimate of 370,500 radio sets in use on farms throughout the country as a whole, as compared with a similar estimate of 145,350 sets a year ago.

The radio market news service of the United States department of agriculture has been developed rapidly during the last three years until now it is possible for farmers in practically all parts of the country to receive daily market quotations and reports on agricultural conditions.

W-G-N STARS TO FURNISH FUN AT B. L. A. MEETING

Already Famous Quartet on Program.

Wednesday will be W-G-N night at the open meeting of the Broadcast Listeners' association, the Chicago organization of listeners-in which has made notable strides in membership during the "dull season." These open meetings, which are held in Hamilton park field house, 72d street and Normal boulevard, not only have tended to bring together the radio enthusiasts of the city, but have done much for them in the matter of clarifying technical problems, as well as introducing the assemblages to radio stars whom they have heard over the ether, and seeing them "do their stuff" in person.

"SEN" KANEY.

Heading the W-G-N entertainers will be "Sen" Kaney, and he will be assisted on the program by Tom Maley, Jack Little, and the W-G-N quartet, consisting of John Stanford, Ballard Sweet, Drury Lenington, and W. Doyle Watt.

U. S. WILL HEAR FIVE NATIONS IN DISTANCE TESTS

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Radio programs of five nations of Europe will be heard in the United States during the international test, Nov. 24-30, according to an announcement made by Arthur H. Lynch, who is arranging the schedules.

Plans made by the British Broadcasting company for their end of the transmissions include re-radiocasting of the programs of French, Dutch, German, and Swiss nations as well as their own, thus giving listeners in on this side of the ocean opportunity to hear the programs of the five nations of Europe which maintain regular radiocasts.

In view of the fact that all radiocasts of the United States and Canada will maintain silence during the periods of broadcasting from the British Broadcasting company's stations, it is expected that the programs from abroad will be heard in every district in the United States. That they are not heard more often in this country is due to their being on the same band of wave lengths as used by American stations and the difference in time.

Among the most recent broadcasters in this country to lend their coöperation to the international tests are the Westinghouse stations KDKA, WBZ, KFKX, and KYW, which will act in transmitting programs to Europe.

HIS BLOOD PRESSURE WAS TOO HIGH—

His life was in danger

This strong, healthy looking man had his application for life insurance rejected three times because his blood pressure was too high. Yet he did not know anything was wrong with him. But the Medical Examiner knew his heart and arteries could not stand such pressure long; and that unless relieved the man would die from apoplexy, heart failure, or some other trouble caused by the same poisons in the blood which produced his high blood pressure.

His Blood Pressure Was Reduced from 182 Millimeters to 130 Millimeters—(which is normal for a man of his age) by a course of Witter Water Treatment, and upon a later re-examination his physical condition was so satisfactory that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company gladly issued a policy upon his life. This man states that since taking the Witter Water Treatment he can think more clearly, his memory is better, and he can do more work with less effort than ever before in his life.

Most People of Middle Age or Older Have High Blood Pressure—Doctors prescribe Witter Water, a Pleasant Tasting, Natural Spring Water from California, because it is so highly impregnated with certain alkaline chemicals that it neutralizes the poisons in the blood which cause high blood pressure. The cause thus removed the dangerous abnormal pressure is reduced.

FREE Sample of Witter Water and Booklet containing information of the greatest value to sufferers from High Blood Pressure, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and certain other diseases caused by the same poisons in the blood which produce High Blood pressure, will be sent you if you fill in and mail us the coupon. Or we will gladly make a free test of your blood pressure if you will call at our office—without obligating yourself in the least.

Don't Procrastinate This is too serious a matter for you to put off for even a single day. If you have High Blood Pressure, Witter Water may save your life, and give you many more years of health, activity and happiness.

4400 Miles on a Loud Speaker

This is the distance over which a passenger aboard the steamer Essequibo off Callao, Peru, picked up broadcasting from Oakland, California, with a

Stromberg-Carlson No. 1-A Neutrodyne Receiver

and a Stromberg-Carlson No. 1-A Loud Speaker. During that evening Schenectady, N. Y. Pittsburgh, Pa. and Springfield, Mass. also were heard distinctly.

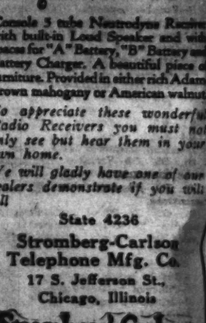
These are exceptionally good results even for a Stromberg-Carlson Receiver.

Stromberg-Carlson Receivers are furnished in two types:

Portable Type No. 1-A

Portable 5 tube Neutrodyne Receiver in richly finished Adam-Brown mahogany cabinet. Arranged to operate with the No. 1-A Loud Speaker.

(Console Type No. 2



Console 5 tube Neutrodyne Receiver with built-in Loud Speaker and with spaces for "A" Battery, "B" Battery and Battery Charger. A beautiful piece of furniture. Provided in either rich Adam-Brown mahogany or American walnut.

To appreciate these wonderful Radio Receivers you must not only see but hear them in your own home.

We will gladly have one of our dealers demonstrate if you will call

FOUR-CIRCUIT TUNER APPEARS IN NEW GUISE

Combines Transformer, Resistance Coupling.

One of the interesting developments in radio receivers is the improved four circuit tuner designed by Lawrence M. Cockaway, eastern engineer.

When the four circuit tuner first was placed before the public it obtained widespread popularity, and it has been estimated variously that between 250,000 and 500,000 of these have been constructed.

Like the old, the set is selective and easy to tune, but, properly constructed, has a far better tone.

The outstanding feature of Mr. Cockaday's refinement of his circuit now is a combination of transformer and resistance coupling in the amplifier, this making for sufficient volume without the use of too many tubes with remarkable purity of reproduction of voice and music.

The tuning circuit itself is the familiar tuner with two controls, the variable condenser in the stabilizer circuit and the variable condenser in the secondary circuit. These two condensers are set to exactly the same settings when tuning in a station, and this arrangement places the regeneration control so that maximum regeneration is obtained automatically. The operator does not have to worry about regeneration control; the set is automatic.

Losses Greatly Reduced.

The tuning circuits have been extremely carefully laid out in this new set, with a view of cutting down losses to minimum values. For instance, the coil has been placed at a greater distance from the flat sections of the metal plates of the variable condensers. The grid condenser has been placed so that its plates are at right angles to the inductive field of the secondary winding. The antenna leads and connections have been further insulated from the other parts of the circuit, particularly the grid circuit.

The amplifier contains one stage of transformer coupled amplification with a jack for headphone reception and three stages of resistance-coupled amplification, with jacks for each stage so that just the right volume may be obtained from any station tuned in.

Equipment Required

Parts designated by letters in schematic and photo diagrams are:

A, B, C, D—Four circuit coil set.
E—Variable condenser, .0005 mfd. capacity.
F—Variable condenser, .0003 mfd. capacity.
G—Fixed condenser, .00025 mfd. capacity.
H—Grid denser.
I—Variable grid leak.
J1, J2, J3, J4, J5—Tube sockets.
K—Combined potentiometer rheostat.
L1, L2, L3, L4—Automatic filament controls.
M1, M2, M3—Double circuit jacks.
M4—Single circuit jack.
N—Audio frequency transformer.
O1, O2, O3—Variable resistance, 25,000 ohms minimum.
P1, P2, P3—Grid leaks, ½ megohm, and mountings.
Q1, Q2, Q3—Fixed condensers, .005 mfd. capacity. Three are connected in parallel in each place, making each set .015 mfd. capacity.
R—Switch lever.
S—Switch points and stops.
T—Filament battery switch.
U—7x24x2-16 panel.
V—Cabinet.
W—Sub base.
X1, X2, X3—Connection blocks.
Y—Small brass brackets.

Good Distances Covered.

During the summer months this newest four circuit receiver is reported to have given a consistent range of 1,500 miles, static permitting, and during September is bringing in the west coast stations in New York City quite consistently.

In the diagram and photographs each part bears the designating letter shown above. In this way the prospective builder may easily determine how to mount the instruments in the correct places and connect them properly in the electric circuit. The same designating letters are used throughout the text.

The design of this set is such that the grid-circuit wiring of each of the five tubes may be made extremely short and isolated from the other circuits. In fact, all tuning circuits and leads are so arranged that short connections may be used.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Sunday, Sept. 21) (Daylight Saving Time Throughout.)

Uncle Walt will open today's activities at W-G-N (formerly WDAP), THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The comic character will open his jolly party and reading of the "funnies" at 11 o'clock. Walt desires the children to guess how old he is and how old Skeezix is, and to the best guesser he promises a delightful prize.

THE TRIBUNE master artists' concert, from 2:30 to 5:30 this afternoon, will be another musical feast, and will include the Louise Law Trio; Bertha Kribben, violinist; Ethel Wakefield, soprano; Helen Pollenz, pianist; Carl Craven, tenor; Mrs. T. Olin Ball, soprano; Clarence A. Johnson, tenor, and the popular Pershing Male Quartet. The evening concert, 9:15 to 10, will be given by the Drake concert ensemble and selected male singers.

The Louise Law Trio is composed of Marion Kempe, violinist; Dorothy Kempe, cellist, and Louise Law, pianist. They have just finished a twenty week Chautauqua tour. They will be heard in solos, duos, and trios.

Bertha Kribben, violinist, is a member of the Chicago Musical college faculty. Ethel Wakefield, soprano, is a former member of the Boston Grand Opera company. She is making her first local appearance since her Ravinia engagement some years ago.

Carl Craven, tenor, is well known to concert and radio audiences. He is a prominent voice teacher and is director of the Chas. A. Stevens & Bros. ladies' chorus. Helen Pollenz is a pianist of the Chicago Musical college and a disciple of Moissaye Boguslawski.

News of the Radiocasts

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—WCAP, Washington, will radiocast an address today by President Coolidge as part of the Holy Name society's exercises to be held at the Washington monument grounds. Services will begin at 6:30 p. m., Chicago daylight saving time.

* *

Beginning Monday and on each Monday evening thereafter, at 6:45, WDAR, Philadelphia, will air a special service for farm and city folk.

* *

Music, book talks, chapel services, college functions, and Sunday night services will be radiocast from WCAL, St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., during the school year. Financed by members of the class of 1924, the St. Olaf station has been enlarged.

* *

Two New England stations have gone off the air, WDKA, Hartford, Conn., and WTAG, Providence, R. I.

Dutch to Open Another Station at Amsterdam

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 20.—The Dutch government intends to open a new station in the port of Amsterdam at an early date. It is meant as a relief for the Scheveningen station, which often is overburdened during the day transmitting messages for passengers aboard ships. The new station is to use an intermittent wave, and, it is understood, will cooperate with Scheveningen in locating ships who do not give their exact position. Several small posts along the Dutch seashore also are planned.

Holland Earns Title of 'Listening Post of Europe'

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 20.—Holland now is called 'The Listening Post of Europe," since the Dutch authorities decided that any legislation to restrict receiving is impossible. The only law governing receiving prohibits making use of a message addressed to somebody else as a sort of theft. Rules regarding sending are very strict, however.

Record Coolidge Speech for Phonofilm Relic

President Coolidge recently delivered a speech for the phonofilm, or radio motion pictures, or talking movies, on the White House grounds which soon will be distributed. It is the first time a speech has been filmed and it is reported to be highly successful. Senator La Follette also made a speech which was recorded. The President's film is to be preserved in the Smithsonian institution.

RADIO, TURNING FOUR, IS LUSTY BUSINESS GIANT

See $300,000,000 Sales This Year.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Sunday, Nov. 2, will be the fourth anniversary of radiocasting. On that date in 1920, KDKA radiated the first program into the ether surrounding Pittsburgh. Since that time radiocasting has developed tremendously.

As radiocasting has widened its scope and gained more followers, so has the industry developed. The radio business has grown in four years to a sales volume of $115,000,000 in 1923, and the Copper and Brass Research association, after a survey of the radio field, estimates that the business for 1924 will reach $300,000,000, and within two or three years sales will reach $500,000,000.

A vacuum tube manufacturer estimates that sales of tubes alone for the present year will total in excess of $50,000,000, while one of the leading parts manufacturers estimates that as much as $250,000,000 will be spent for parts and sets. Sales of batteries of all kinds are placed at $45,000,000.

Sales of home radio equipment alone for 1924 will reach a total of $240,000,000 in the United States, or double those for 1923, and radio audiences, listening in on receiving sets to the broadcast speeches, lectures, concerts, and musical entertainments of various sorts are now estimated at 5,000,000 persons.

Sales of radio apparatus are nearly twice as large as all kinds of sporting goods.

Figures of the American Radio association show that there are probably between 3,500,000 and 5,000,000 tube sets in use. Probably 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 crystal sets are owned in this country.

There are now 537 broadcasting stations in the United States and close to a total of 1,000 in the world; 18,000 amateur transmitters in the United States, and about 16,000 ship and shore commercial stations. England has 800,000 licensed broadcast listeners.

ENGINEER TELLS HAWTHORNE CLUB OF LOW LOSS SET

Low loss tuners, which have been attracting no little attention from radio fans the country over, was the principal subject for discussion at the regular meeting Thursday evening of the Hawthorne Radio club at the Hawthorne works of the Western Electric company. W. M. Greaves, Western Electric engineer and member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, analyzed its features.

Instead of the usual classroom meeting place in one of the works' buildings the club has obtained the second floor of the company's restaurant building, where seating facilities for 1,500 people are available.

FRENCH EXHIBIT FAILS TO SHOW NEW DEVICES

Belin to Build High Power Radiocast.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 20.—This year's "Concours Lepine," or annual exhibition of French inventions, shows some interesting contributions to wireless, but cannot be said to give anything startling beyond adaptions of devices already known in England and America.

One interesting exhibit is Edouard Belin's crypto-Telester-ougraph, which permits the transmission of images by wire or radio in complete secrecy.

Another is a "Wylef" battery, which may be regenerated by heat. This battery has been built in Paris for wholesale industrial domain of France and a factory has ben built in Paris for wholesale manufacture. The battery is made of copper oxide. It is now used by the French navy and railways.

Edouard Belin, well known French wireless inventor and experimenter, will open a private radiocast within a few weeks. It will be at Malmaison and is said to be the most powerful private station in France, with a wave length of 500 meters.

SQUIER'S SUIT FOR ROYALTIES IS DISMISSED

Gen. Squier's patents on "wired wireless" are dedicated to the public, according to the United States District court for the Southern district of New York. The court has dismissed the suit brought by Gen. Squier against the American Telephone and Telegraph company for infringement on the ground that Gen. Squier's patents were dedicated by him to the public and are not, therefore, enforcible against users of the inventions. Had Gen. Squier prevailed in the suit the American Telephone and Telegraph company would have had to account for its use on millions of dollars' worth of equipment forming part of its present installation.

BRITISH EXACT SECRECY PLEDGE OF LISTENERS-IN

Multitube Sets to Mark Exhibition.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Listeners in on radio broadcasts aboard British ships at sea will be required to sign a pledge of secrecy in case private messages are overheard.

* *

The largest submarine phone cable ever laid is now connecting England and Holland. Relaying continental broadcast programs is greatly improved. When its regular schedule starts a month from now it will make broadcasting concerts all over north Europe practical.

* *

The wireless exhibition opening in Albert hall, London, on Sept. 27 will show multi-valve sets encased in exquisite period furniture made of precious woods and elaborately painted and carved. Some of these sets have three stages of high frequency amplification, which are made possible for amateurs to operate by perfectly matched transformers, single knob treble condensers, and careful wiring.

* *

The winter plans announced by J. C. Stobart, director of the British Broadcasting company's educational department for school receiving stations, include: Monday, talks and music; Tuesday, lectures about birds; Wednesday, poetry lessons; Thursday, history lectures; Friday, French lessons.

* *

A scheme to include Esperanto items in European broadcast programs has started a hot controversy here, since the rival lingo, "Ido," has many champions.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—It is announced here that plans are being prepared to construct a radiocast in Bouzaria, Algeria, for serving all North Africa.

A British expert declares that certain kinds of music make better broadcasts than others. He says "highbrow" concert material is liable not to have enough distinct tune to carry well over the waves. He believes strong melodies are necessary to successful transmission, and therefore favors modern composition, and particularly American ragtime.

Men in close touch with educational affairs here state the interest in foreign languages has made a noticeable jump ahead since the development of radio broadcasting between England and the continent. With Paris, Berlin, Madrid, and Rome on the air every day it is a constant annoyance to British listeners not to be able to understand what it is all about. It is said night school classes in French, German, Italian, and Spanish are showing steady enrollment increases, which include a large proportion of radio fans.

For the third year, KSD, St. Louis, will radiocast the concerts of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, Rudolph Ganz, conductor, beginning Nov. 3. These concerts take place on Saturday nights.

RADIO DIRECTION SYSTEM TESTED IN AIR FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—Radio tests for giving location and direction to the ZR3, Zeppelin built for the United States navy, in its flight over southern Germany and Switzerland, proved that the present new system is better than the method used during the war. The radio was in constant communication with two land stations during the flight.

Blocks Fake Messages.

The claim is made that it is impossible with the present system for a fake station to give wrong data such as happened during the war when a Zeppelin lost its bearings and landed on French soil. The principles of this system have not been made public.

When out of range of the first station the plotting board can be adjusted for a new set, making it possible with the present equipment to keep in touch with land during the trans-Atlantic flight and plot the ship's position accurately.

Rush for U. S. Patents.

There has been a mad rush of manufacturing firms to buy English and American patents since the poor business at the Leipzig fair for radio materials convinced the manufacturers of the unsuitability of their products. One of the largest firms bought the German rights to sixty-two American and English patents during the last week.

The department of chemistry, University of Pittsburgh, will radiocast a series of talks from KDKA beginning Oct. 8.

The First Three Tube Neutrodyne

A Marvel of Radio Designing and Performance

WARE Neutrodyne Receivers have won an enviable reputation on the one feature more desired in radio than any other—TONE QUALITY. And Ware tone quality is founded on correct designing and perfect craftsmanship.
With a Ware Neutrodyne, the listener is conscious only of the speaker, singer or musical instrument, forgetting the presence of the radio receiver which conveys to his ears the original rendition in all its tonal beauty.
The Ware Type T is the result of a demand for Ware quality in a receiver which can be sold at a popular price and operated economically.
It is the first three tube Neutrodyne receiver, as well as the first reflexed Neutrodyne, and the first Neutrodyne to be operated successfully on dry cell tubes.
Its selectivity and sensitivity are simply marvelous. Any one of the many local broadcasting stations desired may be easily tuned in, and the others excluded at will; while distant stations come in with surprising volume.

Cabinet:

Attractive design in dull mahogany. The panel is built on a slant, affording comfortable reading place for the knobs. Cabinet holds "A" and "B" dry cell batteries. Dimensions 10¾ inches high; 14 inches wide; 13½ inches deep.

Circuit:

Neutrodyne reflex, using three dry cell tubes. By reflexing one of the tubes, it has one stage of tuned radio frequency amplification, detector, combined stages of audio frequency amplification, making it equivalent to a four tube circuit. Two tuning dials; tuning extremely simple. One rheostat controls the filament current for all tubes. There are two jacks, one for first and one for second stage of audio frequency amplification.

Antenna:

Designed for use with outdoor antenna, but gives excellent result in local broadcasting with indoor antenna.

Accessories:

Three UV-199 or C-299 Vacuum Tubes.
"A" Battery, 4½ v. dry cell battery.
"B" Battery, five 22½ v. dry cell batteries.
Loud Speaker.

Don't buy a receiver until you have heard the Ware Neutrodyne Type T. We will send you full information if your dealer does not carry it.

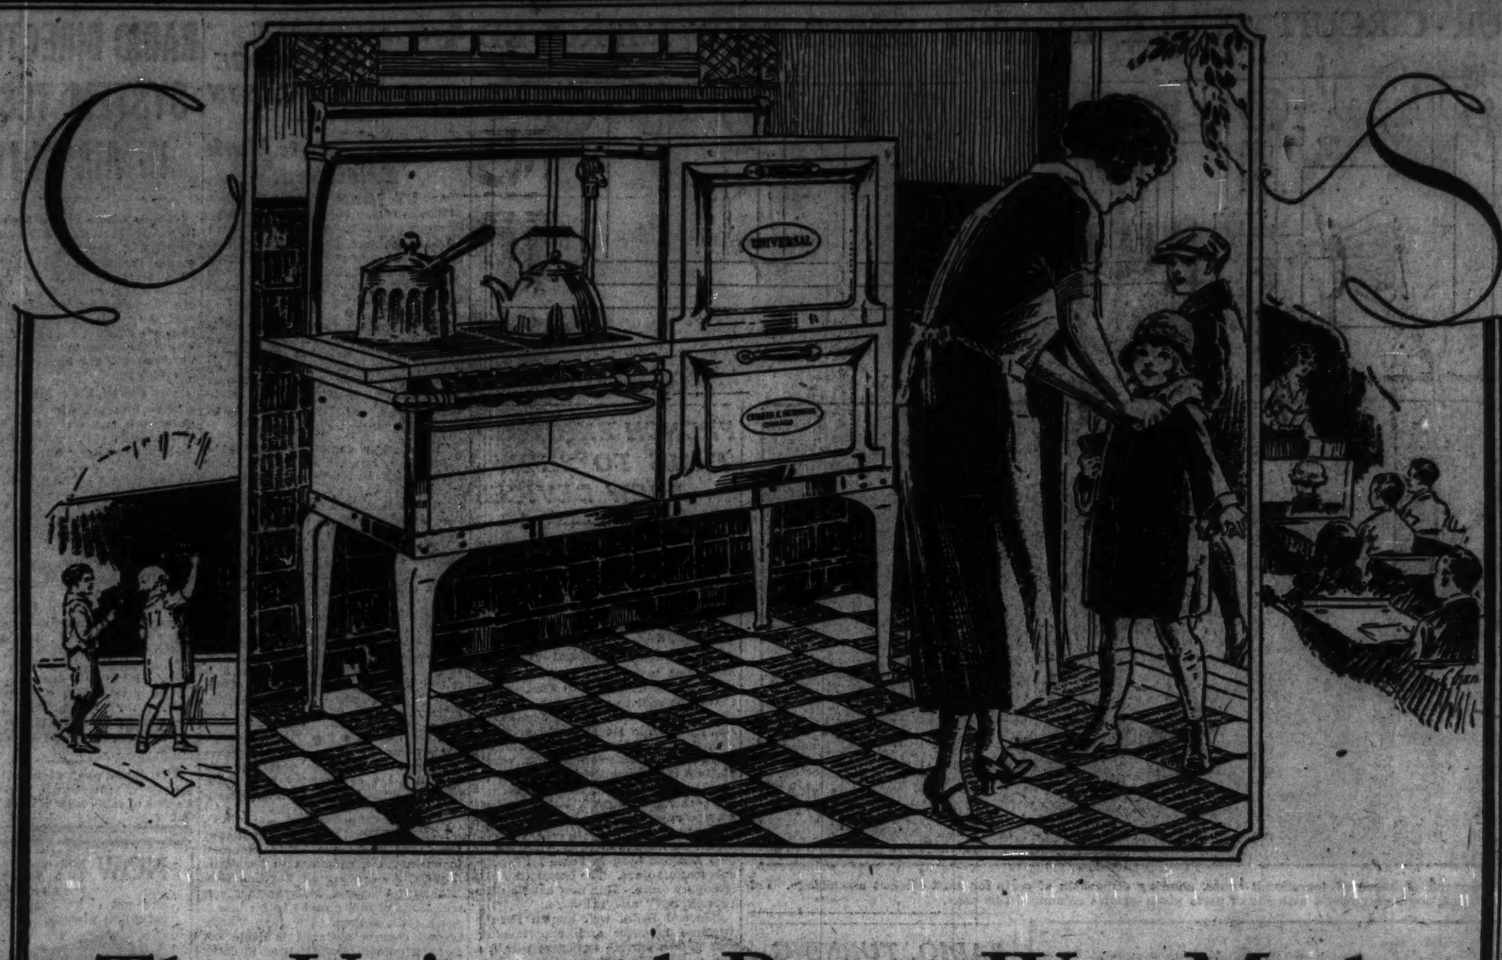
To Architects and Builders

Modernize your apartments with "the new and finer gas range"—Universal. Save crating and freight costs. Service direct from factory.

"You can do it better with Gas"



The Universal Range Was Made for Busy Women

Again September and school days. Again the hurry to get the children off on time. Still greater demands on the busy mother. Still more reasons why she ought to have a glistening white porcelain UNIVERSAL Gas Range in her kitchen.

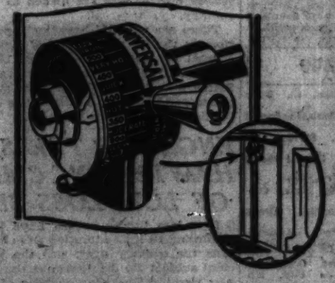
Any busy woman who takes pride in her kitchen will choose this immaculate, gracefully designed range—not alone for its exceptional beauty but for the many practical advantages and improvements it also offers her. She will marvel, for instance, at the Universal Oven Heat Control and the time it will save her.

In many other respects, too, the Universal Gas Range is far ahead.

Each of its numerous and exclusive features will save you steps, time and money. You need not take our word for it. Satisfy yourself. See your dealer. Ask for a demonstration—a comparison. Decide for yourself why the UNIVERSAL is the gas range for you—or any other busy woman.

Universal Oven Heat Control

Eliminates all guesswork in baking, roasting, canning and cooking whole meals. Simply set the porcelain handle at the desired temperature on the Universal Oven Control and the given temperature will be maintained indefinitely, insuring perfect success in every case. You can prepare dishes that only expert chefs are accustomed to undertake.



The many styles and trims to select from enable every family to own one of these beautiful, modern kitchen helpers. They are priced as low as it is possible to price ranges of quality, dependability and long life. Call on your Universal Franchise Dealer now. See them. Select the stove best suited to your needs and pocketbook.

Wonder What the Birdmen Think of Us Mere Mortals

By Mme. X.

NOTHING so brilliant, so thrilling has been reflected in this mirror of the moment for some time as the vision of the youthful American birdmen, Lieuts. Lowell H. Smith, Erik Nelson, John Harding, Leigh Wade, H. H. Ogden, and Leslie Arnold, as they flashed across our cities last week on the last lap of their epoch making globe encircling flight. As they sat last Monday evening at the banquet given them by the Association of Commerce and other organizations, eating in smiling silence and listening to the greetings and praises of their enthusiastic hosts, I wondered if memories of lonely, storm swept skies; of soaring, death threatening mountain peaks; of wild, upreaching seas; of strange, shouting savages; of desolate deserts and ruthless jungles did not come to them and seem more real than the ballroom of the Drake and the company of comfortable, well fed, stay at homes who gave them, in the interstices of a clamorous hand, such a vociferous greeting.

The companionship of mere mortals after that of the everlasting stars, the winds of the universe, the unconquered mountain peaks, the eager oceans, and the sleeping wilderness must at times seem inadequate, to put it mildly. The great forerunner and rival of this illustrious sextet, Ferdinand Magellan, the Portuguese navigator, who was the first recorded human being to circumnavigate this globe, must have felt that he had exhausted mortal emotions when he closed his eyes in the savage loneliness of the Indian ocean in 1519.

Also, I wonder whether to Lieut. Smith and his companions the earth seems quite as large as before they set around it. I know that the few long voyages this writer has made, which include the circumnavigation of the African continent and a trip to a northern point in Sweden, seemed to shrink the size of this planet quite materially. A road followed for the first time always seems longer than it ever does afterward. Several journeys to and from California make that distant state seem almost as near as New York, which in its turn seems much closer at hand than Springfield, Ill. It's old Einstein's theory of relativity applied to personal experiences.

Fine Feathers.

It is the moment of the year when every one is in a state of anticipation and preparation. In the country the trees are already putting on their autumn colors of reds, browns, and yellows, although it is almost a month too early for quite such a display. Those who have been enjoying the imitation summer which has been our portion hereabouts are already packing their light and airy wardrobes away, and I never saw such a large crop of winter hats as already is in evidence. To go to a luncheon in summer millinery is to feel conspicuous and behind the times.

A glimpse of one or two fashion shows makes one realize the uncanny genius of the arbiters of the modes in creating new ones that are just enough different from those being laid aside to make the sensitive unhappy in the old ones and to long for the new ones. The waistline, for one thing, is dropping out of sight. It is for the moment hugging some knees, but threatens soon to descend until it meets the skirt's high bottom line. The courageous are cutting their skirts so short that the old woman who lived in a cupboard and who fell asleep by the wayside when her petticoats were snipped off by an unknown —presumably a Parisian dressmaker —had nothing on the modern dame in this line. Therefore the meeting of the waistline and the knees is a foregone conclusion.

And the hats—my dear, they are too odd for words! Little, tight, bleak bits of millinery with blobs of pompons sticking out at any angle. The woman with an average hair thatch has to cut out fistfuls of it to be able to stick her head into one of these modern creations. Furthermore, be sure you cover the right ear with your hat or its trimming. But the shoes are pretty enough to make up for the short skirts and uncomfortable hats. They are of every cut and as fancy as you please.

Materials for frocks and cloaks this season are various and delicious, as well as being many hued. Fur is more than ever a la mode, and lace is coming in again as a trimming.

I think that we women are going to look as did those of our sex in the Directoire period before the creators of the French empire and its fashions came on the scene. It was a brief and chic moment in the world of both dress and interior furnishing. It was not unlike the present moment in history, as revolutions of all kinds had spread like a prairie fire over the civilized world and torn an artificial period to tatters. The white wigs and spreading skirts of the Louis XVI. period vanished before the "sans-culottes," and only in a stealthy manner did fine feathers return as the plumage of the world that amused itself. So with us after the world war the almost universal black and simple garments, which were the mode these four terrible years, are being replaced by these somewhat fantastic fashions.

Sure to Change.

But one could ask nothing more sane and comfortable than are certain features of women's dress and fashions today. The much criticised shingled hair, which is so becoming to the young and fresh, and often to their elders as well, is likewise a healthy custom. The frocks that slip on over the head and hang from the shoulders and are easy to wear and light in weight, constraining the figure nowhere—could anything be more wholesome, as well as graceful and becoming? I wish that I might look forward to a long and corsetless life, for the elastic stays which many still wear are no real or unwholesome restraint to once tightly laced womanhood.

But history tells us over and over again of the inevitable rotation of modes, a turning wheel which will without fail bring back the styles which imprisoned souls and bodies not so many years ago. No despot ever exercised such an ironbound sway over his subjects as do the fashion dictators of the day, especially those who preside in Paris. Their enforcing police and administrators are the French coiffeurs and Parisian midinettes. As the French capital dresses so dresses the rest of the fashionable world with one exception, and that is the English court, where that remarkable custodian of the past, Queen Mary, still ties her hats high, wears her skirts long, coiffs her hair off the ears as of yore, and requests those court ladies in her immediate entourage to follow her example.

Well, clip your hair a bit closer, go get you a long, slim frock very much such as Noah's Ark ladies are depicted as wearing; top it with a small, high, almost brimless hat [not unlike that one that Pat, the Irish yokel, wears]; don the ornate footgear to be found in all the shoe shop windows; enclose yourself in a long, slim fur trimmed coat, and you'll be ready for whatever is expected of you in the gay world.

Evening dresses are built along the same lines which require of you enough abstinence to create small hips, though some of the extra adipose tissue may be safely pushed up into the region above the untrammeled waistline, and there escape notice. However, please notice that the great ladies of today, the leaders in social circles, are almost without exception noticeably for their slender build because they practice self-denial and abstinence. They seldom overeat, and even fewer of them do more than sip an occasional cocktail. If vanity rather than principle directs their conduct it is an admirable example of good effects from uninteresting motives, and a case where the means justify the end.

Apropos of the British, our admirable cousins, here is the way an anonymous Frenchman aired them up. I found it so amusing when I ran across it in a clipping from an English paper that I pass it on to you:

SOME CANDID REFLECTIONS.

[By a Frenchman.]

The British do not understand religion, they believe it.

They do not eat, they take in fuel.

They do not argue, they fight.

They are very polished and polite like icebergs.

Their women folk do not dress, they clothe: neatly.

They live in an island, and each on his own island.

They are blind to their own virtues and are polite about those of others.

They do not get angry because they

MISS LOUISE MITCHELL.
[Raymor Photo.]

The bride and two of her attendants in one of the most important of the fall weddings were Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell, who was Miss Marjorie King before her marriage last Wednesday afternoon, and Miss Louise Mitchell and Miss Lydia Hibbard, who served her as bridesmaids.

The service was read at 5 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's church by the Rev. Norman Hutton. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are sailing in a few days for Europe, to be gone for several weeks, after which they are to reside at 5730 Sheridan road. Mrs. Mitchell's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King of 1450 Astor street, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell of 1550 State parkway.

MISS LYDIA HIBBARD.
[Raymor Photo.]

Miss Louise Mitchell is the sister of the bridegroom, and one of the most popular of the younger members of society.

Miss Hibbard, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard of 1344 Astor street, is a bride of the near future. She is to marry John Edmund Holland Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edmund Holland of 1324 Astor street, although plans for the wedding have not yet been announced. Mr. Holland ushered at the King-Mitchell nuptials.

Tomorrow We Present Our Unusual Collection of Original Paris Models

GOWNS · ENSEMBLE COSTUMES · WRAPS

She Who Shops At Stevens Buys Distinction

Our formal opening of the Autumn fashion season starts tomorrow with our presentation of an unusually large and complete collection of Paris models personally selected by our own buyers from all the well known large Couturiers as well as from the more exclusive small modistes where the ultra smart Parisienne buys. Such a complete selection of direct and interesting importations enables the Chicago woman to do her Paris shopping at Chas. A. Stevens & Bros. There are also French adaptations and reproductions with many Stevens originations that will appeal to the most fastidious women.

Original Models from Premet, Drecoll, Lanvin, Madeleine Vionnet, Molyneux, Patou and Reneé will not bother to. When they do, they only say: "Very well."

They go abroad to learn how much better they are.

They are very courageous, that is why they laugh so well.

They are not vindictive with their enemies, they are too strong.

They are happy in spite of their weather, therefore they are happy anywhere.

Their philosophy of life is very brief and very simple, but it is very difficult.

They are not phlegmatic, they are quietly energetic.

Their greatest art is acquisition. It is natural and graceful, and everybody envies it.

They are the stanchest friends and the best mothers.

I wish I were an Englishman.

The Bartlett Loan Collection.

Before they left Chicago ten days or so ago the Frederick C. Bartletts had a good time for a whole long day in the Art institute hanging the interesting and intriguing collection of modern French paintings which Mr. Bartlett has been making for the last two or three years. He is lending it for the time being to the Art institute with the idea of making it a permanent gift if it be found acceptable to the taste of the day.

It certainly takes an up to date education to give this gathering its due measure of appreciation. It has on the average and unenlightened spectator a curious effect. He or she studies it with a certain undeniable bewilderment, anxious not to be left behind in the advance into unknown territories of artistic development, yet not quite grasping what Matisse is driving at or why Modigliani's starving body directed his imagination along such strange paths, or where we are going with Gaugin, Derain, Van Gogh, Pruna, Herbin, et al.

The large canvas from the brush of that remarkable genius, Seurat, is one of half a dozen of his paintings of this size, and in the opinion of many is the finest of them all. There are portraits of a couple of beaming, gleaming, red bearded men by the Swiss, Hodler, which catch the eye. Report says he painted a portrait of Arthur Aldis when the latter was in Paris last spring, but as Mr. Aldis is still lingering in the east I am not able to verify it. The Bartlett loan collection is a sophisticated and captivating exhibit. Its power is manifested when one turns from it to a more conventional gathering of paintings and finds them rather trite and uninteresting.

Close by it is an equally interesting but quite different picture show. It comes to us from Vienna and is brought here by Herr Kollar. It is the work of the entirely untutored, undirected school children of that part of the world. It is full of color, spirit, and originality. It is extraordinary to note the close resemblance between this collection and the work of the primitive artists of every race. There is the same naïve treatment of line and the same unconsciously clever handling of colors. It is a delightful revelation of the genuine art of a people.

Herr Kollar is an enthusiastic exponent of this outlet for youthful expression in its psychological effect. He maintains that given such an opportunity as these encouraged but undirected drawings and paintings afford will induce normality among children, providing as it does a wholesome outlet for the strange phantasies of childhood which might otherwise seek, as we have seen recently, other channels for expression. It is well worth a visit from all who are interested in the development of the youth of a nation.

A Shock for the Conservatives.

For the last year or two, when my highly esteemed friend and eye doctor, J. Wendell Clarke, instead of discussing my astigmatic eyes, has dilated on a novel he was perpetrating, I have failed to give him my entire attention. So when "In the Sight of God," the first child of his brain, finally appeared on the booksellers' tables, it took me by surprise and inadvertently I, who have no money for such luxuries as new books, bought a copy of it for $2. Idly I opened it, and my first impulse was to curse the publisher for sending it out with uncut leaves. Paper cutters are noticeably errant instruments and never to be found when most needed. Finally having overcome this obstacle, I found a delightful and spirited introduction by Dr. Dudley.

MRS. GORDON A. GRANGER.
[Maisons Photo.]

Miss Louise Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ellis of Beverly Hills, was married on Sept. 10 to Gordon A. Granger, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles T. Granger of Rochester, Minn. The bride's attendants were Miss Ethel Barber, maid of honor, and Miss Louise and Miss Virginia Granger, bridesmaids. Malcolm Graham of Rochester, Minn., was best man, and Joseph Mayo of Rochester and Keith Bros of Iowa City ushered. Mr. and Mrs. Granger will reside after Oct. 1 at Iowa City.

Says the doctor, in making an appeal to the reader to note the underlying intention of the novel:

"There is hope when we consider that the theology of yesterday is the mythology of today; that the heterodoxy of today may become the orthodoxy of tomorrow; there is hope when we consider that the steam engine, telegraph, phonograph, telephone, germ theory, vaccination, linotype, evolution, geology, oxygen, wireless, radio, Pasteur, Michael Servetus, Galileo, Christopher Columbus, rotundity and movement of the earth, the Atlantic cable, everything of value except original sin has been anathematized, each in its time, and swept into the limbo of outer darkness; there is hope when we consider that what, in hackneyed phrase, is called the consensus of opinion once stigmatized these things as playthings, barren idealities, curiosities, and these people as visionaries who never by any possibilities could earn their living."

A romance founded on the Mendellian or heredity theory does not sound highly exciting, and yet here is one that keeps your attention from beginning to end. As Dr. Dudley says at the close of his foreword, "Who takes this book up will put it down when the drip of the candle floods full on the stick; when the last page has been turned."

There is much in it that may startle and arouse the opposition of the conservative. The reader is confronted by the picture of a young and unmarried woman desiring a child of her own, to such a degree that she sets to work to get, or beget one, at the first opportunity, and with no regard to the laws of man. But Jane Towerover (is the name symbolical, doctor?) is, as depicted by the author, a remarkable and out of the ordinary young person, a sort of superwoman and much in advance of her generation. As a guide for the young of the day she is perhaps a little too far ahead of her possible followers.

The author is again at work on a second novel—and I am getting more astigmatic. I hope it won't interfere with my acceptance of the Mendellian theory as presented by Dr. Clarke.

Speaking of Dr. Dudley, there is an amusing story of his trip to China a year ago, which shows how at the opposite end of the poles we and the Chinese are. Dr. Dudley, through the ministrations of an interpreter, was giving a lecture to an assemblage of Chinese scientists. He was introduced by a learned mandarin, whose words seemed to arouse much enthusiasm for the doctor on the part of his pigtailed audience. He asked the interpreter what had been said about him to evoke this appreciation. The latter replied that the introducer had merely said that he, Dr. Dudley, was 114 years old, age being to the Chinese the most desirable of all possible attributes.

Uniting Two Prominent Families.

The King-Mitchell wedding last Wednesday afternoon drew the courtrybound in throngs cityward. The church, St. Chrysostom's, was crowded to suffocation. The walls of the King mansion on Astor street fairly bulged with the multitude of friends of the two well known families who assembled after the ceremony to wish them all well. There never was a fairer bride than Miss Marjorie King. Her lovely blonde hair was tightly inclosed by the long tulle veil which floated behind her like a summer evening mist. The bridesmaids in their dark brown frats and salmon pink chiffon frocks were a vision of youth.

The parents of the bride and groom were an ornamental part of the picture. Those of the former are noted for their youthful looks: Mrs. King being the youngest looking grandmother in existence. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, is one of the handsomest among the older women in Chicago society. His father, John J. Mitchell, with his deep set dark eyes, thick dark eyebrows, snow white hair, ruddy complexion and decidedly Gallic air, always to this writer looks like a much rejuvenated Clemenceau. Of course, it is an unwritten law never to mention the bridegroom in an account of the wedding, but to complete the record we must say that he gave his responses during the wedding services in a strong and firm voice. He looked serious, but undismayed.

Mrs. Arthur Ryerson is in Chicago for a few days before she goes west to sail for China on Oct. 8. She is taking with her her son, John Borie Ryerson, and Miss Peabody, a niece of the well known portrait painter who is best known in her work as "Day Emmett," but who is in reality Mrs. William Rand. Also W. E. D. Stokes Jr. is going with the party. Mrs. Ryerson has taken a furnished house for two months in Peking. She is staying at her own home on Lake View avenue until she departs, after which, about Oct. 1, the Medill McCormicks will move in.

Other Chicagoans who will be in Peking until January are Miss Margaret Enders and Miss Dora Seeberger, who will be with Mrs. William J. Calhoun during their stay in the Chinese capital. Mrs. Noble B. Judah and Mrs. Volney Foster, who went abroad together a fortnight ago, and are in Paris now, will return to Chicago some time in October. The former undoubtedly went to acquire some new things for the apartment on Lake View avenue to which she and her husband are moving in the course of the next month or two. The John T. McCutcheons, Howard Shaws, Charles Edward Browns, Charles Hutchinsons, and Ernest Hamills are or will be other occupants of this recently completed building.

The presence of this assemblage of well known and well liked persons will go far to make more popular the region north of and west of Lincoln park. The continuing tendency of Chicago's beau monde is to huddle together in that somewhat congested district which lies between Chicago and North avenues and east of Clark street. But little by little its members are drifting northward.

First Meet of the Season.

The horn of the hunter is heard on the Lake Forest hills. The first meet of the season was billed for yesterday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock from the Onwentsia kennels. For the rest of the month there will be regular meetings to follow the hounds on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 2:45 p. m. The October meetings will be announced later. There will probably be much later in October the customary steeplechase which is always an exciting event, but as yet I have heard no definite date as being set.

Miss Muriel McCormick is closing and removing her belongings from the apartment belonging to the late Thomas Chalmers, and which has been taken by the E. W. Cramers. Miss McCormick will accompany Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock when they go to Palm Beach soon after Christmas to occupy their new house now a-building there.

Mrs. McKinlock and Miss McCormick returned recently from an extended trip through the eastern summer playgrounds. They took in the Meadowbrook polo match and Cape Cod and the Berkshires, as well as Boston's north shore and other nearby retreats.

So the dial's needle goes inevitably round and round, pointing its long or short, gray impalpable finger at the numbers writ thereon. Day follows day, and week succeeds to week, until here we are on the threshold of winter when we have not got through scolding summer for its shortcomings and mosquitoes. What are you going to do about it? Me, too!

In Honor of Henry Dixey.

That guardian of the twin muses of tragedy and comedy, the Chicago Drama league, is giving a tea in honor of Henry E. Dixey, one of the best known veterans of the American stage. The affair will take place next Thursday afternoon at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. There will be music, Miss Marie Morrisey in a group of English songs, accompanied by Harold E. Hammond. Mrs. Joseph B. Long is president of the Drama league, while receiving or pouring tea will be the Mesdames Arthur Meeker, Rockefeller McCormick, Fletcher Durbin, Moses Dwyer, Miss Helen Mencken, and Miss Patricia Collings.

Henry Dixey dates back to venerable prim ages, when his pranks were the talk of the day, and it was somewhat of an adventure for the young to be taken to see him, something which was

This Is a Week of Special Values at Lyon & Healy's

EVERYTHING KNOWN IN MUSIC

When, in 1864, the first small store of Lyon & Healy opened to supply "Everything Known in Music," that slogan was but little more than a guiding ambition. Today it is a living reality! Back of it lie the resources—in plants and equipment, in organization, in experience, in knowledge—of the world's foremost music house. And underlying these resources, directing every activity of the house, are the ideals of quality firmly implanted by its founders and steadfastly maintained.

The Lyon & Healy Apartment Grand Piano

THIS is the supreme piano for the moderate-sized home. It brings all the elegance and grace, the incomparable musical quality of the grand piano within a size proportioned to the modern living room. So delightful is its tone—rich and sweet, of unusual depth and color—that it is known as the piano that "sings beneath the fingers." The attractive value which this instrument represents at $1150 is emphasized by its exclusive advantages—notably the Candelectra and Junior Unfolding Pedal. —Third Floor

Piano Bargain Bazaar

Economy is made practical and desirable here. The values are greatly underpriced. They have been carefully re-conditioned and for use and in appearance are as new. Prices begin at $50. —Sixth Floor

Fall Style Notes in Lamps

The inviting charm of modern home furnishings makes the display of lamps here one of appeal. The designs are exquisite. Colorful and yet created with a considerate eye for harmony in the home, they suggest many corners which they will brighten by night and make gay by day.

There is a profusion of styles in floor, bridge and table lamps. There are also many novelty designs for hall, desk and boudoir. A group of special appeal is one of Almco Lamps.

Prices are very moderate and you may buy a lamp on terms as low as 80 cents a week. —Fourth Floor

Special Values in Piano Benches and Roll Cabinets

Inexpensive and demanded by good taste, the piano bench offers an opportunity to add a new note to the home. Those here are very attractive.

They reflect the modern furniture trend and are obtainable in the plain wood or with upholstered seats. $12 and up.

A new roll cabinet will freshen the living room and will help keep your roll library intact. $12 and up. —Fourth Floor

Take Home a New Roll

This week there are many new jolly selections in song or dance rolls. Special 3 for $2.00.

2806 Charley My Boy!—Fox Trot $1.25
2811 Doodle Doo Doo—Fox Trot $1.25
2737 Down Hawaii Way—Hawaiian Marimba Waltz $1.25
2816 Driftwood—Fox Trot $1.25
2816 Dumb Dora—Waltz, Silver-Caslon $1.25
2807 Duna—Bluebird Ballad $1.25
2825 Home for the Rest of My Life—Fox Trot, Lauder-Wendling $1.25

The Steinway Piano

A recent shipment of this magnificent instrument enables us once more to display all styles and models. The exhibit is most attractive. A visit to it will reveal pianos of the highest character. Their very surfaces seem to mirror the skill which has built them.

Would you, too, not like to own an "instrument of the immortals?" The chosen piano of the great pianists from Wagner and Liszt to the present, ownership of it would repay you forty fold for the investment. Prices begin at $875. —Third Floor

Special Term Arrangements

28 Months to Pay!

On any piano selected during this month you may obtain special term arrangements of 28 months in which to pay. On your choice you need pay nothing down. Pay only a nominal sum to cover our cartage costs and the piano will be delivered to you at once.

Also any piano selected will be accepted by us within six months at full price paid towards the purchase of any other piano in our entire stock. Generous allowance given on old pianos that are taken in part exchange.

Don't Move Your Old Piano!

Let us take it off your hands. We will give you a desirable credit check for it and remove it to our warerooms. Later when you are settled in your new home, you can come in and select a new piano, applying the credit check as part payment.

Freight charges are prepaid within a radius of 100 miles of Chicago.

Low Rental Rates

If you do not care to buy a piano right away, we will rent you one at low rates. Perhaps you may decide to buy such a rented piano. If so, we credit 6 months' rental towards the purchase price.

We also store and move pianos at very low rates with a guarantee against injury.

Free Piano Floor Patterns

If you are considering buying a piano, now or later, write for a set of floor patterns of grand and upright pianos. A great help in settling many questions about space needed, arrangement of furniture. A request incurs no obligation.

FREE Piano Lessons

Mothers with children between the ages of 8 and 14 who have not had piano lessons are urged to enroll their children in the Melody Way Classes. No obligation nor need you have a piano.

not sanctioned by "our best people." It is one more proof that if you live long enough and keep on working at your trade, no matter what you do, the crown of respectability will be pressed on your brows and the approbation of the world will be accorded to you. Sarah Bernhardt was a bright and shining example of this. A tinge of scarlet covered her in her brilliant and erratic youth, but when she died she was considered the brightest star in France's crown of jewels. Time, the final arbiter, brings everything and every one into focus, shedding the immaterial and bringing out the everlasting realities. So here's long life to Henry Dixey, the dean of the American stage and one of the greatest favorites of three generations!

WEDDINGS.

No wedding or engagement announcement will be published in The Tribune unless it bears the signature, address, and telephone number of a parent, either of the bride or the bridegroom. Announcements should reach the society editor not later than the Thursday morning preceding the Sunday they are to be printed.

Now We Have Soap Bowls That Float

From England, the land of the tubbed and the shaven, comes the latest thing in soaps—soap bowls. They can be had in either of two sizes, although the smaller ones are really for the stronger sex, for their morning razorings.

The bowls are of dull brown wood, unpolished and charming, like old furniture discovered in some one's cluttered barn, and they float in the tub, so that they are handy of the handles. Soft sponges and brushes can be had, neatly boxed, to accompany them, and the list of scents in which the soap is to be had is complete enough to suit even the most demanding of the toiletters.

And, besides all this, and most practical detail of all, the bowls can be refilled when they are used up. So that one bowl will last almost as long as one bather, with the help of fragrant new fillers.

VAUDEVILLE WIT

RIALTO.

Tower and Farrell:

"I just came from a funeral, I mean wedding. My boy, Milton, was murdered, I mean married. My boy Milton and his wife were the most devoted lovers that ever lived."

"Then he had to get married and spoil it all."

"She's a nice woman and all that, but she only had a small bank roll."

"And such a stingy fellow her father is. He's so stingy he wouldn't buy a calendar for fear he wouldn't live the year out."

"And say, what a wife. She always complains of not having anything to wear."

"In the old days, Eve never said that she had nothing to wear when she went out calling with Adam—because they never went out calling."

"There wasn't anyone living to call on."

"And even if she did want something new to wear, Adam would go out and get a fig leaf."

"But, say, if Eve wasn't the first woman, some one else would have been."

"My wife might have been the first woman. I wish she was, then Adam could have had a taste of trouble instead of tasting the apple."

ART AND ARTISTS

There's a History Lesson in Pourbus' Coligny Portrait

By Eleanor Jewett.

OTEN history, as vivid and dramatic as fiction, is woven into paintings which we, untaught, fail to note unless it is spelled out for us by others better informed than ourselves. Do you remember a famous French admiral and leader of the Huguenots—Coligny? He was born in 1519 and was killed in 1572. As leader of the Huguenots he became, in the politics of the France of that day, a powerful factor, and King Charles XI. relied on him to a great extent.

The trust and liking of the king for Coligny was not shared by the queen mother. She, bent on counteracting the admiral's influence, ordered the massacre of the Huguenots. Coligny escaped for the minute. Later an assassin, a servant of the Duke of Guise, in conspiracy with the aged queen, killed him and threw his body into the court at the feet of King Charles.

It is appropriate to recall this scrap of history, for in the Mr. and Mrs. Francis Neilson collection of paintings in the Art institute there is a portrait of the Frenchman by the Dutch painter, Peter Jansz Pourbus, an artist of the sixteenth century. The portrait was one of those rare discoveries about the facts of which legends grow. Mr. Neilson was searching the art stores and curio shops of Europe and a curio dealer offered him an old piece of canvas for a small sum. On examination Mr. Neilson thought the canvas, covered though it was with the accumulation of dust of many years, might be worth cleaning on the strength of the faint highlights showing through the grime.

In short, he bought the picture. An expert cleaner removed six or seven layers of grime, dirt, and varnish, and there appeared this rare painting by the Dutch painter, Pourbus. The Coligny portrait was returned to public appreciation. The head of the admiral had been cut from the original portrait, and all that remained surrounding the head was a few inches of canvas, showing a part of the background and a portion of the uniform. After complete restoration the painting was found to be a masterly likeness, setting forth to splendid advantage the strong features and forceful character of Coligny.

"Bronze Caryatide," by Rodin, the gift of Robert Allerton to the Chicago Art institute. This is one of three Rodins that have been acquired by gift to the institute this year. The imposing "Adam" is, without a doubt, the most impressive figure (it, too, was a gift of Mr. Allerton's), but the most charming is the delicate group of "Little Brother and Sister," given by the Arts club.

Nothing of immense importance has as yet supplanted the famous paintings of the summer loan collections in the galleries of the institute. The exception of the work of Ole Tilanese school children must, of course, be excepted. That is a most unusual exhibition and one, which though vastly different, deserves on certain grounds to rank with the canvases of the great masters in winning our attention. The modern French paintings in the Birch-Bartlett collection, strike another note to the east wing galleries and prepare us for the various changes in character of painting that the winter exhibits may introduce.

The popularity of the Art institute has for a long time been outside of the field of conjecture. This last August has seen 89,862 visitors enter its doors, as against 81,129 for the August of last year, and 55,212 for the August of 1922. The total attendance at the Art institute for the eight months ending Aug. 31, 1924, was 612,534, as against 547,186 for the corresponding period of the preceding year. The gain in attendance was 65,341—a fact of pleasing import.

To meet the growing needs of the school of the Art institute six new rooms, in the new addition to the museum, are being prepared for the school, opening on Sept. 29. This space, which will be used only temporarily, consists of the newly built galleries adjoining the Alexander McCormick memorial court on the south. Each gallery is 24x40 feet and is 15 feet high, lighted by high side windows. They were designed for exhibition purposes and will be used as such at a later time, but for the present the overflow of students in the school will be cared for in these rooms.

Gallery No. 25, containing the most important part of the Potter Palmer collection of paintings recently presented to the institue, has been redecorated and the canvas walls painted a neutral but attractive shade of gray green. The woodwork has been given a darker shade, and the resulting effect sets off the paintings to much greater advantage. The gallery contains some of the finest examples of the Barbizon school to be found in any collection.

The large central gallery in the south wing of the Art institue building, gallery No. 2, which formerly was occupied by early Greek sculpture and more lately by the loan collection of famous tapestries, has now been cleared of all exhibits and will be used by the new department of dramatic art. This is a fresh venture of the school and is destined to become an important feature. A stage is to be erected in the gallery, and arrangements have been made for seating 400 persons. Thomas Wood Stevens, known as the originator of pageantry in America, and now of the Carnegie institue at Pittsburgh, will be the head of the dramatic art department.

Alfonso Iannelli has returned from a three months' visit to Europe, where he went for the purpose of studying various schools and methods of art instruction on the continent. He was particularly impressed with the results being obtained in several of the larger schools in Holland, more especially in the field of design. He visited also France, Italy, Germany, and Austria.

Robert Allerton has just presented to the Art institute a drawing in pen and ink and faint washed colors by the Swiss artist, Ferdinand Hedler, who today is receiving great recognition. To be exact, his work is—Hedler died in 1920. The sketch, it is little more, represents six soldiers in the act of hastily donning their uniforms. The title is "March of the Volunteers," and the moment is snatched from the period of feverish preparation by the men to join tfeir comrades in the struggle, fought in 1813, to free the allies from the yoke of Napoleon.

The museum instruction department of the Art institute outlines a tremendously interesting program for the season beginning Oct. 1. Applications for attending any of the classes may be made at any time to Miss Helen Parker. No entrance examinations are required, and there are no obligations as to courses of preliminary study. The subjects are treated in informal lectures with the use of lantern slides and the various institute collections.

Mondays at 11, the Minor Arts of the Art institute collections, under Miss Parker; Tuesdays at 11, under Miss Upton, the Art institute collections, emphasizing the paintings and sculpture; Tuesdays at 1, under Miss Upton, the Enjoyment of the Visual Arts; Thursday at 11, Period Styles of Interior Architecture and their Furnishings; Friday at 11, Great Art Centers of Europe, under Miss Parker; Fridays at 2:30, under Miss Parker, Color, Its Appreciation and Use; first and third Saturdays of the month, at 2, Art Institute Collections, under Miss Parker; second and fourth Saturdays of the month, at 4, Appreciation of Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting, under Miss Upton; Children's Hour, Saturdays at 10.

Edmund Kopietz of the department of drawing, painting, and illustration of the Art Institue school, is spending a month near Taos, N. M., painting.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Fullerton hall, Lionel Robertson will give the third lecture of his course: "Interior Decoration—the Country Home." A week from tomorrow at the same hour he will lecture on the "City Home."

The thirty-seventh annual exhibition of American painting and sculpture will be held this year from Oct. 30 to Dec. 14 in the east wing galleries of the Art Institute.

A charming bronze of Rodin, "Little Brother and Sister," was a recent gift of the Arts club of the Art institute.

Barry Faulkner in his Paris studio, in the Rue du Val-de Grace, is engaged in painting a group of screens to be exhibited in New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh this fall.

Paul Dougherty, the distinguished marine painter, has been this summer on the Brittany coast with his wife and daughter. Dougherty is a familiar figure among the old timers of the Parisian Latin quarter and, something you realise the importance of when you frequent an occasional Paris coffee room, has endeared himself to many a French painter by his excellent game of chess.

A group of paintings by colored Chicago artists is on exhibition at the Wabash avenue department of the Y. M. C. A., 18th street and Wabash avenue. This is the first exhibit in Chicago by the organization of colored artists.

What's Wrong Here?

Answer below.

Back Comes the Button to Shoes

It's been some time now since buttons have felt at home on shoes. There have been laced shoes and buckled shoes, strapped slippers and highly ornamented articles of footwear, but it was left for this season to go back to the buttons of yesterday and attach them to feminine footwear.

The newest walking shoes seen, while quite modern as to last and vamp, have a decided touch of quaintness in the three buttons that fasten them across the instep. They are low shoes, of course—the era of the high buttoned shoes is still a thing of the past, which doesn't at all mean it may not some time be again a thing of the present—and are turned out in tan or black kid, with a medium heel, so that they will be the last word in comfort as well as in style.

ANSWER TO WHAT'S WRONG HERE

If you leave a bridge party before other guests do not interrupt the game to say good night—merely say good night to your hostess and go as quietly as possible.

Bobbed Hair

Do what I do for it

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I have bobbed hair, and I believe in it. Millions of women who see it, on the stage and in society, envy its marvelous beauty.

But there is only one way I know to get that glint, that luster. It is due to a marvelous shampoo.

I cannot tell you why. The great actors in this shampoo are concealed from me. The makers claim them as discoveries which they desire to control.

But now I have induced them to make for you the very shampoo they make for me. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Fruity Shampoo. You can obtain it now for 60 cents at any drug or toilet counter.

I know it to be, after world-wide search, the greatest shampoo in the world. I guarantee it. Compare it with any shampoo you know, and your dealer will return your money if you are not delighted beyond measure.

Won't you do this for your own sake and in respect for me? Go learn what it means to you.

Embarrassing Moments

"Vengeance Is Mine"

By E. F. Younger.

Reckon Mose Brant is de stingies' man
Yo' gwine fin' anywha'h in disyer lan'.
Nebah gibs a kin' woh'd t' man or beas';
Jes' downright onnery, t' say de leas'.
His churry trees wuz jes' a-bendin' down;
Dem loaded lim's a'mos' tech de groun'.
Some robins was dah a-he'pin' deyself;
Tuk a few off de top; dey wuz plenty lef',
But Mose to' loose wid a two-ba'hl gun
An' shot 'em plumb t' kingdom come.
Po' birds didn't know dey wuz stealin' f'm Mose.
Good Lawd put dem churries right undeh dey nose.
Dey wuz 'nuff f'r all an' plenty t' spa'h,
But Mose couldn't 'bide t' gib 'em a sha'h.
Now I isn't sayin' Lawd is punishin' Mose,
But a mewl don' flung him an' bruk his nose,
An' a fiah burnt mos' ob his fences down,
An' de win' tho'd his cotton flat on de groun'.
Mose is tarin' 'roun' an' sayin' words,
But I bet he's sorry he kilt dem birds.
In de Good Book, onah Lawd He p'intedly say:
"Vengeance is Mine; I gwine t' repay."

Of especial interest to patrons who are building new homes or are about to equip new apartments—

We now inaugurate an Interior Decorating Service in conjunction with the September Homefurnishing sales

The experts associated with our

New advisory bureau of interior decoration will be in attendance at all times on the eighth floor and will gladly serve you in any capacity whatsoever throughout our store.

This service is two-fold in its purpose

Firstly: These experts will impart whatever knowledge is required of them concerning the beautification of the home as well as rendering advice on the correct kind of furnishing and color scheme to be used.

Secondly: If patrons so desire, a member of this advisory bureau will gladly accompany them and assist in the selection of merchandise from our salespeople.

There is no charge for this service

Thereby forming one more link in the long chain of courtesies which have distinguished this store with discriminating people over a long period of years.

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Jewish New Year Will Begin Next Sunday Evening

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

CROWDED synagogues, temples, and halls are so customary at the time of the Jewish holidays that advance reservations must be made by those desiring seats. While every one is welcome, late comers often find themselves unable to get in. The Jewish New Year begins next Sunday evening, and the principal service, Rosh Hashana, will be observed on Monday morning, Sept. 29, when the Shofar or ram's horn will announce the beginning of the period of special religious devotion which culminates in the day of atonement, Yom Kippur, a week hence.

The most spacious auditorium in Chicago, Medinah temple, Cass and Ohio streets, has been engaged by Temple Sholom for its services, and the rabbi, Dr. Abram Hirschberg, will be the speaker. The Rodfei Zedek congregation, of which Benjamin A. Daskal is rabbi, will hold services in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. college at 53d street and Drexel avenue.

St. Matthew's Episcopal church, 1738 West Marquette road, the Rev. E. V. Griswold, rector, will observe St. Matthew's day, the patron saint of the church, with a home coming of all former members at 11 o'clock today. The Rev. Walter S. Pond, rector of St. Barnabas' church, will preach. A new building is in prospect at St. Matthew's.

The Chicago presbytery will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Fourth church, North Michigan avenue and Delaware place. The Rev. M. G. Oggel will ask for the dissolution of his pastorate of the South Shore church so that he may accept a call to the Presbyterian church of Crawfordsville, Ind.

Dr. E. Stanley Jones of India, who will speak tomorrow morning at 10:45 at the Methodist ministers' meeting in the Chicago temple, is one of the few men who have declined election to the episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal church when election was a certainty. Dr. Jones is known throughout India as well as in China and Malaysia as a preacher of exceptional ability and success in reaching the educated classes among the non-Christians. His refusal to become a bishop was based on his desire to continue his special form of service.

The Rev. George Eisenbacher, rector of the Angel Guardian orphanage and chairman of the Catholic dependent child commission, will celebrate his silver jubilee as a priest next Wednesday. At the jubilee mass two classmates of the jubilarian will assist, and the Rt. Rev. Mgr. F. A. Rempe, V. G., will preach. Father Eisenbacher presides over extensive industries in connection with the orphanage. A building for the print shop and for quarters for the older boys was recently erected at a cost of $250,000.

Cardinal Mundelein of the Catholic church will dedicate today the new church and school of St. Francis of Paula at East 78th street and Ellis avenue. The Rev. J. Ambrose Murray is the pastor. The style of architecture is the Tudor-Gothic, and was designed by Arthur Foster. The first floor will be used as a church with an auditorium seating 1,000. The upper floors are fitted for classrooms. The congregation was organized twelve years ago, and Father Murray has been pastor two years.

[Child Photo.]

Dr. Ozora S. Davis is expected to arrive in Chicago tomorrow from a two months' trip to England, visiting Oxford and Cambridge universities and other points of interest, where he made a special study of ecclesiastical architecture. Dr. Davis is president of the Chicago Theological seminary (Congregational), a position he has held for fifteen years. He will have general direction of the dedication of the new seminary building at 5757 University avenue, which will be held in connection with the twenty-third triennial conference of the seminary, to which have been invited many leaders of the entire Congregational fellowship. The conference will open with a general meeting Tuesday evening at the Hyde Park Congregational church. The dedication of the new seminary building will take place on Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Dr. Davis is a graduate of Dartmouth college and Hartford Theological seminary and took the doctor of philosophy degree from Leipzig, Germany. He received the honorary degrees of doctor of divinity from both Iowa and Dartmouth colleges, and doctor of laws from both Colorado and Washburn colleges. He is the author of eight or more books. Among them are "The Gospel in Light of the Great War," "Evangelistic Preaching," "Preaching the Social Gospel," and "Preaching by Laymen."

Bishop Brenton T. Badley of Bombay, India, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will speak next Wednesday at 10:30 at the opening of the Chicago Training School for City, Home, and Foreign Missions at 4349 Indiana avenue. Bishop Badley was born in India of missionary parents, but was educated in America.

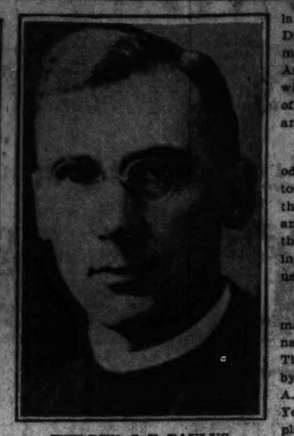
An entertainment in the interests of St. John's Catholic church, 18th and South Clark streets, will be held today at 3 and 8 p. m. at the theater at 8th street and South Wabash avenue. Painters and decorators will begin this week the work of restoring the interior of the church.

Dr. George L. Robinson, McCormick Theological seminary, will resume next Friday, 12 noon, a class for men teachers of the International Sunday school lessons at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street. There is no charge.

The Northeastern deanery of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will meet tomorrow morning at St. Mary's parish, Park Ridge, the Rev. N. Lee Smith, rector. Train leaves the C. & N. W. railroad station at 9:44, standard time. The Rev. H. D. Gwyn, the Rev. G. H. Thomas, the Rev. W. J. Weaver, and George Arthur will lead in the program.

A reception to Bishop and Mrs. Edwin H. Hughes will be given by the Methodist Social union at the Drake hotel on Monday evening, Sept. 29, at 6 o'clock.

The Rev. W. D. Fairchild, district superintendent of the Mattoon district of the Illinois conference, has been appointed area secretary of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church. His headquarters will be in the Chicago temple.



THE REV. C. E. PAULUS.
[Waters Photo.]

The Woodlawn Immanuel Lutheran church, 64th and Kenwood avenue, of which the Rev. C. E. Paulus is pastor and has been for ten years, will be dedicated this morning at 11 o'clock. The proximity of the church to the University of Chicago has made it the one most frequented by Lutheran students, especially of the United Lutheran church, in America. The architectural design was patterned after the style prevailing at the university. The church plant is valued at $175,000 and is one of the most beautiful and complete in the denomination.

Dr. John F. Seibert, general secretary of the board of home missions and church extension, will preach the dedicatory sermon. At 3 o'clock Dr. H. D. Hoover, president of Carthage college, will speak, followed by a fellowship service of city and visiting pastors. Next Tuesday at 8 p. m. Kenneth Hurst, president of the Lutheran League of Illinois, and Miss Louise Howe, secretary of the Lutheran club of the University of Chicago, will speak to young people. A pageant will also be given by the young people, "The Reply of Youth."

Wednesday evening will be Woodlawn community night, and Friday evening there will be a banquet and church rally.

The eighth annual pilgrimage to the shrine "Our Lady in Big Woods" near Aurora, Ill., will be made today under the leadership of the Rev. O. Strehl. Those desiring to go by train will meet at noon, daylight saving time, at the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin terminal, 314 South Wells street.

The young people's commission of the Chicago Church federation is gathering material to publish a church directory of Chicago, giving name of church, denomination, pastor, and principal office holders. At present there is no such book in the market.

The Rt. Rev. Charles P. Anderson, bishop of Chicago of the Episcopal church, will preach this morning at 11 o'clock at Cathedral Shelter, 117 North Peoria street. The day is the fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. David E. Gibson, who is priest in charge of the shelter.

Inte Fryar Patrick Hutchinson, son of Dr. E. B. Hutchinson. The young marine was killed in action in the Argonne. The figures in the window, which were made by Charles J. Connick of Boston, are those of Joan of Arc and St. George and the Dragon.

Farewell services of the First Methodist Episcopal church will be held today at 11 o'clock at Cohan's Grand theater, on Clark between Washington and Randolph streets. Next Sunday the Chicago temple, Clark and Washington streets, will be dedicated and used thereafter by the church.

The Pageant of Peace, a Christmas masque, will be produced in the gymnasium of Loyola university during Thanksgiving week. The pageant is by the same author, the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., as the Pageant of Youth, given last year in the same place. There will be sixteen schools and academies represented in the cast of 1,000 performers. The episodes will be the Desert, Rome, Greece, Egypt, and Judea.

The Seventh Day Adventists will celebrate next month the fiftieth anniversary of their foreign missionary work. The last report of the denomination says there are 14,389 evangelistic and institutional workers using 194 languages and 154 periodicals printed in 114 languages. The offerings in the last ten years have totaled $62,590,778, or $39.86 per capita. The membership in Europe is 67,500. In their various schools and colleges there is an enrollment of 22,800.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, a national organization, will be held in the new Chicago Temple, Clark and Washington streets, Oct. 8 to 15.

Mrs. Lute Johnson will bring greetings from the women of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Mrs. F. F. Lindsay will come as a delegate from the Woman's Foreign Missionary society.

A pageant at the temple, a banquet at the Drake hotel, a banquet for students at First church, Evanston, and a luncheon at the Auditorium hotel for young people will be the social functions.

Bishop Edwin K. Hughes will preach the annual sermon Sunday morning, Oct. 12. Miss Mary McDowell and Mrs. Thirkield, wife of Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkield, Mexico City, will be among the speakers.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew of the Chicago Episcopal diocese will hold its first fall assembly tomorrow at the Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth, the Rev. Leland H. Danforth, rector. Trains leave from the Chicago and Northwestern station, 1:20 and 1:45, daylight saving time. Service is at 5, supper at 6, and conference at 7; athletic stunts, 2:30-5 p. m.

A memorial stained glass window has been placed in the University Disciples' church, the Rev. Edward Scribner Ames, pastor, in honor of the

EXPERIENCED SALESMEN WHO WANT TO ENTER
THE BOND BUSINESS.

One of the oldest investment bond houses of the middle west has a few openings in its Chicago sales organization for experienced, successful salesmen who have definitely proved their ability in other lines of business.

Many selling appeals particularly to the man who has made good in his own line and who has the ambition to connect himself with a higher remuneration. Such a man realizes that he will have to go through a period of training in order to build up a profitable clientele. But he knows that once he has done this he will have a business of his own and will be established for life.

Bond buyers are the best kind of "repeat" customers. Many of our clients buy regularly—many every month or oftener. A bond salesman's remuneration is limited only by his selling ability and yield will be measured by the amount of time he is willing to devote to his work.

Because it is generally known that successful bond salesmen make large incomes, an advertisement of this sort usually draws a great many replies from the "floater" type of salesman who is looking for "easy money." We are not interested in interviewing men of this type. If you can show a successful selling record and have the necessary aggressive sales ability and capacity for hard work to make a success in the bond business we shall be glad to talk with you.

Accepted applicants will be given a short, intensive training in financial principles and bond salesmanship and will be assisted by extensive advertising campaigns and a reasonable number of house leads.

After fully stating your qualifications in detail—your letter will be held in confidence and your references will not be approached without your permission. Address M 544, Tribune.

HIGH GRADE SALESMEN WHO ARE LOOKING FOR SOMETHING BETTER.

If you are an experienced, successful salesman, one of the leading investment banking institutions in Chicago would like to meet you. We want a man who is worth more to himself than he is now receiving.

We will train you for your work and give you the kind of co-operation you have a right to expect. We have several salesmen whose incomes range from $6,000 to $12,000 per year.

It is hard work to produce such results—but it is perhaps more pleasant work than you have ever done before.

We want to hear from salesmen who have learned that there is no such thing as "easy money" and who are interested in a real opportunity as indicated in our letter. Early in longhand, giving sufficient information to lead to an appointment. Address M 545, Tribune.

INVESTMENT SALESMAN.

An investment salesman is his own boss, creates his own customers who stay with him for life. When he has once built up a clientele, he can write his own ticket.

He is practically in business for himself, a partner in the firm without a cent of capital invested.

A large and well known investment banking firm is looking for a man who is ready for a full line of bonds. He must have had five years' selling experience in some high class specialty, real estate, insurance, bonds, advertising, etc.

The man we have in mind must be between 31 and 45 years of age; preferably married, and possess an exceptionally clean record of past performances.

Appearance, personality and ability, of course. Patience and persistence to build up a following.

The man we want will appreciate that anything worth having is worth working for and will be willing to sacrifice something and work hard for a few years so he can plant in the right soil and reap a fine income which will increase the longer he stays with it.

We have the reputation, prestige, a large amount of capital and we are looking for a man who can step right in and sell securities offered to the public intelligently.

The man who gets this job is fixed for life.

If you sell yourself to us—we will make you to handle our business and the way and help finance you at the start. Address in confidence, giving full particulars. Address P O 474, Tribune.

INVESTMENT SALESMAN.

An investment salesman is his own boss, creates his own customers who stay with him for life. When he has once built up a clientele, he can write his own ticket.

He is practically in business for himself, a partner in the firm without a cent of capital invested.

A large and well known investment banking firm is looking for a man who is ready for a full line of bonds. He must have had five years' selling experience in some high class specialty, real estate, insurance, bonds, advertising, etc.

The man we have in mind must be between 31 and 45 years of age; preferably married, and possess an exceptionally clean record of past performances.

Appearance, personality and ability, of course. Patience and persistence to build up a following.

The man we want will appreciate that anything worth having is worth working for and will be willing to sacrifice something and work hard for a few years so he can plant in the right soil and reap a fine income which will increase the longer he stays with it.

We have the reputation, prestige, a large amount of capital and we are looking for a man who can step right in and sell securities offered to the public intelligently.

The man who gets this job is fixed for life.

If you sell yourself to us—we will make you to handle our business and the way and help finance you at the start. Address in confidence, giving full particulars. Address P O 474, Tribune.

SALESMEN.
HERE IS THE KIND OF JOB
ANY MAN WOULD BE HAPPY IN.

I know what you are looking for; I know how hard it is for a man to find just what he wants in the way of a selling position—and the kind of pay that he wants to go with it. The position that I want to tell you about has everything that is necessary to make a man perfectly comfortable and happy. The pay is big and the position is highly dignified. The nature of the work is tremendously appealing, and we count our prospects by the thousands. You will command a handsome income, which, of course, you will require if you consider yourself even a fairly good salesman. The firm you will be connected with is very large, doing millions in volume annually. The position is not mechanical. You have plenty of freedom, and you are practically your own boss. Lack of experience in our line will not disqualify you for the position if you can show that you have had general business experience. The man who owns this business is a wealthy Chicagoan. He has a reputation for being a live-wire and is a good man to work for. He spends money to make money. He will spend money on you if you have anything tangible and worth while to offer as a trustworthy and qualified salesman. Come and see me and I will arrange an appointment so that you will see the right man. F. C. MORPHETT, Room 1101, 116 S. Michigan.

WOMEN TO LEARN A BUSINESS OF HAPPINESS.

The happiest occupation in the world is showing women how to improve their appearance; bring happiness to themselves and fortune to you. It brings satisfaction and you can learn this business of happiness in a few weeks of fascinating work. First we teach you how to improve your own personal appearance; that naturally leads to you. Then you learn how to improve the appearance of others that brings happiness to them. Day and night classes.

Complete course in Facial and Scalp Treatment, Shampooing, Manicuring, Hairdressing and Permanent Waving. Hairdressing
Parlor. Attractive surroundings. Easy terms.

The time is past when women have to be contented with meager earnings just because they are women; in almost any point of the map we have Marinello Shop Owners earning from $5,000 to $20,000 a year in a highly respectable calling. More salaried positions are open NOW than graduates. Only one Marinello graduate than we can fill.

Right now decide to look into this business of happiness. It is the opportunity of a lifetime. Write for catalog and complete story of Marinello System.

Aldine Apartment Homes

Combine every modern feature contributing to your comfort and well being—nothing to worry about—no moving, to get away from a raise in rent; no arguing with landlords over decorating—everything just as you would have it.

A real home—those four walls are yours. A fireplace that burns real logs, side lighting, a beautiful soft effect, well enhanced by canvased walls, decorated to your own taste.

Four, five and six rooms, two baths in the fives and sixes; wonderful bath and kitchen fixtures—everything the way you would have it in a permanent home you might build for yourself.

Aldine Apartment Homes

are offered for sale to qualifying parties on the 100% CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

Get the landlord's profit:—without his risk; own something, don't hire it.

Save nine thousand dollars in five years. A dollar saved is a dollar earned, and think of the satisfaction! Let us show you how.

JORDAN

HUPMOBILE TOURING, 5 PASS.—Don't judge this car by the low price we have put on it. It is a late model car that has had care and attention not shown to one in ten. The paint is new, bright parts renickeled, and nothing is necessary in the way of repairs. Top, upholstery and details way above the average. Has 5 good tires, squeeze, stoplight, etc. It will not remain here long at this figure. $500.

BUICK 1923 6 CYL., 5 PASS. TOURING—This is a little 5 passenger car that has had wonderful care and attention and we believe it will make a very attractive proposition taking into consideration appearance, performance and price. We cannot describe it in a newspaper ad in a way that will do it justice. It is first class mechanically, runs smoothly and quietly, and the coach work, tires and paint is in keeping with the average. See and drive it today. $750.

JORDAN '23 5 PASS. TOURING. A type car so much in demand at this time and specially priced for today. Has been put in new motor and chassis rebuilt in our shops and guaranteed by us. Coach work and details 100%. Has 5 good tires, motometer, bumper, spotlight, snubbers, etc. Our special price this series Jordan ever quoted; $1,100.

STUDEBAKER 1924 BIG 6 BROUGHAM 5 PASS.—Driven only 3,662 miles and traded to us in new car condition. Refinished until it is so good it would be a waste of money for us to touch it. Tires interior and details in first class condition. Up-to-the-minute equipment, such as balloon tires, disc wheels, large nickeled drum headlamps, automatic mirror, trunk, motometer, spotlight and many other things. Your chance to buy a good as new $2,800 automobile at the ridiculously low price of $1,900.

JORDAN '23 SEDAN, 5 PASS. This car presents the appearance of new. Interior shows no signs of wear, and mechanically is guaranteed on the same basis as new Jordans. Newly painted in combination Blue and Black, and equipped with good tires, spare, complete with cover, bumpers, wind shield cleaner, mirror, motometer, bumpers, etc. See it today—cars of this body style and series are scarce and sell rapidly. For this sale, $1,900.

HONESTY

We have nothing to give away,

BUT

we have a proposition that is the best imaginable, and there is a legitimate reason for it. The Oakland Factory Branch, Retail Store, has been bought by us, together with their entire stock of

DEMONSTRATORS AND USED CARS

These cars were given to us at a price that would allow us to sell them to dealers, but we are extremely anxious that they go to individuals, as our business is retail and we must depend upon our clientele for our success.

In addition to assuring you of the exact condition of these cars, we give each buyer a membership in the L. C. Smith Motor Car guarantee, because it gives free first aid mechanical and towing service for one year—not 30 days.

Our terms are the easiest legitimate ones possible to obtain. Reasonable parties we can arrange down payments as low as $50.

The Demonstrators are all 1924 model cars, including Sedans, Coupes, and Tourings, equipped with 6 wheel brakes, centralized controls, duco finish, etc.

The Used Cars consist of practically all standard makes, and they have been reconditioned and refinished so they will give new car service.

Remember, these cars must move at once, and the prices are ridiculously low.

WORLD FLYERS SPEEDING OVER NEW YORK CITY on their triumphal cruise across the United States. This is how the 'round-the-globe planes looked from one of the escort ships which accompanied them from Boston to Long Island. The flight of the hardy heroes caused an epidemic of sky-gazing in little old Gotham town. Doctors and massage experts were busy for days rubbing the kinks out of strained and sore necks, 'tis said.

GENERAL PERSHING'S LAST REVIEW. The fourth American general watching the Defense day parade at Washington with Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, the President, and Secretary of War Weeks. This review was practically Gen. Pershing's last official act as chief of staff of Uncle Sam's army. Next day, on his sixty-fourth birthday, he retired from active service.
(Photograph from Pacific and Atlantic.)

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE VOICES A NATION'S THANKS to Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the army's 'round-the-world flight. The President, with Mrs. Coolidge and most of official Washington, waited for hours in the rain to greet the air heroes. At the left, just behind Mr. Coolidge, is Secretary of State Hughes. Just back of Lieut. Smith is Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce. Note Lieut. Smith's left hand. He forgot to drop his fag as he shook hands with the President. JOE BOYER CRASHES TO HIS DEATH—This was the scene at the Altoona, Pa., speedway a moment after the Detroit driver, a veteran of many automobile races, careened into a guard rail at 125 miles an hour. The picture shows Boyer's car on the rail and his unconscious form being taken from the wreck.
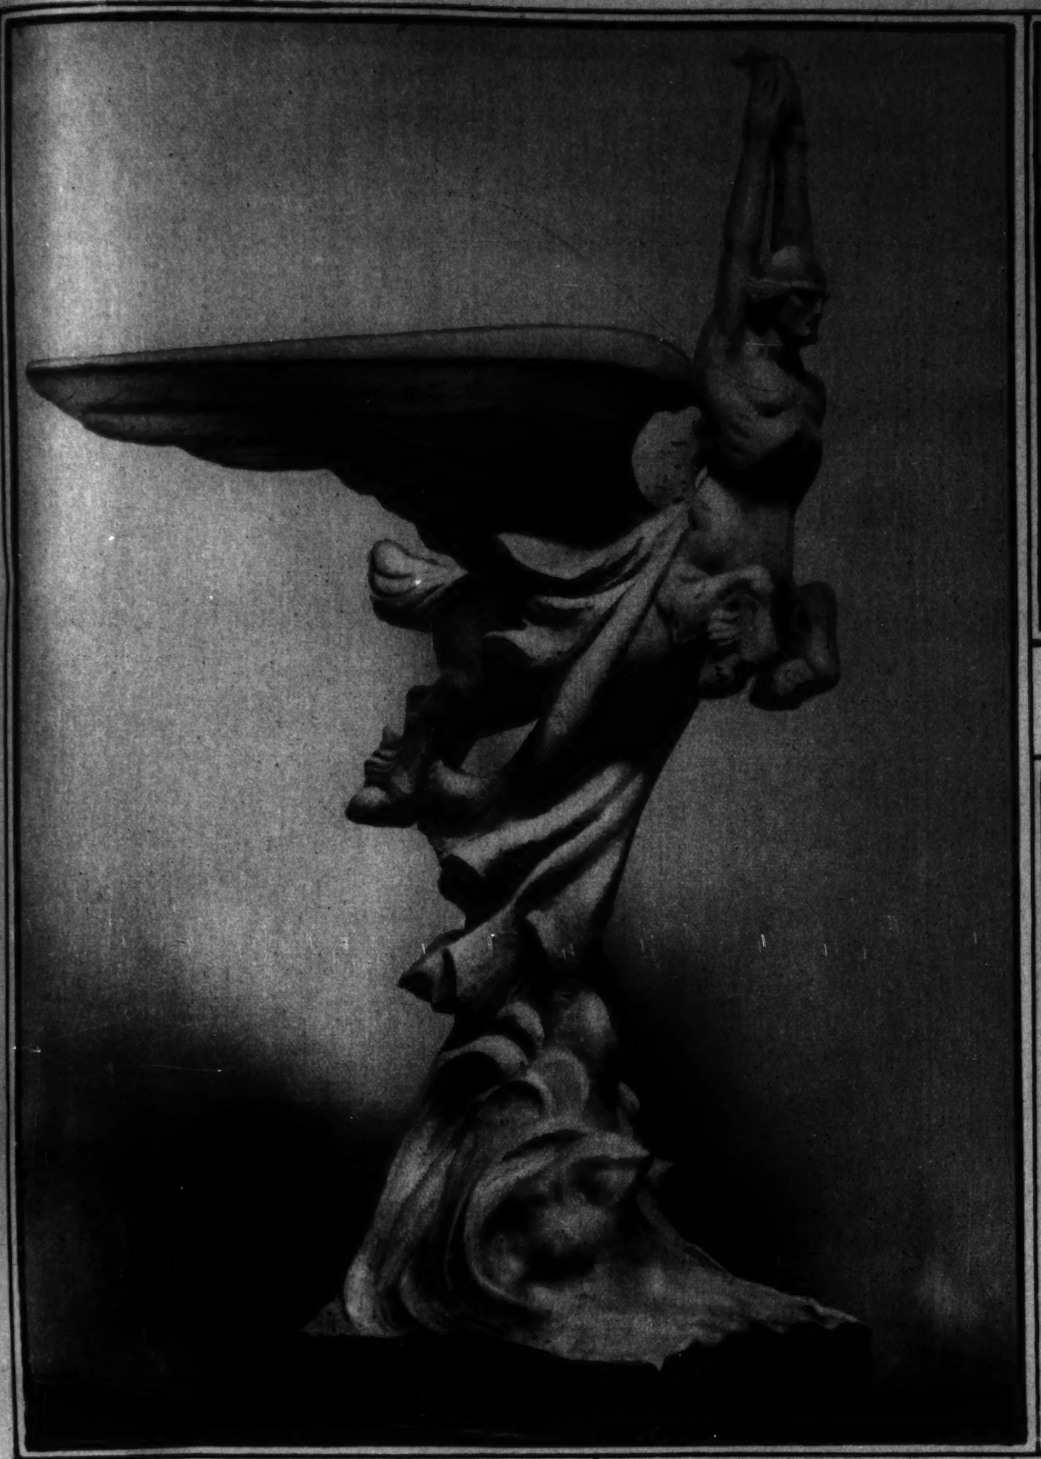
(Photograph from Wide World.)



FOR THE WORLD FLYERS—This bronze trophy, three feet high, was presented to Lieuts. Lowell Smith and Erik Nelson upon their arrival at Mineola, L. I., one of the last stopping places on their voyage around the world. Maj. Fiorello La Guardia, former congressman, made the presentation in the name of the Italian-American residents of New York. The figure, a winged centaur upholding a flaming heart, symbolizes the generous spirit shown by the American airmen toward the less fortunate Italians, Lieut. Locatelli and his companions, who were lost in the north Atlantic for three days. (Photograph from Underwood & Underwood.)

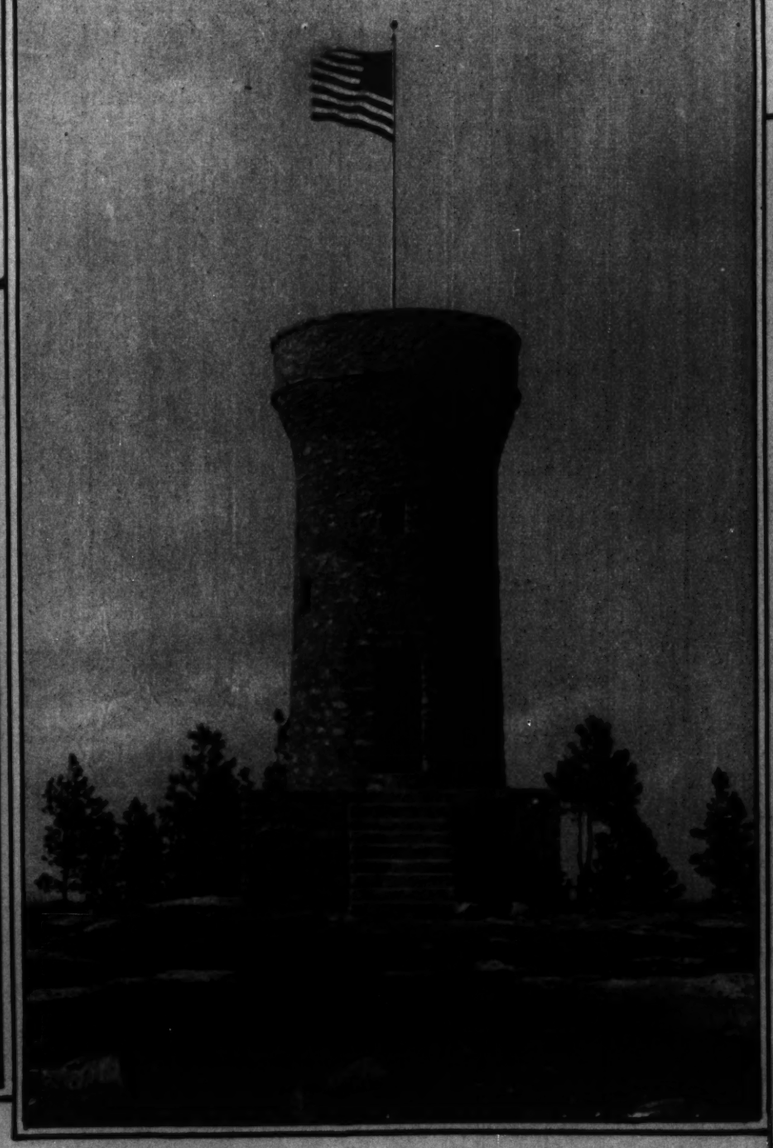
(Photograph from International.)

TRY THIS ON YOUR DAY OFF—Touching the floor with the palms of the hands without bending the knees is considered pretty good by advocates of the "daily dozen." Here's a youthful person who does better—he touches his shoes with his elbows. He lives in St. Paul, but the photographer doesn't take the trouble to name him. (Photograph from Wide World.)



IN MEMORY OF "TEDDY"—This Roosevelt monument, not so often pictured as some others, was conceived by Capt. Seth Bullock, a lifelong friend of the Colonel's, and stands on Sheep mountain (now called Mount Roosevelt), just above Deadwood in the Black hills of South Dakota. It overlooks the plains in North Dakota where the Roosevelt ranch was situated.
(Photograph from Lee Morford.)

HARVARD'S "NINE LETTER" ATHLETE, George Owen Jr., all-American back and one of the greatest football players in history, poses for a wedding picture with his bride, the former Miss Leonora Trafford of Milton, Mass. Owen was the only man to head three varsity teams at Harvard. He was their baseball, football, and hockey captain.
(Photograph from Wide World.)

THEY DANCED WITH THE PRINCE OF WALES, not once but many times, during the titled visitor's stay on Long Island, and won a considerable degree of envy by the frequency with which he singled them out as his partners. The beauty at the left is Mrs. Frederick Cruger, a dashing American brunette who was a house guest at a Port Washington party during the prince's visit. Above, Mrs. Richard Norton of London, daughter-in-law of the fifth Lord Grantley, accounted in England one of the loveliest society women there. Mrs. Norton's husband is a captain in the Scots Guards. She makes frequent trips to America, and was on the Berengaria with the prince when that ship, with its cargo of notables, arrived.

Beauty ~ where pride demands it

A Cent a Day for Unmatched Beauty

Karnak Rugs are durable! Made of selected wool worsted tightly woven on Wilton looms, Karnak Rugs have a close pile that takes the wear on the end of the threads. This means a lifetime of service. When you consider their long life Karnaks are a downright economy — a room-size rug costs about a cent a day.

The soft luxuriousness of Karnaks accentuates their beauty of design. There is a pattern and color to meet every decorative requirement. Examine Karnaks at your dealer's. See their beauty and quality for yourself.

FINE in line, beautifully proportioned, Edgeworth's charm is reflected in every piece —candlesticks, tea service, spoons, knives, forks. Passing fancies can affect neither its beauty nor its value.

Edgeworth is a sterling silver dinner service designed and finished by master craftsmen. Because of its dainty yet substantial charm, it is adapted to surroundings of elegance or to the smaller house or apartment. And it is very moderately priced.

Gorham's supremacy as "America's leading silversmiths for 90 years" is admirably shown by Edgeworth. Stop at your jeweler's and ask to see this and other fine Gorham products.

CHICAGO DEDICATES ITS $5,000,000 STADIUM in Grant park with its annual police games. An aerial camera shot this picture from the skies as some of Chicago's finest were playing ring-around-a-Rosie on horseback, or something like, at one end of the great field. Competition of some other sort was in progress at the same time. When all the stands are completed, this mighty amphitheater will put Chicago in shape to stage some future Olympic championships as such contests should be staged. CURING AN OCEAN GREYHOUND'S LIMP in record time. In only thirty hours the Arabic was made good as new after it had been battered sadly in a hurricane off Nantucket. Several new plates had to be installed in the hull, and decks and staterooms also required much repairing. But the whole job was done so quickly the Arabic continued its regular sailing schedule. THE MADONNA RETURNS TO "THE MIRACLE." Lady Diana Manners pictured as she arrived on the Berengaria with the Prince of Wales' party. She will resume the role in which she won fame on the New York stage last season. (Photograph from Kadel & Herbert.)

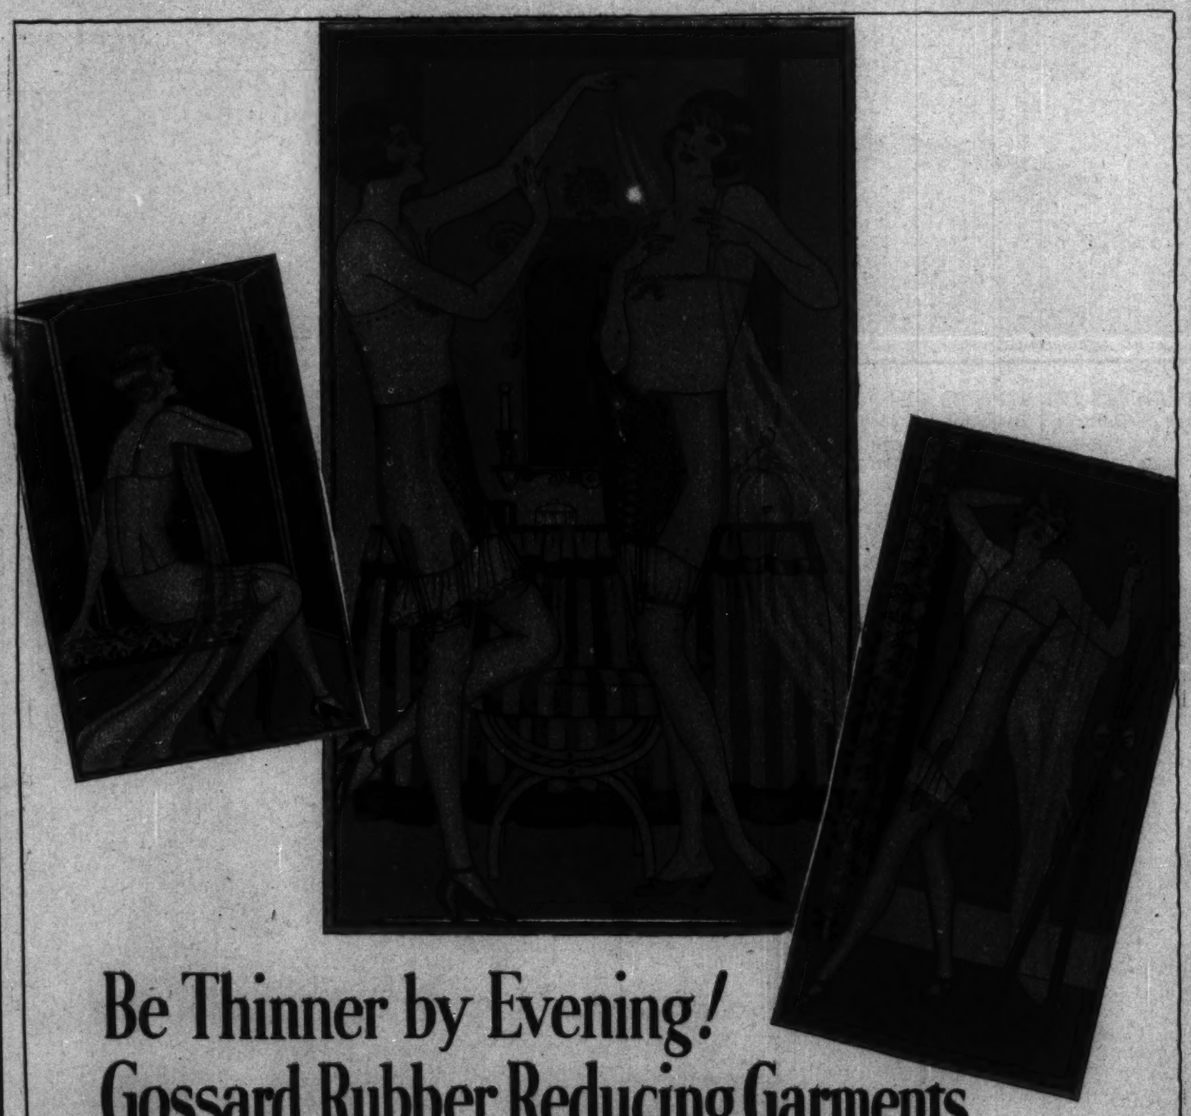
A PRINCESS GOES A-FLYING at London's great Wembley exposition. Princess Marie Jose of Belgium alights from a flying boat after a spin through the clouds. Her Royal Highness' bobbed hair was tossed all out of control by the roarin' winds way up near heaven. (Photograph from International.)

IF YOU DREAM OF SNAILS (does anyone, do you suppose?) you might see in your nightmares such a monster as this. But it isn't really an overgrown snail, though it looks like one. It is a giant water power turbine, similar to those in use at Niagara Falls, newly built in Munich, Germany, as an item of that city's post-war development. There are six others like it, soon to be installed. (Photograph from Wide World.)



Be Thinner by Evening!
Gossard Rubber Reducing Garments are effective at once.

Tomorrow morning see your Corsetiere. Let her show you the four marvelous Gossard reducing garments . . . Corset, Clasp-around, Combination, Brassiere . . . Wear which you like best. All day. In the evening change to a silk corset or clasp-around. Repeat next day.

You'll look thinner the minute you fasten the Gossard Rubber Reducing Garment. You'll feel thinner. You'll be thinner.

They're pretty, too, these Gossards. Pink.

Fine rubber with an outside surface of fine silk tricot, and an inside surface of cotton tricot, which absorbs moisture and prevents clamminess next to the body.

They fit. They avoid ugly ridges in front. They avoid bulges on the thighs or across your back where the rubber leaves off. They reduce you without announcing it to the feminine world. You're comfortable. Your clothes fit. You feel fit. The prices are less than you'd expect—the material far better.

Reduces waist line 4 inches and loses 16½ pounds —in 10 days!

Feels Like a Different Man

FREE opportunity to see what this astounding scientific discovery will do for you during the same period of time

Without Medicine Without Dieting
Without Exercise
With No Effort at All

"I HAD tried everything on the market without any beneficial results until I began using Dr. Lawton's Automatic Waistline and Abdomen Reducer," says Louis G. Hofmann, of 1154 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"It has worked wonders for me. In ten days I have lost 16½ pounds and reduced my waistline 4 inches. I feel like a different man. Sleep better and feel completely rested upon arising.

"I eat just as much and still am reducing without any effort or diet of any kind.

"My only regret is that I did not get your reducer sooner and get rid of my excess fat long ago."

Men and women throughout the country are regaining their normal, symmetrical figures through this wonderful device, which is cool, comfortable, well ventilated and made of special reducing material.

Something entirely new

This astounding discovery must not be confused with ordinary rubber belts and girdles. True, it does what they do—AND MORE. In the center and on the inner side is the patented Vacuum Massage-Applicator, which gently, persistently, massages away the fatty tissue with every breath you take—with every step you make.

Why be fat when you can try this same method for ten days FREE

All Dr. Lawton asks is a fair trial of his discovery—at his risk. You are to be the sole judge as to whether or not it will banish your fat. Tear off the attached coupon. Sign and mail it to Dr. Lawton. It will bring a complete description of this remarkable reducer. Also full details of the FREE OFFER which permits you to test the device for 10 full days. If you are not entirely satisfied it costs you nothing.

To avoid regrets send the coupon today

Mr. Hofmann regrets that he did not get rid of his excess fat years ago. You will regret it, too, if you don't sign the coupon right now, while it is handy. You cannot afford to miss this opportunity to reduce WITH NO EFFORT AT ALL.

Dr. Thomas Lawton, Dept. 60, 19 W. 70th St., New York City

Please send me complete description of your Automatic Waistline and Abdomen Reducer. Also details of your FREE TRIAL OFFER under which I am to be the sole judge of the efficiency of your device.

Are you the lucky one in five?

Not if your gums bleed easily
Check Pyorrhea with Forhan's

Pyorrhea, destroyer of teeth and health, plays no favorites.

Dental records show that four persons out of every five past 40, and thousands younger, too, are Pyorrhea's victims.

Heed Nature's warning—tender, bleeding gums—before it is too late.

Better still, stop Pyorrhea before it strikes by regular visits to your dentist and by brushing your teeth twice daily with Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums, if used in time and used consistently, will help prevent Pyorrhea or check its course and keep the gums firm, the teeth white and the mouth healthy.

There is only one tooth paste of proved efficacy in the treatment of Pyorrhea. It is the one that many thousands have found beneficial for years. For your own sake, make sure that you get it. Ask for, and insist upon, Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes

Aurists Cut Cost of Hearing Aids in Two

Offer world's finest hearing device at fraction of usual prices

WEEK'S TRIAL—FREE

Physicians and deaf folks have long complained of the high prices of hearing aids. Now this protest has been answered by a new and tiny device called THE AURIS — priced at less than half the price of other methods.

But the AURIS has gone further than substantial price reduction. It has fulfilled the dream of all Aurists and ear-specialists for a perfect hearing aid — in minimum size and weight.

Although the smallest device of its kind in the world, it is the most powerful and efficient. Worn practically concealed, it acts as a third ear to the deaf — enabling impaired ear nerves to hear any sound a normal ear can hear — clearly, distinctly, resonantly, without mechanical distortion. Gives natural hearing, with full tone values. Perfected by Radio Engineers from new Radio sound principles.

Know the happiness of clear easy hearing again. End the lonely isolation of deafness. You may try THE AURIS a full week without a penny of risk or expense. Without a deposit or payment of any kind. Just send your name, address and free trial request to THE AURIS COMPANY, Room 404-B, 141 W. 40th St., New York City. If the Auris does not make you hear, return it and you will not be charged one cent.

Doris Blake Presents

THE FIRST TEN PHOTOGRAPHS AND CHARACTER ANALYSES

for which The Chicago Tribune is paying $10000 each

Here is a girl of Cromagnon blood. She is gentle, with soft moods. There is much that is mild and sentimental in her disposition.

But nevertheless she has the strong human discernment of the Cromagnons, the artistic fire, the compelling love of quality, and the ability to carry her perceptions through into deeds.

She is mostly of the organic build, frail and tenacious all in one. She is timid, she lacks self-confidence, she thinks rapidly and chaotically. Her mind is still receptive, and her education is still going on.

Be sure that she will be adamant on questions of principle.

Bernadine McNerney

BERNADINE McNERNEY, 1017 Jefferson Ave., S. E., Grand Rapids, Mich.

This face shows a man who has keen discernment of conditions and things. He is no genius, but rather a man who is of balanced mind and sure in his thoughts. His mind is masculine, shrewd, stubborn, and not easily swayed or led. Do not try to flatter him.

He is of motive build, conservative, slow in imagination, a man whose inner nature prompts him to always play safe and not be sorry. His perceptions are sure and quick, as his Nordic features indicate. He carries responsibility well, and keeps persistently at what he sets his mind to.

He is fond of excitement, but excitement mixed with caution. His understanding of people is poor, and his judgment is most often astray here. He is retrospective in his outlook, not introspective. He thinks of himself as "I am" least, and as "I may" most.

Carl S. Bartlett

D. C. BARTLETT, 233 S. Edward St., Decatur, Ill.—Ross Photo.

An idealist, a petulant, open minded girl. She is quick and positive to decide, and quick to act upon her moods. Her ideas frequently run riot as great in their profusion. The nearer she gets to the end of her task, the more she heaves, but without slighting or slurring, however.

She is a Nordic of the Saxon branch of the Anglo-Saxons. Her face, with one side of the brain developed beyond the other, indicates genius. She discerns objective things well, but she has only moderate sympathies for people and their lives. Nor is she so shrewd as she might be in her dealings with others. She feels the wounds that others give to her.

She is purely of the mental build. She lives in dreams and fancies, with always a strong cast of reality thrown over them. She enjoys beautiful things and pleasant surroundings, and in such an atmosphere her already alert mind is at its best.

Beatrice C. Anderson

BEATRICE C. ANDERSON, 4134 N. Central Park Ave., Chicago, Ill.

This is a girl who is very into a Nordic. Her eyes, her forehead, and her freckles could be nothing else. She has a decidedly feminine and nicely balanced type of mind.

She likes adventure, motion, quick change of scene. She is shrewd and matter of fact in her valuations of people and things. She has confidence in herself, and she has the will to take chances and to dare to do things.

But she has little tenacity. She is too impatient. She has fair ability when it comes to analyzing people's motives, but she is blind to seeing their flattery.

She is ambitious and strong in her idealism, but she never allows her day dreams to lose contact with real facts.

Doris Edwards

DORIS EDWARDS, 902 N. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

This man starts things with a rush and he gets through with them, but he slurs toward the end.

He is of Cromagnon blood and, because of it, he is a sure judge of people and their motives. He likes power, and he has the will to get it. He can and does manage people, and he is quick to sense advantages for those things that he is interested in. His thoughts sometimes flow too rapidly for his own good.

He is esthetic; he prefers mental pleasures, and he has no patience with slowness or incompetence. His forehead denotes a man who is an idealist and a dreamer, one who is impractical in material things, but rather keen in his social understanding.

Dr. Chas B. Lewis

DR. CHAS. B. LEWIS, 315 E. 5th St., Ottumwa, Ia.—Pierce Photo.

Here is a Celtic type. She has the Celtic nose, the Celtic mouth, and the Celtic brows. Her writing shows that she is conservative, even tempered, and sure in her judgment of people and their moods, all Celtic traits.

She is mild, idealistic, musical, romantic. Her actions are inclined to be temperamental; she has little discernment of things and conditions, she can be led by appeals to her emotions. She prefers material pleasures. Her mind is sprightly and active, indecisive, and dreamy.

People often hurt her feelings, and were there not a touch of masculine in her disposition, to harden her, she would often be wounded in spirit.

Helen Pittsley

Here is a man who is eminently steady and evenly balanced. He is of a calm temperament, and is always sure of his control of himself.

He thinks rapidly, and knows how to look at a thing from all angles. He takes his time to make up his mind. Then he acts slowly and deliberately. His profile, convex above and concave below, indicates this.

This is the type of Nordic who understands other people best. He knows people's moods, and he can catch and hold minds.

He is motive in build; he is a doer rather than a thinker. A materialist in his views of life, he is not the man to be lightly flattered out of his intentions.

John Herzog

JOHN HERZOG, 111 No. Church St., Rockford, Ill.—Hersog Photo.

A man of a roving, self-reliant disposition, this is what this picture and signature indicate. Here is a person who is active in his build, who loves activity, and who understands inanimate things well.

He is fond of pleasure. But he likes his pleasures to be of a mental sort. He can be led by flattery—for a while.

In mind he is rapid, driving, restless, caring little for conventions, and giving little thought to reserve or reflection. He is probably ruled by his emotions rather than by his intellect.

Alfred J. Mandator

ALFRED J. MANDATOR, 427 Tibbetts Ave., Springfield, Ohio.

Here is a picture of a Cromagnon woman of collected moods. Her mental processes have just completed a period of growth. Her mind has changed from a rather flighty feminine type to one distinctly more masculine and one much surer of what it wants.

She is credulous, particularly concerning things. She examines conditions closely, and she fairly dissects people, so sharp is her analysis of their moods, intentions and emotions.

Her thoughts are quick, but her actions are slow, deliberate and tenacious. She has the power to fight and to hold her own will against others.

Lillian Berwald

LILLIAN BERWALD, 7438 Franklin St., Forest Park, Ill.—C. Wolk Photo.

Here is a man who is first and foremost an idealist. He is slow to think and quick to act, credulous in his impulses and reserved in planning. He is a man of opposites and contradictions.

He is impatient; his writing shows a man whose reasoning is sometimes so elementary as to be childish. Ambition is visible in his forehead and the top of his head. His thoughts fly rapidly and in disjointed sequence. He lives in a realm of vivid fancies.

He likes his familiar surroundings best, and he takes the most pleasure in familiar faces. His temperament is happy at heart; he has laughed so much in his lifetime that the lines of past smiles are engraved in his face.

ARE THESE THE SIX LOVELIEST GIRLS IN THE UNITED STATES?—They are, at all events, the winners, a former winner, and the runners-up in the Atlantic City beauty contest, which is the most pretentious thing of its kind in America. From left to right, those in the picture are Miss Philadelphia (Ruth Malcolmson), the winner this year; Miss Manhattan (Beatrice Roberts), tied with Miss Chicago for fourth place; Katherine Campbell of Columbus, O., the winner in 1922 and 1923, who was given second place this year; Miss Santa Cruz (Faye Lanphier), who ran third; Miss Chicago (Margaret Leigh), and Miss Los Angeles (Lillian Knight).
(Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)

LONG LIVE THE QUEEN!—Miss Philadelphia (Ruth Malcolmson), newly crowned as Miss America of 1924, inaugurates her reign at Atlantic City. She will hold the title until another year, when another contest will be held. At the left is Miss America of 1922 and 1923, known in her home town, Columbus, as Katherine Campbell.

The Peril at The Danger Line

CLOSE to a burning building or an unsafe structure, police are quick to mark a Danger Line. "Stop here!"—it warns, and safeguards life.

There are many Danger Lines in life. Civil and medical authorities constantly remind us of our peril—to aid in the prevention of illness, accident or death.

Take The Danger Line where teeth meet gums, for example. There, in tiny V-shaped crevices at the gum margin, food lodges and ferments, forming acids which lead to decay. The gums become irritated and pyorrhea often develops. Many fatal diseases, such as rheumatism and heart-disease, may result from Acid Decay at The Danger Line on our teeth.

How to prevent Acid Decay

For years dental authorities have recommended milk of magnesia for counteracting acids which attack the teeth and irritate the gums. Your dentist will corroborate this fact. Squibb's Dental Cream is made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia. With the recognized merit of milk of magnesia, Squibb's Dental Cream combines all the benefits of a cleansing dentifrice. It prevents Acid Decay, soothes and strengthens tender gums, allays tooth sensitiveness, reduces the peril of pyorrhea, cleans thoroughly and brings out the beauty of your teeth.

Cross-section of a tooth, showing Acid Decay at The Danger Line.

Safe for all

Buy Squibb's Dental Cream to-day. You'll like the keen, clean tingle it leaves in your mouth. You'll enjoy its pleasant flavor. If you want to encourage the children to brush their teeth regularly, give them Squibb's Dental Cream. It is absolutely safe even if swallowed. It cannot harm the baby's young teeth and tender gums. Your druggist has Squibb's Dental Cream.

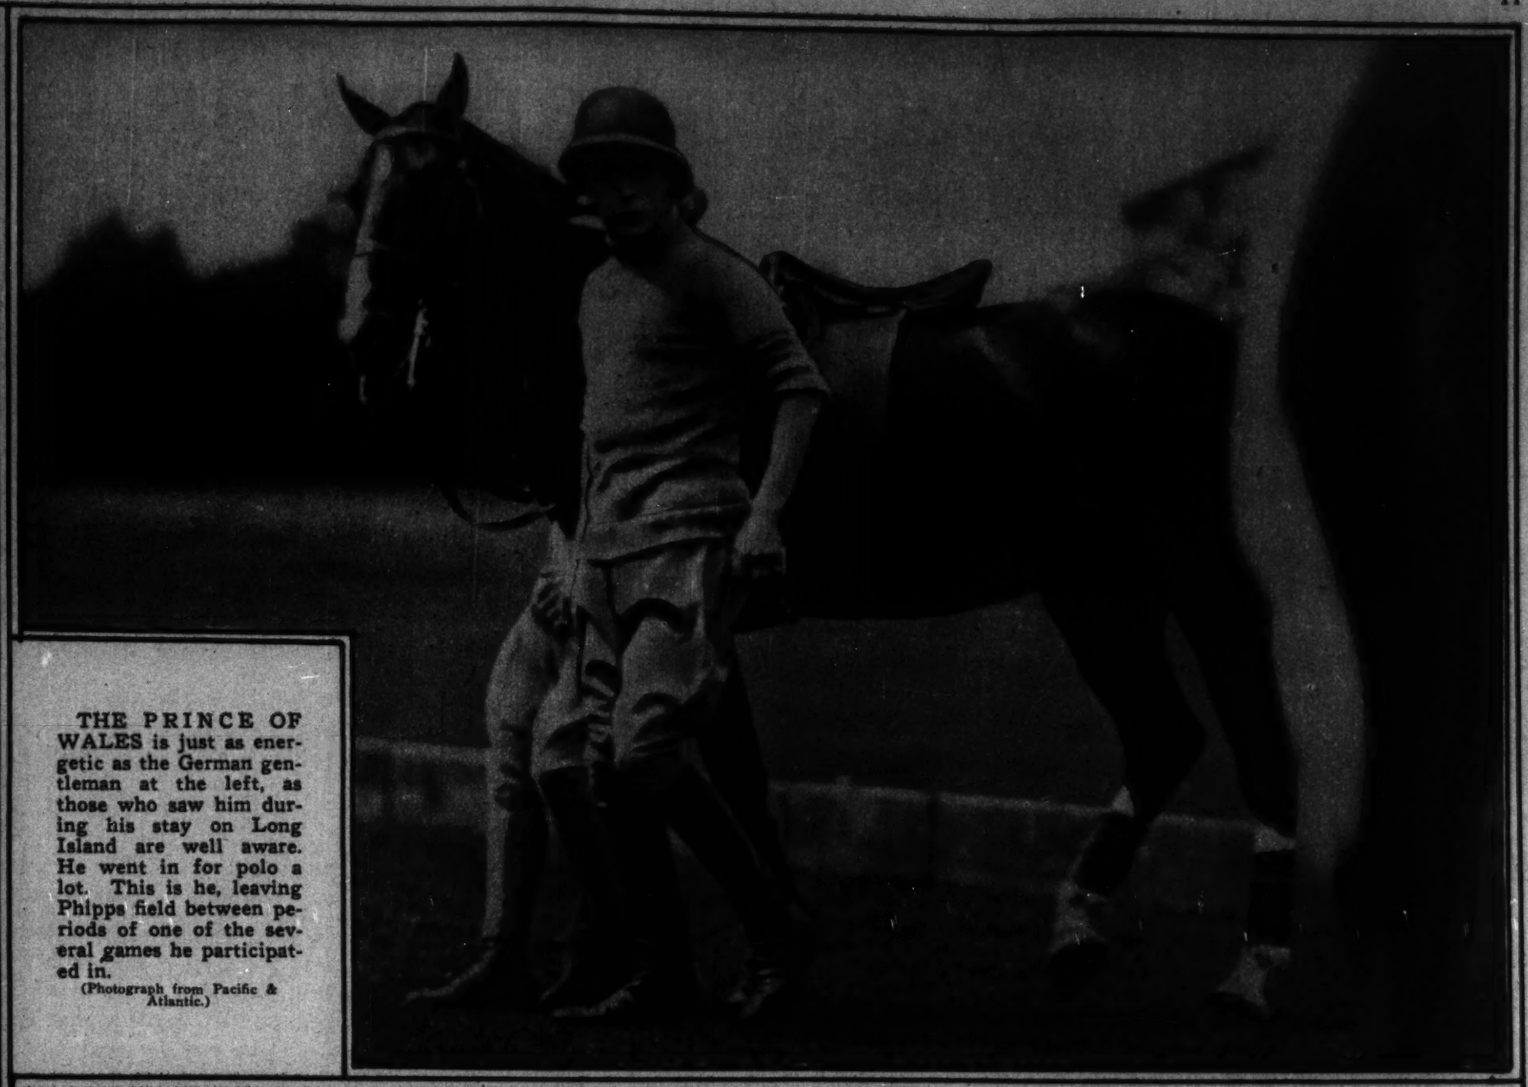
ALWAYS SEEKING NEW WORLDS TO CONQUER, the former Crown Prince of Germany has gone in for tennis. Here he is, in the correct togs and all, just off the courts at Ostsee Bad, Holland, where his prowess has been something of a sensation. Being a restless sort of person, and having no cares of state to occupy him, he is forever bobbing up here and there in new guises. This is his latest.
(Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)



THE PRINCE OF WALES is just as energetic as the German gentleman at the left, as those who saw him during his stay on Long Island are well aware. He went in for polo a lot. This is he, leaving Phipps field between periods of one of the several games he participated in.
(Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)

AND, DESPITE THE BAD LUCK THAT PURSUES HIM WHEN HE IS ON A HORSE, the Prince of Wales rode eagerly in his Long Island polo matches, and stayed on his pony. This picture shows him in the center foreground, keeping his eye on the ball and not worrying in the least, apparently, about said eye's having been painfully hurt and blackened a day or two before by a flying clod of mud.
(Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)

'TWIXT HEAVEN AND EARTH, as you might say, Miss Ethel Wyn Johnson of Washington performs an exultant leap for the camera. The scene is somewhere in the hills of Virginia, where Mme. Lubovska, head of the National American ballet, is training girls from various cities with the hope of producing one of the finest native dancing aggregations.
(Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)

THEODORE ROOSEVELT III. took his own pictures of the American round the world flyers when they arrived at Mitchel field, Long Island, and here you see him doing so, with his sister Grace looking out for anything he may have missed. The son of the present Col. Theodore Roosevelt gives promise, it would seem, of developing a smile not unlike that of his famous grandfather. Those who know him say he is a Roosevelt through and through.
(Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)

THE WINNER IN MAINE—Ralph O. Brewster, Republican candidate for governor, whose victory at the polls attracted national attention, not only because the early Maine election is looked upon as a political barometer, but also because the klan issue was perplexingly injected into the state campaign. The entire ticket headed by Gov.-elect Brewster was elected—a circumstance which greatly cheered Republicans everywhere.
(Photograph from International.)

The silhouette is narrow and close at hips buttons and scarfs—The coat dress and the ensemble are the smart Fall Costumes

Paris says:

Dresses fit the hips as closely as is possible and still be practical

Many dresses discard the belt

Collars, often really high, are being worn by the most fashionable women

Scarfs are shown by all houses for all purposes. Buttons are used lavishly

PARIS has launched a "netteté" season—clothes so simple and youthful and "neat" that their success depends as much upon their perfection as upon the particular model you select.

The influence of the tailored vogue, which is responsible for the coat frock of this season, makes it essential that the new model, to be successful, must be made right.

You yourself can give this perfection to your fall clothes quite easily—simply by using the Deltor.

Take Pattern 5461 which is characteristic of the new coat dresses,—you can cut this straight frock very quickly out of amazingly little material because the Deltor gives you an individual layout for your size laid out on the very width material you are using—something other patterns fail to give you. With this individual cutting layout you know that your dress is cut with the economy of an expert and cut with every piece on the right way of the goods—the first important step in the perfectly made costume. And it is so easy and quick—just following the Deltor.

Then when you come to putting it together, the Deltor shows you exactly how to give it that tailored look. Just how to get that snug, but not strained, fit to the collar that is so essential, and how to put the sleeves in so that they fit as smoothly as though a tailor "set" them—each step in making that dress is shown you in detail in the Deltor. All you have to do is simply follow the pictures and clear directions, and even if you have never sewed before, your dress will be expertly made.

The success of a dress depends on complete finishing directions in the "netteté" season, and the Deltor is the only pattern service that gives them to you. It shows you every single thing about the new ways your dress is finished this season. When your dress is done it is perfect to the last detail! The Deltor is furnished free exclusively with Butterick Patterns. Butterick of New York, of Chicago, of Paris and of London.

No other pattern approaches the complete service of the Deltor

Pattern 5497—Long, fitted sleeves are much in the mode, and braiding is seen on many new dresses.

Pattern 5512—The scarf collar is seen on the new coats, and ornamental buttons are used, too.

Pattern 5463—Bound pockets are typical of the belt-less mode that plays a leading part this season.

Pattern 5517—The scarf collar and new version of the tier effect add interest to the narrow silhouette.

Pattern 5461—Characteristic coat dress buttoning from throat to hem and worn with a flower.

Pattern 5526—Buttons are one of the smartest finishes, and over-tunic effects are new and very smart this fall.

Pattern 5439—Scarf collars and buttons are important this fall and characterize the smartest costumes.

Pattern 5485—The collar, buttons and cape back that Paris favors are very youthful.

Pattern 5520—The new coats are slim and straight to keep the becoming and accepted silhouette of this fall.

Pattern 5469—The "gilet" or bosom front effect is new, and high collars are being worn.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

PRESIDENTIAL YEAR

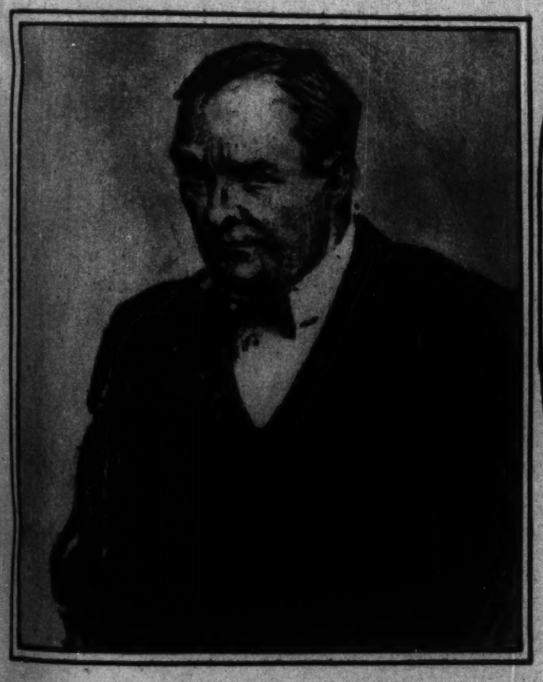
By W. E. HILL

Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune

Mrs. Bertine Brown has been reading and reading in order to cast an intelligent vote. After two radical weeklies, a Republican daily and a Democratic ditto, she doesn't know what to do about it. Would you?

"Something must be broken!" Great commotion over the Jenkins' home grown radio during a speech of acceptance. Ten minutes has been given over to cheering and wild applause, but it doesn't sound like anything but cats on a fence over the Jenkins' radio.

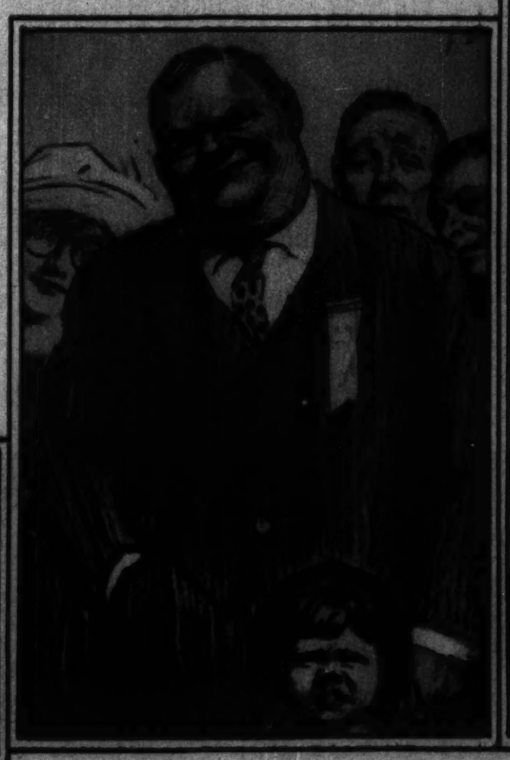
"For heaven's sake, let's have a good looking man in the White House," is the silent plea of Bessie the stenog, who has her first vote this year.



The pessimistic voter believes that whoever gets elected will be the wrong man, and Wall street will be at the bottom of it.

The breath of scandal. You can't believe everything you hear around election time! Here are two ladies who have heard the same bit of scandal about different candidates, and from the most trustworthy sources.

Now is the open season for politicians who seek to charm reporters with these magic words: "I used to be a newspaper man myself."



Publicity stuff, showing a politician trying to look benign for the newspaper camera. If he can look sort of wistful as well, why, all the better.

The political job hunter. Bigger and better rewards at Washington is his slogan.

Three male voters. They are (a) the radical voter, (b) the man who votes for the best man, if any; and (c) the voter who has voted under the party for more presidential years than he can recall.

NEVER forget that the exquisite appearance of Holeproof Hosiery---the lovely new colors, the lustrous fabric, the style---is but one part of its superiority. For in Holeproof, as in no other hosiery, there is quality to match beauty! Amazing ability to wear, to withstand laundering. Luxury that is economy.

Why? Because we use only highest quality materials. Because we have had more than a half century's experience in knitting fine hosiery.

The very newest fall shades and colors are being shown now in all good stores: Indian Tan, Peach, Rose Beige, Airedale, Silver—and many others. Silk, silk-faced and lusterized lisle. Styles also for men and children. Holeproof is sold only through retail stores. If not available locally, write for booklet and prices.

O, MAYOR DEVER—Here's another hole in the ground nearing completion—the New York-New Jersey tunnel—which serves as a reminder that Chicago still shies at excavations. The picture includes a thousand feet of the tube, where trains soon will roar beneath the Hudson. (Photograph from International.)

THE GOULD LINEAGE PERSISTS AT DEAUVILLE—The Count and Countess Jay de Castellane on the beach at the fashionable French resort so much favored by American society. THIS IS A PICTURE OF A BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY, of which you may have heard, but that doesn't explain why the busmen are acting as they are. It will be clearer when you know that the event shown is a ticket punching race, and that the competitors are running backward. The race was a part of the festivities held recently at Stamford Bridge, England, for employes of the London bus system. (Photograph from Pacific & Atlantic.)

Thousands revitalizing their Mouths

By restoring the natural protective fluids men and women can now keep their mouths healthy and their teeth safe

IT is known today that the health of your mouth and the safety of your teeth directly depend on the condition of your mouth glands.

These important glands are either protecting your teeth or they are actually injuring them. It is their failure to act which leaves the mouth dry and causes tooth decay.

Men learned first how to fight this condition of dry mouth. Now women too are learning to keep their teeth safe by keeping the glands working.

* * *

Everyone today eats soft, cooked food that requires little chewing. It is simply our soft, modern diet that has weakened the mouth glands. When they no longer work properly, the mouth becomes dry, and the acids of decay collect on your teeth.

Brushing only removes these acids while you brush. You cannot brush your teeth all day long.

But there is one simple way now known — to restore the normal flow of these protective fluids.

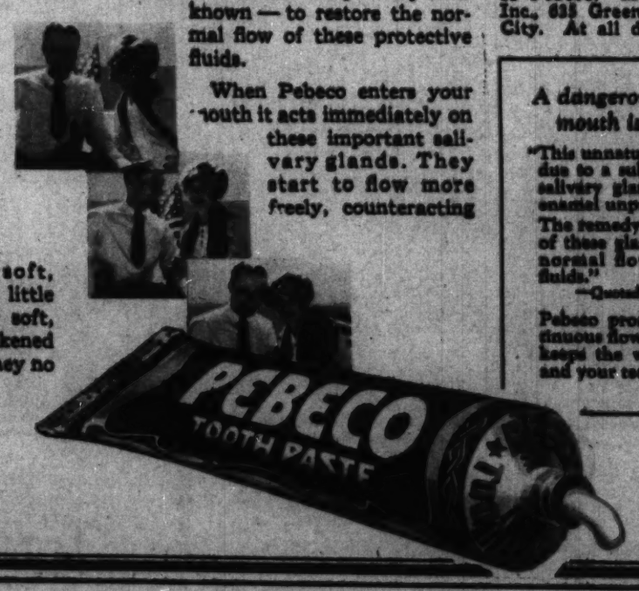
When Pebeco enters your mouth it acts immediately on these important salivary glands. They start to flow more freely, counteracting the mouth acids that have collected. You feel a new tingling cleanliness.

The second day this feeling of cleanliness lasts a little longer.

By the end of ten days, good healthy streams of saliva are pouring through your mouth — all the time. Now — day and night — these protective fluids counteract the dangerous acids of decay.

* * *

Start now to make your mouth and teeth safe. Send today for a trial tube of Pebeco. Made by Lehn and Fink, Inc., 635 Greenwich Street, New York City. At all druggists.



A dangerous condition of dry mouth is prevalent today

"This unnatural dryness, which is due to a subnormal action of the salivary glands leaves the tooth enamel unprotected.

The remedy is a mild stimulation of these glands effecting a more normal flow of the protective fluids."

—Quoted from an eminent authority.

Pebeco promotes a natural continuous flow of the mouth glands, keeps the whole mouth healthy and your teeth safe.

Romance Again for a Wonderful Woman

She has taken life's everything — with a song. Now come the finer years, — and longer freedom. Her heart tunes up to a new romance. Her spirit longs for escape into the biggest world

Up and away this winter, — on the cruise extraordinary. A great greyhound of the ocean will float you into the realms of romance. Four months of merry days on Southern Seas, — of fascinating explorations in the Gateway Ports of the World.

In shopping the bazars of Cairo, Bombay, Batavia, Peking, you'll find thrilling sport. In roaming the streets of Algiers, Jerusalem, Colombo, Shanghai, you'll meet people. In exploring the Holy Land, Egypt, India, China, Japan, you'll learn great civilizations, ancient cultures, celebrated places.

Yet, always, travel's finest luxuries. Canadian Pacific provides its "Empress of France" on sea. Lord Renfrew (Prince of Wales) twice chose the "Empress of France" for voyages. She holds the trans-Atlantic speed record, Cherbourg to Quebec. Canadian Pacific provides best hotels on land. Its world-wide organization watches, cares, arranges for everything.

January 14th is the sailing date. But now is the time to make arrangements.

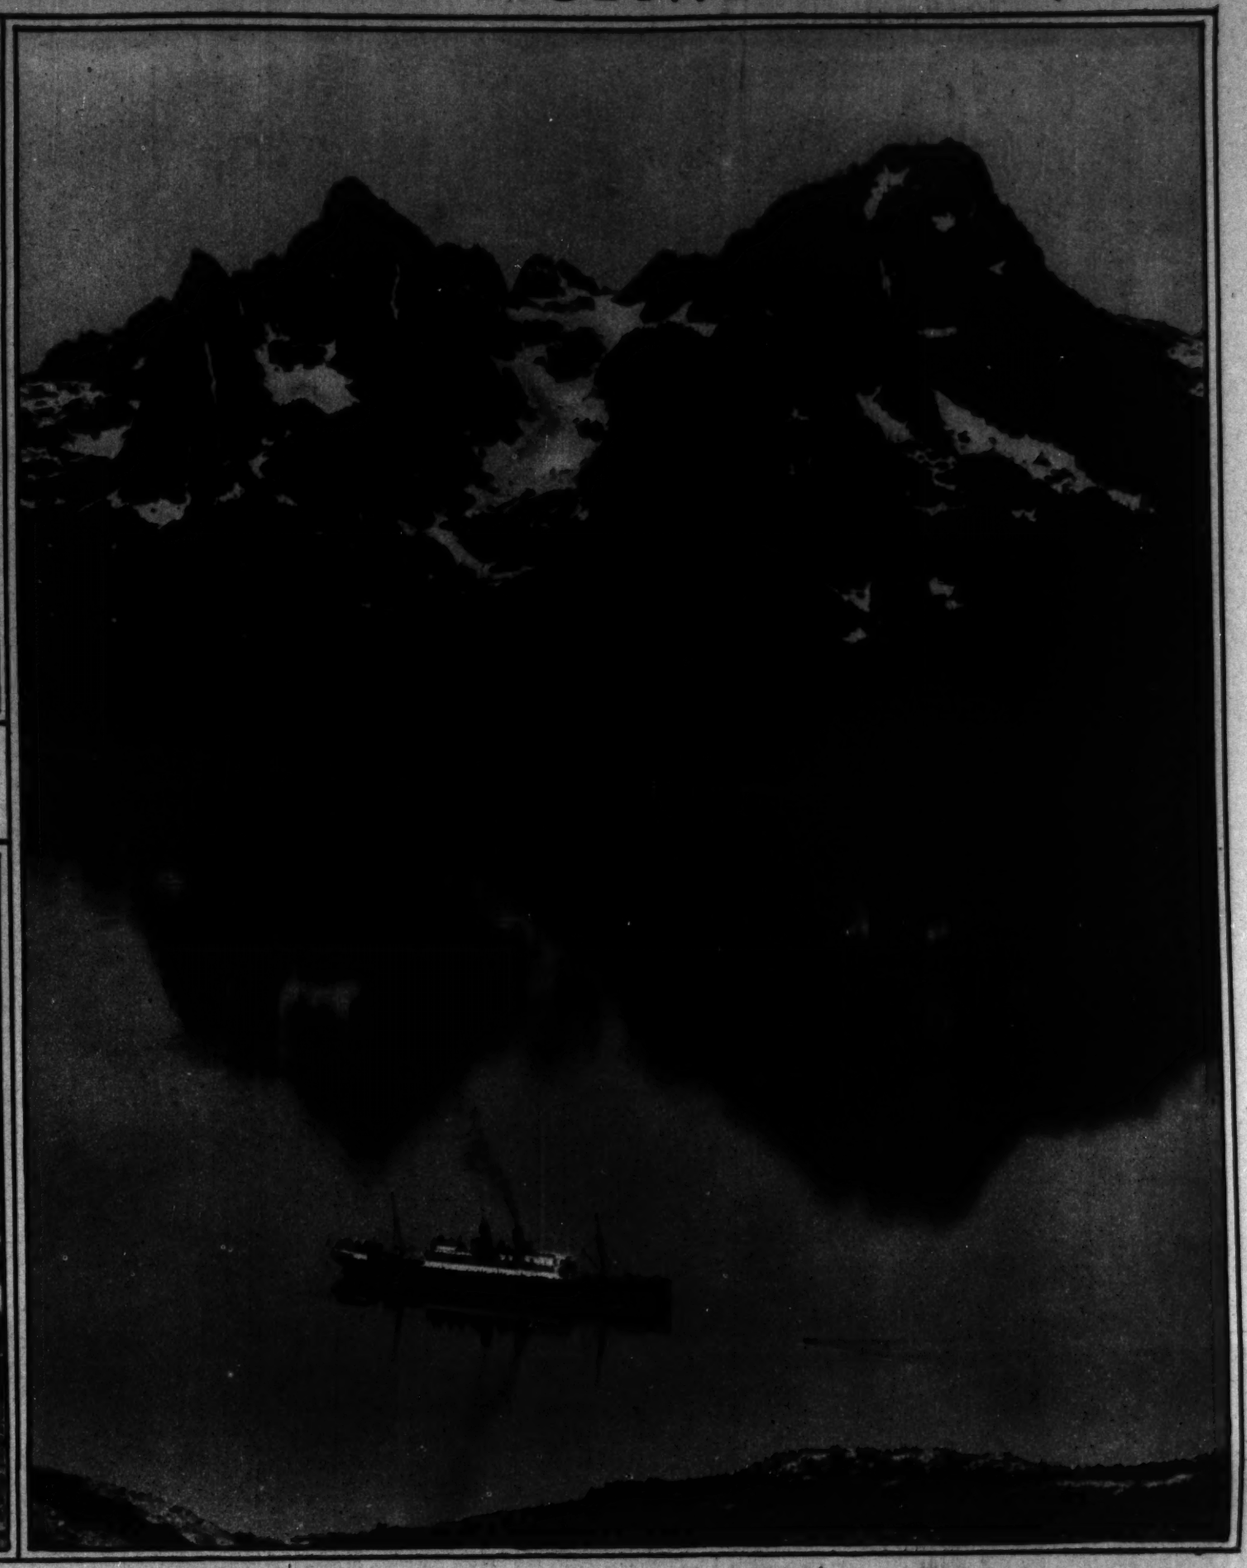
TOURIST SHRINES IN NORWAY

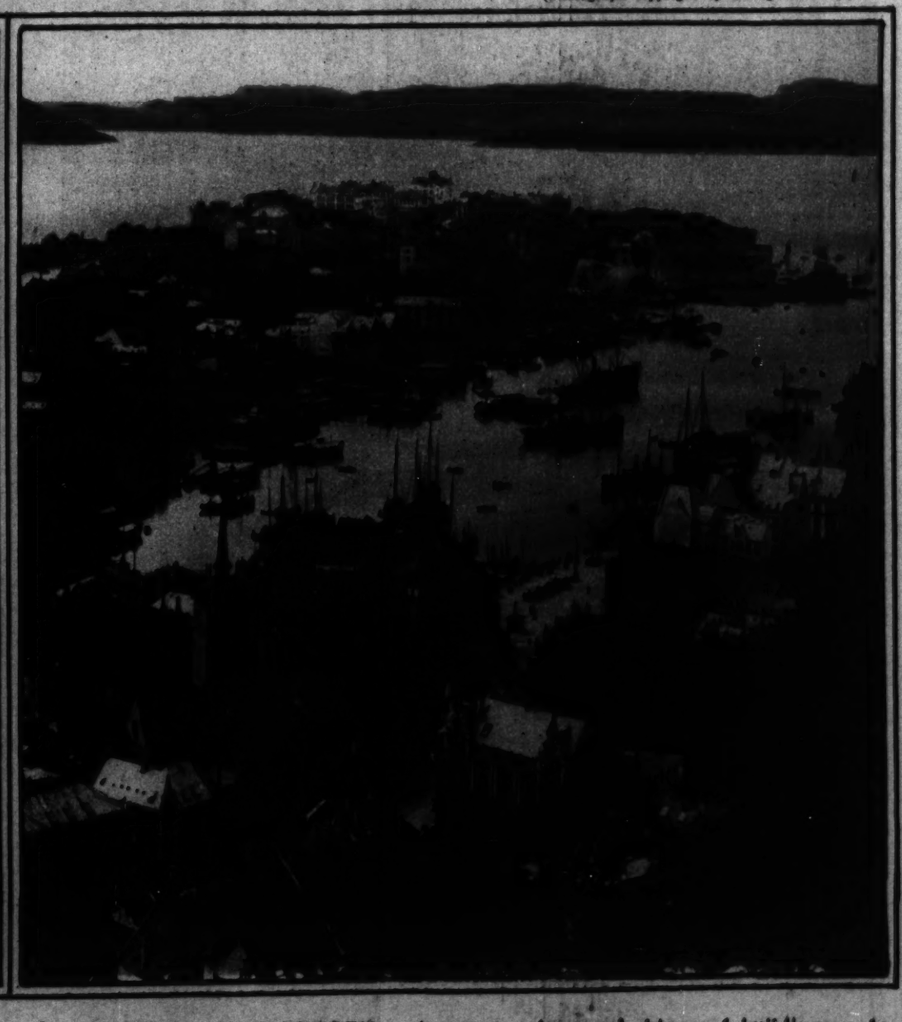
WHERE ICEBERGS ARE BORN—The sea wall of the great glacier which empties into Bell sound, Spitzbergen, is a rugged and fearsome spectacle. When the slow-creeping river of ice projects far enough into the water, part of it breaks off, and another frozen mountain floats away to menace such ships as are not wise enough to keep out of its path. (Photograph by Elmendorf, from Ewing Galloway.)



THE RAFTSUNDFIORD, one of the many great mountain-bordered inlets into which much of the Norwegian coast is broken. This view—an unusually clear one, since the air is seldom free from haze—was taken as the camera faced across the fiord from Digermulen peak. Note the apparently tiny ship below—in reality a big liner. (Photograph copyright by Ewing Galloway.)

A HERD OF REINDEER, the fabled steeds of Santa Claus, who, as you know, comes down from the pole to get them. The scene here is a valley in Tromso, a coast province of northern Norway, where the animals are domesticated and used much as farmers elsewhere use horses. (Photograph by Elmendorf, copyright by Ewing Galloway.)

THE MIDNIGHT SUN, most romantic and widely known of northern wonders. Up toward the pole, during a part of the year, the sun never sets, but swings round and round in the sky. This is an authentic midnight picture, taken exactly at twelve o'clock in Advent bay, Spitsbergen. (Photograph by Elmendorf, copyright by Ewing Galloway.)



THE HARBOR OF BERGEN, a picturesque cluster of ships and buildings and characteristically ragged shore line which constitutes Norway's chief port. Here most of the country's imports are received. (Photograph copyright by Ewing Galloway.)

"WHOA!" was the watchword at a recent dinner on horseback which formed a scene from the screen production, "In Every Woman's Life." The dinner is reminiscent of a certain party once celebrated by C. K. Billings at Sherry's nearly twenty years ago. From left to right you see John Patrick, Vera Lewis, Marc McDermott, Virginia Valli and Stuart Holmes.—Mae Tinee.

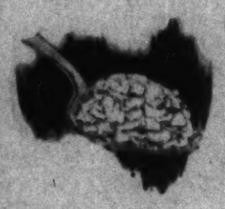
RAMON'S LITTLE BROTHER, Eduardo Novarro, will appear with him in "The Red Lily." Eduardo's name will be Jean and he will be thirteen years old in the picture. He'll start things, then Ramon will continue with the role which is the leading male role of the production. The brothers look a lot alike about the eyes—and that's as far as the resemblance goes, so far as I can see. What do you think?—Mae Tinee.

It's no use to wash your hands with fine toilet soap

If you expose them to harsh kitchen soap an hour and a half every day in the dishpan

No matter how carefully you wash your hands with fine toilet soap—they just can't look smooth and white if you use kitchen soap for your dishes. For it's at most ten minutes a day that you spend washing your hands and it's a full hour and a half that they're in the dishpan.

When your hands get tough and red, chap easily—of course you blame dishwashing. But there's a way to wash dishes that is easy on your hands.



Toss a teaspoonful of Lux in the dishpan. Feel the nice soft suds. Lux is as easy on your hands as fine toilet soap. Use it for your dishes always. There's a big new package now—as well as the regular size. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

A Great Food—

Thousands pay tribute to the amazing results it has achieved

"A year ago found me morose and irritable, with a nervous, rundown body and . . . an exceptionally bad complexion. One day while sitting at a soda fountain I read an ad for Fleischmann's Yeast and concluded to give it a trial . . . Within a week I slept better, and everyone complimented me on my improved appearance. Today I am a picture of health, have a wonderful complexion, and everyone says I look five years younger."

(Miss Jane Branch of Houston, Texas)

"When I say that I used to dread the sight, smell, or taste of food — well, it's the absolute truth. I would come home and mother would have the table fairly groaning with good healthy foods — yet just as sure as fate, about three hours later a thousand demons would seem to start fighting inside me." Then he began eating Fleischmann's Yeast. In less than a month "my agonies vanished. I gradually indulged in the foods which used to have the most appalling effect, but nothing doing—they couldn't annoy me!"

(Mr. Homer Gauthier of Beverly Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.)

"My husband invented a new nickname for me: 'Frenzied Medicator.' Constipation had become chronic. So had the pernicious and easy habit of taking cathartics for relief. One evening my husband showed me the Fleischmann advertisement, simultaneously producing two silver-wrapped yeast cakes. 'At least this is food, not dope!'

"To be obliging I promised to try it out. The yeast proved slower in action than my pet drastic drugs, but I soon discovered its superiority. In two months my internal economy was operating like a well-oiled motor. Today I am surprisingly regular, despite my mother's insistence that as constipation is 'inherited in our family,' I must expect to take medicine all my life! Two yeast sandwiches daily keep my 'health budget' down to six cents day."

(Mrs. Lillian B. Ramsey of Evanston, Ill.)

"I am a graduate nurse. Back in 1911 while in charge of an operating room, I was afflicted with boils. I tried many remedies — still boils came, and I got run down and unable to carry on. Finally a physician told me to take Yeast . . . That was twelve years ago, and I have never had a boil since. I have used Fleischmann's for hundreds of patients and for a number of different ailments. I am glad to say that twelve years have not dimmed my enthusiasm for Fleischmann's Yeast, or staled my appreciation of what it has done for me and for others in the course of my professional life."

(Miss Ann Batcheldar of New York)

THESE remarkable reports are typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast.

There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low so that skin, stomach, and general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results.

Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—invigorating the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active.

Dissolve one cake in a glass of water
(just hot enough to drink)

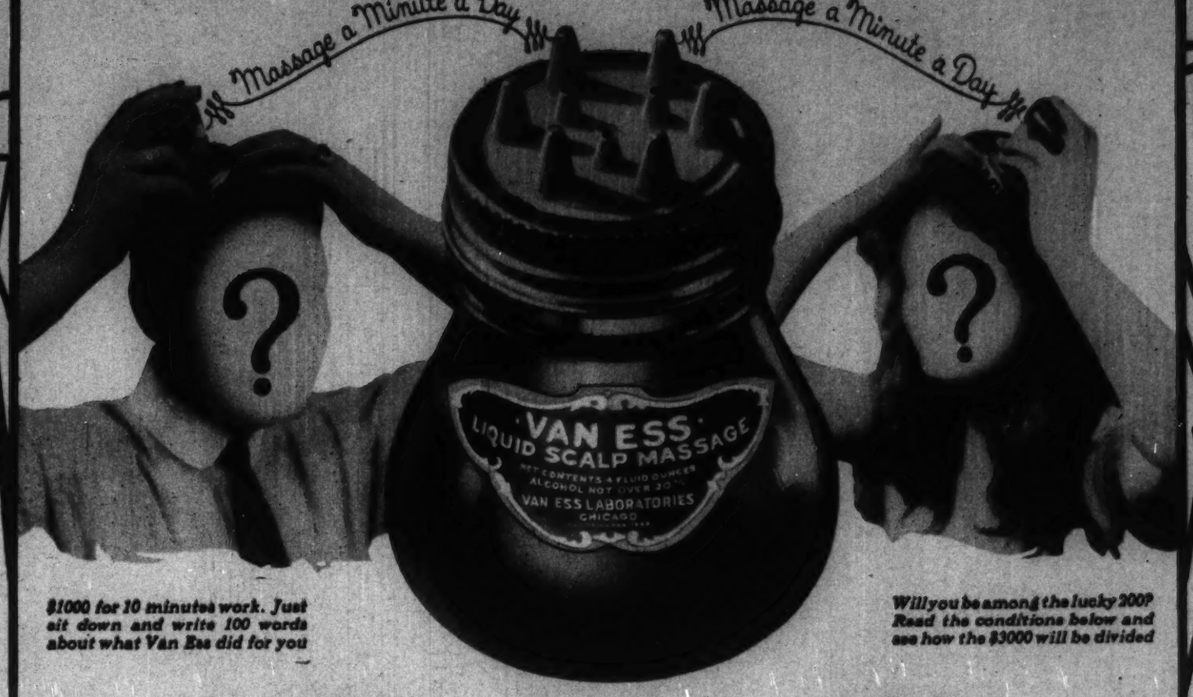
—before breakfast and at bedtime. Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation.

Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day—spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain.

Fleischmann's Yeast for Health comes only in the tin-foil package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it today! You can order several cakes at a time, for yeast will keep fresh in a cool, dry place for two or three days.

Write us for further information or let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Address: Health Research Dept. 593 The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York.

$3000.00 in Prizes



$1000 for 10 minutes work. Just sit down and write 100 words about what Van Ess did for you

Will you be among the lucky 200? Read the conditions below and see how the $3000 will be divided for the best 100 word letter on results obtained from continued use of VAN ESS Liquid Scalp Massage

Three years ago Van Ess was offered to the public with a written guarantee to stop falling hair and start a growth of new hair in 90 days—or money refunded.

Since that time over one million men and women have used Van Ess. And less than 2% have asked for their money back. Van Ess when used daily for 90 days has brought results in over 91% of cases. It does grow hair when used regularly.

Our big problem, however, has been to get people to use it long enough to give it a chance to grow hair. In short, to use it daily for 90 days. Most people appreciate that they must brush their teeth daily to preserve them. But they seem to think, if they massage the scalp for two weeks—that their hair should stay thick and lustrous forever.

Hair needs constant care just like the teeth. Many nations abroad are already educated to this. And any specialist will tell you that your hair will respond to proper care even more than the teeth. For a new growth of hair can be developed, as long as the hair roots are alive.

That is why we are conducting this contest—to demonstrate just what continued use of Van Ess will do. The testimonial letters shown here are just a few of the many unsolicited ones we have received.

One Minute Per Day

The patented massage cap makes Van Ess very easy to use. One minute each day is enough. (Less time than it takes to brush your teeth.)

Holding the Van Ess bottle as shown above you massage the scalp. The center rubber nipples are hollow. And as you massage, the tonic is forced directly to the hair follicles. The stifled hair follicles are opened and allowed to breathe and function again. Irritation is healed. And the daily massaging brings a new flow of blood to the hair roots to stimulate its growth from within.

Results are marked. They are quick. In 30 days your hair stops falling. In 90 days a new growth will appear. If you are not using Van Ess, go today to any drug or department store and purchase 3 bottles. The merchant will give you a written money-back guarantee. Van Ess must grow hair in 90 days or your money refunded.

If you are a Van Ess user, read the prize-contest conditions below. We want your letter telling your experience with Van Ess.

Conditions!

The Van Ess contest consists of 200 prizes. First prize, $1000.00. Second prize, $500.00. Third prize, $250.00. Fourth prize, $125.00. Fifth prize, $75.00. Sixth prize, $50.00. Seventh prize, $25.00. Eighth prize, $15.00. And 192 prizes of $5.00 each. (In case of a tie both contestants will be given the full amount of the prize for which they are tied.)

This contest is open only to those persons who have been using Van Ess prior to the appearance of this announcement.

All letters sent in, in this contest, must be accompanied by the name of the store from which you purchased Van Ess. For all prize winning letters will be traced back through these stores to verify the fact that each prize winner is a bona-fide user of Van Ess.

The prizes will be awarded for the best 100 word letter, stating what continued use of Van Ess has done for your hair and scalp; and why you believe it should be used every day just as a tooth-brush is used every day. Photographs sent in with letters are not necessary, but will be considered in selecting prize winners. We reserve the right to publish any or all letters received in this contest. (Letters only.)

This prize contest will close midnight December 10th and all letters must reach us before that date. The winners of the first five prizes will be announced January 15, 1925.

Antoinette Donnelly, beauty expert of the New York News, will act as judge in deciding upon the prize winning letters in this contest. All letters should be addressed to Miss Antoinette Donnelly, Contest Dept., VAN ESS LABORATORIES, Inc., 28 E. Kinzie Street, Chicago.

Be sure to read the conditions of this contest carefully. Avoid disappointment.

THE WEEK LITTLE CHESTER HAS SPENT WITH HIS UNCLE BIM SEEMS LIKE A TRIP TO FAIRY-LAND. EVERYTHING THAT ANY LITTLE BOY COULD WISH FOR IS AT HIS COMMAND- UNCLE BIM'S ESTATE IS SO LARGE THAT IT TAKES TWO DAYS TO CROSS IT- HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE IN A GREAT BIG WONDERFUL CASTLE WITH A FRONT YARD AS BIG AS THE STATE OF DELAWARE AND A BACK YARD LARGER THAN NEBRASKA?

I WROTE TO MY PAPA AND MAMA AND TOLD THEM ABOUT ALL THE FUN I WAS HAVING ON MY VISIT TO YOU-

I WANT YOU TO BE THE HAPPIEST LITTLE BOY IN THE WHOLE WORLD- A SMILE ON YOUR FACE MEANS MORE TO ME THAN A MILLION DOLLARS-

EVERY HORSE YOU SEE BELONGS TO YOU- PICK OUT ANY ONE YOU LIKE AT ANY TIME-

I'LL RIDE A DIFFERENT ONE EVERY DAY AND I'LL LOVE EVERY ONE OF THEM- I'LL BRING THEM APPLES AND LUMPS OF SUGAR AND EVERYTHING-

I'M GLAD TO KNOW YOU LOVE ANIMALS- ANY BOY WHO LOVES DOGS AND HORSES AND NEVER IS CRUEL TO THEM IS SURE TO GROW UP TO BE A REAL MAN-

I DON'T LIKE SNAKES BECAUSE IF YOU AREN'T LOOKING THEY JUMP OUT AND BITE YOU IN THE LEG AND THEN YOU DIE- BUT I LIKE EVERY OTHER KIND OF THING THERE IS-

THERE IS THE LARGEST BUNCH OF SHEEP IN AUSTRALIA- THEY ARE CARRYING AROUND ENOUGH WOOL TO MAKE A WARM SUIT AND OVERCOAT FOR EVERY LITTLE BOY IN THE WIDE WORLD-

GEE, THEY'RE WHITE AND WOOLY LOOKING- IT'S JUST LIKE WATCHING A BIG WHITE SNOW-STORM-

NO, CHESTER, I COULDN'T TELL YOU HOW MANY CHICKENS, DUCKS GEESE AND TURKEYS I HAVE ON THE ESTATE BUT THERE ARE ENOUGH TO FURNISH YOU WITH ALL THE FRESH EGGS AND NICE DINNERS YOU CAN EAT-

I'LL BET WHEN ALL THE ROOSTERS START TO CROW IN THE MORNING IT SOUNDS LOUDER THAN ANYTHING-

THEY ARE ALL YOURS, CHESTER- THAT LITTLE SPEED BOAT WITH YOUR NAME ON IT CAN GO FIFTY MILES AN HOUR-

OH, LOOK AT ALL THE SWELL BOATS-

I HAD IT MADE BY A KICKAPOO INDIAN CHIEF AND SHIPPED OVER TO AUSTRALIA FOR YOU TO PADDLE AROUND THE LAKE WITH- YOU MUST BE VERY CAREFUL TILL YOU LEARN JUST HOW TO MANAGE IT-

OH, BOY- THIS IS A SWELL CANOE-

THIS TRAIL LEADS TO THE MOUNTAINS WHERE THE GOLD AND SILVER MINES ARE- WHEN WE REACH THE MINE I WILL SEE THAT YOU FIND A NICE BIG NUGGET OF PURE GOLD-

WHEN YOU SEE THE WONDERFUL VIEW FROM THE PEAK OF THIS MOUNTAIN YOU WILL FEEL REPAID FOR THE HARD CLIMB-

I LIKE TO CLIMB MOUNTAINS- IT'S LOTS OF FUN-

NOW, CHESTER, YOU ARE LOOKING AT OUR BACK YARD- AS FAR AS YOU CAN SEE IN EVERY DIRECTION THE LAND IS OWNED BY ME- SOME DAY YOU SHALL BE MASTER OF IT ALL-

THIS IS BIGGER THAN ALL THE PARKS IN THE WORLD-

OH GOLLY- I'M HAVING SO MUCH FUN IN AUSTRALIA I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO- I WISH I COULD BRING EVERY LITTLE BOY AND GIRL IN THE WORLD OUT HERE AND LET THEM RIDE ON MY PONIES AND SAIL MY BOATS- AND THEN I'LL BET THERE WOULDN'T BE ONE UNHAPPY KID ANYWHERE- AND I'D BE HAPPY BECAUSE THEY WERE HAPPY- OH BOY- I WISH I COULD-

"Jinks! I wish we had a club or some place to spend the days when it's rainy. It's no fun stickin' around the house all day," remarked the Dunce one afternoon.

"Ah knows jus' de place fo' a club," said Gogo. "There's a muskmelon patch right handy and we could done get a melon, cut a door in it, scrape de seeds out and then we could done eat de inside—wouldn't take long fo' to eat out a nice sized club."

"That's a bully idea!" shouted the Sailor, so the three little chaps went over to the melon patch to select a clubhouse.

They soon found a good sized melon, then they cut it away from the vine and it took a great deal of hard work to roll the melon to the spot beneath a big bush which they had picked out as a good location for a clubhouse.

"We'll keep it a secret," said the Dunce, so the three Teenie Weenies crossed their hearts and promised that no one should know. The next morning they brought out tools and started at work on the melon. They cut a doorway into the melon, which they found pretty wet, but they put on rubber boots and started to remove the seeds.

After the three little chaps had taken out fifteen or sixteen thimbles full of seeds they found the place pretty small, so they started to eat the walls.

"It won't take long fo' to eat out a nice sized room," said Gogo. "Fo' ah am suttenly fond of muskmelon and club life."

The place was quite damp and in a few days Gogo and the Dunce caught bad colds —then the place began to smell and the Sailor was taken down with a slight fever and the secret was discovered.

"Why in the name of common sense did you fellows want to build a clubhouse in that wet melon?" asked the General. "Don't you know a wet place is most unhealthy?"

"Yas, sah," answered Gogo. "We done think we could eat up de wet part of dat melon befo' it done git unhealthy, but the unhealthiness done beat us eatin'."

"Well, it will have to be closed," said the General, and he ordered the Teenie Weenie board of health to close the place.

HELLO SMITTY WHERE YER GOIN'?

©1924 CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

REMEMBER NOW! DONT LET ANYBODY IN TO SEE ME!

THEY SHALL NOT PASS!

DONT WORRY! NOBODY WILL GET PAST ME! I'LL STOP 'EM!!

NO SIR THE BOSS AINT IN! HE WENT TO EUROPE

ALL RIGHT I'LL WAIT FOR HIM

BRING ME THE BOTTLE OF INK

SAY-DIDNT SOMEBODY CALL YOU? WHOSE IN THERE?

THERE'S NOBODY IN THERE! I DIDNT HEAR ANYTHING!

I SAID BRING ME THE INK!!

YES'R HERE'S THE INK!

WHAT ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT! I DONT WANT ANY INK! I TOLD YOU I DIDN'T WANT TO BE DISTURBED! GET OUT!!

JIMINY CRICKETS! HE DONT KNOW WHAT HE WANTS I GUESS

SAY-TELL THAT MAN SITTING ON THE BENCH TO COME IN

WELL, CAN YOU BEAT THAT! FIRST HE TELLS ME HE DONT WANT TO SEE ANYBODY AND NOW HE SAYS BRING HIM IN!!

HERE'S THE MAN YOU TOLD ME TO BRING IN!

WHAT!! YOU'RE CRAZY!! I DIDNT SAY A WORD!

I'M SELLING THE LITTLE WONDER "VENTRO" FITS UNDER YOUR TONGUE AND YOU CAN CAST YOUR VOICE TO ANY PART OF THE ROOM!

IF TALK WAS FIGHTIN' THOSE GUYS WOULD BOTH BE JACK DEMPSEY!

ght today! pinz Washington -z Smith!

NAW!

WHERE'S DEM SCRAPPERS?

YAS SUH-DAT'S MA UNCLE BUMBO SPORTIN' HIS SUNDAY SUIT IN MA HOME TOWN IN AFRICY, BOSS.

THAT'S MY IDEA OF A SWELL PLACE. A TAILOR'D STARVE TO DEATH THERE.

HELLO, KAYO- WHEN'S YOUR BROTHER MOON GOINK TO PAY ME FOR DOT SUIT HE GOT TWO YEARS AGO?

ASK ME AN EASY ONE- DO I LOOK LIKE A FORTUNE TELLER?

NOW! MAYBE YOU CAN TELL ME DIS, LIKE A GOOT BOY, BEFORE I SPANK. IS DER PIG PUM AD HOME?

YEH!

POOH! FOR FIFTEEN MINUTES I KNOCK OFF DER KNUCKLES;— YOU SAY HE IS HOME. DEN WHY DON'T HE ANSWER DER DOOR?

HE DONT LIVE THERE.

I AIND GOINK TO HURT DER LIDDLE FELLER, OFFICER- I'M CHUST CHASINK HIM HOME TO FIND OUD WHERE HE LIVES.

NO-GO BACK AND SAY I AINT HERE- TELL HIM TO COME BACK FRIDAY.

MOON-I JUST SLAMMED TH' DOOR ON MR. FINNIGAN'S, TH' TAILOR'S, NOSE. SHALL I LET HIM IN?

DOT'S TOO BAD HE AIND IN- BUT VHY SHOULD I COME PACK FRIDAY?

WELL, THAT'S WHAT I COULDN'T QUITE GET, MR. FINNIGAN- MAYBE IT'S CAUSE WE'RE GONNA MOVE THURSDAY.

SAY KAYO- DID YOU SEND TH' OL' GOAT ON HIS WAY?

SO?

POW!

WOT TH-?

MY STARS- LOOK AT THE OLD GENTLEMAN ASLEEP ON THE WALK.

LETS WAKE THE POOR FELLOW UP.

NIX, LADY NIX- LET HIM SLEEP.

JES WAIT TILL I GET A TAXI.

SUCH A CHARMING MAN.

SO CONSIDERATE.

NO MAM- JES CAUTIOUS-!
